Pocklington and Obee Are Asked to Resign Jobs

Two prominent Lake county poor-sponsors, William Obee of Hickory Park and William Pocklington of Beach, postmasters of Deerfield and Benton townships respectively, have been asked to resign their positions. Both of them have declared they will fight the ouster proceedings.

Obee became the target of criticism following an audit of his accounts in which he was accused of accepting excessive fees, allowing double payments, and playing favorites with certain merchants with whom he was extending time money.

Pocklington got into the tight spot early in May when he disappeared from his home, was gone several days and then returned reporting he had been kidnapped, snatched and robbed of $2000.

Both men have had trouble in providing sufficient bonds.

Pocklington induced Mrs. Bertha Bond of South Genoa street, Waukegan, a neptress and the mother of the once notorious police character, Harry Bond, to sign the bond. She scheduled 12 lots in North Chicago, two with dwellings and two on Market street with one dwelling as security on the bond.

Winners in 1932 Yard and Garden Contest

H. W. REESE HOME—FIRST PRIZE WINNER

Big Expense Not Necessary, 1932 Winners Proved

With Saturday the final entry day for the 1932 yard and garden contest, home owners might be interested in looking back a year to recall the three homes winning the major prizes last year and the reasons for their success.

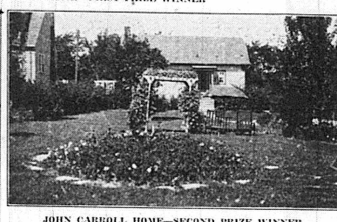

The prize winning homes last year were the Herman W. Reese home, 244 North avenue; John J. Carroll home, 617 Summit street; and the Helen G. Plagge home, 545 Grove avenue.

Although the judges took into consideration the general appearance of the homes, it was evident after an examination of the prize winners and honorable mention homes, that individuality and care of the homes by the owners and renters themselves, determined the winners of merits and prizes.

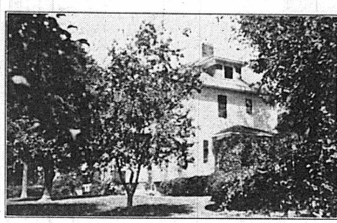

Nearly all homes to "break into" the winners list, were homes in which plenty of recreational work was done to the home owners and members of their families. No home gained many merit points by the expenditure of a large sum of money. One of the leading homes had an exceptionally fine vegetable garden, another beautiful flower garden, and the third an exceptional orchard of fruit and shrubs.

All of the winners as well as all of the honorable mention homes had good, well kept lawns. This was a coincidence but rather a result of the fact that a well kept lawn is essential to a beautiful home.

The entry list this year is small, much smaller than it was in 1932. This would suggest that it will be a little easier to win a prize. However, a home must be considered in regard to the merit points it is given for a prize. The original value of the home will not be taken into consideration. The condition of paint and ever, a home must be considered in regard to the merit points it is given for a prize. The original value of the home will not be taken into consideration. The condition of paint and degree to which the home is in good repair will probably determine a few points in the final summing. The big deciding factors will be the back yard, garden, and front lawn.

The new fort, however, was soon lost to the French, who took it without a struggle with a small force led by de Trojes in 1683. As the English garrison believed the old place is beginning to feel a sort of pride in being so much like a regular big city.

Two French soldiers succeeded, consequently, in sealing the palisades under cover of darkness and opened the gate. The old fort has remained unchanged in the last 100 years. The factor's house is over 180 years old, while the fort, still intact, was built nearly 200 years ago.

The same 15-pound guns which were used so unsuccessfully in the fight against the Trojes' expedition in 1683 are still fired every year when the ice goes out. The blacksmith shop is believed to be the old building in Ontario.

The little church at Moose Factory has holes bored in the floor for use in case of floods. In dry seasons these holes are plugged, but when in times of flood the water rises sufficiently to enter the church the plugs are pulled out so that the building will not drift away—National Revenue Review of Canada.

The even division of wealth throughout a country actually has been tried. About 800 A. D. King Manti Tsung of Tibet distributed all the wealth in his kingdom three different times, giving everyone an equal share. But each time the clever men soon owned it all—Collier's.

Avoiding Contamination The fashionable European restaurant is constantly on guard in "dressing" the room. A money lender or the head of a dressmaking establishment is always given a table on the side lest a man or woman in a dress finds himself or herself dining in close proximity to a man to whom money is owed.

Many New Beer Licenses Issued in Cook County

Don Sullivan, administrative auditor, in speaking of the collection being received for the state beer tax, said: "Licenses are being issued in Cook county at the rate of 200 per day and down state at the rate of 60 per day. This will be greatly increased in the near future."

"Receipts for state license are being given applicants residing where there are no license laws. These will be exchanged for licenses when the local authorities have been passed."

Civil War Finances The British government did not finance either side during the Civil war, though both sides sold bonds in Britain and other foreign countries. The Confederates had hoped to finance their operations through the sale of cotton, but the blockade interfered with this plan. British subscribers to the Emancipation bonds for the Confederacy in 1862 lost millions of dollars. Dewey's Financial History of the United States stated that while the war lasted, but little foreign capital was transferred to the United States, but when peace was established European funds were rapidly turned westward and government bonds were sold abroad in large quantities until the agitation began for the payment of bonds in currency instead of gold.

Orchardist Turns Clerk The practice of keeping individual records of production, long common among successful stock raisers, has spread now to the orchardist and the individual trees in fruit orchards are being checked for their productivity. By this means the orchardist is able to determine which trees are yielding a paying crop each year, which ones are not making a profit and which should be eliminated to make room for new trees of better variety. Some orchardists even go to the extreme of keeping tabs on individual branches of the trees which yield best, but on others and those branches are used as a source of grafting in the production of new stock—Washington Star.

Births Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilson of Dundas avenue are the parents of a daughter, Joyce Elaine, born May 10 at the local hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lowmyer, 404 E. Hillside avenue, are the parents of a son, Robert Anthony, born May 12 at the Barrington General hospital.

CARELESS LEGISLATION

Within the last two years Illinois legislatures have enacted four laws which evidently were not thoroughly studied and reviewed in advance, because two of them later were thrown out by the supreme court as unconstitutional and two were found to have glaring loop-holes which resulted in a great deal of inconvenience and expense and one of them in actual suffering.

The distinction of the Wagner construction bill carrying public works construction and industrial control has created a sensation in Congress. The measure was designed to give the president power to overcome the opposition of the house labor committee which persisted in fostering legislation objectionable to the Roosevelt administration. The surface of the bill was a Federal Labor and the railway brotherhood, two rival union groups, were fighting for the bill. At this time, the railroad workers' organization has held the whip hand. A modification of the bill to apply on certain commodities not already heavily taxed may be voted as a means of securing the bill's passage. The Wagner bill is a measure to make the Wagner proposal effective. Complications as to the administration of this bill, and legislative plan are inevitable especially the feature dealing with trade unions.

James P. Farley, postmaster general, and dispenser of patronage for the victorious democrats, is being especially abused as a business man and politician. Storms have been breaking over his head for weeks because of his alleged policy which calls for the payment of debts incurred in the presidential campaign before a major portion of the "spoils of victory" are given out to the deserving demagogue. The defeat of the democratic nation by the committee on March 4 was about $800,000. The states have been assigned their quota and each state's assignments are paid patronage will be distributed. Mr. Farley has made it clear that he does not intend to be burdened with an enormous debt, and it must be paid before party workers and their way to the government payroll.

DRY LAW REPEAL IS NOT ENOUGH

Unless all the signs are wrong, the prohibition amendment is on the way out.

And while this will be the cue for most of us to rejoice or to weep, depending on our individual attitudes it would be a very fine thing if we sat down quietly, while there is still time, and figured out just what is going to come next.

We have set our faces toward repeal, apparently, and we have done it because the prohibition amendment hasn't worked out nearly as well as we expected it would.

In trying to abolish one set of abuses we saddled ourselves with a new set, and it begins to look as if we aren't going to put up with this new set very much longer.

But while we're getting rid of them, we want to make perfectly sure that we don't revive the old set.

The old-time saloon wasn't a great deal like the speakeasy, but it created evils just as real as those which the speakeasy has created.

It made a sore spot in the neighborhood which women actually feared to pass.

It periodically disgorged frowsy drunks in such a way that it was unwise for women to appear unescorted on the streets at night.

It was a festering breeding spot for rotten politics. Now there is no sense in our forgetting those facts and pretending that anything at all will be better than the present era of bootleggers, rum runners, crooked officials and shady speakeasies.

We ought to be intelligent enough to find a system that would do away with the evils of the present regime without restoring the evils of the past.

We shouldn't do it if we try to kid ourselves into thinking that the evils of the past really didn't amount to much.

Finding the right solution is going to take a lot of earnest thinking.

We'd better start thinking right now; and, in the process, we want to remember that we have two entirely distinct sets of abuses to correct, and not just one.—Daily News, Tucuman, New Mexico.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

By National Editorial Association
(Special To This Review)

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Now that inflation has been attributed to the discretion of the president, there is no longer the feverish anxiety as to congressional action. Instead attention is riveted on current proposals for what is generally regarded as governmental control over production and working conditions. The pending measures are actually combinations of the radical and conservative groups—the best that can be obtained under existing economic conditions. There is an aspect to the inflationary plan which provokes concern—the strong probability of wild speculation in commodities and securities. It is a problem of the first water to stimulate industrial recovery and employment and at the same time curb the profiteering and gambling inherent in the situation. Some concern is felt as to the effect on wheat when wages drop far behind the rising costs of living.

The distinction of the Wagner construction bill carrying public works construction and industrial control has created a sensation in Congress. The measure was designed to give the president power to overcome the opposition of the house labor committee which persisted in fostering legislation objectionable to the Roosevelt administration. Wandering From This to That

Illinois Quail Farm

By Pres. Illinois Press Assoc.

Located in the northwest section of the state fairgrounds in Springfield, on a beautiful plot of ground that was used as a dump heap, is the state quail farm, one of the show places of modern Illinois.

The farm has 150 pairs of laying birds with a cock and hen in each pen. The pens are of the latest design. The birds are fed clabber milk in addition to their grain diet during the laying season, and all seem healthy and contented.

The big electric incinerator, built in 1909, has a capacity of 100 tons of refuse. It takes from 22 to 24 hours for each batch. The farm expects to ship 10,000 quail to the different parts of the state during the coming season. Last year the birds were shipped. The eggs show a fertility of 75 to 80 per cent; the highest average being 90 per cent for last year.

One of the interesting sights at the farm are the 150 electric brooders, where the birds are reared. The brooders are kept at a temperature of from 86 to 88 degrees at the start. This is gradually reduced as the birds grow older, or until they are ready for the farm. The birds are fed clabber milk in addition to their grain diet during the laying season, and all seem healthy and contented.

The farm is a beautiful sight at this time of the year, with all the buildings painted white and surrounded by a carpet of green grass and shrubbery of every kind. Along the southwest side of the farm are many trees and shrubs which make a haven for the many birds that infest that part of the farm.

The state also has another quail farm, located near Mr. Vernon, and consists of a tract of 500 acres of land. The farm is a beautiful sight at this time of the year, with all the buildings painted white and surrounded by a carpet of green grass and shrubbery of every kind.

Woodin Music

The new secretary of treasury, William H. Woodin, is a composer of considerable versatility in addition to her other talents. From his prolific musical pen have flowed compositions ranging from children's songs to the "Franklin Delano Roosevelt March," played at the inaugural ball. He wrote the music for the "Hagley Ann" songs and two short songs given on a single disc, under the titles, "Tartar Dance," and "Lament."

Head Lady Preserves

Under the hands of our new first lady, the spotlight has shifted from the woman business to the woman in the home. In the white house, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is exploring the world with her husband. Mrs. Eugene Talmadge, wife of the governor of Georgia, has just been revealed as being one of the best cooks in the south. Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the secretary of agriculture, makes her own jams and jellies, the papers reported recently. And engaged in the same art, during the summer will be some 200,000 other housewives. Because fruits are cheap and plentiful this year—the strawberry acreage alone is five per cent greater this year than last according to the department of agriculture—the popular methods of "putting up" fruits have changed and jelly making from the dryers it was in our grandmothers' time to a simple and pleasurable task.

Price Stands to Fair

Under a heavy armed guard and in an armored truck, the three central sculptured figures to be used in a life-sized reproduction of the well known painting "The Doctor," were moved Wednesday, May 17, from the artist's studio to the hall of science at the Chicago World fair.

The statues, valued by their owners in the higher brackets of six digit figures, have been created by two well known American artists—Paulding and Rudolph Ingelrie, following in the minimalist ideal the original effort of the Lake Placid, N. Y. artist, now hangs in the Tate Gallery, London.

In reproducing this well known painting, artists Paulding and Ingelrie, not only have made an exact copy of the original, but also have created a new medium of three-dimensional art expression for the purpose.

Reason for Over-Ruling Sales Tax "Unconstitutional"

The supreme court has declared the sales tax unconstitutional, because it was not uniform. Exemptions of farm products and motor fuel made the law, in the opinion of the court, not uniform. The opinion was concurred in by all members of the court with Justice Brandeis dissenting. The ruling of the supreme court, which was announced last week, is a blow to the state's revenue. Arlington Heights and Libertyville Favored in Track

Northwest Conference Meet Held at Palatine Track Thursday

This is the busy season for the spring sports at the local high school.

Thursday, May 18, the annual Northwest conference track and field meet was held at Palatine.

For the first time in years Arlington Heights has a chance to dislodge Libertyville from her position of track supremacy.

Barrington is not expected to score very heavily with her green team.

Ray Chassey should be good for a few points in the half mile.

A splendid race in the Lake county meet when he lacked only a second of breaking the meet record, playing second.

In the district meet at Elgin however he did not do so well and finished sixth in a big field.

Roscoe Rowland may get a second or third in the pole vault but a possible one or two points in a few other events will be all the Browns can "see" at present.

A dual meet with Palatine is scheduled for next week.

Various methods of producing a green color on copper or brass, apart from painting or lacquering, are given.

To produce on a copper statue a patina-like deposit, brush it over with a very dilute solution of copper nitrate, to which a little common salt solution has been added.

When entirely dry, it is brushed with a fluid composed of 100 parts water vinegar, five parts ammonia and one part caustic acid; repeat after drying. The green-brown color forms in about a week.

Dolls Once Objects of Fear; to Ward Off Evil

Dolls, now toys for little girls, once were objects of fear or hate.

They were used to terrify and cast spells upon rivals, enemies or unfortunate husbands.

After certain "magical" ceremonies, it was thought that whatever was then done to the dolls would be felt by the man or woman or child in command.

Sometimes the doll was placed before a fire and slowly allowed to melt.

As it melted, the howling person was supposed to die of fear.

According to Prof. Max von Steudtner, a distinguished German scholar, during the later Stone Age every family needed these dolls to keep off evil.

During excavations archeologists have found doll-shaped idols made from all sorts of material, from stone to terra cotta, tin, and bronze.

Some were cut out of sheet tin, and looked much like modern tin soldiers.

In early Asia and Egypt the souls of important people were filled with quite a population of doll figures.

These acted as substitutes for the usual wholesale human sacrifices. In other places, it was the custom for a bride to sacrifice her dolls to the goddess Diana just before the wedding.

Camele Are a Pest

A combination of circumstances seems to be working to the end of displacing the camel as a burden bearer of the desert, and the result is that thousands of these beasts are running wild, having been turned loose by their one-time owners who have no further use for them.

The animals have been multiplied until the country of Syria is overrun with them and the usual means of support as a pest.

In some parts of the country the agricultural people are compelled to spend much of their growing crops to prevent the droves of camels from devouring the grain.

The animals roam far and wide in search of food, which has been very scarce, owing to the drought of the recent summer.

Dieters Draw
Previous to the Seventeenth century, when, more or less, we know it, came into use, the day was carried off every man served all purposes—from eating to fighting. Men had their own ready way of settling their differences in those days; a quarrel usually meant a fight, and battles were crossed with a vengeance. Hence the expression, "At Dieters Draw." Even today many people still see in a harmless pug of crossed table knives the sign of a quarrel and bloodshed.

Small but Powerful Engine
A new kind of 12-cylinder engine is only 10 inches high, and therefore can be fitted beneath the floor of a motor car as a spare motor.

Stainless Steel Secret
The story of the discovery of stainless steel, a secret for several years, is not to be told for another three decades. Harry Brearley, discoverer of the process, has given the "cutlers company" of Sheffield a sealed envelope, authorizing the society not to open it until the cutlers' feast of 1930. The envelope contains the story of the discovery.

Longitude and Latitude
Longitude is the angle at the pole between two great circles drawn on the earth's surface, passing through the poles, and touching respectively the place whose longitude is in question and the place selected as the origin of longitude. Latitude is the angular distance of a place north or south of the equator.

Barrington Music Club Barrington Latest Organization

A new club known as the Barrington Music Club has recently been organized in Barrington by a group of persons interested in promoting study and appreciation of music.

After making the club the first step in the sponsoring of a concert by Miss Higgins, organ soloist, Mrs. Higgins has had a three hour rehearsal for an audience member and during the coming week will give the first of the series of music in Chicago.

The following officers have been elected: President, Marian Jurek; Vice-President, Kathryn Cox; Secretary, Kathryn Cox; Treasurer, J. H. Wilmann.

Recreation to membership has been limited to young men and women of high school age and over. Membership is not limited to those who play musical instruments, but rather to those who have attained high lights in the field of music.

Those who, from lack of time or money, are unable to attend, do not have opportunity to study music, yet are interested in it.

Meetings will be held once a month, time is spent studying, playing, and composing, and in the evening, recitals, etc.
