Trade Journal Comments on Blacksmiths' Fourth Float

Everyone in Barrington and vicinity who saw the Fourth of July parade, this year will remember the "Past, Present, Future" float of E. F. Wichman and P. W. Hattie, local blacksmiths. They will be interested to know that The Horsebreeder and The Blacksmith's Journeymen in Chicago, June, printed a picture of this unique float, and under the heading "Age and Youth on Parade" commented as follows:

"Quite a wonderful man is Fred Prye and heartily liked most who have been pleased to mount the float that carried the body of younger stalwarts of the trade and the two other lads that worked with him on July 4th when an industrial parade held the attention of the people of Barrington, Illinois. Bro. Prye in his 52nd year but who would think so by looking at his upright, manly form and strong, still features which suggests that there are many years of a hearty life still left for Mr. Prye to enjoy."

"Born in Germany in 1842 he was a boy of but ten years of age when he landed in America and at once struck out as a farm worker until 1855. Thus it was that Fred started his apprenticeship as a horsebreeder and blacksmith in a farm shop, working there during the going season and drawing cordwood during the months of winter when business was at a standstill. This was in the township of Northfield, Ill. He worked in the shop for one year when he went to Barrington in 1860, different parts of the Prairie State he served and worked in, notably Plains, Lake Zurich and Chicago, his first entry into business being with Garden Beach. This was in the early stages and relating to Barrington he continued business for himself for 22 years."

"During his early days, it was necessary to make all shoes by hand as well as nails and every evening found him pounding away, forging out his wares of nails for the following day's work, which numbered 100 nails, sometimes more. It is 44 years since Bro. Prye retired from the business but he is still enjoying the best of health. His picture shows him standing in the float as representing the past."

"Reading from left to right the three men in the picture is Bro. Tim Crest, also a past master of the trade and now known as 'Judge' Crest. His only objection to the business was that it was a dirty trade to work in and when making that complaint he is reminded of the fact that the clerical vocation on his days that he should have adopted. Tom remains occasionally on the one day at the trade when work suits, vegetables, etc., was accepted in payment for shoeing or blacksmithing work and in those days if they sold a further wagon they had to take a couple of cows of hogs in part payment and a show note for the balance. Tom learned his trade under his father and remained working at it because it paid well. He used to do the collecting for the shop and often he would see, leading behind a sheep in payment of the bill but he had gone to collect. He started to work at the trade in 1870 and continued until 1906."

"Others on the float stand to Mr. Prye who stands at the extreme right are Conrad Lorker, E. F. Wichman and P. W. Hattie. The latter with Bro. Wichman operate shoeing shops in Barrington. Mr. Lorker being a journeyman in the latter's employ. The 'FUTURE' in the picture is represented by Edmund Wichman, Jr., and Bernard Christensen. The float was indeed one of the hits of the parade on July 4th. In fact it was admitted to be the most striking of all other displays made on the occasion."

Interest Increases in Improved Fords

As people become more familiar with the attractiveness of the improved Ford cars interest not only increases, but orders for cars are growing in numbers, according to the local Ford dealer.

Probably the best evidence of the widespread interest manifest in these cars comes from the General Offices of the Ford Motor Company at Detroit, where it was stated that after the new cars were announced, orders for more than 152,265 have been booked by dealers throughout the United States. Thousands of orders are coming in every day.

Added significance is given the sales report by the fact that the public generally is not yet had an opportunity to inspect all the new types. Distribution of cars among dealers so far has been limited principally to touring cars, and yet larger numbers of cars are being available their first car. In spite of this, orders continue to come in from all points not only for the type shown, but the rest of the open and closed line as well, and indication that prospective purchasers are impressed with the soundness of the new model and are anxious to get the cars and are satisfied that they will find the same standard retained in the type of their preference.

Assembly at the Chicago branch of the company which supplies this territory is increasing daily and distribution among dealers will be completed in a few days. The new cars have been up to the present time. However, those desiring a new Ford car for use during the coming fall and winter will do well to enter their orders early and avoid delay in delivery.

The case was heard last Friday in the Wauconda justice court and the people held for bond were Earl Cushman, a farmer and neighbor of the Newbergers; Laura Cushman his wife; John Batz, father of Mrs. Cushman; and Roy Lomax, another neighbor.

Chrysler Buys American Body

The purchase of the Detroit property and plant of the American Motor Body Company by the Chrysler corporation is announced by Walter P. Chrysler, president.

Because of the present feasibility of the Chrysler corporation with its various plants, to supply the demand for its product, the Chrysler corporation has purchased the Detroit plant of the American Motor Body Company, which gives Chrysler corporation 100,000 square feet of additional space. Chrysler explained in making the announcement:

"The first and second floors of the new plant will be used for manufacturing purposes by the Chrysler corporation and the other floors will be used for building open cars, including four-wheel touring cars, and six-cylinder phantoms and roadsters."

"During the past year the Chrysler corporation experienced body shortages on several occasions with a consequent unavoidable slowing up of production. With a new plant, which is regarded as one of the finest body plants in America, and is directly across the street from the Jefferson avenue plant of the Chrysler corporation, we are assured of adequate supply of quality bodies. The purchase of this plant is simply insurance for the future. It will make certain our ability to meet the demands for our cars."

"UNTO THE LEAST OF THESE"

An extremely happy yet touching incident of the recent session of the Shriners' imperial council at San Francisco was the appearance of a number of former crippled children, cared for treatment in the Shriners' hospitals.

Moving pictures were shown of children pitifully tortured by deformed by disease. At the end of each picture the children were turned on and each parent of a child in the picture was on the stage, cared of their deformities, and bow to the Shriners present.

One little girl, who had never walked until a few months before, gave a gymnastic performance, ending with turning a somersault. A little boy, who had never started, nor even sat erect before treatment, walked from the wings on his hands with his legs kicking in the air, then walked on his legs as straight as anyone and made a short speech of thanks to the Shriners. When it was his turn to the present time more than 5,000 have received treatment in these hospitals for crippled children, which are supported by an annual assessment from each Shriner in the United States. Patients are drawn from all classes, regardless of the hospital's service without compensation, excepting traveling expenses. Sam P. Cochran of Dallas, Tex., is chairman and W. F. Leeland of Chicago, is vice-chairman of the board.

This is indeed a noble and appealing charity. It reflects high honor upon the order, through whose generosity hundreds of distorted and pained little bodies are restored to health and usefulness every year.

WISCONSIN'S NEW CHOICE

Perhaps no selection of a university president in a decade has excited more interest or given the friends of real education more satisfaction than that of Glen Frank, the brilliant young editor of Century Magazine, the head of the University of Wisconsin.

President Frank is acknowledged to be one of the most forceful writers in America, with an unusual grasp of human affairs; a clear and courageous thinker, who by his sheer ability commands the profound respect of his contemporaries.

Born at Queen City, Mo., on October 1, 1880, he received his B. A. degree from Northwestern in 1912, after which he was assistant to the president of that university for four years.

He was associated with Edward A. Filene, the great Boston merchant and publicist, in organizing and research work for three years, becoming associate editor of Century Magazine in 1919 and editor-in-chief in 1921. He has attained a high reputation as an author and as a lecturer on social economics and world affairs generally.

His idea of what a present-day university ought to be is best stated in his own words as follows:

"The university is not a retail store dealing in facts and figures, but a place where the young men and young women of the world are free to grow and achieve emancipation from the obsolete dogmas, the unworthy loyalties, the irrational inhibitions, the tribal customs and the cowardly cautions that crush and kill the undisciplined mind."

GIVE CHILDREN MILK

During the last few years much has been done toward securing the milk of the greatest value to the milk to the growing child. As a result, milk consumption has not only been enormously augmented, but the production of better grades under improved sanitary conditions has been encouraged.

As an argument for the further increased use of milk, we can do better than to quote two high authorities on the subject. Dr. W. S. Rankin, the efficient state health officer of North Carolina, recently declared that "upon an adequate milk supply for the future of the child and of the race is dependent more perhaps than on any other single factor."

Dr. E. W. McCollum of John Hopkins University, whose vitamin discoveries have made him famous, says:

"The people who have achieved, who have become large, strong, vigorous people, who have reduced their infant mortality, who have the best trades in the world, who have an appreciation of art, literature and music, and who are progressive in science, and in every activity of human intellect, are the people who have used milk and its products liberally."

FIRE LOSSES REDUCED

So numerous are the movements on foot for child and social betterment that it is often difficult to determine whether this or that program is worth the time, effort and money expended upon it.

Many of these movements appear to be original and originate for the benefit of those who organize them and disseminate their propaganda. Others are worthy, necessary and effective.

In the latter class may well be placed the efforts being made to educate the public to the importance of fire prevention. What is really the fire losses of the United States reached the tremendous total of $548,000,000 last year or $1,044 a minute—with an accompanying death toll of approximately 15,000 lives, the seriousness of the situation becomes plainly evident.

But in certain cities this war of life and property has been checked to some extent. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States in a recent bulletin points out that cities taking part in last year's fire-waste contest reduced their aggregate losses by $4,000,000. This is a very good record for the year was only $3.10, as against about $5.00 per capita for the entire United States.

Energetic fire prevention programs by means of commerce and other civic organizations that are credited with this excellent result. In view of the gratifying success of these efforts, it seems that every community in the country might well enter upon a determined campaign along the same line. Any plan whereby the fruitful fire losses of the past and present may be reduced is eminently worth while.

WHAT IS SOCIALISM?

Many citizens, who believe absolutely in the individual right to private property when their own store or their own farm is in question, will favor public ownership of the other fellow's property or industry.

But it calls these citizens socialists they would be highly insulted. But that is what they are. All of us have witnessed the socialistic experiment "with the other fellow's property" in the case of banks, insurance, railroads, ships, electric light and power companies, street railways and other lines of private business.

The owner of a peanut wagon or a shoe store who voted for public ownership of some other business would object most strenuously if a proposal were made for the state to own and operate all the peanut wagons and shoe stores. That would be invading the private rights of the individual! There is none.

There is constant pressure in politics to drive the socialistic wedge into some private industry. Just at present compulsory automobile liability insurance—with a state insurance fund as a rider, is the latest attempt. The persons backing the movement would like to see what they are referred to as socialists and yet that is what they are. They would destroy and divide up another person's property.

Only the constitutional logic which protects private rights and property is cracked with the wedge of socialism in one business, it will be hard to prevent it from being split wide open as the socialistic principle is applied to other lines of activity.

THE FOUR CORNERS

Matches were first successfully manufactured in the world by young men and young women who may breathe the air of freedom and achieve emancipation from the obsolete dogmas, the unworthy loyalties, the irrational inhibitions, the tribal customs and the cowardly cautions that crush and kill the undisciplined mind."

Millions of dead fish rotting thickly on the shores of the great water bodies of the world, as reported by a Florida fisherman, is a tragedy. The fish are being raised from the shores and are being sold as a source of revenue and are being sold as a source of revenue and are being sold as a source of revenue.

The Selwyn Theatre, Chicago, seems to have been particularly fortunate in the selection of musical comedies presented there.

The latest offering that comes out of the theatre is "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown," which was to be headlined at the Selwyn, is Edward D. Selwyn's comedy that was presented last season at the Gaiety Theatre and proved one of the suggested by the brilliant, musicality of the season's offerings.

"Tell Me More" is a big show in every particular. Synopsized feature of the score are taken care of by Kosarin's world-famous orchestra, and the chief comedy has been allotted to the inimitable Lou Holtz, favorably recalled from numerous vaudeville appearances and also from three years' experience at the Selwyn.

Scandals, "It's a funny man and woman" who is being presented at the Selwyn, is a comedy which, by the way, is being presented by the Selwyn Theatre.
