FARM ADVISOR GIVES RADICAL MESSAGE

The eight community spirit is absolutely essential for any real farmer progress in organization, marketing, and the other big factors before the farmer can take a place in the world. J. J. Ivershak, Lake County Farm Bureau adviser, in a radio address to the 1925 Farm Bureau meeting, Dr. Storchek spoke on the subject, "Developing Community Spirit in Lake County." He said, "I have never seen it as it is built up on old working community centers and the like. One of our main marketing units is in communities just as one has and have frequent meetings. Frequent community meetings are the best way to operate. Educational and boys and girls club work greatly stimulate interest in the farm. The one question that will be solved when all get together on the question with the most interest is the market."

The farm adviser from Libertyville spoke highly of school agricultural and departmental community work as being done very well in good work in the direction of farm recuperation, making the farm Bureau a valuable organization in the county," said the Farm Bureau adviser.

"The men in the county which we have been having been getting Farm Bureau services are the milk marketing, quality control, tuberculosis, breeding problems, and recuperation, the use of minerals, the spring cow, cow testing or herd improvement, and getting the cows to replace reactors. Such problems as producing quality milk, developing strong bulls and other breeding stock have been affected, keeping farm records and more diversified farming are on the minds of our boys, thinking farmers."

which is College of Agriculture, University of Illinois, will try to settle the farmers who visit the institution during its annual open house, June 22 to 27, 1925, "What new varieties of grain and other crops will give the highest yields and the best results on my farm?" The varieties being conducted by the institution are in wide scope and as a result a wealth of material has been collected on the crops. The new varieties of all kinds of crops that are commonly grown in the state. A number of promising new varieties have just recently been introduced to the tests. In many cases, the varieties of a particular crop that are being tested, with the exception of the farmers can see for themselves just how the different types compare, while the new varieties will be compared to the old ones. The new varieties which the institution has collected and which will be available during the open house.

Six different varieties and strains of alfalfa are being compared in an alfalfa variety test which was started in 1923. These include Grimm, Common, South Dakota No. 12, Common grown in Kansas, Common grown in Illinois, and a new Alfalfa, a new growing seed. The varieties are now going into their second crop and present an interesting comparison.

In the oats variety test, Kanola is one of the new varieties to be tested. It is a new variety which is more resistant to blight than any other. This is an early crop introduced by the Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station. During the two previous years that it has been grown in test it has made a good showing, but it is doubtful if it will be adopted for the growing late varieties which are being tested. Several other comparatively new varieties are being tested. In all 28 different varieties are being tested.

Several new varieties of wheat which have just recently been put to test are Ministrunk and Michigan. The new wheat wheats that have shown a very good yield are through severe climatic conditions. Both are hard wheats. Ministrunk is a winter wheat and Michigan is a winter wheat. Twenty-six other varieties of wheat, as well as several varieties of spring wheat and barley are being tested.

The farm adviser from Libertyville spoke highly of school agricultural and departmental community work as being done very well in good work in the direction of farm recuperation, making the farm Bureau a valuable organization in the county," said the Farm Bureau adviser.

"The men in the county which we have been having been getting Farm Bureau services are the milk marketing, quality control, tuberculosis, breeding problems, and recuperation, the use of minerals, the spring cow, cow testing or herd improvement, and getting the cows to replace reactors. same serious disturbances in the digestive tract of calves. The main constituent of a calf's diet is milk which is also a valuable medium for the absorption of minerals.

When faulty sanitation exists, one of the bacteria that may cause the disease may be of the Escherichia coli type. For this reason, departmental specialists say, sanitary measures should be taken in barns where the cows and calves are, kept but to the calf-feeding equipment, as well as cleaning and disinfecting areas to safeguard the hand-fed calf against possible disease. Ventilation and sunning of the calves should be given, as well as the proper feeding of calves and should receive the most careful attention of these engineers, the specialists say.

In addition to the cleaning of the calf quarters, periodic disinfection is advised. By so doing, infected calves will be kept from establishing a foothold and of many will be avoided.

Boy Scouts

What is a scout? A scout is cheerful. He smiles whenever he can. His obedience to others is complete. He is a good citizen, a good neighbor at home and abroad. He serves cheerfully on any detail to which he is assigned.

Every scout who is not absolutely a member of the Boy Scouts should march in the Boy Scout Parade on Decoration Day. Each boy can easily spare an hour a year to help the brave men, living and dead, who have given so much for our country.

Many of the scouts attended the annual service at the Baptist church last Sunday morning. They were glad to be welcomed in this service.

Franklin, Pleasant, and Barrington, Center, Sunday afternoon, the boys who were in the program helped in the service.

DEATHS

John Fraize

John Fraize, father of Mrs. Frank T. Stevens of Lincoln avenue, died Saturday morning at the age of 84 years, 10 months and 17 days. The deceased came here from Sioux City, Iowa, nearly two years ago and had been in failing health. He made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Stevens. He was in good health up to the time of his death. On the evening he was overtaken by a stroke of apoplexy in the yard of the Stevens home. He was not called, but nothing could be done to prolong his life and he passed away at hour and a half past 12 o'clock. His death came in accordance with his oft expressed wish that he go in the manner and time he had chosen, in consonance with the hereafter family.

John Fraize was born July 7, 1842. He was a veteran of the Civil War, having enlisted September 1, 1861, almost at the outbreak of the war.

HELP THE SCHOOL

School authorities, whose duty is not only to instruct children who come to school, but to see that the state laws in regard to attendance are carried out, have had an unusually hard time this spring because of the number of cases of scarlet fever in town, which have at no time reached an alarming stage, yet have been so plentiful that it may conservatively be said that there is an epidemic of this disease.

One of the things which have caused school authorities unnecessary trouble is the fact that parents do not notify the school, in many cases, when a student is kept out. When this happens, the school authorities have no way of knowing whether the student is ill, or has been kept at home or is merely "playing hooky."

They do not like to put the case in the hands of the truant officer, for that sometimes results in drastic action, but that is what becomes necessary when they are not informed of the cause of absence.

Parents can greatly assist the school in functioning if the law contemplates if will call up on the telephone, and notify the superintendent or their child's teacher, whenever that child is necessarily kept out of school, and the Review believes that they should do so, particularly at this time when so many children are away from school on account of illness.

EVOLUTION AN ISSUE

There is no longer any doubt that evolution is to be an important issue in the minds of the people for some time to come. More space is being devoted to it in the newspapers and magazines than is given to any other question of general discussion, excepting prohibition.

In every church conference, resolutions seeking to define an attitude toward the doctrine of evolution have been discussed. Laws seeking to ban the teaching of evolution from the public schools have been passed and are on the books.

A Tennessee school teacher, charged with teaching evolution in defiance of a state statute, has been held to a grand jury and the state is being set to carry the case to the United States Supreme Court, on the ground that the law is unconstitutional.

Of course, the truth or untruth of the doctrine of evolution can not be changed by discussion or by taking a vote on it. In the final analysis, evolution will stand or fall on its merits. In the meantime we shall see a battle royal between its advocates and its enemies.

It is only fair to say, however, that the evidences in favor of evolution have been sufficient to convince every scientist of note in the world, as well as many of the most eminent clergymen and scholars generally.

CANADA'S DISCOVERER

Canada has honored her discoverer, Jacques Cartier, the famous French navigator, by the erection at Quebec of a magnificent statue, a replica of that raised to his memory in his native seaport, St. Malo, France, where he was born in 1494.

Commanding two ships under a commission from King I of France in 1534, he crossed the Atlantic, touching at Capo Buona Vista, Newfoundland, sailed northward along the coast and then southwest through the Straits of Belle Isle, discovering the mainland of Canada and taking possession in the name of his king, thinking it a part of Asia.

The following year he explored the St. Lawrence as far as the Indian village of Hochelaga, the present site of the city of Montreal. After many hardships, with his crew weakened by scurvy, a disease then unknown in Europe, he returned to France in 1536.

In 1541 Cartier returned to Canada with five ships and established a settlement, which he named Charlesbourg-Royal, near the present site of Quebec. The rigorous climate and attacks of hostile Indians so disengaged the settlers that Cartier abandoned the place and took them back to France in 1542. He lived quietly at St. Malo until his death in 1557.

While Cartier did not find a permanent colony, his explorations blazed the way for the building of a great empire—but under another flag.

THE FOUR CORNERS

Sinclair University condemned trade practices of the General Electric Company and demanded a congressional investigation of the "electric light trust."

Representative Matsuda of Japan expressed gratification at the American resolution of the American delegates at the United Nations, saying that the United States had failed to support the resolutions aimed to promote peace.

O. Hubbard, who also inspired the famous "Casey at the Bat," was elected to the American Legion Headquarters in Syracuse, N. Y.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude Moore, in the early spring was especially favorable to farmers, who have a propensity to grow cotton.

At first our victory was slight. Then the whole weight of skill, of improved American tactics, was brought to bear. The victory was gained all along the battle front. It gave the morale to our army, which was more American soldiers and we will not end to this true war. They were short of strength to fight any more.

There was a sharp victory, and the battle front was won. The last ten minutes were short and the battle front was won. We would ride for miles away in the end.

July 18, 1918, found the first division in front of Soissons. In front of Soissons, the battle front was won. We were easily filled with German machine gun—plenty of ammunition. Back of the battle front was won. The battle front after artillery. It looked like it would be impossible to break the line with the bayonet and blood. Our infantry had to advance to the battle front and break the line half mile wide; face machine gun that was arranged by a traversing device that would shoot a wide area on the battle front.

But the infantry went forward to break the line. They were easily filled with machine gun that would shoot a wide area on the battle front.

The great decisive battle of the war was about 300 miles long and fought in the battle front. The battle front was won by millions of men with guns in their hands. The battle front was won by millions of men with guns in their hands.
