Spread of Rabies Among Zions Dogs Checked by Health Officer and Owners

A spread of rabies among dogs in Zion was checked by the health officer, Dr. J. H. Harkness, who is in charge of the state veterinarian department at Springfield. He was called to the community by Mr. E. J. Harkness, who is a professional animal doctor and who has been called to the city since any animal showed the first signs of sickness.

Several dog owners noticed earlier this week that their pets acted abnormally. They took the initiative in the present case to check any possible spread of rabies and several citizens reported to police asking that their dogs be shot. Mayor Harkness reported today that nine dogs were shot this week.

At the first signs of sickness in dogs the owners were not aware that there was any indication of the rabies disease.

Where do you get more Comfort or Convenience?

Electricity is a busy servant. It sweeps carpets, washes and irons clothes, helps with the cooking. It's on the job day and night with no afternoons off.

Electricity is an iceman. It keeps a refrigerator safely chilled below the danger point. It delivers trays of sparkling ice cubes.

Electricity is a master entertainer. It brings the finest grand opera and comedy, dance music and the news of the world into the living room.

Electricity is a light-maker and an interior decorator. It illuminates dimly or brightly according to the mood—one room or a whole house according to the occasion.

Electricity is a seamstress, a janitor, a personal maid, a nurse....

In half a score of roles, electricity is making your home more cheerful, more comfortable, more carefree. Plug in an extension cord or snap a switch and it's ready to answer orders.

Behind these outlets and switches is a vast and complicated system of service. Tons of crushed coal are fed into furnaces to keep boilers steaming. Machinery is humming. Men are constantly on watch. Out along the lines more men are on duty to keep miles of copper wire, buried underground and swinging overhead, pulsing with current every minute. More than 3,000 employees are working throughout this system to bring you continuous 24-hour service.

And yet, for all this service, you pay very little. The bill for all the electricity used amounts to only a small portion of the family budget. Where else could you possibly get more comfort or convenience?

Lions Consider Issue of Scrip for Use Locally

A new automobile company has been opened at 117 North Cook street under the name of Henry Motor Co. The company is the authorized dealer for Ford automobiles, trucks, touring cars, etc., succeeding the Hoffman and Winn company which was located on South Cook street. Hoffman and Winn discontinued business late in February after having conducted the Ford agency in Barrington for three years.

The location at 117 North Cook street, which is owned by Schaeble Brothers and Collins, was formerly used by that company for repair work. That company is now conducting its repair department in the main building.

An announcement of the opening of the Henry Motor Co. is included on another page of this issue of the Review.

Arrests 3 Cottage Bandits

Deputies said Holmgren invited the Chicagoans out to aid him.

The caretaker reported that he had heard some one in the house about 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

He entered the house to make an investigation, and was fired on. The burglars fled and the caretaker immediately called the sheriff.

The house was ransacked and furniture strewn about by the burglars who already had placed 5 shotguns in a pile as part of the intended loot.

The interruption prevented them taking anything, the caretaker believes.

Rep. R. G. Soderstrom's five-day work bill will be given a hearing before the house industrial affairs committee March 14, and opponents will be heard a week later.

Spelling of "Hare-Brained"

The original and correct form of the word is "hare-brained." It means slightly, slightly or reckless and refers to the characteristics of a hare. "Mad as a March hare" has somewhat similar origin.

A wild, headless, foolish, volatile or giddy person is said to be hare-brained because he has or shows no more brains or sense than a hare or rabbit. The word is sometimes incorrectly written "hair-brained," even by reputable writers, and that spelling, which began to occur before the year 1900, has led many to seek a different origin of the term.

Writer Has Some Doubt About Weather Control

A scientist thinks that weather eventually may be controlled by electricity. We contemplate with awe the bringing on of a thunderstorm by the pressing of a button. Will powerful stream warn the people of the storm's approach so they will stop the superfluous watering of their lawns and shut the north-west windows? For we do not suppose that the electrical rainmakers will so far defy established natural laws as to bring rainstorms from unlearned directions.

The rains should be quite orderly and never frenzied. Huskin said: "As men do not walk on their heads, there are natural laws that clouds do not disobey." We have always thought that man would, one of these days, determine when rain should fall and when it shouldn't, and electrical control may be the secret. But we have profound doubts of his being able to do a thing when a Gulf of Mexico hurricane comes along shore.—F. H. Collier in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Party at High School Is Dedicated to New President of Nation

A large gathering honored the nation's new chief executive at an inaugural party in the gymnasium Saturday evening. The center of attention was a fine portrait of the new president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, placed under a canopy of flags, illuminated by a spot light.

The group was basically a cross-section of Barrington citizens. The occasion was sponsored by the parents of the senior class of 50 members. They were hosts to the class of '33, to the invited guests, their teachers, and the members of the board of education.

Dancing was the popular amusement for the younger guests. The lateness were arranged with card tables for bridge, pinocle, Jass, and puzzles, etc.

The following program was offered: Singing of America. Piano solo—Miss Esther Strouse. Remarks by Emma S. Smith, superintendent of schools. Class song—Senior class. This was followed by the grand march led by the officers, William H. Boersma, president of the senior class and Robert Buckley, president of the student council.

After the march the class went into a hall from which issued a rousing and enthusiastic and hearty cheer for the parents.

The interest was later transferred to a perfectly appointed table decorated with candles, bright flowers of spring and beautiful silver service flanked by a tempting assortment of food.

Babies in Japan Must Not Cry, No Fear

Few persons have ever seen a little Japanese in tears. Because in Japan the children are taught from earliest infancy not to cry.

They are schooled to bear pain, disappointment and all the other little troubles that sometimes reduce western children to tears, with courage and fortitude.

One often sees little Japanese boys standing before their elders with straddled legs and unblinking eyes, while words are sent whistling past their noses.

Again and again the words come rushing down, but the little boy never moves—always there is a faint smile on his lips, a smile that says: "This is the way to face danger!"

Again, all Japanese children are poets. This is no idle statement, and a recognized fact, and travelers report that, although they have visited villages in Japan where the inhabitants are too poor to offer the visitor a cup of tea, they are all able to write poems to their gods and their shipmates.

The children of Japan are always happy, not because they are rich, well-fed, or live in nice homes, but because they are taught from the very beginning to look on the sunny side of life and to fear neither man nor beast.—Detroit Herald.

Gladstone Knew Homer: He Had Memorized Poems

It has been stated that Gladstone was not a great Homer scholar. This depends on what scholarship means (asserts a correspondent). If to know the poems nearly by heart makes a Homer scholar—you could give him a little more and he could go on without the book to the bottom of the page—he certainly did know the little bits on the other hand, and as already indicated in the earlier paragraph, his surmises and deductions were sooted off by previous scholars. Dean Labell, of the bottom, in a letter to his son, poured scorn on Gladstone's Homer lecture at the Oxford Union in 1898, and a great scholar and wit of the time crystallized the orthodox point of view in the epigram, "He has memorized the bottom of the book, but he has no real for one in which he has few interiors."—Montreal Herald.

The Castle of Normandy

Less than half a century after the battle of Hastings, Normandy was the center of a vast Anglo-Norman kingdom which stretched from Scotland to the Pyrenees. Those were the days when men felt more secure inside castle walls than outside. The Normans, with their great fortifications, were everywhere, to which the modern tourist makes trails today. ## Thunderstorm Rays

Two South African scientists claim to have discovered evidence that thunderstorms give off rays of great penetrative force. They caught these rays in a Geiger-Muller counter, the same instrument now widely used to count or register cosmic rays. While they did not know definitely what kind of rays they caught, they believe them to have been generated by lightning. They suggest that the rays may be migratory electrons or particles of electricity shot upward from storms. Such rays were registered only 20 to 30 miles from the storm. Directly under the storm there were no rays.—Pathfinder.

New Song

Junior had been in school only a few weeks, and each evening his mother asked him what he had learned that day. One evening when asked the usual question, he answered: "We learned a song about a fox today."

"A song about a fox?" queried his mother. "Can you sing it for me?"

"No, no, no, no, in, in, in," sang Junior lustily.
