LAKE ZURICH REVIEW

Member of Byrd Expedition Talks at Ela High School

News Activities of Ela Township High School Compiled by Students

A. Walker Perkins of Wisconsin one of the men who accompanied Admiral Richard E. Byrd to the South Pole a few years ago was presented in an interesting lecture at the Ela High school auditorium on Thursday, Feb. 16.

Mr. Perkins' speech covered the entire trip from the time the ship left New York harbor until its return to the South Pole. He described the interesting experiences in that desolate ice-covered country. He described the colony of "Little America" which was set up by Byrd's men.

The lecture was sponsored by the Lake Zurich Community Women's club.

Station BUNK on the Air

The local radio station Farmers of America club gave a special broadcast of the station of BUNK at the general assembly on February 7.

The radio station of Grange Mutual National was present.

The station was entertained by the speeches on showing guns by John Haar, gun and sangars by Lloyd V. Wright.

The Baron, who was Fritz Gratz, told the audience his experiences of "Setting a Hen."

Ed. W. Glendy Britton was the highlight of the performances.

The doctor's talk was brief but to the point.

The music during the program was an amateur solo by Harold Gratz, and a song sing by the entire club.

Class Chatter

The foods class have made some vegetable dishes and have learned how to cheese soups properly be cooked. They have decided that it would be well to serve cheese dishes more frequently as there is a great variety of cheese than meat, and it should be served as a substitute for meat.

The English class is studying Shakespeare's well known play, Julius Caesar.

The sophomores are studying American Literature very diligently.

Members of the senior class held a meeting to discuss the question of what they will have on their invitation cards. They did not decide whether or not they wanted individual pictures of one of the whole class. This subject is to be discussed in the next meeting.

Democrats Will Place Candidate in Judicial Race

John O'Keefe, Lake county democratic state senator, said this week that candidates of Lake, McHenry, Kane and Winnebago counties may place a man in the field for the office of circuit judge.

He said, however, county attorney in McHenry county, stated that one of the probable candidates would be H. Carpenter, Crystal Lake attorney. Carpenter, he said, was capable and had the right qualifications.

On the republican side the candidates will be the three sitting judges, Ralph J. Doherty, Waukegan; Edward P. Murphy, of Menasha; and Arthur E. Packer of Rockford.

With the exception of Winnebago county, where the vote is small and the voters are few, the democrats consider the chances of winning theanship very favorable. They point out that their strength has increased each year since 1928 in the district.

Rep. Fred A. Rockwood, former state's attorney, could not be contacted without difficulty.

State Milk Control Would Be Vital to Dairy Farmers Through Lake County

Lake county would be affected by passage of a bill to be introduced by Frank McCarthy of Elgin to place a state and distribution under state control.

Mr. McCarthy declared that milk strikes that have disturbed the Chicago market may become more serious unless legislation is enacted to provide a more open market.

Legislators have begun an attack on legislation of the pure milk association which they say would be a newcomer from entering the business of selling milk to distributors. One bill would place distribution of milk under control of the Illinois Commerce commission. The other bill would require special license for importers of milk from states adjoining Illinois.

Introduce Bills to Reduce the Salaries of Judges

Bills by Rep. James T. Burns, Kanakakee, propose to reduce the present salaries of judges of the probate and circuit courts and civil service employees, city civil service and city election commissions. The bills are in keeping with Rep. Burns' economy program.

Barrington Woman's Club

The problem of our present economic situation and its demand for a single solution made the review of Glenn Frank's "Thunder and Dawn" by Mrs. Kirk Smith especially pertinent to the club. With slides, discussion and complete participation, Mrs. Smith presented a report of absorbing interest to the well-attended study class in the meeting.

Being one of the most recent books in this particular field, "Thunder and Dawn" is not discontinued. The author's early predictions were correct, the president of the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Frank J. Gilman, said. "It is to be considered that the University of Wisconsin's sole purpose is to consider the raw materials of social research that are available, bring about in its members an understanding of the need for adequate leadership to bring them together and to make them interested in their problem to produce what will happen. It attempts only to suggest what may happen." The author considers these ideas for the future: (1) the idea of a New Deal; (2) the idea of a New Nationalization; (3) the idea of a new industrialization; (4) the idea of a new religion; (5) the idea of a re-education; (6) the idea of a new leadership.

Our Western education has educated men for leadership, not for men. We need less specialization and more general education for social leadership.

The religious movement is concerned in the idea of a new reformation. Jesus wiped out racial differences through love. We must do the same through love. We must have a spiritual leadership.

Both love and knowledge are essential to the life of a complete individual, and to the social order of civilization. Religious leadership might play a productive role in reducing the race tensions that harass the West. In its attitude toward war, America is unique. We must not be afraid of war.

The evolution of the machine age has run fast and reached farther in the United States than in any other country. The machine age has brought about a new civilization. The machine age is here to stay. In spite of Europe's objections, the West will be American. The machine, according to the author, will deal with the mastery of the Pacific. Japan is but the first

SMALLER LEGISLATURES

Why not smaller legislatures to reduce the cost of government? These are days when our thoughts run to retrenchment and economy, and it would seem that this might well extend itself to include a reduction in representation in the legislature itself. That such an effort would meet with immediate realization, is hardly likely, for representatives willing to legislate themselves out of office, or constituencies willing to cut down their representation would be something new in the annals of officialdom.

Representation is the only argument against such a movement, as we see it, and it would seem that such an argument might readily be overcome, if a fair and honest redistricting, cutting down the number of legislative districts, was presented to the people for their consideration and action.

Each reapportionment has shown population changes which have made a redistribution of representation seem logical, and has resulted in an increase rather than a decrease in representation. We are firmly convinced that every such increase in the legislative body has tended to make it more unwieldy and less able to function smoothly and in a minimum of time, to say nothing of the increased cost to the people of such increased representation. Now, when the watchword is economy and a reduction of public expenditures, and consequent lowering of taxes, it should be a good time for agitation for action to decrease the number of state senators and representatives. Such a movement might well be extended to the national house of representatives.—Press, Norfolk, Nebraska.

ROBBING PETER TO PAY PAUL

In your left-hand trousers pocket you have the sum of 50 dollars. In your right-hand pocket is another 50. For a period of time you spend entirely from the left pocket, until the 50 suffers alarming depreciation. Then you begin spending from the right pocket. Would you consider this economy and reduction of expenses? You certainly would not. It is important whether the dollar comes from one pocket or another, whether your left hand or your right hand passes it out.

But, when tax commissions and politicians announce a program of tax reduction, it usually does precisely what has been described above.

It takes a dollar off the property tax and puts another dollar on the income tax. It shifts burdens from an inheritance tax to a sales tax. It discovers intangible taxes—supposed to lower some other tax, but increases the total volume of tax money taken from individuals and industry. And so it goes.

The average tax reduction program is a farce and misrepresentation. It robs Peter to pay Paul. It does not recognize the fact that there is but one way to lower taxes—to spend less money.

Keep the pocket illustration in mind next time you public officials announce an economy drive. See if they actually do lower the cost of running the government, or simply dip into your other pocket. Then act accordingly.—Camden Times, East Camden, N. J.

SELF SERVICE

Many good folk are lamenting the passing of the era when men and women consecrated their lives to unselfish service and prepared themselves to become ministers, teachers, missionaries or country doctors that they might administer to the spiritual, mental and physical needs of humanity without thought of large worldly gain. They are not in error when they charge that modern men and women are choosing vocations today in which they can do the greatest service to themselves.

People of today are coming to the belief that the best way they can help others is to produce much that their profits shall be large and that they shall never become dependent upon society. The old idea of service was direct. The new service is indirect. Twenty years ago it was still thought that only ministers, doctors and teachers served humanity. Today every workman who carries his whole day's wage home is known to have earned that wage in service to society.

Elbert Hubbard's version of the Golden Rule was "Do unto others as though you were the others," but even more up to date version is "Do yourself much good and no bad to others." Getting something for yourself is reprehensible only when it is obtained at the expense of another.—News, Austin, Minn.

The hardest part of making good is doing it all over again every day.

Fortune does not smile on those who wait. It laughs at them.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

By National Editorial Association
(Special to The Review)

WITHIN EIGHT MINUTES after taking the oath of office next Saturday, President-elect Roosevelt is expected to broadly define his program.

The details of the "new deal" will necessarily await his first message to the new Congress, presumably about April 15. Inaugural addresses are usually nothing more than a revamping of campaign promises and a restatement of the party principles which won the electorate. No matter what a power a friendly congress gives him as a virtual dictator, Mr. Roosevelt has made it clear that he wants to be held responsible for his actions.

He has made it clear that he wants to be held responsible for his actions.

the machine economy will continue throughout our lifetime, and we must face the problem of living with our machine. As we have seen, our culture, it will decentralize industry, distribute wealth widely, bring leisure to all, stabilize agriculture, complete the revolution in our industries, and evolve a new beauty. The machine economy is a tool of emancipation that Western man has not mastered the wit to use wisely.

The present depression has involved the entire world, and has reached all lines of work. Our international ship has not been good. There has been lack of balance between consumption and production. Machine economy must see that the consumer must have a job with which to enjoy the products the machine economy creates. The key to better business is a wider distribution of wealth. If America does not realize a fair and more fruitful future, and that soon, it will be either because we have lost our leadership in culture, or in industrial leadership or because people, in a moment of leaderless confusion, financially follow some false prophet.
