FOR SHERIFF, T. J. STAHL

Announcement

For the second time I come before the voters of Lake County as a candidate for Sheriff. This time I shall file petitions with the County Clerk and you will have the opportunity to vote for me should you so desire in the primaries next April.

My first announcement made four years ago of my intentions to be a candidate for Sheriff was withdrawn in order to make way for a man who saw service in the World War, this with the thought expressed then that I should surely file petitions and run for this very important office in the year 1926.

I understand and fully realize that the choice of the Republicans of Lake County will be made after a careful scrutiny of those who will aspire to the office. My thought is to have you weigh the candidates-whoever they may be and then go to the polls and vote for the one you believe best qualified to fill the position. There will be several men to select from.

Your duty is not only to vote for that candidate but to use your influence for whom you believe to be most capable and efficient.

Very Sincerely, T. J. STAHL Waukegan, Ill.

Gas From Motors Dangerous, Warns the Motor Club

When the first cool days of Fall come, we may expect to pick up our paper any day and read that motorist has paid the penalty for his ignorance of the dangers of motor gasoline.

The prevention department of the Motor Club believes that in spite of what we have said we can do, we must warn the world that it is not safe to use gasoline

as you run your car in a closed garage.

If you do you are breathing carbon monoxide is a poison and you are in danger of death.

Carbon monoxide is the product of incomplete combustion.

Gasoline is a mixture of automobile from four to eight per cent of carbon monoxide.

Carbon monoxide displaces the air from its combination with the coloring matter in the blood, & it has the effect of suffocating the body.

Acute carbon monoxide poisoning is evidence by the bluish veins and a burning sensation in the face.

Nausea, headache, dizziness and drowsiness are other symptoms.

If not at hand death results.

Persons have been known to work all day without realizing they were ill until they reached home, when severe symptoms developed.

The Illinois Department of Health reports that in six years, 1,426 cases of accidental gas asphyxiation occurred.

Dr. H. S. Bunnell, medical director of the Illinois Department, recommends the following treatment for reviving victims:

Call a physician, if possible, and if not, get the patient at rest, lying down to avoid straining on the heart, prevent artificial respiration in this position, and if possible, lay the patient down, arms stretched in front.

The operator straddles the patient about the waist, while the fingers are over the heart, and the thumb is drawn across the heart.

Then the accident prevention bulletin, the motorist started his car with the intention of opening the window, but he was unable to do so.

He then got out of the car, took a deep breath, and when he returned to the car, he was able to open the window.

The driver, after getting out of the car, was able to open the window.

On a newspaper account of carbon monoxide poisoning, we often read that the victim was found seated at the wheel, while the engine was running.

It is the opinion of the accident prevention bulletin, the motorist started his car with the intention of opening the window, but he was unable to do so.

He then got out of the car, took a deep breath, and when he returned to the car, he was able to open the window.

COOK COUNTY LEADS U. S. AS DIVORCE MILL

As a divorce mill, the County of Cook is the leader in the land of Uncle Sam.

From the county's building more divorces are granted than any other in the country.

The Circuit court, alone grants divorces annually than any one of thirty-one states, according to the records of Cook county.

Other states, however, have more clerks of that court.

LOSS OF SHENANDOAH

Again the highest modern engineering skill has been set at naught by the elements, resulting in the loss of the great dirigible airship Shenandoah and the lives of fourteen officers and men.

This proud craft, 880 feet long, the pride of the American Navy, broke in pieces and fell to earth while trying to weather a storm over Noble county, in southeastern Ohio, shortly after 6 o'clock on the morning of September 3.

Tossed like a toy balloon by the terrific wind, the airship's structure proved too frail and the name of Shenandoah took its place on the roll of giant aircraft that have met disaster. Her fate recalls other similar tragedies in which American airmen have lost their lives, though not in the ZEPHYRUS. Roma being the most notable.

The ZEPHYRUS cracked and exploded over Hull, England, on August 25, 1921, causing the death of 62 of the 66 men aboard, 17 of whom were Americans, the nucleus of a crew sent to bring the ship to the United States for the American Navy.

On February 25, 1925, the Roma, bought in Italy for the United States Army, went out of control over the Army base at Hampton Roads, Va., struck electric wires which broke, the resulting sparks setting fire to the airship, causing the death of 35 out of 46 men in the crew.

It is estimated that not less than 20,000 lives of airmen have been lost, including war deaths, since the Shenandoah disaster on September 3, 1926, when Lieutenant Thomas E. Sopwith of the United States Army was killed. Orville Wright, the pilot, was severely injured.

Coming almost simultaneously with the loss of the Navy airplane PN-9 No. 1 and crew of five in an attempted flight from San Francisco to Hawaii, the loss of the Shenandoah is most depressing to those responsible for the efficiency of our air services, as well as to the taxpayers who pay the bills.

BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

Fire Chief Irving Landwer endorses the Review's statement of last week that Barrington's fire fighting apparatus is inadequate, and he adds that in certain sections of the city the fire fighters would be practically helpless with a fire that had reached the point where the chemical engine could not cope with it.

Fire Chief Landwer has apprised the members of the village board of the situation and informed them of the urgent need of an engine which would pump water from the main and give it at the necessary pressure when the natural pressure is not sufficient.

The Review mentioned the need of better fire fighting equipment as much as a year ago. There has been no public demand for the improvement, but members of the board of trustees realize the gravity of the situation, however, and it is probable that they will take steps within a short time to purchase such new equipment as may be needed to secure Barrington from any ordinary fire hazard.

It is the hope of the Review that citizens who read these remarks will be aroused to the urgent necessity of, and in hearty accord with the step which the board must soon take.

HOME MERCHANTS' WEAPONS

Encroachment of mail order houses upon the trade of local stores have long been the subject of concern to home merchants and will continue to be, no doubt, indefinitely.

Of late the bell-ringer, who goes from house to house advertising for his wares, has become another formidable competitor in certain lines.

If the home merchant is to hold his own against these encroachers, he must fight and fight hard. Appeals to local pride and sentiment are probably of little in the way of practical results.

Satisfactory goods, reasonable prices and advertising are the weapons he must use to hold his own. They are the same weapons that his outside competitors use against him.

The three must go hand in hand. Satisfactory goods alone secure the business without reasonable prices; both together will not draw the full measure of trade without advertising. First have the goods and values—then tell the public about them through your local newspaper.

As was said to the American Retailers' Association recently by T. K. Kelly of Minneapolis:

BARRINGTON REVIEW, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1925

"It has become the habit of the American people to do more and all their shopping through the newspapers and the newspapers in America today have too great an economic force to need any recommendation."

CHEAPER AUTOMOBILES

Recent price cuts by leading automobile makers have given new interest to the question of whether the small manufacturers can survive in the face of keener competition.

Since the automobile became a commercial proposition about 1900, more than 1,000 companies have engaged in its production, yet by 1924 only 74 of these remained in business. Of those that survive, 28 companies produced 96 per cent of the total output.

Quantity production, which has been the greatest single factor in Ford's phenomenal success, now appears to be the goal of all the larger companies.

Many small automobile companies have really been merely assembling concerns, buying all or most of their parts from other manufacturers. Ordinarily this would make their costs greater than those of the firms manufacturing their own parts. This fact, it is predicted, will eventually mean the extinction of the smaller companies.

From the standpoint of the public, the increasing fierce competition now developing promises substantial benefits through further reductions in automobile prices.

KEEP AWAY FROM WILDCATS

Buying blue sky and wildcats share of stock is not the popular indoor sport it was a few years ago. People are learning more and more the wisdom of consulting a bank with a good reputation before making investments and handing out their hard-earned money.

National distribution of the better class of investments has become a modern science, and in a great native like ours with enormous accumulations of newly created wealth, it is very important that those who buy securities know what they are getting.

Our harvest season is here. Farmers are blessed with normal crops and in some cases better than normal, and prices are above normal. They will find themselves with plenty of money this fall and the slicker stock salesman will be on hand to take it away from them.

There are many good investments in all lines of activity, and all that a buyer needs do is use ordinary prudence and consult with responsible banking or investment houses, and millions of dollars will be saved from loss.

EDITOR IN RESPONSIBLE POSITION

William Allen White, editor of the Emporia, Kansas, Gazette, classes newspapers as public utilities.

"A newspaper," he says, "is affected with a public interest as much as the street car, the telephone, the gas or electric plant and all other utilities."

An editor is really a trusted entitled to his profits, if they are clean and decent, to the fullest extent that he may make them, but not entitled to make his profits at the community's loss.

"Unless he can give the public some valuable thing—information, guidance or entertainment—he has no right to his profits."

He concludes that "a newspaper is certainly a public utility."

KILLING THE FARMERS' FRIEND

When an Iowa farmer complained that the pheasants were eating his corn, the game department killed two of the birds, examined their crops, and found 200 cutworms—and no corn. Almost without exception, when the scientists investigate such accusations, the result is the same.

The farmer goes to the police, the police keep down the hogs, insects and worms. With continuing slaughter of every form of bird life, the insect load will be heavier and farm work harder. The nation could train an army of riflemen in a comparatively short time, but it couldn't in a century restore the bird armies that are the farmers' allies in raising food to feed the country.

THE FOUR CORNERS

No carpet or rug has been woven in America for 100 years, although Axminster is still making them. The industry is dead, though it was once a question in 1835 to Wilton, where Brussels carpets are also woven.

Exports are declining, automobile tires all around come a month to secure their supplies.
