If you have a story to tell of something to tell, let it in the "Business Notices" column.

Time was when it was considered effeminate for a man to wear a wrist watch. That day is long since past. Men have learned the practical utility and convenience of such a watch and the demand is ever increasing.

The Outdoor Man—the Engineer, the Surveyor, the Motorist, the Farmer—wants such a watch extremely handy. Indeed workers—Office-men, Bankers, Clerks—consider it just as useful.

A modern, good-looking watch is more than a convenience, a faithful servant—it is a mark of distinction and character. Pictured is just such a watch. It will give us pleasure to show you other desirable styles.

Sir Arthur Keith, famed British surgeon, declares that the human brain is not injured by epilepsy.

The question naturally arises as to whether Sir Arthur intended to do enough brain work to make a real test of his theory.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR "MIXER"

At a special of devoted students, about twenty-five Juniors and Seniors walked their way to a house north-west of town located by the Martins family. The hostess, Lucille, conducted them to their respective rooms where they laid aside numerous articles of clothing suitable for the weather. Some, with especially humorous and inquisitive noses detected they even smelled noticeable. They congregated in a large—effectively and elaborately decorated room. The decorations were of orange and black, with garlands stretched from corner to corner. Shaded lights, paper drapes, etc., helped to make the room attractive.

Then one by one they visited the den of Horrors. A tall, slim, young (C) woman with an immense purple hat trimmed with fur, which had a tendency to float around the room, and the opportunity to visit the room first. Curiously killed a cat once—it had an hysterical effect on Miss Ethel Berringer of the fur trimmed hat. Through a mass of spiders, vines, moved floors, low lights and other impediments, carefully select guests groined. Sworn to secrecy and to silence they emerged from the den with frightened yet enlightened looks in their faces. They then took seats at another, large room away from the merry makers yet to be saved. The terrified guests had an especially trying time with Helen Vetter and Ethel.

At this point in the hilarity the door bell rang, and to our amazement, two dolls walked, or rather, stalked in. A rag doll and a Persian doll. The rag doll carried a mirror and the doll in a fan, waving it back and forth vigorously. They certainly caused a thrill of excitement and mystery to run through the crowd. Boughs, matches, in which the Persian started, moved, and finally, after a most extraordinary heading, swaying on the rag doll's arm, and the second of dancing on an enlightening manner, various problems, experiments and theories.

Mr. Berringer—but I stumbled not to tell.

And last but not least, Mrs. Gering guarded over the students who bring their lunches at noon during all the week.

of hour, or until all the prizes were gone. Some say calling of numbers gave some more prizes than they would have otherwise had you, and it kept others from getting prizes that should have been theirs.

During this game, a mysterious personage in the guise of a fortune teller occupied the Den of Horrors, and told us our future, past, and present. In another corner, the age-old custom of dipping fingers in three cups of liquid was carried out. Some fortunes were satisfactory—some not.

An advertising campaign was then set on foot. The first prize presented had a prominent advertisement pinned on its back. The one who guessed what the picture on his back represented, won the prize. A mirror in the hall helped those who most doubted the prize, as those two not guessing their advertisement.

Two Hissups were made next. Miss Riggs was head of the cats, and Miss Riggs the head of the cats. A penitence of five minutes for saying other than "Hiss" or "O-O-O-O" on finding a nest of peanuts was made. Through trickery the cats won and Miss Riggs was presented with a tiny cat horn.

Then were served, consisting of stinger cake with whipped cream, divinity fudge, and chocolate. We again seated on the floor, Turkish fashion, while my passed favors around in envelopes to music played by Lucille. When the music stopped each person kept what was holding.

While we were still seated on the floor, Miss Jones told us a gruesome story about a happy medium, and after that she recited a poem about a murder—passing around the circle parts of the body of the victim as the story progressed. Squalls of horror were heard from Adele when she clutched the eyes of the deceased, while Margaret Getzels had a hard fight with her willpower to pick up the scar.

Then lights were turned on, seats were handed, and prizes were in order. Miss Doten played, everyone sang, and then Miss Jones was called upon. She acquitted herself admirably by singing classic songs, etc. One who sat next to me, didn't remember—"Honest John, Truly," "I won't lie." But her little stunt of sliding on the varnished floor on her stockings fell mad me up. A call for the Virginia Reel between the respective dolls and young (C) lady of the purple hat not embarrassed the chair. Katherine Morris took her place.

Schomus suggested we adjourn and after a few cheers we departed. The entertainment committee stayed and planned up and left, the house quiet and Mrs. Riggs said.

The costume worn were both unique and attractive. Miss Riggs, Miss Jones (our Raggedy Ann), Marion Seavins, Irma Benson, and Irma Kinchell, were examples of these. Only one question remains—where did the oracles from right o'clock to twelve thirty go?

SENIOR NOTES

We are glad to announce that Grace Johnson has won a certificate for writing fifteen words, per minute. She was awarded a loyal pin for efficiency.

The rest of the typewriting students appreciate Grace's efforts; and to say that the Seniors are just proud of Grace's accomplishments is indeed putting it mildly.

The Sophomores relaxed last week, and thus nothing of very much interest happened.

The English II classes gave speeches on the League of Nations, Armistice and Disarmament; as well as of which the best two by Laura Witt and Franklin Chastity were given before the school at the Armistice Day program.

HUMOR

Artist: "Now give me your honest opinion of my painting."

Critic: "Oh, to tell you the truth it isn't worth a cent."

Artist: "I know that, but give it to me anyway."

—BHS

Teacher: "Johnny, I only think you became a lion you."

Johnny: "Yes, because I wish I was big enough to teach your love."

Who invented the hole in the doughnut?

Oh, some fresh air, find, I suppose.

—BHS

Miriam: "Isn't it a lovely night, Mr. Johnson?"

Clifford: "Yes, but why not call me by my first name?"

Miriam: "Oh, your last, one is plenty good enough for me."

She: "Say something soft and sweet."

He: "Custard pie."

Lillian H.: "What do we have for English today?"

John W.: "Washington's Part-Well Address."

Lillian H.: "Who wrote that, Irving?"

Who knows why the students of the first period class are eagerly awaiting the result of the Englewood-Ladell game Saturday?

There's always a right time to buy

HONEST merchants are in business to help you with your buying problems. You may reply, "They are in business to make money!" And, of course, they are. But the point is: They know that the best way to make money is to serve you honestly and efficiently.

One of the most valuable services a merchant can render you is to tell you when to buy. He knows the market. He is kept informed about raw materials and manufacturing problems. He gets all the advance tips on styles. He even knows pretty well what your particular circumstances are, and what your needs will be.

So, his advice—as offered through his ads in this paper—is worth money to you. When he announces a special sale, or displays a new line of goods, it is well for you to investigate.

There's always a right time to buy, and the ads in this paper will keep you posted. Read them and follow their advice!

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN MAKES GOOD START

Several townships started the drive for membership in the Lake County Farm Bureau the past week with excellent results. A number of new members have joined the organization. The old members are working so hard, so that the prospect after the first few days looked very good. Later in the week one township signed up twelve members out of fourteen seen. No township is far behind as has been completed in some. The work is being done by unpaid volunteer farm men. Weather conditions have seriously hampered the work of most farmers till fall, and as a result the work of the farm bureau is being delayed. The work is being done by unpaid volunteer farm men. Weather conditions have seriously hampered the work of most farmers till fall, and as a result the work of the farm bureau is being delayed.

The farm bureau stands squarely behind its record of the past three years, says an official. It asks the approval of farmers on what it has accomplished in the past. It asks the great organization for future work not only in Lake county but in our state and national efforts as well. Everywhere we meet organization. The individual speaks through his organization. He cannot stand alone.

The booster meeting and banquet held October 30 last before the district was one of the best and most important meetings that farm bureau ever held. A number of local farmers took part in the program, telling what had been accomplished. C. E. Nitzler of the U. A. made one of the best talks ever made here. Ed J. Milbrow suggested the work of farm bureau in Illinois, starting back in 1917 with DeKalb and Kane counties. He explained the relation of the U. S. Department of Agriculture to the farm bureau and farm bureau. P. J. Kraschinski of Barrington, Wis., happened to be in town that day, and his talk about conditions in Wisconsin, especially prices of good dairy cows, was much appreciated. He showed that buyers are getting very good cows and a lot of it for $75.00 to $125.00.

Not all organizations are recognized by the federal government. Some are their national meetings at the President of the United States, which will be the case December 7, when President Coolidge speaks at the annual meeting of the A. B. F. Let's make the farm bureau the equal of any industrial organization here or elsewhere. Make county, for example, just as good as it drive with 1450 members.

While there may be real or fancied grievances in a few cases, there should be forgotten when weighed against the great advantages to be gained. Save the valuable time of these farmer collectors by staying up and helping the cause along.

SANITATION DROPS AWAY WITH RUNTS AMONG PIGS

Urbana, Nov. 11.—Runts, which help to kill the profits of the hog man and farmer, were mislabeled among the Illinois pigs which this year were raised under the severe sanitation laws which will be enforced by the Illinois Department of Agriculture, University of Illinois, according to E. T. Robbins, livestock extension specialist of the college. The fact that there were no runts in the pig crop when sanitary measures were used was one of the agreeable points which the pig raisers of the state made when they met at the annual meeting of the Illinois State Fair in Chicago in December. The fact that there were no runts in the pig crop when sanitary measures were used was one of the agreeable points which the pig raisers of the state made when they met at the annual meeting of the Illinois State Fair in Chicago in December.

On every hand, farmers who used the sanitation system have been particularly happy. With the even and uniform thriftiness of the droves of hogs which have been brought to maturity under the recommended method.

At the meeting of the Henderson county demonstrators, reported that he watched his pigs very closely and was found that the smallest ones at birth lived and grew right on with the rest of the pack. Under old methods, Ross had been accustomed to cull these pigs that were small at birth because victims of worms and he permanently started to do this. This year he had more than 140 pigs to maturity. This was an average of more than nine pigs to the litter, which indicates that nearly every pig which was farrowed was raised.

"Another one of the demonstrators, C. A. Laidler, of Ogle county, marketed 49 pigs this year from the 50 which were saved at farrowing time by night sows. The 49 pigs were very even and thrifty. A year ago just of Laidler's pigs died from worms and in the fall those that were left varied all the way from fat hogs to skin-and-bone rats.

George Peitz, of Jersey county, reported 121 sanitation pigs raised from 122 sows and said that there was not a runt in the bunch. Richard Wilson, also of Jersey county, raised 58 sanitation pigs from nine sows. There were no runts in this lot. He sold 56 of them when they were not quite six weeks old, at which time they averaged 197 pounds. His neighbors who keep hogs are the best hogs he had ever sold. Another Jersey county farmer raised 229 sanitation pigs from 23 sows and there were no runts in this drove. They grew so well that they were marketed at about six months of age."

ILLINOIS CLAY CALF CHOSEN FOR DEMONSTRATION

To an Illinois calf who has fallen the victim of the disease of the state as a leader in best raising, the Illinois State Fair in Chicago in December. The fact that there were no runts in the pig crop when sanitary measures were used was one of the agreeable points which the pig raisers of the state made when they met at the annual meeting of the Illinois State Fair in Chicago in December.

Prince of Wales Among Chicago Exhibitors
Among the thousands of entries received by Secretary-Manager B. H. Holden at the International Live Stock Exposition which will be held in Chicago, November 25 to December 5, was that of H. H. H. The Prince of Wales, who will exhibit his famous "half" King the Palatium from his western Canadian range. Entries have been especially heavy in the cattle classes with the Illinois Short-horn breed showing the largest increase. Interest in the dairy division has been much greater than ever before, inspiring the largest display of market animals in the history of the show.

Farm boys and girls will exhibit over twenty-five different types of hives in the junior feeding contest with any former year and for the first time will hold a separate auction at which their entries will be sold at the close of the show. Exhibitors will be allowed to enter their lot in the hives show up to November 15 and their live stock in the various classes up to November 21, inclusive. When the final totals are recorded it is expected that the greatest array of purebred and market live stock ever assembled will be ready for the inspection of the arm of visitors when the gates are opened on November 25.

Fifty-one leading authorities including two from Great Britain have been invited to serve as judges in the live stock classes alone. Thirty-five international and national agricultural organizations have already announced meetings to be held during the exposition. Twenty-five states from Oregon to Virginia have accepted an invitation, to send samples of newly discovered varieties of crops to be displayed in a feature booth at the International Grains and Hay Show, which this year for the first time, is a regular department of the international.

State club leaders all over the country are announcing the names of the boys and girls who have been awarded trips to the Fourth National Boy and Girl Club Congress over 1200 of the champions will be given a week of education and entertainment and give demonstrations and exhibitions of their club projects to the exposition visitors.

In Memory of Mary Ellen

May Ellen, our darling,

this note on before.

Where sorrow and suffering.

And pain come no more.

We loved her so dearly.

Thy short was her stay.

We miss her so dearly.

And took her away.

Oh, how we miss thee.

But the Lord knows best;

He took her Mary Ellen
