EDITORIAL

The last game of the season in basketball will be played at the Dunes Tournament today. According to a report in the Assembly, hardly any of the pupils will be away and the class of 1926 is the only one not taking part. We hope it is just a matter of transportation that is keeping them from attending the game. At the same time, if a sufficient number of pupils would show a desire to go, there would be ways and means provided for them to attend the tournament. The boys play Aldens. We do not know the standards or kind of team this year. Aldens is a team that has been out to win, and the only way the fellow's can fight their best is to have a goodly number of them go. We hope the grandstands ready to cheer and encourage them in every step of the game. Let us make the basketball game a success and we can go on. Let us report as soon as possible to one of the faculty for their request to have the game at the Auditorium. After a certain time, let us as many as possible turn out at the game, but let Barrington win the tournament.

SOPHOMORE SCOOPI

The Sophomores have been trying hard and preparing for the crucible monthly tests. We hope all the best, but as the "best" sometimes does not come our way, we are all trembling with anxiety. However, there's a will, there's a way.

There will be no punishment in English until the will is shamed.

JUNIOR HIGH

Report cards have come and gone, along with mostly notable reports.

After the first month, the English III pupils have turned again to the English Literature book.

The small geometric class is taking up the study of the decimal angle. Can anyone tell us what an edge is, or perhaps a plane angle?

Mr. H. C. A. is in his class—Miss Bixby. Miriam, if you can't write, just sit still and hold your hands. Earl Wewster: Let me hold them for you.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC NEWS

Today, Feb. 26, the Maroons were defeated, but the girls were in the party by the Whites. Sometimes the team will be champion again.

The Whites had a hard time in one game, while the Gold had lost only one. We should like to have all the girls on the team, but if there is short one player, you forfeit the game 2-0. We are sure you would not like to have your team lose because of one girl.

The G. A. held its regular meeting Thursday. Many things were decided, but the girls were not interested. "Come on girls," put some "pop" into his organization and people know that B. H. S. has a G. A. The girls are the best in the high school who do not belong; we should like to have all the girls enrolled in our group. You will be sorry if you are not one of us, for we are going to have "loads" of fun.

For several years it has been the custom of the school to give an exhibition of its work on the first week of March. In past years this display has been a big event.

Plans to make this year's exhibition are under way and, as far as the building group of students preparing for the big demonstration.

Mrs. Gieseke and Miss Jones have generously offered to give up a Saturday afternoon to conduct a group of high school students to "The Miracle," a play which will be played at the Auditorium. The play is the only thing of its kind that has ever been produced in Barrington and the performance is marvelous.

A goodly number are planning to go.

—BHS

Mrs. York has also kindly offered to take pupils to concerts to be given at the Auditorium on Saturday afternoon to be given by Fritz Kreisler, Ossip Gabrilowitch and Harold Bauer respectively.

The Senior class all donated home-made candy for a sale held Wednesday evening. The profits going to the class funds will be given to the library.

CHARITY OVERHEAD

The poor have with us always and so long as human impulses animate mankind we shall seek to relieve the condition of the unfortunate and the destitute. The enormous sums contributed to the relief of distress are often to a large extent dissipated, however, before they reach those for whom they are intended, due to excessive expense in management.

Charity organizations are either international, national or local in their scope. Each must have paid workers, office elaborate headquarters, attractive literature and prepared publicity, all of which cost money which must be taken from the contributed funds.

While in the case of a few organizations, such as the Red Cross and some other large trusts, the overhead expense is comparatively small, in most of them it is big item. In all of them it is more than it ought to be.

The trouble is that whenever someone gets the idea of doing charity work, he or she feels it necessary to start a new "movement" instead of cooperating with some agency already in existence. A lot of such new enterprises are launched merely to gratify someone's desire for publicity, and are an imposition on the public.

We shall never have too much real charity, but we have too many organizations and organizations, hence a large part of the funds contributed go for overhead expenses, instead of being devoted to the purposes for which they are donated.

OPINIONS SHOULD DIFFER

It is characteristic of most persons who have decided opinions on any subject that they should try to bring everyone else to their way of thinking.

In cases where the issue is a clearcut one, involving right and wrong, it may be that an uncompromising attitude is justified. But who shall say just what is right and what is wrong? Ideas concerning right and wrong change with the times.

Not so many years ago some of the most cultured and enlightened people of this country believed that human slavery was legitimate and proper. George Washington was one of them; at least he was a large slave-owner as long as he lived. We think it wrong today.

The Puritans thought it wrong for a man to kiss his wife on Sunday, and they passed a law prohibiting him from doing so. We think it all right today.

If everyone had agreed with such old ideas and no one had ever mustered up the courage to contradict them, we should have made little progress. We would still be buying slaves.

What is needed in the world is that we should all think alike, but that we should have a greater feeling of tolerance and respect for the opinions of others, when honestly held, no matter how much they may differ from our own.

The average normal person is really seeking for the truth—but the truth is often elusive, and each must find it in his own way.

BROADENING OUR VIEW

Although many writers deplore the alleged lower standard of current magazines which are extremely popular with a certain class of people, reports from booksellers and librarians declare that there is a growing demand for the better sort of literature.

Works dealing with travel, history and biography are being called for in increasing numbers, especially those pertaining to foreign countries.

There is no doubt that the war and the important events which have followed it have given the American people a wider outlook on the world and a desire to know more of the countries and peoples which are playing such important parts in its affairs.

Newspapers generally, both dailies and weeklies, find that their readers are interested in a wider range of topics than formerly, and are giving more space to news and editorials dealing with national and international matters.

This all means that the people of America, and particularly the rural population, are outgoing, broad, provincial of the past and are eager for contact with the rest of the world through books, newspapers, moving pictures and radio. All of which makes for a higher and better civilization.

TO TEACH MARKETING

With a view to the early education of young farmers in the principles of cooperative marketing, a text-book designed for use in agricultural high schools and other schools which give particular attention to agriculture is being prepared.

The book is being written by a committee of experts, of which Dr. Mac Campbell of Cedar Rapids, Ia., is chairman, and is sponsored by the National Educational Association.

The idea was suggested by the marked success which had been attained in a similar movement during a period of years, when the cooperative spirit had been fostered through definite instruction in the falls schools.

Those behind the plan declare that it is difficult to convince the older farmers of the benefits of cooperative marketing after they become set in their individualistic methods. Hence, it is sought to begin marketing education in the school room.

As former Governor Lowden of Illinois, a member of the text-book committee, briefly puts it: "Cooperative marketing develops more rapidly and more soundly where young farmers have first been educated to understand it."

HERE'S A RECORD

There is a remarkable field of general merchants in the little town of Clear Lake, S. D., which probably holds the world's record for consistent and adequate advertising in a community of that size.

English & Towers have carried a full-page advertisement in the Clear Lake Courier every week without a miss, for twenty years. They have contracted for a similar space for each year of 1926.

Clear Lake is a town of only 839 population, a city with but 8,759 people, with two newspapers. Yet, in the firm's advertising with the other newspaper which is stated in the source of our information, it is reasonable to suppose that it was considerable.

From their extensive and persistent advertising, English & Towers appear to be pretty thoroughly sold on the proposition. As the Courier says: "They have proven to their satisfaction that large space in the newspaper regularly brings correspondingly big results."

HOW IT STARTED

Much discussion regarding the origin of the strenuous dance called the Charleston has been going on, without any authoritative decision on the question.

After reading up on the subject to some extent, we are inclined to accept the following version:

It happened on a South Carolina farm, not far from Charleston. The farmer, armed with a pitchfork and accompanied by a hound dog, caught a young negro in his chicken coop. A jab at the darky with the pitchfork made the dog first. A bite from the hound in the seat of his trousers produced the second stab. Continued jab with the pitchfork, alternated with the dog's bites, perfected the dance, which has taken the name of "the Charleston."

The next time you see the Charleston danced, watch the movements closely and you will probably conclude that it could have been evolved in no other way.

A MODEST VICTOR

Jean Borotra of France defeated William T. Tilden of the U. S. A., seven years undisputed tennis champion of the world, a few days ago. Jean must have been pardoned for bragging a bit about his recent accomplishment but did he?

He did not. When asked whether he expects to beat Tilden in the Davis cup competition next summer, Borotra said:

"It is foolish to think so. When I defeated Tilden the other day he was off his stroke. You can't imagine such a thing as will not happen again in the matches next week or in the Davis cup play. I think I am due for a licking when I play Tilden again."

Borotra is declared to be the most popular player among lovers of tennis, which is not hard to understand in view of his unusual skill and his still more unusual modesty.

Works dealing with travel, history and biography are being called for in increasing numbers, especially those pertaining to foreign countries.

There is no doubt that the war and the important events which have followed it have given the American people a wider outlook on the world and a desire to know more of the countries and peoples which are playing such important parts in its affairs.

THE FOUR CORNERS

There are now about 400,000 life insurance policyholders in the country, and the number is increasing at approximately 72 billions of insurance.

Bible Thoughts for the Week

Sunday, 1

Make Your Treasure Earth—Lay not up for yourself treasures upon earth, where moth and rust corrupt, and where thieves break in and steal. For where your treasure is there will your heart be also. Matt. 6:19-21.

God's Goodness—God's goodness with contentment is great gain. For we brought into this world, and we must leave it, empty. And having food and raiment, let us be therewith content. 1 Tim. 6:17, 18.

Tuesday, 2

The Reservation—Jesus said, I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; though he dead, yet shall he live. And the resurrection and the life is in me. John 11:25.

Wednesday, 3

Seek Eternal Things—We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. John 3:19-21.

Thursday, 4

The Young People—Ingerund had his son, in his favor a moment; in his favor was life; weeping, weeping for a night, but joy cometh in the morning. Pe. 30:5.

Friday, 5

Trust Him—Commit unto the Lord, I say, all your care; trust in the Lord, I say, all your strength. 1 Cor. 3:25.

St. Ann's Catholic

Mass will be celebrated at 9:00 a.m. each Sunday morning. Sunday school after the morning Mass.

A study of the Church's history of its greatest progress was made when she had the greatest leaders. From time to time, when she had great leaders, she would raise up leaders who would counteract the evils that beset the Church.

What is needed is a leader in the institution, and will drive the carelessness or indifference of Her children. Her progress will be in the hands of her leaders, and the kind of leadership which St. Bp. processes.

1. Earning a living—and providing for your family, full and complete.

2. Self-preservation and self-improvement, physical, mental, and spiritual.

3. Contributing something to the betterment of the world.

Possibly you would want to add something to this list.

But take these as a basis, just as an experiment, and sit down this evening and see how many things you can add to this list.

Perhaps you will find the need of something else, or the outside help from others to live better, more useful lives.

You will find such people in the church.

Find a church to attend next Sunday, and if you do not have a church, why not start one? And if you will, help the church helpful in the work of the world.

Telephone 1s
Fifty Years Old
on March 10th

decade. Today there are six operating positions and the exchange of the 740 subscribers, in the place of the 100 subscribers, is a matter of indifference. In a single year, the telephone company, in its capacity of a quarter of a century, has increased its telephone system by 100 times.

Wm. Kessler of Dundee, general manager, is the man who assumed and takes care of administration and trouble in Barrington, Winona and Lake Zurich. The position of commercial clerks has been created, and Mrs. Warren Page of Main Street, in this capacity, conducted the first business transaction. The use of the switch board requires three operators, who are supported by a dozen clerks. Miss Mary K. Kessler is the chief operator, Miss Florence Neuman is assisting in the telephone exchange, and the operators are Anna Ellis Hattie, Pearl Hansen, Anna Neuman, Linda Mackie, Frances Dillinger, and Grace E. Elpid Foppe and Agnes Terrell.

The Barrington exchange is in a district, called the "Barrington" area, which is under the general supervision of George W. Wilbert, former Barrington boy, who now is State Senator. He is 40 years old. He left Barrington about eight years ago. He was a wife chief then, and went to Waukegan, Illinois, where he became a telephone chief there for two years. He was made district manager chief, and a year ago he was promoted to the position of commercial manager. This will be continued, pending the arrival of the new manager, the observance will be continued throughout the year in various ways. On the 10th of March, the 50th anniversary of the Theodore N. Vail, Captain No. 1, Telephone Flowers of America, will be celebrated with a dinner and entertainment to be given in the refectory of the Hawthorne Works of the Western Electric Company.

THE WORLD IN BRIEF

Frederick Murdoch of Dundee fought off 100 bandits and saved his life by shooting them down with a finger shot off during the battle.

Patrick and Bridget Murphy of Dundee, who had $1,000 and $15,000 found hidden in the wall of their home.

John Taylor, 23, was arrested in Glasgow after committing robberies in 28 towns during the past eight months.

Wife trippers were born to the wife of Henry Armstrong in London, he died and was buried by the police.

Upon the death of Marcel Claude at Marquette it was discovered that he had been born in 1894, at 10 years of age and that his wife died in 1924.

Mrs. Mary Fortune, who had been declared legally dead after being missing for 15 years, has been found in Glasgow.

Harry Loxton of Hamilton, Ind., tried to commit suicide by shooting his gun, when arrested for drunkard, but an immediate operation saved his life.

While riding on a train from Chicago to Milwaukee, J. L. Porter was swindled out of $2,400 by three felons.

KNOW ILLINOIS

Illinois is the second largest continents of lumber and New York is third.

The longest railroad crossing in the world is the line of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, elevated at Lake and Wells streets, Chicago, where, during the construction of the line, a train, aggregating 1,100 cars, passed this crossing.

Dispersed with its cones rating,

Illinois recently condemned the government and found its population to be $3,284,633, more per capita than any other state in the country.

If you are in India in winter you will be well advised to buy

Miss Catherine Dunphy, a young girl who is now blind, when her home was destroyed by fire.

Lady Hickman Brown of London is a woman who has organized in Central America, where she will act as a scientific advisor to the people in the country.

Vanishing in the darkness at the exhibit of May Flora, a popular actress, among its students and set apart rooms where the girls may exercise this privilege.

Miss Anna Dill, the last surviving daughter of Charles Dickens, is now 88. She has never attempted to write a book, but has written the book of her life.

Miss Sarah Grady of London left

$1,000,000 for the protection of her son, and died four days after the birth of her son.

Mr. John Butz of Oshkosh, Wis.,

is the mother of four sets of twins.

There are nine sets of twins in the world, in addition to his.

Miss Ada Hoyland, known as an English explorer, has turned to England and will shortly visit remote parts of Persia.

WHAT'S NEW?

An improved apparatus for extracting rubber from worn-out rubber articles has been devised by

Frederick Lumber, Inc., to be seasonal for 20 to 40 hours by a new Swedish and American chamber.

Miss Strandberg, 17-year-old

Danish astronomer, has constructed an electrical apparatus which automatically measures the distance of stars.

A British scientist claims a new method of removing persons from a vacuum by inhaling a vapor, instead of gas which remains clear under all atmospheric conditions is the invention of an Australian chemist.
