

LAKE ZURCH REVIEW

Illinois Herds to Be Tested for Tuberculosis

Decisions of the Illinois Supreme court having removed obstacles which have delayed the bovine tuberculosis eradication program in Illinois, the department of agriculture, it was announced today by Director Walter W. McLaughlin, will send inspectors out immediately to continue this important work. Only four of the counties of the state are not accredited under the bovine tuberculosis eradication act. Mr. McLaughlin said, and the ruling of the state's highest court last Friday upholding the constitutionality of the law forbidding the department to shut out inspectors from interfering with the test, now make possible placing the state on the accredited list of those states having less than one half of one per cent of tuberculosis in the herds of dairy and breeding cattle. "The numerous herds kept by the supreme court in cases from Hancock, Henderson and Washington counties," Director McLaughlin declared, "are forward strides in the efforts of the state to help maintain the healthful herds of Illinois. This is one of the most significant decisions in years on the subject of public health."

Besides the rulings mean a saving of about $100,000 a month to the state, in eliminating the necessity of annual tests of herds in areas not accredited. Herds in accredited areas are tested only once in three years. "In the case of these herds," Director McLaughlin declared, "a court decision in the case of Hancock county, the supreme court orders the department of agriculture to refrain from suggesting a cattle owner from such testing with the understanding that the department of agriculture from entering upon the premises of the cattle owner, examining the cattle for bovine tuberculosis, and carrying on the law of the state and state and regulations of the department in reference to bovine tuberculosis."

Dancing, Cards, Games to Entertain Guests at Legion Party March 17
Plans for the St. Patrick's party to be staged at Barrington Country club by the American Legion Saturday evening include a variety of amusements. An eight-piece orchestra has been engaged to furnish music for dancing, according to those who are in charge of the affair, and there will be tables for cards and other games with special prizes for winners at bridge and pinocle. Decorations and refreshments will carry out the idea of a celebration in honor of St. Patrick. Heads of committees working to make the affair a success are Paul Purcell, games; Frank Diehl, tickets; P. Pohlman, publicity; E. J. Langendorf, cards; Harry Brandt, decorations; Frank Harkness and Kenneth Shoup, refreshments.

APPEAL WAS NOT IN VAIN

The sewer case has reached a conclusion which the citizens living within the village must consider as final. The only possibility of further legal action is a plea for a rehearing, and only the most optimistic property owners could expect to gain anything from this step.

The supreme court has upheld Judge Shurtliff in deciding 100 per cent against the village. Only one course remains. That is to rebuild the sewer according to the most economical plan which will fulfill all requirements and condemn property for pipe or tile line all the way to the Fox river.

No doubt some censure will be directed against the board of trustees for incurring expense of an appeal now that it has failed to gain the desired purpose. The net cost of appeal was about $6000. Added to this there is the loss of assistance from the plaintiffs in the original case who offered to raise about $30,000 (part of it in long time notes and part in cash) and to donate a piece of swampy land below their properties for a site for a new disposal plant provided the village did not appeal the case. Those who originally objected to the appeal and a few citizens who favored it will now conclude that the village should have saved some $36,000 by accepting the plaintiffs' offer, passing up the appeal.

We are sharing the viewpoint of many citizens who do not accept this line of reasoning. The wisest course to follow was an appeal to the highest court authority in the state, we believe. Now the village knows just what procedure is necessary to rectify its sewer troubles. If the village had accepted the assistance of the plaintiffs in the case and had built a disposal plant below the lands of these plaintiffs, Barrington would still be violating the same laws that Judge Shurtliff and the supreme court have found are now being violated.

If Flint creek bed is private property where it courses through the lands of the plaintiffs, there is no sound reason why it is anything but private property below their lands. To believe that property owners below the proposed site for the plant would not follow the example of Messrs. Hart, Cardwell, et al, in opposing discharge of either treated or untreated sewage into Flint creek is the most stupid kind of fallacy.

The trustees now know what can be done without getting the village into further legal difficulties.

ROUTED THROUGH TOWNS

A transition is being observed in the attitudes of municipal officials, chambers of commerce and business men toward the location of through traffic routes. They have found that the through-bound motorists are not an El Dorado field of business patrons but rather an expensive hazard.

In the early days of highway development, local groups made pilgrimages to state capitals to make sure that the new highways were routed down the main streets to pass as many business doors as possible. As a result, many highways followed a serpentine route through the country, in order to pass through as many cities as possible. So long as a trip of 150 to 200 miles was a day's journey, this through traffic was a benefit, but as the speed and efficiency of the cars increased, they became proportionately less a source of revenue and more of a nuisance. Today, when speeds of 60 to 75 miles an hour are possible, even with the lowest priced cars, a trip of 300 to 400 miles may be made easily with one or two stops.

When a motorist has been driving 60 or 70 miles in the open country, he feels that he is being cautious when he slows down to 40 or 50 miles an hour while driving through a town. This being the case, local authorities began to widen streets, employ traffic policemen and install traffic signs and signals, in an effort to control these speeding motorists who had no interest in passing through their town and would have avoided it if at all possible. Local property owners were required to provide smooth and adequate pavements for through traffic to wear out. Merchants began to find that out-of-town motorists, speeding past their doors, were driving away local patrons who found difficulty in parking their cars or walking across the street, and so transferred their patronage to stores on less congested streets.

ABOUT CHILD LABOR

The following letter is borrowed from a recent issue of the Chicago Tribune's "Voice of the People." It is interesting and can be taken for what it is worth.

"Chicago, March 5.—I have been reading about the several million children who have been relieved from labor under the New Deal. Turning to the 1930 census reports I find that 673,000 children under 16 were gainfully employed. Of these, 470,000 were on farms, 51,000 in domestic work, and 17,000 doing clerical work. In the mechanical and manufacturing fields there were 69,000. In the much discussed textile industry only 236 children less than 16 years old were found. It is possible that there has been a bit of propagandizing going on? They had me believing that young girls and boys were being practically kidnapped by the millions to put them to work in cotton mills.—Ex-Democrat.

WASHINGTON

The president's message on the tariff, read in the house only on Friday as the senate was not in session, asked authority to enable the executive to establish a new tariff policy to stimulate the nation's foreign trade by reciprocal agreements with other nations. Its reading in the house was followed by the immediate introduction by Chairman Doughton of the ways and means committee of a bill to repeal the president's request. The message requested power not only to negotiate and promulgate tariff agreements but also to alter existing duties. The bill fixed 50 per cent as the limit of change upward or downward. Tariffing articles could not be transferred to the free list and articles now on the free list could not be made dutiable.

Congress temporarily has shelved efforts to require President Hoover to disclose information about world war debt payments but the two houses are at odds over senate provisions that would make sweeping increases in present compensation of war veterans and their families.

The controversial provisions are senate amendments to the independent utility appropriation bill, which provides funds for the separate government organizations not in the regular executive departments. Senator Rogers of Oregon, spokesman for a group of congressmen sponsoring the amendments, said these amendments would increase veterans benefits by $12,253,700 and involve additional expenditure of $100,000 for federal expenses. Differing estimates were made by the veterans' group and by house leaders.

The house adopted a conference report on the treasury department's independent utility appropriation bill, except the senate amendment which proposed $250,000 to establish a fund for the furniture factory at Redwood, for the post office department. The house rejected that amendment, 275 to 116.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt favored this project after a visit to the coal fields of northern West Virginia where there is considerable unemployment. The amendment was favored on the floor because it would relieve unemployment and opposed because it involved competition with private industry. The bill awaits final disposition. It carries approximately $800,000,000 for the two departments next year. The house passed and sent to the senate the agreement.

Keeping Promises

When one makes a promise to a child one must keep it or lose the child's confidence. The loss of a child's confidence costs the child dearly and makes no happiness for the one who was responsible.

Christmas was drawing near and little Harry was excited. He got into all kinds of mischief. He discovered new ways of getting into trouble. New ways of getting into danger. After he had made one of the most serious of his family day and night until his mother lost all patience and said, "Listen to me, young man. You're going just far enough. Another such thing and you get nothing for Christmas. Not a thing. Santa Claus will not come to a bad boy like you."

Harry seemed to consider this for a time and his mother thought she had made an impression upon his mind and that he would behave a little better. But she changed her mind about all that when the cook brought Harry into her presence and charged him with breaking every egg in the pantry and smearing the place with the yolk.

"Just for fun, I did it," said he. "Very well. You got nothing for Christmas," when Christmas morning came all the presents were ready and Harry enjoyed them to the full. Neither he nor his mother mentioned the threat about bad boys and Santa Claus.

By and by his birthday approached and he heard the same old threat: "Now look here, young man. If you don't behave yourself you'll get nothing for your birthday."

Harry forgot all caution. "Huh. You said that about last birthday and I got all my presents. And you said it at Christmas and I got them too. I'll get them just the same."

Well, that time his mother held out and he got no presents. A sad lot and he went to bed that birthday night, and a sadder mother and father. Threats are promises and if you make them you have to keep them or have a very good reason for not keeping them.

It is better to be slow at promising than to be fast at promising. If you have so many things likely to interfere, so many chances for change.

Anyway a promise is better than a promised treat. And threats are better left out of things.

gricultural appropriation bill, appropriating $30,428,887 for the department of agriculture and $23,816,000 for the farm credit administration next year. It provides $2,000,000 for a federal fight against grasshopper ravages in the west and northwest.

Sharp debate, at times personal, at other partisan, over the government's position with respect to the air mail and the army, took place in the senate February 20. Republicans, led by Senator Prew, and Senator Robinson of Indiana, led the attack on the executive order which gave the carrying of the mails to the army air corps. Senators McKellar and Clark carried the chief weight of the rebuttal. The debate covered a number of points. Some contended that the army was equipped neither in training nor in equipment to fly the mails. Whether the president had any alternative in acting as he did was another mooted question. Some contended that there was no proof of fraud.

Comptroller of the currency J. P. T. O'Connor reported during the past week that when he examined all the national banks in the country on Dec. 31, they were found to have increased their resources and deposits since the previous examination in October, but to have actually cut down their loans.

Each bank in the vaults of the banks and the reserves they had on call also had increased, but instead of lending funds, the banks were holding them or putting them in government security. Reserves of the 5130 national banks totaled and then $21,747,000, 000 on Dec. 31, a gain of $5,450,000, 000 since October. Loans and discounts aggregated $5,011,000,000, a decline of $158,000,000. Total deposits amounted to $17,360,000,000, a gain of $535,000,000 in two months. Reserves due to banks including their reserves aggregated $4,061,000,000, a gain of $125,000,000.

In urban and suburban areas of cities the government, the president said, is definitely taking the position that "we do not want to go on the job of northern West Virginia where there is considerable unemployment. The amendment was favored on the floor because it would relieve unemployment and opposed because it involved competition with private industry. The bill awaits final disposition. It carries approximately $800,000,000 for the two departments next year. The house passed and sent to the senate the agreement.

Defeat Warren 36
to 27 Friday in
Final Loop Tilt

Palatine and Libertyville Tie
Local High School for Senior Title

The Barrington Bronchos brought a successful Northwest conference basketball campaign to a close last Friday night by downing the visiting Warren Blue Devils 36 to 27 in the final home game of the year. With this victory the Bronchos tied for a share of the 1934 Northwest title besides claiming over their 12th win of the present season against 3 defeats. Palatine and Libertyville also won their first game Friday to become co-champions of the series championship along with the Bronchos. This is the third heavy weight title won by Barrington and the fourth consecutive year that local school teams have finished at the top of the Northwest conference. In 1931 the Palatine tied for top honors; in 1932 the Bronchos tied for first, and last year the Palatine led the light division without the loss of a game.

The Bronchos entered the Warren game with the fact that a loss would end them out of the championship starting them in the face but despite superior handling outplayed the Blue Devils to score a decisive win. Warren led twice during the game but the Bronchos were never out of the second quarter when they improved, leading the game for the first time 12 to 12; the rest of the time the home team was easily best. Claude Turner turned in his best performance of the year gathering 11 points and flashing a fine game while Rivers also showed a marked improvement, leading the scoring with 11 points. Eugene Latta, usual high scorer for the Bronchos, had an off night with only 6 points and two free throws, meanwhile missing innumerable shots under the basket. Zimmerman, Warren star, led his team with 16 points on 2 baskets and 6 free throws.

The Barrington Ponies climbed into a tie for third in the lightweight loop by defeating the Warren lights 27 to 8 in their final game of the season. A strong Pony defense only allowed the opponents one field goal. Warren scored on a shortkick, Knapf and a Wagon played best for the best team.

BRONKS IN 3-WAY CHAMPIONSHIP TIE

Defeat Warren 36 to 27 Friday in Final Loop Tilt

Barrington and Libertyville Tie
Local High School for Senior Title

Barrington brought a conference basketball game last Friday night to a close with a 36-27 victory over Warren in the final loop tilt. The game was a share of the title between the two teams. Barrington's victory was a result of a strong performance by the team, which was led by a number of players who had been in the game for some time. The game was a close one, with both teams showing a lot of skill and determination. The final score was 36-27 in favor of Barrington.

St. Paul to Meet Salem as Church Basketball Ends

St. Paul Gains Tourney Finals by 28 to 12 Victory Over St. Anne

St. Paul triumphed St. Anne 28 to 12 and the Methodists swamped the Baptists 45 to 24 in last Monday's church basketball games. Both contests were so unevenly matched that interest waned before the games were over. The Methodists led by Allen and Tommy Johnson beat the Baptists for the fourth time this year while St. Paul ran up its big margin over St. Anne in the second half when Wichman and Wolf hit the hoop consistently.

Church league basketball will come to a close next Monday night when the finals of the tournament are played. The Barrington girls will open the activity against an outside team at 7 p. m. followed by the Methodist-St. Anne tilt for third place and the Salem-St. Paul game for the tournament championship. The final game will be a "natural" for St. Paul, but Salem out of the league championship and the Salem girls will be on to even matters by upsetting the champs.

Bronchos Advance in District Meet; Defeat Hampshire

Final Score 26 to 13; Elgin Next Foe of B.H.S. Quint at Crystal Lake

Elgin high school will face the Barrington Bronchos at 8 p. m. Friday night in the second round of the district basketball tournament now under way at Crystal Lake. The Bronchos gained the second round by defeating Hampshire 26 to 13 in the opening game of the tourney Wednesday while Elgin advanced at the expense of Elgin Center by a 24 to 17 score. Other opening night scores were: Harvard 46, McHenry 22; and Woodstock 35, Crystal Lake 31. Elgin rules as favorite to win the meet but the Bronchos are hoping to upset the dogs.

Hampshire offered little opposition for the Bronchos and Coach Clark kept three of his regulars, Conn, Latta, and Mollenkamp on the bench all during the game. During the second half the Bronchos limited the Hampshire scoring to one line free throw. The marmos and white point-making was as follows: Rowland, 4 baskets and 3 free throws; Meiners, 2 baskets and one free throw; Elgers, 3 field goals and a charity throw; and Workman, one each from the floor and free throw line.

Tonight Richmond meets Arlington, Harvard takes on Palatine, and Elgin opposes Woodstock at the tourney games.

On Friday night the winner of the Arlington-Richmond tilt will meet Dundee at 7 p. m. followed by the Elgin-Barrington game at 8 p. m. and the Palatine-Harvard winner vs. Huntley at 9 p. m.

Saturday, the final day of the tournament will see the semi-finals and finals played. At 2 p. m. the Harvard-Woodstock winner will play the team that comes out on top in the 7 o'clock game Friday; and at 3 p. m. the winners of the 8 and 9 o'clock games Friday will play. Saturday night at 7:30 the losers of the afternoon games will meet for the consolation and at 8:30 the winners will play for the district championship. The winner of the Crystal Lake district goes to the Waukegan sectional while the second-place team goes to the Peppertown sectional. The 16 sectional champs all over the state enter the finals at Champaign, March 21 to 24 where the state championship will be decided.

Barrington Girls Win From Cary in Local Cage Debut

Barrington's new girl's team introduced basketball as it played by the "wonder" to the local public at the "wonder" cage, Monday night and the fans seemed to like it. The Barrington girls defeated Cary in a close game 18 to 16. Elsie Marshall sinking the winning basket with less than a minute to play. Della Klopferstein was the main reason for the local win as she made 9 points, half of her team's total. German and E. Siegel kept Cary in the running with 7 and 6 points respectively. The local girls will play again at the cage games next Monday night.

Trustees Lay Out Streets Eligible for Gas Tax Aid

Park Avenue Probably First to Be Improved From Fuel Tax Funds

Widening of Park avenue from Cook street to Grove avenue and extension of the same street to Harrison street will be the first improvement undertaken by Barrington with its share of the state gas tax receipts, according to a tentative plan reached by the village board Monday night.

Village Clerk A. C. Buranet received notice that Barrington must determine its routes which connect state aid highways before it can receive its share of the tax, which for January alone amounted to $125.

The village board Monday night tentatively agreed on the following routes to connect the state routes and which will be in line for state aid from the gasoline tax receipts available for cities and villages.

1 Park avenue to Summit street and on Summit street to Russell.

2 Russell street from Dundee avenue to Prairie and over Prairie to Hillside.

3 Grove avenue from Park avenue to Hillside.

4 Washington street from Hough street to Northwest highway.

It has been estimated that the village will receive a total of $450 for the year. This can be applied only on approved routes connecting such state aid roads as Hillside, Hough street, Dundee avenue, State street, and the Northwest highway.

The village board had dropped the proposed CWA extension of Park avenue because of the expense which would be incurred in furnishing materials, meeting poles, etc. CWA would not only pay for labor, it is to provide to pay all expenses of widening the street with receipts from the gasoline tax.

After request for installing a sidewalk along the east side of Hough street was received from N. O. Pluge, owner of the W. W. Meyer estate, the board turned the matter over to the village engineer and Q. C. Buranet.

Dog Fanciers Now Listing Entries for Kennel Show

Hundreds of blue blooded dogs will be shown by well-known kennel owners at the 23rd annual show of the Chicago Kennel club March 30, 31 and April 1 at the 1st Regiment Armory, 14th and Michigan avenues, Chicago, according to Alexander H. Stewart of Barrington, president of the club and secretary for his wife, Mrs. H. Stewart.

Mr. Stewart predicted the exhibition entry will be the largest in years.

Among the leading fanciers who will exhibit strings of dogs, including national and international champions are Thomas M. Howell, Barrington, Irish wolfhounds, and Labrador retrievers; Harold M. Plumb, Highland Park, Irish terriers, being the best of the breed at the West New York show; Livingston, Osborne, Ravenna, chow; M. P. Reynolds, Lake Villa, doberman pinschers; Dr. Noel S. Young, Lake Forest, weimars; Peter Gregg, Elmhurst, Great Danes; Aram, Elmhurst, Franklin Park, Irish setters; and Mrs. W. Harold Clavette, Glenview, Russian wolfhounds.

Some 40 breeds of dogs, ranging from toy animals weighing a few pounds to huge St. Bernards and Irish wolfhounds, will be shown. The leading kennels of the United States and Canada will be represented. Hundreds of men and women who have pedigreed dogs for pet will compete for the thousands of dollars in cash prizes, the ribbons and other awards. Entries are being received at the kennel club office, 5 North Wabash avenue. It was reported.

Attend Funeral
