Conservation of
Fox River Valley
Beauty Is Sought

Representative Points Out
Unlimited Possibilities
for Beauty Spot

Acknowledging that the state does little in the field of conservation, the Fox River and the 51 Miles Stream through the valley, Elmer L. Miller, representative of the state, has suggested that the natural resources and beauty of the district can best be conserved by State Representative Richard J. Lyle. Mr. Miller introduced a resolution in the legislature.

The resolution provided for a committee of six, three to be named from the house and three from the senate, to be appointed to draw up a program for the conservation and beautification of the Fox River valley.

Such a committee in the legislature will be able to call upon all local resources and recommendations, together with any needed legislation in the 69th general assembly.

The Lyle resolution states a four-fold purpose:

1. That the Fox river valley region has unexplored possibilities for recreation, containing as it does 51 miles of streams and 100 acres of wooded land and evergreen beds of fame and beauty.

2. The opportunities for boating, hunting, fishing and swimming are unexplored.

3. It lies in close proximity to the metropolitan area of Chicago and is accessible by railroads, the roads of that area for vacation and recreation at present.

4. That the upland sources of this region are as yet unexplored and are necessary to the health and happiness of a large portion of the state's population.

4-H Club Report

On Wednesday night, May 17, the members of the 4-H club started their work by having a business talk. Rose White, a 4-H member, gave a good performance. Her guitar played "Dance of the Week." Milda Bauer played, "The Pixies Waltzing." Then we all sang "Sing for Your Club." We have decided on "The Little Women Club." The evening was concluded by patching.

More than 100 friends and beautiful flowers were received by the honored guests.

Mrs. Church, who has been ill since November, was unable to attend. She is planning to attend the dedication service at Barrington Center, May 30.

Forty-five years and Mrs. Church and her daughter were celebrated in service at the little white church in Barrington Center.

The following ten couples who were invited to the service will be honored at the Training class of Christian workers of the Salem church Friday afternoon. The class will begin Bible study at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo H. and Mrs. Charles H. H. Mattison, and Leona Keel, Mrs. Edith Wills of Elgin, and William Hendrickson and Mrs. Eva Perkins of Richmond.

Deacons Society Entertained

The Deacons members of the Baptist church were entertained at the home of Mrs. C. C. Schmitz, 522 Division street, Saturday afternoon. In the progressive games losers went to Mrs. Carrie Kendall, Mrs. Lyman Powers, and Mrs. Anna Ahrens.

Deacons' social evening, Mrs. Mary Hutchinson read. Donald Beaumont gave two violin numbers and Leona Keel played a piano solo, all of which were well received.

Worshipful Society. A social hour and dancing completed the pleasant occasion.

Mrs. Ruth Lilke Weds

Palatine Man

Mr. Ruth Lilke of Barrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Meyer, and Mrs. Ruth Lilke of Palatine, were married by Rev. G. L. Miller, pastor of the Lutheran congregation at Waukegan. Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock Miss Dorothea Schmitz was bride-maid and William Hendrickson was best man.

The bride dressed in a gown of royal blue lace wearing corsage of blue and silver. The dress was designed by Mrs. Ruth Lilke. The bride was dressed in a green lace blue crepe, also wearing a corsage of blue of the crepe.

The couple will make their home in Palatine where the bride is working.

WORK

No honorable substitute for work has yet been discovered. Every successful man owes his success to work. The early history of any successful enterprise begins with the word "work." Were everybody to stop working, the world would no longer produce and the people would die of hunger and exposure.

It would be fair to say that 80 per cent of all the people are workers. This 80 per cent represents the law-abiding honest and thrifty element. These people are busily employed working out their own destinies, and being busy, they become loyal citizens in the communities in which they dwell.

Among the remaining 20 per cent we find those who occupy their time in search of a substitute for work, such as thieving, forging, blackmailing, counterfeiting, robbery, smuggling, gambling and other illegal substitutes for work. To restrain this 20 per cent of the people from becoming greater in numbers or too successful in their endeavors, the 80 per cent are obliged to pay out millions for police protection, courts, prosecuting attorneys, detectives, judges, jails, prisons, orphan asylums and retreats.

Once in awhile one of the 20 per cent makes good for a short period and his success is alluring to others. Jesse James made good for some time and then stopped a bullet with his heart. Ponzi succeeded for a while and then went to prison. Pirates made good hauls until overhauled by revenue cutters. Political grafters live well until exposed. And so it goes with all those who endeavor to find a substitute for work.

John D. Rockefeller, Henry Ford and many other successful men started in at $2 a day, and not one of them would be he is today had not worked. A small hunch-backed lad, who had a difficult task getting into this country, worked his way up until he became the highest salaried mechanical engineer in the entire United States.

Looking for a substitute that will pay as well as work has been the ruin of many. It will never win any more than a slow horse wins the race. Work wins lasting victories, makes real men, builds homes, erects factories, and makes peaceful communities. Looking for a successful substitute is like prospecting for Captain Kidd's treasures—so many have tried it and failed that work still looks like the best bet for all of us.

CHEAP MOTORING INSURANCE

Of all humanity, motoring humanity is the strongest. Or perhaps it is just the motoring that brings out some of mankind's inconsistencies.

A man will buy a car which can make from 75 to 100 miles an hour. He will, at first anyway, pay great heed to its lubrication, its glossy finish and the speaklessness of its upholstery. With the safety of himself and his loved ones in mind, he will take out insurance covering property damage, liability and accident medical expenses. Then, overlooking the cheapest and most vital insurance of all, he will completely forget the brakes on his car and let them get into such condition that a serious accident is almost inevitable.

Some states are waking up to the fact that worn brake linings are one of the most prolific causes of our huge and needless automobile accident toll, and, after suitable inspections and warnings, are throwing into jail those motorists who still endanger themselves and others by continued brake neglect.

The cost of relining the brakes on a car is small and it takes only a few hours. Every motorist owes it to himself, his family and to other users of the highway to keep his brakes relined.

NOW IS THE TIME TO SPEND

The public has grown weary of the old slogan to the effect "Prizes are looming! Buy Now!" etc. But there is more reason for truth in those phrases at present than there has been in a long time.

Recently inflation activities and the change in the gold backing of the dollar, will be the most powerful price stimulant in three years. It really is time to buy now!

Best of all, by buying now, and making such purchases and improvements that you have been putting off, in the most dramatic stage of the war against unemployment and distress and at the same time secure the greatest return on your dollar in more than a generation.

A dollar spent for some improvement means a dollar touching the lives of a number of people.

It may be a long time before you will have the opportunity to get work done as cheaply as now. The price structure is abnormally low. It is lower than ever the intense depression justifies. As demand increases, the rate of climb will be sharply accelerated.

Remember too, that providing jobs is better than charity.

A tramp sign painter, jitneying through Tonkawa, Okla., won the admiration of the editor of the News by just one little idea he had painted on the side of his car. It read: "If it doesn't pay to advertise your business, then advertise it for sale."

BARRINGTON REVIEW, BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS, THURSDAY, MAY 25, 1933

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER

By National Editorial Association
(Special to The Review)

Washington, May 24—Relations of the press with Congress are comparable to the old days when a clever hand was needed at the reins to get the most out of a spirited and sometimes balky team of horses. Mr. Roosevelt is crowding opportunity to its utmost of possible achievements. As a good teamster he knows full well that the horse, with its heavier demands, requires a more skillful hand than the light carriage. Majorities with a steady majority in the more conservative Senate, the hope of democratic chieftains is that the administration wagon will go down the rough roads of legislation, but the teamster's job of driving, vaulting over horses, riding and jumping three horses while standing on them, jumping human hurdles and on the critical dangerous "Fence Jump" is one of the attractions.

Mounting, granitic, is one of the most daring, requires highly trained teams and starting character. The 17th group, the first unit group permanently stationed at Sibley Field, Mich., will take part in the annual demonstration.

A practical demonstration of how anti-aircraft units search on enemy planes with their $100,000,000 candlepower lights as the gunners will provide another thrilling moment.

Modern warfare, depicting the attack of the United States Army Corps of Engineers on the fortifications of the enemy, will be shown.

Modern relief hills carry pictures of extension of the president's powers at the expiration of the two-year term. Inquiry shows that the democratic majority will have a chance in having these powers extended. A student of colored fireworks, of distinguished men, historical incidents in fire and a display of aerial and mechanical effects fireworks will bring the army show to a conclusion.

Corn Planting Far Behind

Illinois corn planting is far behind, probably due to the weather. The 10th compared with two-thirds usually planted by that date, according to returns from a special survey made by the Illinois State Department of Agriculture. Less than one per cent of corn planting has been done in the state from the Illinois river to the Indiana line. Floods have delayed considerable planting.

Field work has made little or no progress, since May 1 due to almost two months of rain. The state average ranges from 11 to 13 days in the north to 24 to 26 days in the south. This seems to date very similar to that of 1929, when the planting season was one of the latest records. That year early fall planting was 100 per cent and corn yield per bushel was 31.5 bushels per acre, or 3.5 bushels below the 1929 average. An unusually large amount of planting remains to be done.

The condition of small grains and grasses in low areas is not as good as in most years. Corn is now so packed and ready that it will have to be plowed down.

The condition of small grains and grasses in low areas is not as good as in most years. Corn is now so packed and ready that it will have to be plowed down.

There are many considerable changes in the farm belt due to the possibility of double taxation, largely among the processors of farm products. The farm bill which reduces the tax on farm products for a license tax on farm products. However, there is some doubt that the president will enforce this provision, as it would be equivalent to boosting the tariff and the inflation between the various nations has been reached. A specific exemption is sought to exclude this clause from the farm bill, as it would affect the inheritance tax and revenue control—public works bill.

The side-shows here this week include the personal appearance of Justice Brandeis, Senator Morgan, before a Senate investigating committee and the dramatic court of impeachment in the Senate. The Senate is seeking to sustain the Federal Judge Harold Loughran, California from office for altered ethical conduct. It is the first public impeachment in 22 years. The Morgan trial is equivalent to the new crowded galleries as the senator quashed him on his banking practices. The bond and the new dictator of agriculture, N. P. Ladd, of the new associates, offers the Molson oil company. Pusey was also a member of Barron's industrial board. The motorist, who is the new director of the firm, will find every detail of his business and personal life in the columns of the Barrington Review.

Barney Barron was President Wilson's director of the war industries board, which he organized during those perilous days. The chairman of his side, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, taking over a similar post as administrator of war industries for two years. Perhaps it is a coincidence, but Johnson and the new dictator of agriculture, N. P. Ladd, are the new associates, offers the Molson oil company. Pusey was also a member of Barron's industrial board. The motorist, who is the new director of the firm, will find every detail of his business and personal life in the columns of the Barrington Review.

Wandering From This to That

Army Show at Soldiers Field

The United States Army Military Tournament at a Century of Progress exhibition at the Field of Dreams will be held Saturday, May 26, at 8:15 p.m. The army show will be presented in Soldiers Field every evening from that date until June 10 inclusive.

Several novel features have been added to this year's show. Indoors, with galleries, will be the Century of Progress exhibition by fast train or in his own car seven motor villages have already received the approval of the World's Fair officials, and are in operation when the exposition opens.

The tournament will open with an army show drill will be offered by the First Squadron 14th Cavalry. This drill, admittedly one of the most daring, requires highly trained troops and starting character.

The 17th group, the first unit group permanently stationed at Sibley Field, Mich., will take part in the annual demonstration.

A practical demonstration of how anti-aircraft units search on enemy planes with their $100,000,000 candlepower lights as the gunners will provide another thrilling moment.

The plans for motorist visitors to Chicago's World's Fair, announced by Major General Frank J. Murphy, chief transportation director, indicate that the motorist will be safe, comfortable and protected in every way from the highway to the road and camp.

Motorists to Chicago have been made a distance of 75 miles from Chicago with many roads, and the motorist will be safe, comfortable and protected in every way from the highway to the road and camp.

Information booths have been established from 20 to 25 miles outside Chicago, where visitors can get information on how to get accommodations, finished rooms and motor vehicle cabin clubs will be available.
