BARRINGTON REVIEW

TELEPHONE NO. 1 BARRINGTON, ILL.

PROSPERITY IN 1925

As the year nears its close, students of industrial and economic conditions are beginning to take stock of our national prosperity during 1925, with very satisfying results.

While there have been local depressions of greater or less extent in various sections, as a whole American business and industry, as well as the general condition of agriculture, have shown a marked upward trend.

Automobile production for the year will break all records, reaching approximately 3,750,000 passenger cars, and the close will see nearly 20,000 cars and trucks on the road, and one for every five and one-half persons in the United States.

Radio sales for the year are expected to reach $500,000,000, while electrical goods sales will go to a new high level. Iron and steel has shown a demand above normal and machinery has had its best year since 1919. Gasoline production is 10 per cent greater than in 1924.

Another favorable sign is the fact that the total liabilities of commercial houses are indicated to be about $100,000,000 less than those of last year.

It is to be foreseen, the present prosperity promises to continue indefinitely, unless industrial strikes or other human folly shall interpose. The United States has definitely and completely overcome the post-war depression and appears to be on a sounder economic basis than ever before. This is the spirit of the heavy taxation and perpetual legislative tinkering.

GERMAN HONORS HERO

Germany has no grave of an "unknown soldier" set apart as a national shrine, as have the principal Allied countries. But the last resting place of a known hero promises to be the "symbol of German valor."

When the aged general was brought from his retirement to head the German republic, many saw in the occurrence the first step in the direction of an attempt to restore a monarchical regime.

In his inaugural address, President Von Hindenburg pledged himself to maintain the republic and work in the interest of peace. So far he has faithfully kept that pledge.

Thus, a world figure, who during the war was the white eagle of the German empire, and imperialism and force, has become the exponent of democracy and concord.

While the manner in which "scores" of airplane victories were kept by various countries differed to some extent, so that an accurate comparison is difficult, the enemy planes destroyed by the outstanding acts of the World war were recorded as follows:

Richthofen of Germany; 80; Fonk of France, 78; Mannock of England; 73; Rickenbacker of France, 52 planes and 3 balloons. Guymer of France, who was downed 14 months before the Armistice, had shot down 33 before his death holding the record at that time.

The name of Richthofen will be held in reverence by the Fatherland for generations to come, while the name of Guymer will live in the memory of the French people, who will find that his name and his deeds should not have been devoted to constructing a service for humanity.

NATIONAL LOTTERIES

In view of the proposal to establish a new national lottery in France in aid of the government's finances, it is interesting to note the change of attitude toward such schemes during the past century.

It may not be generally known that an American national lottery was instituted by the Congress of 1776 and that between that date and 1820 at least twenty acts were passed by Congress authorizing lotteries for the support of public schools, roads and other improvements.

During the presidency of Washington, Harvard College supported itself in part by a grand lottery, with capital prizes as high as $20,000. At that time, many governments have at some time or another employed national lotteries as a means of raising funds for the public treasuries, and municipal lotteries have been common. Cuba has conducted a national lottery since the formation of the republic.

France succeeded by the vote of the Spanish Senate by a lottery which was not suppressed.

until 1836. England authorized lotteries for harbor improvements and for the financing of the Virginia Company, which founded the early settlements in America, and raised government funds by that means until 1824.

Religious and charitable organizations were in some countries permitted to operate lotteries, long after the governments had abolished them. In this country, however, the world has been against lotteries, particularly in the United States, where drastic legislation for their suppression has been enacted.

But during the last hundred years the trend of sentiment throughout the world has been against lotteries, particularly in the United States, where drastic legislation for their suppression has been enacted.

THE CALL TO WORSHIP
"Come ye yourselves apart and rest a while. Weary, I know, of the press and throng; Wipe from your brow the sweat and dust of toil."

And in Myriad strength be strong. Come ye and rest! The weary hold dear.

For comfort which the world has never known; Along with Me and with My Father here.

With Me and with My Father not alone. Come, tell Me all that ye have said and done; And ye will victuals and fables, hopes and fears;

I know how hardy souls are wooed to Me. My choicest garments are always set apart for you; Come ye and rest! The journey is too great.

And ye will rest! Inside the way and stink; The bread of life is here for you to eat. And here for you the wine of love to drink; And here for you the feast of life to share.

Then, fresh from converse with your Lord, return. And ye will rest! Inside the way and stink; The bread of life is here for you to eat.

And here for you the wine of love to drink; And here for you the feast of life to share. The bright hours are not lost in which you meet your Master and His rest.

LAKE COUNTY DELAYS ACTION ON POOR FARM

No action will be taken on the proprieties of a $250,000 bond issue for the Lake county poor farm at Lilierville at the present meeting of the county board of supervisors. They agreed to adjourn this week, after finishing their work, until January 7, 1926, to decide whether or not the poor farm bond issue should be put to a vote of the people. Supervisor Arthur W. Vercoe of Highland Park made the motion that the matter be laid over until January. Supervisor Edward Mawman of Lake Bluff favored an amendment to let the proposition go over until the March session but finally agreed it would be best to take the act upon its adjourned meeting next month. There was no opposition to the motion.

Mr. Paddeck told the board of the meeting held in Chicago last week by the Chicago Regional Planning association, which he and supervisor George Baisner attended. Buy Heat —not Tons!

It's how much heat you get for your money that counts when you're buying in your yard line. You can get cheaper coal than anywhere else in the world today, and you can burn it when you burn it, and when you burn it you get for less heat per dollar. Not only that, but you have to put up with a lot of heat and dust and noisy and noisy. That's why genuine Lageschulte Special Heat Coal is better than any other coal in the world. It's the best of the best, the best of the best, the best of the best.
