Huge Output of Wall Paper Every Day at Joliet

junkshop. It's interesting, all of it. More than seventy per cent of the nation's wallpaper is made in the Chicago market.

"Barney Ann's" is moving to Joliet. It is to be the home of the Hazards. And the Hazards are going to buy all the business of the P. & V. Wall Company. For that organization has been absorbed by the Hazards, who are the nation's greatest manufacturer of wallpaper.

There is the Vinton building at 10th and Franklin, which is being enlarged about thirty per cent. When it is done the plant will be valued at $11,000,000. The output of the plant, it is estimated, will grow to 1,500,000.

When I went down to Joliet I thought I would write a column in this series largely on wallpaper, but I wrote a paragraph or two about the prison there. But the steel industry is an old story, wire and cable, and the cotton—well, the cotton—the name of that is being divorced from Joliet.

Let's see what it is as a city. It's a city of 56,556 people. And speaking of melting pots, only 15,433 are classified as Americans. The foreign born are from thirty-seven nations scattered over the face of the earth. Germany, 4,181; Italy, 3,823; Canada, 2,151; Ireland, 2,832; Sweden, 2,115; France, 1,421; Poland, 1,366; United Kingdom, 1,141; Italy, 4,283; Switzerland, 1,215; Austria, 1,043; Norway, 1,036; and so on.

Two years ago two Russell scientists came to Joliet one day and got about to get capital for a $1,200,000 plant.

They were met with no more enthusiasm than Joliet's wall paper scheme. The money was raised with difficulty, and the plant was built.

Today there is in Joliet a chemical industry with a plant employing all of the Russell scientists.

Human chemists started now in their hands became the Superior Chemical Co. and the Chemical Company. The chemical field is the baking industry, baking powder, etc. etc. The industrial armament of Joliet is now complete.

Industry claims sixty-seven industrial plants. Among them are: steel plants, timber mills, steel, brick, metal, brass and aluminum castings, mattresses, auto radiators, ceramic, horse shoes, etc. The electrical equipment, the overalls, and bakers' machinery.

There are six banks in Joliet, the largest the First National, with $1,000,000 in capital, and the First, Second, and Third, respectively, of $500,000, $300,000, and $200,000.

Business men in Joliet say that Joliet is a good place to do business, but is chiefly due to two things.

It has taken advantage of the fact that it is the very rim of Chicago, having the Chicago and North Western, the E. & B. and the Illinois railroads which gives immediate shipment to the great markets of the city. This was especially true of the immigrants from Eastern and Southern Europe. Now that the immigrants are decreasing rather than increasing, in 1915 there were over 1,600,000 aliens in New York state, and in 1925 there were only 856,000.

These figures are above those of 1925. In the meantime the population of the city has increased from 1915 to 1925, and the increased percentage of aliens to the total population is decidedly smaller than ten years ago. The reason given is that the aliens are more numerous.

Alas! A goodly per cent of all the aliens returned into New York City, and the rest are scattered throughout the city. This was especially true of the immigrants from Eastern and Southern Europe.

Now that the immigrants are decreasing, the alien population of New York is beginning to decrease.

Public Service Co. Foremen and Executives Who Help Keep This District Accidentless

These men constitute the safety committee of District E of the Public Service Co.

They are members of the Barrington office and plant. Readers will recognize W. C. Hardin, superintendent, the third man from the left in the front row.

In the same row, Earl Joliet, line supervisor, is the second man from the right.

In the first two rows are the safety committee, the electrical gang, and M. C. Schubert, district supervisor, the third man from the right.

NEW YORK HAS OVER ONE MILLION ALIENS

There are 1,494,000 aliens in New York State according to the 1925 census and of this number 1,125,000 are in New York City.

They were met with no more enthusiasm than Joliet's wall paper scheme. The money was raised with difficulty, and the plant was built.

COOK COUNTY STAYS WITHIN 1925 BUDGET

Cook County remained within its budget last year for the first time in its history, the county budget was balanced, said George C. Cook, county treasurer.

Jacob Lindström, assistant to County Treasurer P. J. Coughlin, said the county had been able to balance its budget showing the savings which had been effected during the last year.

"We started the fiscal year 1925 with liabilities of approximately $1,225,000,000 and a budget of $1,200,000,000 and have closed the fiscal year with a balance of $1,195,000,000, or a per capita of $11.10.

The total levy for the government of the states of the Union is $2,688,000,000, or $10.80 per capita.

The analysis shows that the assessed valuation of property of the state subject to general property tax has increased 10 per cent.

Several large artificial lakes formed by dams of the Alabama Power Co. have closed the fiscal year with a balance of $1,195,000,000 and have paid all bills that have accrued," said President Coughlin.

The financial report, also said, showed that the board of education has paid up to the amount of $336,000,000 tax and interest on its bonds.

It is estimated that the board of education has been turned over to county and village trustees, under a new law, approved by the legislature.

Motor car registrations have increased from $2,125,000 to $2,210,000.

Dams in contemplation on the Illinois River are expected to ultimately produce, including Muscle Shoals, 4,000,000 horsepower.

WHAT'S NEW?

Harry McClain of the University of Kentucky has developed a new model called marmalade to be three times as strong as the present model.

Made of fused quartz and a rare metal called gallium, a new thermometer record 1,000 degrees has been set.

Two football players died during the season of 1925, the youngest 14 and the oldest 27. Two who died were big snapping turtles, which had to be killed before it would let go.

GOVERNMENT COST IN STATES ON INCREASE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—For the indication of the increase in local government is given in figures in the annual report of the Bureau of the Census, the Department of Commerce which shows that the government of the states has increased in the last nine years.

In only twenty-one of the states was the increase in 1924 over 1915, while in the other eleven states it was tripled in the last nine years.

Payments made from the debt account were $445,233,000,000 in 1914 while in 1924 they had grown to $1,373,000,000. Most of this increase is in the way of revenue from state and local taxes.

A little more than 60 per cent of the cost of the state governments is now paid by the states themselves during the year. Payments made from the debt account were $445,233,000,000 in 1914 while in 1924 they had grown to $1,373,000,000. Most of this increase is in the way of revenue from state and local taxes.

Although the next presidential election is more than two years and a half away, and there is a senatorial and congressional election in November, the Democratic politicians are already beginning to talk about the leader who will carry the banner for the party in 1928. Up to this time, however, there is no one who has been able to have the best seriously, are being talked about in national political circles.

"Kiddies' Clothes," C. Paul Plaisted, of Chicago, has been given a $100,000 prize by the Corcoran Art Association, of Washington, D. C., for the best children's garment.

John W. Tilden, Plaisted's Cloth, entered in Bluebird, Green, Yellow, and Cotton Crepe, Apricot, Orchid, and Lime, with figures of contrasting colors.

Although Governor Al Smith has announced that he will retire from politics after the election, he has not given up his political ambitions.

"Al Smith is a man of great ability and he has a chance to land the nomination," said his close friend, George Donahay, of New York, and Governor Al Smith has announced that he will retire from politics after the election.

The fourth candidate mentioned, Governor Donahay, has developed a strong political organization and is expected to be run for Governor of Ohio again, and if that succeeds, he will be in the ring in 1928.

HEALTH CAN BE BOUGHT

Thanks to the advances of medical science, health is now purchasable, according to a distinguished health commission. Of course, there are limitations to the extent to which this statement is true, but the fact remains that the possibilities of preventing disease are greatly neg-lected, through false economy.

By employing well known sanitary measures it is possible for any community to abolish typhoid fever, diphtheria, malaria and other age-old enemies of mankind. Tuberculosis can be largely prevented; every communicable disease can be re-duced to a minimum.

A striking example of effective public health work comes from Framingham, Mass., where a campaign was put on at a cost of $2.40 a year for every man, woman and child in the city. As a result the total death rate was reduced by 9 per-cent, the infant mortality by 40 percent and the tuberculosis death rate by 68 percent. That $2.40 per capita was certainly a splendid investment.

Aside from the misery and loss of life that results from a failure to take advantage of scientific health measures, the economic loss is also appal-ling. The earning capacity of every community is needlessly reduced through preventable sickness. As a business proposition it pays to utilize every possible means for the preservation of the public health, aside from humanitarian con-siderations.

Much has been done in the direction of better sanitation and the eradication of disease, but not one-half of what can or ought to be done. Within reasonable limits, the people can purchase as much of health as they are willing to pay for. And nothing else worth having can be had at such a low cost.

CROP ACREAGE CONTROL

Every year following the production of a large surplus of any farm crop much is had for the price of reducing the acreage of that crop. But as a rule this agitation doesn't amount to anything.

Each farmer regulates his own planting to suit himself and it does not seem likely that any concerted movement for controlling the individual in this matter will ever meet with much success.

One psychological effect of crop reduction cam-paigns is pointed out by P. O. Davis, editor of the Extension Service in Alabama, writing of the pro-posal to cut cotton acreage in the South in 1926. His observations apply with equal force to other crops. He says:

"Attacking cotton is a mistake. A great many farmers decide to plant as much or more cotton, thinking that others have decided to reduce, and that as a result the crop will be smaller and the price higher."

He advises, therefore, that the question of acreage be ignored, but that each farmer be urged to raise his own food, stock feed and everything needed for home use. Then by the adoption of economical methods in producing his main crop, he will have a good chance of showing a satisfac-tory profit at the end of the year, regardless of the acreage or yield.

GETTING ROADS FREE

If some recent statistic(s) are true, it appears that the old saying, "you can't eat your cake and have it," has been proven false in one phase of our economic life, at least.

This phenomenon is seen in the building of good roads. It has been pretty conclusively demonstrated that on any highway with an even mod-erate amount of traffic the cost of a paved road may be saved within a few years through reduced expenditures for vehicles and gasoline.

Owing to the greatly increased cost of tires and the threatened rise in the price of gasoline, this will possibly be true to an even greater degree in the near future.

The device of building roads through the special gasoline tax has met with general acceptance and the indications are that its application will be further extended. In those states where all of the gasoline tax is spent upon the roads there is little complaint. To spend it in any other way is man-ifestly unfair and discriminatory.

But, however the funds are raised, provided they are judiciously and economically expended, the people come very nearly getting their good roads free in the long run.

STATES MUST CHOOSE

Commenting on the fact that the state inheritance tax is retarding development in California, the San Francisco Bulletin quotes the late H. J. Heinz, who at one time figured on establishing a chain of pickle plants in that state. After investigating the fix situation, Mr. Heinz said:

"I am not willing to take all the chances under conditions which make me stand all losses and turn over most of the profits, if any, to the tax collector."

Dr. Milbank Jones, president of the state as-sociation for taxation improvement, had a recent convention of real estate men that California and other states are losing heavily through the trans-fer of citizenship by wealthy people to states like Florida and Alabama, which have no inheritance taxes.

Summing up the situation, the Bulletin says: "Taxes that rob property of its value are fatal to community prosperity, for when capital will not venture, the wage earner is inevitably a more serious loser even than the capitalist."

Every state must choose its own policy in the matter of dealing with wealth and industry. The results of wise or unwise policies are plainly be-fore all who want to see. Capital and industry seeking new locations do not select states where they are to be regulated and taxed beyond reason.

ARTIFICIAL EGGS NEXT

While scientists may never be able to produce a contraption that will take the place of the time-honored as a layer of real eggs, they have solved half the problem, so far as practical re-sults are concerned, it is said.

Prof. Bunker of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology announces the successful production of a cheap substitute for the whites of eggs, which he manufactures from beef serum. This new material is designed chiefly for use with other materials in cooking, and for some purposes it may in time become a serious competitor of old Biddy's product.

Enormous quantities of dried whites of eggs are shipped to this country from China, for use in the baking industry and in the making of candies, so that if Prof. Bunker's egg substitute fills this requirements it may have considerable commercial value.

But it will hardly cut much of a figure on the breakfast table as a component of the well known and justly celebrated "ham and eggs."
