Home Loans for Lake County to Be Made at Waukegan

L. Dailey, U. S. Appraiser, Announces Establishment of New Loan Office

The establishment of a complete sub-branch of the Home Owners Loan Corporation in Waukegan by the government to be completed within a few days, it was announced today by L. Dailey, appraiser for the corporation in the county.

This headquarters will transact all of the business for Lake county, Dailey explained.

Now it is necessary to transact all of business through the Chicago office, which not only takes the time of the applicants but takes them to especially hard work.

The establishment of a headquarters here will call for an attorney, an attorney and the manager, Dailey said.

It is expected that the approval of Attorney John A. Kell will be forthcoming from the Chicago office in the near future.

The Chicago office is in turmoil, according to the manager, Dailey said.

By establishing the Waukegan loan office it will save the work here tremendously, Dailey said.

In his last report, he said that there were 15 loans made in Lake county and 15 mortgages granted in other parts of the county, raising $2,000,000.

All business with the government in obtaining loans for financing of mortgages can be handled entirely in Waukegan as soon as the office is established.

This also will place applicants in a position so that they will be able to get better information from the office of the applications.

What effect the office is going to have on the county is not known in view of the fact that 400 mortgages were filed in January 1 and only 20 cases were filed in February.

The relief to be had for a number who already have their homes.

Use of Motor Fuel Tax Monies to Finance Relief Activities Ruled O.K.

The use of motor fuel tax monies to finance unemployment relief activities in Illinois was held constitutional here this week by Circuit Judge L. E. Stone.

The favorable decision maintained the state's right to impose and use the tax to meet its December interest and principal payments on the bond issue.

Had Judge Stone ruled against the state, its credit would have suffered because it would have been compelled to default the December 1932 interest and principal payments.

The case decided by Judge Stone was an attack on the validity of the $20,000,000 unemployment relief bond issue, authorized by the 57th general assembly, in special session in February, 1932, and approved by the voters of the state in a referendum submitted at the general election in November, 1932.

Indirectly, the legality of the $30,000,000 bond issue, recently authorized by the first special session of the 58th general assembly, was involved in the case before Judge Stone because its provisions are substantially similar to those of the $20,000,000 bond issue.

Having heard successfully the first trial on the diversion of motor fuel tax funds to unemployment relief purposes, the attorney general in behalf of the state administration now is engaged in the preparation of a brief for presentation to the state supreme court.

The record in the case was filed with the supreme court on the day Judge Stone announced his decision and set it for hearing at this time.

The present term of the court will end about December 22.

Consent for the state to allow the $20,000,000 relief legislation to be in effect until the state supreme court has rendered its decision.

Money derived from the sale of the bond authorized by the $20,000,000 legislation has been expended for relief activities.

Only certain relief activities have been approved by the state administration in drawing the $20,000,000 bond issue legislation, which was recently enacted by the first special session of the 58th general assembly.

For this reason, the legality of the $30,000,000 bond issue was also involved in the case before Judge Stone.

There has been considerable conjecture regarding the identity of the persons challenging the constitutionality of the $20,000,000 bond issue, but this has been considered carefully and satisfactorily.

The suit was filed by Attorney A. M. Fitzgerald, R. L. Carter, and William P. Roberts in the name of Attorney Fitzgerald's attorney.

Montgomery S. Wining, assistant attorney general, argued the case for the state before Judge Stone and will represent the state in the hearing before the supreme court.

House Moved

The bulky job of moving a two-story frame house from the site of the business district to a new site on the west side of the village was completed without a mishap Wednesday noon after one and one-half days of work.

The house, which belongs to Mrs. Fred Griggs, was moved from the corner of Hough and Station streets to its present location at Main street and Grant avenue.

It was moved to make way for a service station to be erected by the Standard Oil company in the near future. The path of the driveway was down Station street to Duane street and then on to Main and on Main to Grant street.

August Schick was in charge of the moving work.

Bird Intelligence Varies With Species, C. Stout Tells Bird Club

"Different kinds of birds are endowed by nature with different kinds of temperament and different degrees of intelligence," Clifford R. Stout told members of the Barrington Bird club at their December meeting when he gave a talk on "Bird Intelligence."

Quoting from Mr. Chapman's book on birds, Mr. Stout said, "The bird is a creature of nervous mental endowment whose reasoning powers within the limits of its normal activities are equal if not superior to those of man."

Other scientists have frequently not only denied the bird's ability to reason but assert that all its mental activities are wholly instinctive; in short that the bird is a feathered automaton.

However, it appears very true that there is a great difference between the least intelligent and the most intelligent birds.

"A prolonged intimate study of pellets seems to emphasize the low order of intelligence. Perfectly as they are adapted to their own environment, they exhibit what, judged by human standards, can only be called stupidity."

On the other hand blue jay, crow, jackdaw and others of their kind often exhibit a high degree of intelligence that the bird lover is tempted to assert that they show ability to reason.

Birds are on the whole lower than mammals in pure intelligence but higher in pitch of emotion and intensity of living. This is the background.
