

BARRINGTON REVIEW

ESTABLISHED 1888

MILES T. LAMEY, Editor and Publisher November 11, 1929-December 5, 1930

Published every Thursday afternoon at Barrington, Illinois, and entered as Second-class matter at the Barrington postoffice under Act of March 3, 1879.

All copy for advertisements must be received before Tuesday noon to insure publication in that week's issue.

Member of NATIONAL EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION
ILLINOIS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Cards of thanks, resolutions of condolence, obituary notices, memorials, and all notices of entertainments or society, and church sales and parties given for pecuniary benefit will be charged for.

All communications should be addressed to the
BARRINGTON REVIEW
100 NORTH COOK ST. BARRINGTON, ILL.

TELEPHONE, BARRINGTON NO. 1

Church News

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST

East Main Street

Sunday service, 10:45 a. m.

December 14—Subject: God The Preserver Of Man.

Golden Text: Psalms 40:11. Withhold not thou thy tender mercies from me, O Lord; let thy loving kindness and thy truth continually prevail upon me.

Wednesday evening meeting, 8 p. m.

Reading room and lending library at 110 N.

Hough street open to the public daily except Sunday from 12 o'clock noon to 4 p. m. Also Wednesday evening from 6:45 to 7:45 and Saturday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock.

SAINT JAMES, DUNDREE

Every Sunday at 8:00 a. m. Holy Communion.

1st, 3rd, and 5th Sundays, 10:45 a. m. Choral Eucharist.

2nd and 4th Sundays, 10:45 a. m. Morning

Prayer and Sermon.

REV. R. R. S. GRAY, Rector.

ST. ANNE'S

Sunday, Low Mass 9 a. m. and 10 a. m.

Week days, Low Mass, 7 a. m.

Devotions in honor of the Sacred Heart, first Friday of each month. Mass at 6 a. m.

Confessions, Saturday, 9 p. m.

Baptism by appointment.

REV. JOHN A. DUFFICY, Pastor.

FIRST LUTHERAN

Missouri Synod

"Lift up your heads, O ye gates and ye lift up, everlasting doors; and the King of Glory shall come in." Ps. 24, 7.

Special Advent services will be held at Grof's hall in Barrington on Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

During the cold winter months we are going to have services in the afternoon. Please notice the change in time. We hope to see you all present.

Let not this blessed advent season pass by without coming to the Lord and worship.

Welcome. Come and bring your friends.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL

10:35 a. m. Miss Thompson, this district's representative in India, is home on a furlough and will speak under the auspices of the W. F. M. S. and their Christmas Fund.

7:30 p. m. A Christmas Anticipation service.

"Look now! for glad and golden hours

Some swiftly on the wing;

O rest beside the weary road,

And hear the angels sing!"

9:30 a. m. Sunday school 9:45 p. m. Epworth League and Intermediate League.

If not worshipping elsewhere we cordially invite you to share these hours in God's House with us.

M. S. FREEMAN, H. D. Minister.

FIRST BAPTIST

Bible School, 9:30; Morning Worship, 10:30;

Young People's Service, 6:45; and Evening Worship, 7:20.

At the morning hour the pastor will preach on

"The Sufficiency of the Grace of God," and in the evening: "Pressing Toward the Goal." The gospel services are enriched by inspirational music, both in congregational hymn singing and special music furnished by our choir.

Visitors are given a cordial welcome at our friendly church.

CHARLES R. DRUSSEL, Pastor.

SALEM EVANGELICAL

Services will be held as follows:

At 9:30 a. m. Bible school. Classes for all ages.

At 10:30 a. m. Divine worship and sermon by the pastor on, "The Voice in the Wilderness."

At 6:45 p. m. Young People's meeting with a good program by the young people.

At 7:30 p. m. Evening worship and sermon.

Choir will sing in each service.

The public is welcome in all of the services of this church.

SAINT PAUL EVANGELICAL

Sunday, Dec. 14

9:30 a. m. Bible school.

10:30 a. m. English morning worship, "God

Is Faithful."

2 p. m. Paganat rehearsal.

7:30 p. m. Evening service conducted by the Elmhurst College Gospel team. This service is sponsored by the Young People's League.

Thursday, Dec. 15

8 p. m. Christmas party of the Gleaner's Club.

Installation of officers.

We extend a cordial welcome to our members and friends to attend these services.

HERMANN E. KOENIG, Th. M., Minister.

The Town Doctor

(The Doctor of Towns)

SAYS

ABOUT TWO YOUNG LADIES

Two young ladies are walking down the street in opposite directions. One has on silk hose, one cotton; but otherwise they are dressed the same.

A young man comes out of a drug store apothecary, or a barber shop if you prefer. At the same time a janitor comes out onto the street from several hours work in a basement. As the two men come into the street the two young ladies pass each other, directly in front of the one with the silk hose going south, the other with cotton hose north.

At which way does the young man look?

He looks at the janitor and which way does the janitor cast his glance? Answer to both questions, south.

And if either or both of these young ladies look upon which one of the young men will the husband casual observation? The one becoming that Linda was not in her

and was told at the same time that she had left the hotel by service elevator. But from the time at the taxi stand he learned that she had gone from the street five minutes before. She was not alone. The man watched her face carefully as he closed the door. Her companion looked at a dick, he said, plain clothes

starter was almost sure of

it. Perhaps the next chauffeur

he knew something.

He found himself in a taxi

driving carefully over icy streets.

The fellow seemed to know a lot. He understood from their silence that they knew more than he thought. He told the driver to follow the other cab in the direction, and knowing that

in moment of overtaking it meant turning to her and himself, he found himself thinking less of that

and more of the fact that she was not alone and the fact that he had not lost her. He was not alone and the fact that he had not lost her.

The cab careered, shivered and

still, halting in its chaos

the chauffeur spoke doubtfully

at the tube.

"Shall I go on, sir?"

"Go on."

Where? The night was a mass of gray streets, gray people, lamps

glowing against icy walls of rain.

There would be find her in that chaos? But he knew that he must and would, with the

certainty that love and waiting would be his. Presently she would be in his arms and that impossible part

of life would be no more.

Strange thoughts floated through his mind, opening and shutting

like the life of his past and the

hopeful nebulae of the future

that was to have been and the future that would be. He had followed will of the wisps. Yesterday

he had been a boy, worshipping

Mabel, clothed fantastically in such bodies as that of Converse. But today he was something else—not

more as he knew men, but a sort of power which, because he loved a woman, could save a path

for her through the waste places

where she was lost.

All that he had wanted existed

no longer, except wherein it concerned her. It was like the play of children, forgotten before a greater shame. He saw himself in her eyes, incomplete. She could put the aside because she believed him.

PARADE

By Evelyn Campbell

Wrote Service

(Copyright by Evelyn Campbell.)

CHAPTER XIV

"Don't You Remember?"

The girl in the costume gave him his belongings. She was a young thing and forgave the fact that Linda was not in her

and was told at the same time that she had left the hotel by

service elevator. But from the time at the taxi stand he learned

that she had gone from the street five minutes before. She

was not alone. The man watched

her face carefully as he closed

the door. Her companion looked

at a dick, he said, plain clothes

starter was almost sure of

it. Perhaps the next chauffeur

he knew something.

He found himself in a taxi

driving carefully over icy streets.

The fellow seemed to know a

lot. He understood from their silence that they knew more than he thought. He told the driver

to follow the other cab in the direction, and knowing that

in moment of overtaking it meant

turning to her and himself, he

found himself thinking less of that

and more of the fact that she

was not alone and the fact that he had not lost her. He was not alone and the fact that he had not lost her.

The cab careered, shivered and

still, halting in its chaos

the chauffeur spoke doubtfully

at the tube.

"Shall I go on, sir?"

"Go on."

Where? The night was a mass

of gray streets, gray people, lamps

glowing against icy walls of rain.

There would be find her in that

chaos? But he knew

that he must and would, with the

certainty that love and waiting

would be his. Presently she would be in his arms and that impossible part

of life would be no more.

Strange thoughts floated through

his mind, opening and shutting

like the life of his past and the

hopeful nebulae of the future

that was to have been and the future that would be. He had followed will of the wisps. Yesterday

he had been a boy, worshipping

Mabel, clothed fantastically in such

bodies as that of Converse. But

today he was something else—not

more as he knew men, but a sort of power which, because he loved a

woman, could save a path

for her through the waste places

where she was lost.

All that he had wanted existed

no longer, except wherein it concerned her. It was like the play

of children, forgotten before a greater shame. He saw himself in her eyes, incomplete. She could put

the aside because she believed him.

The cab careered, shivered and

still, halting in its chaos

the chauffeur spoke doubtfully

at the tube.

"Shall I go on, sir?"

"Go on."

Where? The night was a mass

of gray streets, gray people, lamps

glowing against icy walls of rain.

There would be find her in that

chaos? But he knew

that he must and would, with the

certainty that love and waiting

would be his. Presently she would be in his arms and that impossible part

of life would be no more.

Strange thoughts floated through

his mind, opening and shutting

like the life of his past and the

hopeful nebulae of the future

that was to have been and the future that would be. He had followed will of the wisps. Yesterday

he had been a boy, worshipping

Mabel, clothed fantastically in such

bodies as that of Converse. But

today he was something else—not

more as he knew men, but a sort of power which, because he loved a

woman, could save a path

for her through the waste places

where she was lost.

All that he had wanted existed

no longer, except wherein it concerned her. It was like the play

of children, forgotten before a greater shame. He saw himself in her eyes, incomplete. She could put

the aside because she believed him.

THE TIMES TALKIES
Day a Reporter Photographer, Studio, Questions and Pictures

The DAILY TIMES pays $2 for each question submitted and sends questions to Times Talkies, 15 S. Market St.

THE QUESTION
What makes laundry is the greatest boon to the housewife?
(Submitted by Mrs. J. H. Hartman, 211 S. 1st