The minimum capital stock required for incorporation. A meeting of men interested in the formation of such an association had been held at the office of Wirt Lawrence on Main street Thursday evening; those formed a temporary organization to further the work of organizing.

Mr. A. M. Kreutz, representing the Federal Board of Health, Washington, D. C., explained in detail the history of the formation of this federal body, its functions and opportunities. After Mr. Kreutz had answered all questions put to him by those present, additional applications for membership in the association were received. At the close of the meeting there was a total of 250 shares subscribed for, of which 50 shares were on the installment thrift plan, 171 shares were on the optional savings plan, and 29 shares were on the cash plan. The total amount subscribed for amounted to $25,000 of which $2816 will be paid in at the time the charter is granted by the federal government.

By virtue of the fulfillment of the minimum requirement for charter, the application for charter was then ex-

DOES THE CONSUMER PAY?

We hear some unfavorable criticism, usually of an inviolent nature, of the fact that the consumer must pay the bill for the degree of unemployment that will produce industrial recovery. Occasionally a critic, who perhaps has not become adjusted to very materially changed conditions in our country, will leave the impression that this obvious fact constitutes some sort of unjust discrimination against a particular class of citizens.

Let us consider a moment: Just as many industrialists have come to a realization during the past few weeks that the workers they laid off cannot continue as their customers and that they in fact had been their customers; so also the man from whom we buy foodstuffs, furniture, automobiles, radios, clothing, and anything else of the innumerable products we sorely need to buy, is also a consumer. He likewise must buy his supplies from others. The manufacturer is not only a consumer of all the materials in his plant, but he is a consumer of all the goods we consume away from his plant.

So a realization brings us to the realization that when we say a consumer must pay the bill we actually mean that every American citizen and resident of American territory must carry his share of the increased costs incident to unemployment and business and industrial recovery.

Certainly no class is discriminated against. All are in the same boat—Jefferson, Charleston, W. Va.

ENDING IS SAVING NOW

True economy is that which obtains the largest possible return for a dollar spent. True economy is to spend that dollar at a time when it will bring the most.

We have lived a number of years of extreme depression. Prices have dropped to unimaginably low levels. Buying power has been close to non-existent. There was money in the country—but persons who had surpluses were afraid to spend. They would not need articles in order to keep their savings intact. They permitted property to fall into costly disrepair.

If they put off that timid policy any longer, they are going to be literally out of luck. That hoarded money is going down in value now. The worth of the dollar depends entirely on what it will buy. Six months from now it will buy much less than it will buy today. In other words, if you keep money in a non-productive state at present it amounts to throwing a certain percentage of it away.

You can get maximum value from your money only by putting it to use. There was never a better time to install a new heating plant, to repair or replace a roof, to build or rebuild, to paint or to do a thousand similar things. Every dollar so spent will appreciate in value—what it buys will in a very short time, have a market value much in excess of what you paid.

Think of it now. True saving now is through wise spending—The Manufacturer.

DON'T LET TAXATION BECOME CONFISCATION

An unbiased survey of the governmental achievements of 1933 produces much that is praiseworthy and deserving of the highest respect. Aggressive and daring efforts have been created and payrolls have increased. Factories are operating again that have been closed for years.

It is probable that the worst phase of the year, so far as industry, property-owners, investors and taxpayers are concerned, is the increase in the public debt—federal, state and local.

A number of political subdivisions have endeavored to "spend themselves into prosperity"—something which can't be done.

The national credit has been maintained—but bonds of a multitude of towns and counties and cities have been thrown onto the bargain counter.

Public officials could adopt no better motto for the new year than "Economy and Efficiency are Essential to Recovery." Nothing would do more to accelerate an upward trend in business than a public policy to keep taxes down, thus relieving the buying fear that in the near future, taxation and confiscation will become one and the same thing.

No newspaper is worth two hoots in a barnyard that never steps on anyone's toes.

A wise man is he who puts into the hands of boys and girls many good books of biography. For, in this way, the future leaders of the world will grow to appreciate the world's yesterday, live about it wholeheartedly today, and acquire for themselves fortitude and understanding and high devotion for tomorrow's exciting tasks.

If one had to name any single thing as the typical American characteristic, it would probably be just that habit of looking ahead, or forever going on with the quest. We have often been a proud and boastful people, but we have seldom been satisfied with a present moment. ## Our Children

By Angelo Patri
C. Bell Syndicate—WNU Service

A Good Test

School tests tell how the child is getting along with the school tasks. When he gets a hundred in spelling and ninety in geography and sixty in arithmetic, we know that as far as arithmetic goes so far a thorough review drill and application is in order. So far as geography goes we can extend congratulation, and as for spelling, nothing more need be said except a word of automatic praise.

But the test marks and the report card are not enough. They do not take us far enough into the mystery of the child's growth. He might get fine marks and still be a poor pupil because his behavior is poor. Good conduct must go along with good marks. It usually does not and then it does not.

And that gives us a concern. We have to adjust things so conduct and lessons are both satisfactory. When that has been done there is not an end to the matter. These expressions of the child are all outside expressions. Somebody inside the child had a hand in it. If he had a hand in it he would know how to bound the United States, the teacher told him how and probably kept him in after school until she was sure he would know it.

There must be some guide to tell us the way he is going and I think that his happiness is the best one so far as the good child is a happy child. In the good child is a happy child. There is no need to ask about the child. Both of them are unhappy or they would not get such a report. Happiness is the sign manual of personal success.

I say personal success actually, for it is possible to have success thrust upon one, and then one is sick unto death in the soul of him. But happiness is the spontaneous expression of a soul at peace with itself. This state cannot be bestowed in affection from another. It is something that is itself or it does not come at all. When it comes, you know it. It is unmistakable. When it glows in the eyes of a child, when it animates his spontaneous movements, rings in his laughter and smiles in his words, that is happy. He is going something that the best test of a child's growth ever discovered.

The sad child, who trembles with fear, who looks upon the world through shadowed eyes, whose voice is hollow and whose laughter is forced in when the world with kindness is dried up, is a most unhappy child, and although his heart is filled with love, his growth is stunted. Growth is a harmonious process and it brings only joy. True happiness does not come from a child's misdeeds. It comes from a child's misdeeds. It comes from a child's misdeeds. It comes from a child's misdeeds.

Must have heroes. "The people must have heroes," said H. H. the Sage of Chilton, and often creates one out of thin air. This method is convenient, since if one fails and another will serve as well.

Group From Field Museum Sets Out for West Africa

Sponsored by Mrs. Oscar Straus of New York, widow of a former American ambassador to Turkey, who became secretary of commerce in President Theodore Roosevelt's administration, and aunt of Josiah J. Straus, the present ambassador to France, a zoological expedition on behalf of Field Museum of Natural History left Chicago for West Africa Wednesday. It is accompanied by Stephen C. Sumner, director of the museum.

The party will sail from New York Thursday, Jan. 25, taking with it a passenger automobile and a supply truck driven from Chicago to the Senegal. Mrs. Straus herself will join the expedition at Dakar, French Senegal, early in February, and will accompany it during about two months of preliminary work and travel. The expedition will continue some six to seven months, covering a 4,000-mile area ranging from the barest desert to the most lush tropical forest in the world, all to be traversed by automobile and motor truck.

Raymond Houshoun, assistant curator of birds at Field Museum, will be scientific leader of the expedition, which is to be known as the Straus West African Expedition of Field Museum. Mrs. Houshoun will accompany her husband to carry out a mission from the Carnegie Corporation of New York to make photographs and collect the native fauna of Africa.

Frank C. Vanderlip, of the museum's taxidermy wing and I think that the expedition will be accompanied by John P. Jennings of Chicago will be official photographer.

After leaving Dakar the expedition will motor through Senegal and West Africa to Timbuktu, collecting birds and mammals, and recording native life on the way. Thence the party will drive to Kano in northern Nigeria, and work through Nigeria to Lagos. Collecting will be done principally in the dry scrubland of the southern edge of the Sahara desert during the first three months.

Prof. L. M. S. of the University of London, who is in charge of the expedition, will be in charge of the collecting of small mammals in the low rain forests and on the plateau boundary between the rain forest and the savanna, while Houshoun will lead a party to Angola (Portugal) West Africa where the expedition will continue their work. Houshoun hopes to collect specimens for the first four months of unusual birds will be official photographer.

Talks for Children at Art Institute Saturdays

The series is free of charge and is open to all children under 16 years of age. The talks will be given on Saturdays from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. The subjects are: "The Cave of the Lion," "The Cave of the Elephant," "The Cave of the Horse," "The Cave of the Buffalo," "The Cave of the Deer," "The Cave of the Rabbit," "The Cave of the Fox," "The Cave of the Wolf," "The Cave of the Bear," "The Cave of the Lioness," "The Cave of the Elephantess," "The Cave of the Horseess," "The Cave of the Buffaloes," "The Cave of the Deers," "The Cave of the Rabbits," "The Cave of the Foxes," "The Cave of the Wolves," "The Cave of the Bears."

Warning to Pedestrians Shows High Fatality Rate

Pedestrians must be particularly alert during the winter months to avoid death or serious injury as a result of being struck by an automobile, according to the Chicago Motor Club.

Twenty-five per cent more automobiles are killed in the months from October to March than in the summer months, in spite of the fact that motor travel in winter is almost twice as heavy.

The pedestrian is inclined to hurry across streets with his head buried in his coat collar, oblivious to approaching automobiles. In his impetuosity to get out of the snow or slush, he often crosses the street in the path of a speeding car, in spite of the fact that the pedestrian may risk running across the street, in spite of the fact that the pedestrian may risk running across the street, in spite of the fact that the pedestrian may risk running across the street.

Add 238 New Books to Barrington Library; 23,508 Circulated in 1933

Lewis; and "Young Stamp Collector," by Butler. Adult books in high demand were "The Last Adam," by Lewis; "Ann Vickers," Lewis; "Fugate," by Ours; "Tropics," Douglas; "The Earth Turns," Carroll; "Marie Antoinette," Zwick; "Life Begins at Forty," Picking; and "Big Game," Beatty. Mrs. Harridge stated that Barrington people have been fortunate as the adult library has been one of the few able to purchase new books in the past year. Although no new books have been purchased in the last three months because of low funds it is hoped that money for books will be available in a short time, according to her report.

The junior high school Bookworm club plans to present a play based on a well known juvenile book to the community and general public once a month. The first book to be dramatized will be "Little Women" by Alcott and is scheduled for presentation in the near future. During the past year, it was found necessary because of the heavy demand for books to lengthen the borrowing time by cutting out the 5 to 7 p.m. closing period and keep the library continually open from 4 to 8 p.m. Monday nights and from 3 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays and Saturdays.
