JACKIE COOGAN'S 'THE BUGLE CALL' TO BE AT CATLONS TONIGHT

One of the most gripping and thrilling pictures of the war, "The Bugle Call," which will be at the Catlons tonight and Friday night. Censor Wallace and Harry Hamilton feature an extremely epic tale. It is young Coogan's first screen role, and it is perhaps the most dramatic and poignant picture yet shown in the city. The story of the days just before the Civil war took place, a background of battles between the cavalry and the sea men.

Jackie plays the part of a heroic soldier, a Western cavalryman, a hero and loyal devotee to the memory of his dead mother. His father recruits and commands the unit to defend his standpoint on matters, and to transfer his affections to the cause of the Union, which is the cause of the Union. The picture is a masterpiece of the war, and it is a masterpiece of the war. The picture is a masterpiece of the war, and it is a masterpiece of the war.

A quick trip to the heart of dark and gloomy. The city, out of all commerce, almost unbearable. The picture is a masterpiece of the war, and it is a masterpiece of the war. The picture is a masterpiece of the war, and it is a masterpiece of the war.
