PROTECTION FOR BUSINESS MEN

Many business men who too often have been duped and swindled by "here today—gone tomorrow" fake advertising men and high-possure scheme promotors might well take cognizance of a ffan to protect Crystal Lake business men against the wiles of questionable itinerant salesmen adopted at a meeting thee last week. A report of the meeting in the Crystal Lake Berald follows:
"Out of course solicities, who sawk to wall advartising.

at a meeting the last week. A report of the meeting in the Crystal Lake Herald follows:
"Out-of-town solicitors who seek to sell advertising space for menus time tables, etc., and who seek to stage various events in-which business men are asked to buy 'advertising' space will come under the close scrutiny of the Business Mene's asociation, it was decided at a meeting of the organization Tue-slay night.
"It was statid that in times past the association has been active in this greard, saving the merchants hundreds of dollars. The plag will be revived and every business man asked not to subsgribe to any such plan unless the solicitor has a permit signally by the secretary of the association. This will give the merchants are and ye excuse for not going in on such plans and sociotors that come into town where such a practice is followed, soon hie themselves away to other towns where the business men are more guilible. Churches are the only groups that will not come in under the plan.
"If every business ran are more guilble. Churches are the only groups that will not come in under the plan.
"If every business ran an will ask one of the sleek solicitors for his permy, he will likely be annoyed very little by such schemers."

UTUMN IS AT HAND

Autumn is at hand. Though the sun is warm and at midday the heat may remind one of August, there is a tang in the air that tells an observer it is not summer time. It may be warm goday and tomorrow, but the change in weather comes addenly and unexpectedly. The warm autumn days have been described as a mask for the other season.

autumn days have been described as a mask for the other season.

As October opens, one is sure to find nature at its best. Trees still display ounch of their summer foliage, but it is beginning to withir and spon will fall as frosts come and grow more server. The trees are getting ready for their long rest of the lag fall and winter. Lawns that have not been burned by its, heat of intense summer weather are still green, but their too, is deceptive of the seasons. Some grasses have their sleepest colors during the fall.

October may be classed as the opening door into the winter which will/soon be upon us. October may be hot and it may be colf, leaning a day or two in the directions toward August and in the other toward mid-November. October also is sure to provide plenty of pleasant outdoor weather, but it is the month which gives us intimations and strong once of the winter which is not far away—Harvard Herald.

ONE GREAT DIFFERENCE

ONE GREAT DIFFERENCE

The history of the world thus far has been a tale of myriad fast-travely; civilizations and modes of living which climbed to their plak, clung on for a time more or less unsteadly, and then planned downward only to be succeeded by another plan.

And the parallels between the troubles which assailed those social systems and our own are numerous. The situations look periously alike, except for one thing: the civilizations of the pass had no newspapers worthy of that title as we use it today sho social systems spread over the breadth of a continent haskyere before been so thoroughly informed of conditions and if the needs of the hour as is the United States today.

Complete and securate information on business and political conditions and the astounding ability of the American to adjust himself quickly to suddenly changing conditions, as witness respons; to the NRA, give us in this day an advantage over all other social systems that have come to their "zero" hour.—Indicendent, Waverly, Ia.

SMALE HOPE FOR WILL'S HOPE

SMALL HOPE FOR WILL'S HOPE
While flying over Boulder dam on a recent air trip from Chicago to the coupt. Will Rogers dropped off his daily message to newspapers. One of the remarks was:
"Hope they ight irrigate more land so they can raise more things they gart sell, and will have to plow up more rows, and kill muse pigs to keep 'em from becomin' hogs."
Our politicist still talk gilbly of pouring new millions into irrigation schemes to make more farms out of waste land and deserts, thus boosting over-production of agricultural crops, which paother group of politicians will expect the taxpayers to pay fey, to bring about farm relief.

What we need is a child labor law to keep them from working their parches to death.
