LeRoy H. Wagner Meets Tragic Death; Funeral Monday

Funeral services for LeRoy H. Wagner, a veteran of the World war, son of George M. Wagner of 207 S. Dundee avenue, were held Monday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mabel Jones, 303 S. Dundee avenue, in charge of Barrington post No. 158, The American Legion.

Mystery surrounds the death of LeRoy Wagner, which occurred some time late Friday night or early Saturday morning. He was found early Saturday morning, seated in his car, on Elia road a quarter of a mile south of Castle road, dead from a gunshot wound in the head. A 12-gauge shotgun was in the front of the car.

The gun found in the automobile was one that had been left there by Charles Meier, a Barrington township farmer, who had been driving George M. Wagner, who is a Cook county constable, during the week on the watch for violators of the game laws.

The last time LeRoy Wagner was seen alive by relatives was Friday evening, when he had supper at the home of his sister, Mrs. L. B. Padock of 725 E. Hillside avenue. After supper he drove his father to their home on Dundee avenue, then set out for Arlington Heights, on a business connected with the Wagner market.

Farmer Discovers Tragedy
The tragedy was discovered by Charles Meier, who lives on the Hoernsche farm near the scene of the accident. Sternberg, who had been to Palatine, returned home soon after 11 o'clock Friday night. He saw the car beside the road, but observed no one in it. Because Elia road is a little crooked, he did not see the car until he had driven a short distance.

When he saw the car, he stopped and got out. He saw the car beside the road, but observed no one in it. Because Elia road is a little crooked, he did not see the car until he had driven a short distance.

Village Seeks Funds to Pay for Hall Addition

St. Anne's parish is making elaborate plans for a two-day autumn festival and bazaar on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 21 and 22. The harvest of good things to be had at the bazaar will include turkeys and geese, preserves, choice home made pastries and candies—everything needed for the Thanksgiving feast. There will be booths of handicraft and novelties, as well as entertainment and other attractions.

People of Barrington and friends from the surrounding countryside are invited to participate in the festivities, which will be held in the school hall on Elia street near Franklin street.

The finance committee of the village board can make arrangements to pay the cost, an addition will be made to the village hall on St. Hugh street to provide an office for the village treasurer, a police desk, storage room for fire trucks and police and village department vehicles, toilet facilities and a heating plant.

Civic Groups Form Local Committee for Relief Work

That there may be "No Hungry Children in Barrington," a Barrington Relief Committee has been organized through the efforts of H. H. Calkins, president of the Civic League of Barrington, to extend aid to families of the community who may be in distress now, or later, due to unemployment of the winter months.

The plan is to make the relief committee a central agency to coordinate the activities of the various civic groups of the village. Officers and members of the committee and its organizations they represent are as follows:

President—C. G. McCray of The Jewels, a social club of the Jewell The Co. Inc.
Secretary—Mrs. M. E. Broad of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Treasurer—Mrs. A. L. Robertson of the Barrington Woman's Club.
Eldon G. Gieske of the Barrington Chamber of Commerce.
George J. Miller of The American Legion.

Rev. C. R. Drussell of the Barrington Ministerial Association.
The Women to Conduct Drive
Plans for raising funds and the collection of clothing are being worked out now. While organizations representing the various civic groups are working and earning as in previous years, an opportunity to assist in the relief work, a general appeal for funds will be conducted by the Barrington Woman's Club and the American Legion Auxiliary.

However, charity is not the object of the committee; its principal endeavor will be to secure employment for workers who are out of jobs, and thus help them to help themselves. To this end a free employment bureau has been established at the office of E. L. Waterman, village treasurer, 107 N. Hough street, where the unemployed and those having jobs to offer may register.

The entire net proceeds of the ministerial show, recently announced by The Jewels, will be paid into the relief fund under the control of this committee.

Tickets for the ministerial show on sale this week and reservations may be made at J. A. McLeister's. The Barrington Relief Committee urges a hearty response on the part of the people. Those who know The Jewels are confident that, for the stand of the committee, those who attend the show will be amply repaid.

The village board of local improvements passed a first resolution Monday night for the widening of N. Hough street from 34th to 36th street, north of the intersection with the N. W. railroad tracks. The improvement, to be done by special assessment, will include paving of the street from the present concrete up to the curb line on either side, with curbs, sidewalks, gutters, and catchbasins. The 15-foot paving now in place on that street was installed by Lake county a number of years ago.

The engineer's estimate for the improvement is $3,900.02. On the evening of the village board of trustees approved a resolution of N. Hough street from the railroad tracks to the intersection with the N. W. railroad tracks. The improvement, to be done by special assessment, will include paving of the street from the present concrete up to the curb line on either side, with curbs, sidewalks, gutters, and catchbasins. The 15-foot paving now in place on that street was installed by Lake county a number of years ago.

Under the survey, N. Hough street will be a 60-foot street from the railroad tracks to the intersection with the N. W. railroad tracks. New construction will be required to conform to the building lines established under the survey.

When the case of village of Barrington vs. Knight Blanchard & Co. and others was called for trial in Judge William J. Lindsay's court in the county of Cook, on November 18, Castle, Williams, Long & McCarthy, attorneys for local holders of duplicate bonds, announced that the four bonds held by their clients had been paid. The court then decided that the $4,325 paid into court by the village should go to Knight Blanchard & Co., which holds bonds for the village, and the balance should be to be genuine. The Knight Blanchard & Co. bonds are those issued to the contractor.

William J. Hardwell, associated with Loucks, Eckert & Peterson, special village attorneys, said this morning that Judge Lindsay would probably sign a decree today ordering the money turned over to Knight Blanchard & Co. The effect, he said, would be to prevent the village being liable to pay more than one set of bonds.

Barrington Celebrates Children's Book Week

The Barrington Woman's Club is assisting in the celebration of Children's Book Week. Talks are being given in the public schools. The pupils and teachers are undertaking with enthusiasm various projects which will be reported upon later. The public library has new books for children, and it is hoped many of them will visit the library this week.

Good books open new worlds to children in which they may live happily, returning to their actual surroundings with refreshed and healthfully aroused minds. They need this food for the mind as much as they need food for the body. Books not only give knowledge but teach children how to live.

Children's Book Week was originated in 1919 by the American Booksellers' Association, the American Library Association, the Boy Scouts of America, and associated publishers; and has become in five years, a national annual campaign which thousands of communities use to stimulate interest in boys' and girls' books. Its influence is felt throughout the year in a growing consciousness of the importance of children's reading on character development.

Ela Township High School
Dr. Pollard Addresses Student Body
John W. H. Pollard, M. D., Commissioner of Health of Evanston, Ill., addressed the student body and faculty on last Friday afternoon. He used as his subject, "Health Built Up Through Athletic Activities." The address was timely as our first basketball was to be played Friday evening.

The Illinois State Department of Health supplied Dr. Pollard for us without expense on our part. In addition to furnishing this speaker the health department sent us three reels of moving pictures which were shown during last week. We are indeed grateful to the department for these services.

On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week the teachers will attend the Illinois State High School Conference at Urbana. There will be no school on Thursday and Friday.

There will be a short Thanksgiving recess beginning Wednesday evening, Nov. 26, and closing Monday morning, Dec. 1.

Our farm shop room seems to be an especially busy and popular room before and after each day of school as well as at noon. The boys have built two nice new "bunching" tables for the school. The girls are permitted to play "pink-pong" each morning and the boys each noon.

ATHLETICS
Ela and Bensenville Divide Honors
In the first basketball game of the season Bensenville lightweights trounced Ela lights to the tune of 19-1, while the heavyweight game went to Ela by a 12-11 score.

The Bensenville lightweights displayed real class, and the Ela team, composed mostly of Freshmen and Sophomores, failed to score a field goal.

In the heavyweight game, Ela started off with a rush, scoring seven points before Bensenville got started, and though seriously threatened on several occasions held her lead throughout the rest of the game. The score at the half was 8-7 and at the close of the game, 12-11.

Ela goes to Bensenville for a return game on November 26. The next home game will be with Fox Lake on Dec. 5.

Big Program Planned for Live Stock Show
Chicago will be host to the country from November 29 to December 6, when the International Live Stock Exposition will draw to it a mammoth display of the manifold wonders of the rural world. Not only the class of boys from Ela but also many townspeople of Lake Zurich are planning to attend this exposition.

A Real Pop Meeting at Ela
A real pop meeting was held Friday morning at Ela park. The first Friday evening with Bensenville.

The newly elected basketball sponsor and maids were in charge of the meeting.

The program consisted of poppy yells, songs and short talks. The yells were led by the cheer leader, Leona Pearce, and pop leader, Marjorie Soderberg. Snappy songs very appropriate for the occasion were given by the sponsor and maids. Short and snappy talks were given by Coach Riechers, member of the team, and Phyllis Soderberg, one of the maids.

The basketball team was presented to the student body by Elmer Rudinski, sponsor of the team.

The meeting ended by singing the school song and giving 15 yells for the teams, sending the boys on to victory.

Thanksgiving gives Frigidaire another chance to prove its worth

The marketing starts days before hand—celery, fruits, cranberries and, oh, so many other good things... You'll need a Frigidaire to keep them fresh and tasty.

Kitchen preparations begin early, too. A Frigidaire will carefully guard these Delicacies of the Day.

Surprise! Of course the menu must have a dish that's new and different... Why not a salmon salad from Frigidaire's cold compartment?

And afterwards when (no matter how good the dinner has been) there's much of it left... then again Frigidaire will take care of everything—keep all its savories intact for days until everyone is hungry again.

The popular new "Gayline" Frigidaire, with storage capacity of 3 cubic feet, is only $10 down and about 30c a day.

"SWEET ADELIN"

MUSICAL PLAY AT ILLINOIS THEATRE

Seldom does a musical play come to Chicago and meet with such high praise from both critics and public as did Arthur Hammerstein's "Sweet Adeline," now playing at the Illinois Theatre. This beautiful and extravagant musical play ran for ten months at Hammerstein's, New York, last season, and through its unusual music, story and cleanliness found capacity and enthusiastic audiences. In his review, Ashton Stevens of the Chicago Herald and Examiner said: "If you don't like 'Sweet Adeline,' I advise you never to go to another musical show." While Charles Collins of the Tribune remarked that it is "One of those flawless fables that linger for years in playgoers' memory." There is more story to this superlative dancing, romancing and alive show creation than you will find in many a drama." Said Frederick McQuigg in the American. "All in all, 'Sweet Adeline' is a charming, witty show, presenting with tender satire a lovely period in the world's history, beautifully set and skillfully played." Was Clarence Bullett's opinion, and Gail Borden of the Times wrote: "It is a prodigiously staged and suits the eye. And, finally, it is our second attempt at musical comedy worth saving." Helen Morgan, Irene Franklin and Charles Butterworth, James Thornton and 98 others are in the cast, including a symphonic orchestra.

SCOUT NEWS

In the Scout meeting held last Wednesday, Nov. 12, we decided to have a contest scored on the point basis. One point for attendance, one point for promptness at meetings, one point for being in uniform, one point for dues being paid, two points for every merit badge fast passed. Jerry Green and Claude Conn are the rival leaders.

HERMAN KOENIG, Scribe.

In a sense, the cabinet is as much a tribute to the departed as the stone placed above it.

This does not mean it must be costly. To be sure, caskets today are priced higher than twenty years ago—but, as prices have advanced, so have the art, craftsmanship, and better materials used by the makers.

Out of a mistaken idea of devotion for the deceased, some are tempted to spend beyond their means. We advise individual taste, not price, be the guide in selection.

Legion and Odd Fellows, the deceased was also a member of Barrington camp No. 805, Modern Woodmen of America. He had been connected with his father's market at 114 S. Cook street for the past ten years and was widely known in this community. For the past six or seven years he and his brother, William A. S. Wagner, had operated the market. The latter met death in a automobile accident two and one-half months ago, since that time LeRoy had been in full charge of the business.

Born at Roselle

LeRoy Henry Wagner was born June 20, 1880, at Roselle, in Cook county. The family moved to Barrington in 1890 and he lived here until he was 10 years of age, when he went to Nebraska to join his brother, William, who was operating a farm there. With the exception of occasional visits home, he continued to live in Nebraska until the war broke out. He returned to Barrington soon thereafter, and on July 7, 1917, he enlisted in the regular army.

He served throughout the war with Co. B, 40th U. S. Infantry, and was honorably discharged from the service on June 27, 1919.

LeRoy Wagner was never married. His mother, Mary Seeger Wagner, died in Barrington in January, 1928. Surviving members of the family are the father, two sisters, Mrs. Mabel Jones and Mrs. L. B. Paddock, and one brother, Dr. A. G. Wagner of Crystal Lake.

FORMER BARRINGTON RESIDENT DEAD AT 84

Christian Wini, a former resident of Barrington, died at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Roe, 1918 W. 64th street, Chicago, on Monday morning. He had been ill two weeks.

Funeral services were held yesterday from the home of another son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Johnston, 531 Brompton avenue, Chicago, and burial was in Mt. Olive cemetery beside his wife, who died 24 years ago.

Mr. Wini lived in Barrington with his two daughters, Misses Irene and Anna Wini, who conducted a millinery store at 104 N. Cook street, now the Tee and Bee Hat Shop. After seven years in business here they sold out in September, 1929, and returned to Chicago, their father accompanying them and spinning to live with them there. They made many acquaintances during their stay here, and Mr. Wini often spoke of his Barrington friends.

Mr. Wini was born in Hells, Denmark, and was 84 years, 4 months, and 4 days old at the time of his death. He came to America 25 years ago and had lived most of the time in Chicago. Until his retirement he was employed for many years by the Chicago & Northwestern railroad company as a section foreman. Besides the daughters mentioned—Mrs. Johnston, Mrs. Roe, and Misses Irene and Anna Wini—he is survived by one other daughter, Mrs. H. Christensen, the eldest of the family, who lives at 630 Lockwood street, Chicago.

WOMAN DIES AT HER SLOUOM LAKE HOME

SPEND A LITTLE MORE

Thrift is commendable; everyone who can should save something. But while extravagance is harmful, too much hoarding is equally detrimental, according to leading economists.

For several months there has been an unusual percentage of unemployed in this country, as in the rest of the world. This has decreased the total buying power of the public. But the tightening of purse-strings by those who are still employed and are able to buy has reduced consumption to an even greater extent.

What is needed right now in order to aid in restoring normal conditions is more liberal spending on the part of those who have money to spend for things they can really use and need.

At no time since the World war has it been possible to buy to greater advantage than now. In spite of this fact, this country is again experiencing what is really a "buyers' strike." The return of general prosperity is impossible so long as this attitude is maintained by those who have money to spend.

It has been pointed out that the additional spending of ten cents a day by every one of the 120 million people in the United States would increase the nation's business to the extent of four billion dollars a year. Of course, the unemployed can not spend this extra ten cents a day, but millions of people could easily spend an additional dollar or more a day to good advantage and hardly miss it.

It is sound advice, then, to say to those who can afford it: "Buy what you need while prices are low; employ a little extra labor that you can use to advantage; stop hoarding and put more money into circulation."

TO HONOR WASHINGTON

Ever lavish in bestowing honors upon "The Father of His Country," the American people will outdo all former tributes in a year-long celebration of the 200th anniversary of George Washington's birth, to be held throughout the nation in 1932.

The principal celebration will be held, most appropriately, in Washington, D. C., where it is planned to have an almost continuous program of patriotic gatherings and events throughout the year. Congressman Sol Bloom of New York and Lieutenant Colonel U. S. Grant, 3rd, of the Army will serve as directors of the bicentennial celebration under the auspices of a commission created by Congress.

Besides the ceremonies to be held in the nation's capital, it will be sought to have local celebrations in every city, town and community throughout the land. Plans for all these events are now being made by the commission, assisted by a large corps of patriotic workers.

Women will have a major part in the bicentennial, their efforts being directed by Mrs. John D. Sherman, former national president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, former president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Among other features of the women's participation is that of making Mother's Day in 1932 the most memorable one ever observed, devoted especially to honoring Mary Washington, the mother of our liberator and first President.

KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK

The Red Cross is making its annual appeal for funds. In a few days the Christmas Seals of the Association for the Prevention of Tuberculosis will be offered everywhere.

These are two noble causes, to which everybody ought to contribute.

The work of the Red Cross is continuous. Wherever there is life to be saved, homeless to be sheltered, victims of catastrophe to be clothed, fed, and started out anew in life, the Red Cross is the first agency in the field and the one which does the most good. By virtue of his office, the President of the United States, whoever he may be, is also president of the Red Cross. It is, in effect, an unofficial arm of the Federal government.

The recent drought gave the Red Cross an opportunity for service. So did the Mississippi flood of a couple of years ago, and the hurricane disaster in Florida, Porto Rico and Santo Domingo. And hundreds of minor disasters, constantly occurring, keep this organization busy. It has no money except what the public gives.

The work of the Tuberculosis organization is of almost equal importance. Tuberculosis is diminishing, but only because of the constant watchfulness and educational work of the devoted men and women who are giving their lives to that work. Buying Christmas seals for a cent apiece is an easy and practical way for everybody to help.

POLITICAL GESTURES

Widespread comment has followed the recent declaration by Democratic leaders that they will not seek to obstruct the Hoover administration in its efforts to solve the country's present economic problems, nor oppose other beneficial legislation. This offer of co-operation has been accepted by the Republicans, and now we shall see what we shall see.

A great deal depends, of course, upon just what proposed legislation the Democrats will consider beneficial. Besides, it is obvious that the leaders of neither party will be able to control the actions or votes of their colleagues who are in the habit of showing independence of party authority.

That the Democratic leaders have signified their willingness to waive party advantage in the interest of the common good is commendable enough. How this idea will work out in practice remains to be seen.

Both parties have their eyes on the presidential election of 1932, and it is hard to believe that either will voluntarily relinquish any advantage which may be taken by reason of the other's mistakes.

THEY WILL ENTERTAIN US

Although Congress was created not to amuse but to legislate, we may be forgiven for glancing over the newly elected personnel with an eye for the more picturesque and interesting types.

First, there is our own James Hamilton Lewis, Senator-elect, he of the pink whiskers, sartorial splendor, and charming wit. He "could not smile over the defeat of a lady," but he can be trusted to make us smile more than once when his urbane irony is given full play during Senate debate.

Then, there is Huey P. Long, now Governor of Louisiana, also Senator-elect, who receives foreign emissaries in his pajamas, who loves "pot-licker," and who has made the front-page so often with his eccentric sayings and doings that it is hard to wait until 1932 for his arrival in Washington.

Another Governor, William J. Bulow of South Dakota, will come to the Senate with an already acquired reputation of being "funnier than Will Rogers."

And there are undoubtedly others who haven't had the opportunity to demonstrate their unique or engaging qualities. Altogether, we should be recompensed for the defeat of our chief vaudeville actor, "Tom-Tom" Heflin, whose white vest and thundering fulminations against imaginary menaces have provided Senate galleries with entertainment for ten years.

PASSING OF GEN. BLISS

Another great American soldier, General Tasker H. Bliss, has passed away, after giving more than half a century of active service to his country. He was one of only eight who have held the full rank of general in the history of the United States.

Born in Lewisburg, Pa., on December 31, 1853, he was graduated from West Point in 1875 and promoted through the various grades until he reached the rank of general, finally serving as chief of the General Staff in 1917. He was retired by operation of law shortly afterward, but continued on active duty during the World war at the request of the President.

General Bliss served as a member of the peace commission which formulated the Treaty of Versailles, being President Wilson's military representative at the peace conference. After the war he was governor of the United States Soldiers' Home from 1920 to 1927.

He received many honors and decorations from foreign countries as well as his own, and his death was noted and commented upon by newspapers throughout the world. His part in the peace conference was especially esteemed by France. In fact, his fame rests nearly as much upon his diplomatic achievements and statesmanship as upon his military career.

EXCESS OF EATING

"We Eat More and More," reads a recent headline. A writer and compiler of statistics quoted from the Literary Digest says, "One hundred and fifty pounds a year is our increase in food consumption during a generation." He adds that, "We consume fewer cereals and more sugar, fruits, and milk products."

He says quite an awful! he speaks of a time when dinner arrived at noon, and was the big meal of the day. Supper was usually composed of mush-and-milk, with fried mush, butter and molasses for breakfast the next morning.

Those were the days when people got along with some 500 fewer diseases than we "enjoy" at the present time—and when a fellow died of old age. There is everything except wisdom in many of the dietary customs of this on-rushing age of early death and big inheritance taxes.

In the last four generations we have jumped from thirty-four to forty-four pounds in fat and oils; thirty years ago, we consumed sixty-one pounds of sugar; today we swallow our hundred-and-fifty pounds for the year just past. We eat, according to this authority, 142 to 145 pounds of meat each year—and vary much, except perhaps less when the price of meat goes up.

Our increase in dairy products is wholesome—from 840 pounds to 1040 pounds; the same way with fruits; the gain from 100 to 192 pounds of fresh fruits, points the way to better and more healthful living. There has been a most striking decline in the use of corn-meal, the summertime staple. And here is the best and most correct "roughage" of all! It's a pity we can't get any statistics on the per cent of increase of loaded colons and constipation.

My purpose in this letter is to induce thinking on the part of my readers; I believe they will agree with me, that the old way of feeding, breakfast, dinner and supper is productive of length of days.

LIBRARY NEWS

NEW BOOKS THIS WEEK

On Forsythe Chase—Galsworthy.
Rabbits—Sinclair Lewis.
Pre-War America—Mark Sullivan.
Robin and Tito—Mabel Tassin.
What Katy Did Next—Coolidge.
The Five Children—E. Nesbit.
How They Carried the Mail—Walker.
Gay God Up—Rose Eyleman.
Tom Sawyer—Mark Twain.
Aroisha—Carlet—Dahrie Martin.
When Sarah Went to School—Stingmaster.

ROBIN AND TITO is the story of an American girl, Robin, in Sicily; her change from a frail, lonesome child to the husky, brave friend of Bianca and Tito. Girls of about ten to twelve will enjoy this story. Robin's adventure with the bandits, her trip to the caves with the fishermen, and her great adventure during the volcanic eruptions. The book gives a charming picture of a place and people the author knew for many months. Little Robin comes to see them as she did with the greatest appreciation and friendliness.

AROISHA—CARLET. Aroisha lives in Kairaman in far away Tunisia where there are so many exciting things to see that she sometimes forgets to hold her shawl across her face as little Arab girls are supposed to do in public. More than anything else Aroisha wants to wear a rug as her mother does, for Shelia is one of the finest rug makers in Kairaman. The story tells how Aroisha is given her own little loom and how after many long months, the rug is finished and taken to market.

HOW THEY CARRIED THE MAIL. Gallant heroes of all ages; young men who, being commanded to carry a message, did it through storm and sunshine, peace and war, no matter what the peril and danger, from the time of King Sargon to the present day.

These stories, because they are true, are more fascinating and thrilling than fiction. They make one continuous narrative of the faithful performance of duty under terrific conditions, and are greater than that required in war; adventure more exciting than could be imagined; gallant service in the face of danger.

The book begins with the post runners of King Sargon, 3000 B. C., and follows the ages down to the air mail of today.

AMERICAN ENGRAVING

Every art has its golden age—an age that marks the height of its achievement. The art of American engraving is by no means decadent in this year of grace, 1930; but unless by an amendment to the Constitution, we should permit all forms of photo-mechanical engraving, we would have neither the urge nor the ability to produce engravings as they were produced during the first half of the nineteenth century. Engraving in its manual as well as an industrial method, may be said of early lithography, and of that age-old form, the wood-cut. All of these methods involved laborious effort on the part of the engraver; photography had not yet been allied with engraving in any form, and few mechanical aids, save those devised by the engravers themselves, helped them in preparing their plates.

As has been observed, American history during the first half of the nineteenth century is one of record of expansion and development—the record of a nation finding itself. That this rapidity of progress should be reflected in a sort of national self-awareness is not at all remarkable. We had won our wars, we had become a power in the world. Our national resources were being tapped. We were, in the language of the day, on the "up and up." And that national pride, reflected in the thousands of prints which were available for small sums, graphic evidence of our prowess in battle on land and sea, our material resources, our scenic wonders, our rivers, our plains, our growing cities, and our political leaders.

The student of early American engraving is at once impressed with the increase in the number of engravers after the beginning of the nineteenth century. And with this increase came a noteworthy advance in technique. Undoubtedly the demand for book and personal illustrations had much to do with both.—Carl W. Dreppel, in "Early American Prints."

A new mutual safety device known as the "supermarine watch" makes it safer at sea and should prove valuable in "thick" weather.

SAYS

SOMETHING A LITTLE DIFFERENT

What can be done when there is no will to do it, was recently evidenced by the almost phenomenal success of a "Business Combination" Week originated and promulgated by the International Association of Lions Clubs and carried out by Lions Clubs in cooperation with other civic organizations.

Over two hundred million dollars in new retail business was reported for the week. Two hundred million dollars worth of merchandise taken out of the hands of American manufacturers, means close to half a billion dollars in new orders for American manufacturers. It means money in the pockets of all Americans, including yourself.

Like everything else that is new, it is BIG way, there were those who said it should be done—just another case of the old saw says "It can't be done," being attributed to somebody doing it!

Now that it has been done as a business, it has even been done before, there still are those who will say that they do not see why a man should be a part of an organization such as these Lions Clubs. They will say that they can do as well for it; that such organizations never do anything "worth" while; that there is nothing to be gained in being a part of the group. So let me always remind one of the story of the farmer who he saw his first giraffe said "This ain't no such animal!"

There are still a few communities where some men and leaders are blind to the advantages of a plan for the good of all. These communities fail to take in thousands of dollars in new business in the weeks just past, all because of the failure to recognize the opportunity.

There is no such thing as a "will" to do it. Any thinking persons know that for want of a little help of others no man can "get" anywhere. Like a community can never be what it is not, it is not the right kind of a Service Club and Lions Clubs on the basis of Analyze, Plan and Execute—worked up by a working, ACCOMPLISHING international organization.

My hat is off to anybody or any group that does things, and certainly no one can make that to be responsible for $200,000,000 in new business in 1930 is DOING SOMETHING.

The Way of Life

By BRUCE BARTON

GOOD MORNING DOCTOR

One day when I was working at a desk job and—needless to say—hard up, I developed a severe pain.

A stranger in New York, I had read in the newspapers the name of a distinguished physician internationally famous. I went to his office, which was in his beautiful home, at eight o'clock in the morning. The waiting room was already full. There was a rich man who tugged impatiently at his watch. There was a haughty woman. And there was a half a dozen shabby, open-mouthed folk, including a poor mother with a weeping baby.

"Without favoritism, each was asked into the consultation room in the order of his arrival."

Presently my turn came. I said to the doctor "I can not afford to consult you, but my health is my entire business. Therefore, feel that I simply must come to headquarters."

I pulled out my pocket book, which contained two weeks' salary.

"How much are you earning?" he asked.

"I told him $25 a week."

"Well, if you'll promise not to tell anybody, he agreed to charge you five dollars."

In the intervening years I have been the father of three children, and my salary has been raised a couple of times. I have had occasion to employ several physicians and three different surgeons. But the bills have amounted to hundreds of dollars. But I have never received a bill that seemed to me unreasonable or even adequate, considering the importance of the service rendered.

I have known several doctors who married rich wives, and some who made money in real estate or the stock market. I have met a number who gained modest fortunes from their practice, but none who became really rich.

And the amount of free work done by even the "biggest men in the profession has always been a marvel to me.

As an advertising man and a former sales manager, I feel that the health business is still too much of a mystery to the average citizen.

I should like to see dozens of big clinics in every city, each with its group of specialists. I should like to see them use newspaper advertising, and draw most of their revenues from wealthy rather than from the seriously ill. I believe that if we Americans paid twice as much to good doctors every year it would be the best money we could possibly spend.

Some developments of this sort will come in the near future. They are beginning already. Sometime, I feel a great sense of gratitude to the doctors. If my experience is typical, they are a swell group of men.

WITTY AND WISE

"Money talks," and in a universal language.

Anyway, the radio is causing some people to listen more and talk less.

Some show "bank equities" by the amount of life insurance they carry.

A kick town is one Captain Hawk has not broken a record flying to or from.

Some men think inducing a banker to make a loan is his job.

In football the foot is most effective when placed on an opponent's stomach.

A Pittsburgh man found his wife's ring in his trousers pocket, but nothing else.
