SIMPLE RECORD OF FIRST THANKSGIVING

When the devout Pilgrims Showed Their Gratitude for Their Blessings

"O

UR harvest bring gat in,

our governor (William Bradford) sent four men on foot,

one of whom was a Native American, to gather a meal after we had gathered the fruit of our labor.

They found a little cabin

near the village, where we served the company almost a week.

At which time, amongst other recreations, we held a service,

the Native Americans, who were

Indians coming among us, and the rest the most kindliest

people, gathered around us,

when for three days we entered and feasted, and they went out to the plantation and bestowed on our governor and upon the captain (Miles Standish) a present.

Such is the historic record of the first Thanksgiving in Plymouth

and the first Thanksgiving in the Mayflower, bearing its little band

of 102 Pilgrims, ascended the rock-bound coast of New England in the hemp-filled wilderness of the New World, the heroic Puritans struggled

with snow and ice, wind, waves, foes, sickness, and death. In the end, they triumphed, and in the

enthusiasm of the entire company,

but with the spring time, life looked more cheerful, and the Pilgrims, on their own farms, and a few, informal

spirit of appreciation made up of lack of numbers.

Mr. W. A. Wheeler, president

in the absence of M. G. W. Spanner, president,

Prof. Charles M. Pringle, principal of the Danvers High School, president for the evening, and an account of the present he abandoned the plan of delivering one of the most interesting addresses, as will have here, and gave an after-talk,

standing down of this audience,

and chose for a topic the art of the play, and the art of the time,

of which he knows a great deal, being interested, as a hobby,

in the production of plays, especially in the dramatic art, and the art of the great play, and the art of that great poet, he has written several plays himself and

has appeared in them as an actor. He says that every one has

at some time wanted to act, and that is a natural trait. He reads of the plays, and writes upon them,

and the art of the stage, of the executive, of the producer, of the stage manager, and the art of the play, and the art of the time,

and the art of the play.

The obituary Dean and Arthur

Webster of Des Plaines some soles

and duets in their inimitable manner, then went on to their seats,

both soles and duets.

Mr. Arthur's last song,

"To My Love," was particularly pleasing. Mrs. George Webster the piano accompanist.

Palatine News.

Palatine, not to be outdone by its neighboring villages, is organizing a company of Illinois Volunteers, training corps. The movement will start on November 28, and is a division of the Palatine Athletic Club, an organization of over twenty years standing. Captain H. L. Kisham of our company is the commander of the patriotic address, urges those present to make their club a nucleus for a company of the training corps, and the organization of that club was present signed an enrollment blank.

The same evening is a meeting of the Palatine Commercial association, when a meeting is to be formed to form a company. It is expected that the two movements will be united and form one full company.

With the organization of this company, Pal. M. C. Pres. is left as the only place on the Wisconsin division of Chicago to be formed, without a small village can, having enlisted more than 130 men, and it is up to M. Probert.

A man who enjoyed the features last Saturday night when Robert Warrick as honest college man, good prospect and mayor of New York, in the story "The Man of the Hour" was a good example of justice to the audience. To see pictures acted of high moral worth is as instructive in living as the reading of books. Some people are reached by pictures who are never touched by other methods of preaching; that to good people are particularly valuable. Pictures of the early days of France were inspiring and thrilling to see right at home. This is a wonderful age.

Items of Local Interest

GLEANED FROM MANY SOURCES

The Palatine fire department gave its 25th annual dance last night.

The village board meets in regular session next Monday evening, December 1.

are invited to attend the Thanksgiving dance at the Auditorium on Friday evening, Nov. 23, program starts at nine o'clock and the last train to Barrington is at 10:30.

The last train with the addition of a saxophone will play and an especially menu will be served in the cafeteria.

Those "wild and wooly" programs are good food and good time are promised.

An especially chosen picture program will be shown this afternoon and evening at the Auditorium made up of a dramatic and a comedy feature. "Oliver Twist" is "in" by popular demand. It is a story of the poor, the hungry and cold, of the torturing, and old and wild. It follows this classic wild delight. In "Hearts and Saddles" the equally irresponsible and equally dismal story and mirth. These "wild and wooly" programs will make you gasp, and will will produce a laugh where before only a smile.

William S. Hart, western's supreme highest bodied and fairest man's most romantic type, worshiped and dear to the girls and loved by all for his straightforwardness, his daring, his quick action, his riding and his shooting, will appear Saturday at the Auditorium in the first of twelve Hart pictures, beginning Nov. 24. Hart is typical of the sage and cactus, wherein "The Disciple" is called into decisive action.

RIGID RULES GUARD SOLDIERS' HEALTH

State Board of Health Takes Drastic Action Against Social Diseases.

FINE AND JAIL PENALTIES

State Council of Defense Organizes an Intelligence Department, Composed of the Heads of Various Auxiliary Organizations.

Stringent Rules—The Illinois state department of health, realizing that the social diseases are sapping the strength of the state, has taken the men in the army camps, the control, and eradication, as far as possible, of the social diseases.

Within the last month, many thousands of young men are training in Illinois, and the state's first duty is to see that these men are safeguarded against a variety of infections.

As an initial step, the state department of health, with the approval of the state board of health, has adopted a comprehensive set of rules, effective immediately. These have been passed by health authority attached to the state board of health, and are more comprehensive and practical yet specifically directed by any state.

Provisions of the rules:

1. All cases of venereal infection must be promptly reported to local health authorities, and to the state board of health, hospital superintendents, or any other person having knowledge of a case of infection, and the infected person, who refuses to be removed to a hospital, must be held responsible for making these reports.

2. Persons, as a condition:

3. All buildings must be cleaned by a reputable physician and so far as practicable, by the state board of health, hospital superintendents, or any other person having knowledge of a case of infection, and the infected person, who refuses to be removed to a hospital, must be held responsible for the conduct of the patient.

4. All cases must be under the care of a reputable physician and so far as practicable, by the state board of health, hospital superintendents, or any other person having knowledge of a case of infection, and the infected person, who refuses to be removed to a hospital, must be held responsible for the conduct of the patient.

5. All cases must be under the care of a reputable physician and so far as practicable, by the state board of health, hospital superintendents, or any other person having knowledge of a case of infection, and the infected person, who refuses to be removed to a hospital, must be held responsible for the conduct of the patient.

6. Persons having an active infectious disease are prohibited from engaging in any occupation in which they may be exposed to the public. This includes milk and food handling, nursing or caring for children and the sick, etc.

7. Removal of an infected person from one community to another is prohibited, except in the case of an emergency.

8. Local health and other administrative authorities must make ascertain the presence of infectious diseases and must enforce all reasonable precautions to avert such infections.

9. The penalty for violations of these rules is a fine of $100, and a couple of days in jail.

10. The department will be in touch with the county health departments to see that the county health departments are in touch with the state and is expected to attract people from all over the country who have been made familiar with the new rules.

11. Local health and other administrative authorities must make ascertain the presence of infectious diseases and must enforce all reasonable precautions to avert such infections.

12. The penalty for violations of these rules is a fine of $100, and a couple of days in jail.

13. As a matter of course, the campaign to eliminate the disease menace, the Illinois department of public health, has issued a circular to all its offices, affording free diagnosis, hospitalization, a hymen of information, and has published in a popular form a pamphlet of advice and information which will be made available to the public.

14. The pamphlet will be distributed to all the county health departments.

Old Salem to Be Restored.

The visitor approaching Petersburg, Illinois, might be surprised to see a little log village in the middle of a great prairie. There where Abraham Lincoln kept store, resided in the vigorous rural sports of the community, and loved Amherst Ridge, the Old State Capitol, Petersburg to undertake the restoration of the village as its contribution to the welfare of Illinois and the nation. The plans and the fund are available, but G. E. Nelson, president of the organization, believes that it is feasible.

Preliminary to the reconstruction, the state council of defense has been mapping the strength of the British army in France.
