

GIRLS Earn Money During Vacation and in Spare Time

Personal and social news constitutes one of the most important features of the community newspaper. It has great reader interest and probably appeals a greater number of people than any other department of a local newspaper.

Besides being of interest as reading matter, it serves many good purposes. To the sick it brings friendly messages, flowers and good wishes. Among vacationists, it lets their friends know they are away, and oftentimes saves time and inconvenience for them. It introduces the newcomer to the community and acquaints him with the people of the community. Would-be humorists sometimes make sport of the country newspaper's personal columns, but these same columns have been characterized by one of the country's leading advertising agencies (located in New York City) as the world's most successful piece of journalism.

The Barrington Review wants more personal and social news. It is willing to pay well for it.

A limited number of Girls (and Boys and Women, if any are interested), are invited to participate in a contest in reporting for the Barrington Review, vacation personals, general news items about persons, social events, etc. There is no limit to the amount of space the Barrington Review will devote to this feature. Contestants are wanted from every section of the village and from every rural community served by the Review.

The regular space rates for all published news will be paid. Considering the carte blanche the reporter has, this space rate is higher than the rate paid by most city papers for their correspondence. Checks will be mailed monthly, and in addition there will be monthly prizes to those sending the greatest amount of news. Full particulars will be mailed, the day after the contest closes, to all applicants who are accepted.

Contestants must be eighth grade graduates or high school girls, or girls of high school age or older. No objection to male contestants, if any are interested.

Readers of the Barrington Review will be allowed to send in their own contributions and have them credited to their favorite contestant.

Note that too many contestants cannot work efficiently, so get your application in early. We reserve the right to limit the number of contestants and choose the applicants who seem best fitted.

REGISTRATION CLOSES FRIDAY, JUNE 15, at 6 p. m. if a sufficient number of contestants have registered.

All who register and are accepted will be given printed instructions and helpful "tips" and furnished with paper and other supplies.

Adult readers will be asked to cooperate in making the Barrington Review more newy and in encouraging the young people to get this valuable training and be paid for it at the same time. All contestants will be cautioned not to publish personal matters when requested not to do so, and against giving offense in any way. Adults are reminded, however, that if they enjoy reading the personal news, they should be willing to contribute to it.

THE CONTEST STARTS THURSDAY, JUNE 21st

FIRST MEMORIAL DAY

Petersburg, Va., claims the distinction of being the originator of Memorial Day, now generally observed on May 30th or another day throughout the United States.

On June 9, 1864, General Wright with 20,000 Federal cavalry marched on Petersburg, having captured a report for a few Confederate pickets. Hitherto the old men and boys of the home guard were gathered together to oppose the Federals and partially check their advance until an army of Confederate cavalry arrived, 11 of the defenders being killed.

The next year on the first anniversary of the battle the people of Petersburg decorated the graves of these dead. In 1865 Mrs. Logan, wife of General John A. Logan, then commander of the G.A.R., happened to visit Petersburg on its memorial day and was so impressed with the beautiful tribute of flowers and flags that she suggested to the General that it should be made a national holiday.

General Logan issued an order for the observance of May 30 by the veterans of the North as Memorial Day and the custom has continued.

In the South, April 26 is observed in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Florida; May 10 in North and South Carolina, the second Friday in May in Tennessee, and June 3 in Louisiana.

While Virginia observes the national date May 30, Petersburg still keeps its custom of decorating its graves on June 9 also, thus having two memorial days each year.

Thus according to the claim of that city the national yearning for the dead has its origin in the commemoration of the valor of that heroic little band of Petersburg's defenders.

FEEDING THE WORLD

Ever since the beginning of life on this planet the quest of food has been the most vital activity of man and beast. The search for food has given rise to mighty migrations, and the earliest gropings toward civilization were under the urge of hunger.

And the more we have increased and multiplied he has often failed to find the means of sustenance, and starvation has taken its toll of millions. Even to this day famine stalks in many lands.

Many who study the enormous increase in the world's population are apprehensive that in time future will become constant and general, and that the world will be faced with a condition of which Mathews gave warning a century and a quarter ago.

As nearly as can be estimated, the world's population has practically doubled in the last 100 years, increasing from approximately 800 to 1750 million. Considering that it took 100 years to increase population by 100 years to reach the figure 800 million and only 100 years to double that, what may happen in the coming centuries can only be conjectured.

While this problem may not seriously affect the Americans for several generations, at the present rate of increase in population it will only be a question of time until the food situation will be a grave one for the entire world.

Possibly the civic organizations of the future will be found trying to get rid of people, instead of boasting for bigger towns.

LABOR'S WARNING

Another warning to its members to beware of Communistic propaganda was recently issued by the American Federation of Labor, in connection with the activities of an unnamed "Talbot" who has been soliciting funds for striking miners.

In its official announcement the Federation says: "This committee has no standing, it has no authority, from organized labor to solicit funds; it is a self-constituted body and we are advised it is Communistic in character."

It is also stated that none of the funds collected by the spurious committee has been turned over to the authorized relief agencies. President Green of the Federation further said: "There are other destructive forces whose titles and names are misleading and whose representatives are engaged in fomenting strife and creating dissension. These organizations are supported by the Communist publications and by the Communist literature. We warn organized labor against all these destructive influences and forces. Have nothing to do with them."

Probably few persons realize how widespread is the activity of the Communists in the United States, which seeks to undermine our institutions through the most insidious and subtle propaganda, often in the name of "peace" societies and like-minded groups of Congress, state churches and many similar organizations, have fallen under this influence, sometimes innocently and in other cases through tangible connection with the enemies of Soviet Russia.

The warping of the Federation of Labor should be noted, not only by its members, but by all who are interested in the preservation of the American social system.

WHO DOES OUR THINKING

The average man would perhaps resent the suggestion that someone else does his thinking and dictates his opinion. But when we look into the matter a little, it becomes evident that the most important expression of life's experience may have marked independent thought of thought or belief.

Two of the outstanding phases of the average person's individuality are his religion and his politics. Does he do his own thinking about these? Hardly.

At least nine out of ten are Republicans, Democrats, etc., their religious and political beliefs are what they learned from their parents. The time is almost equally true with respect to their attitudes toward other questions about which there may be honest differences of opinion. If it is not a parent who exerts the dominating influence in these matters, it is usually some other person who blindly followed through faith in his ability to do his best for his country and probably got his ideas from someone else.

The fact that this is true should lead us to be more tolerant of the beliefs and opinions of others who do not agree with us. We have been here under the same influences as they, we would have had the same views, as a result.

Few persons indeed, are independent enough in thought and action to break away from the influences of heredity and environment.

AIDING THE FARMER

Among the many schemes which have been profeted in the past few years by politicians and others in real or pretended efforts to aid the farmers of the country, very few have been of practical benefit. In fact, some of them have been productive of more harm than good.

But there is one species of government aid, at least, which has on the whole been really helpful. It is the agricultural extension service whereby farm and home demonstration agents, trained for their important duties have gone among the farmers, their wives and children, and helped them to help themselves.

The various field and home projects and demonstrations carried on by these faithful workers, often under the most discouraging circumstances, have materially raised the efficiency of farmers and amateur home-makers.

Even this effort will have been done with the boys' and girls' clubs, which will exert a tremendous influence upon the rural life of the future. This training of farm boys and girls for community leadership is perhaps the most important activity for the betterment of agriculture today.

FORECAST OF NEXT WAR

A faint forecast of what may be expected in the next war is seen in the recent killing of eleven persons outright and the presence of many more by gasoline gene gas in Hindenburg.

The deadly gas, which is used for industrial purposes, escaped from a leaking tank, not larger than an ordinary gasoline wagon carriage, and spread rapidly over a section of Hindenburg, spreading death and terror. Had not rain fallen at the opportune moment to wash away the gas, the number of victims might have perished.

It is said that only a half a gram of gasoline in a cubic meter of air is sufficient to cause death. One small tank dropped from an airplane in the center of a city would probably destroy almost the entire population.

This is but one more illustration of the terrible peril which not only soldiers, but the civilian population as well, may expect to face in case another war of large proportions should unfortunately occur.
