HOW SHE LOST 18 POUNDS OF FAT

FOR LESS THAN $1.00

Is your SPARE ROOM ready?

IT'S GOING to be a busy summer for guest rooms! Company's coming. Relatives and old friends will be traveling hundreds of miles to Chicago for the Century of Progress Exposition. Surely you'll want them to spend a few days with you before they go back.

How does your spare room look? Is it ready for guests? We know it's spic-and-span clean, of course. But is it as cheerful and homey as you'd like it?

If it's just a little on the drab side, we suggest new lamps. Nothing brightens up a room with friendly charm the way lamps do. Put one on the bedside table, perhaps a twin set on the dresser, a junior floor lamp beside the easy chair—and see the wonderful difference they make!

These lamps needn't be expensive. Displays now featured at your local lamp dealers and at your Public Service Store include many good-looking models priced under $5. You'll find some unusual values in lighting fixtures, too, if your present fixtures look more like 1893 than 1933.

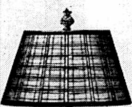

Electrical helpers like a vacuum cleaner, a washing machine, an automatic ironer and a food mixer will make it much easier for you to keep your household running smoothly when company comes. They let you speed through your chores without tiring yourself out. They're economical, too. A penny or two an hour is all they cost to operate.

NOW FEATURED AT YOUR PUBLIC SERVICE STORE:

$2.45

A bridge lamp finished in bronze. With stretched rayon shade, only $2.45. With parchment shade, $1.95.

$3.75

Fine Display of Mineral Wealth at State House

A very fine exhibit of the mineral wealth of the state of Illinois has been on exhibit on the main floor of the state house for several days. The exhibit shows the different kinds of minerals that are found in our state. It was under the direction of Edward J. Hughes, secretary of state, and attracted a great deal of attention. The exhibit was obtained through the cooperation of the Illinois Coal Operators' association, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce and other organizations. Many people who visited the exhibit were astonished at the wonderful mineral resources of Illinois.

Historical Sketch of Turkey

Turkey, now reduced in size to about 175,000 square miles, comprises a portion of Turkey adjacent to Constantinople and is now mainly confined to Asia Minor. Agriculture is primitive, but the soil, where cultivable, is fertile and produces considerable crops of wheat, barley, cotton, nuts, tobacco, figs, olives, grapes and other fruits. About 1,500 miles of railways are in operation. The so-called Bagdad railway extends from the Bosphorus via Adana and Aleppo to Nisibin. Constantinople is the capital; Smyrna, an important seaport; Bursa, the ancient capital and center of silk manufacture; Sivas, a mining center; Angora, the provisional capital.

Use of Liberty Cap

The origin and significance of the Liberty cap, seen on some seals, coins, etc., is as follows: In early Roman times, only freemen were permitted to wear caps. When a slave was manumitted, a small cap, usually of red felt, was placed on his head, and his name was registered on the city records. Several Roman commanders looted such caps on spoils to indicate that all slaves on the city records should be free; and when Caesar was murdered, the conspirators snatched forth in a body, with a cap elevated on a spear, in token of liberty. In the French revolution, the liberty cap was adopted by the revolutionists as a badge of their freedom.

First Town Lights

The first city in the United States to have lighted streets was New York, says the Wall Street Journal. Its city council in 1697 passed an ordinance requiring that "very seventh hours in this city do every night in the dark time until the twenty-fifth day of March next a lantern or candle to be hung out on a pole." This was a primitive lighting system, but it continued in use for more than sixty years. Oil lamps for street lighting in New York city were abandoned in 1853 when gas became available and pipes were laid to supply this "magical illuminating fuel."

Picture-Taking at Sea

When at sea with a camera, says an authority on that subject, the first point to remember is the exposure. There is more light on the ocean than one is accustomed to ashore. When the sun is vigorous 1-25 second at 1/10 is usually correct. The yellow filter is important, in fact, quite essential if white clouds against the blue expanse are to be preserved.

Clouds, says the artist, lend character to the picture.

Beautiful sunset, framed ones with dark outlines tops can be photographed at sunset without benefit of filter. For the clouds are then drenched with reds, oranges, and grays—colors that register accurately enough on the "naked" film.

Wanted to Be Sure

A young bride decided to cook a lobster as a surprise for her husband. She had been warned that the crustacean must be strictly fresh to be its best.

Stopping at a fish market, she asked:

"Have you any fresh lobsters?"

"Here are the live ones," responded the clerk, pointing to a case in which live lobsters were moving about.

"But are you sure they're fresh?" persisted the bride.

The Kaiser's Exile

The former Kaiser of Germany fled as a fugitive to Holland on the eve of the signing of the armistice, and a day after he had abdicated his throne. He crossed the Dutch frontier in an automobile and went to the home of Count Benckendorff at Amersfoort, near the town of Arnhem, where he remained for more than a year. In the meantime he had purchased an estate at Doorn, near Utrecht, and was later joined by his wife and a retinue of servants.
