that of any other temperate region; why not learn to enjoy and not destroy that beauty?

"This society is now affiliated with other conservation organizations and is working for conserving all conservation measures connected with nature. Lectures and talks on various nature subjects are given by the society, and colored lantern slides of wild flowers are shown to schools and clubs and to constant use. In this way school children as well as adults become interested in the great need for conservation of the flora of Illinois."

Too Much Humor Dangerous

Everyone is telling the public to have more fun, but it gets too many people trying to be funny all the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hartney, members of the state chapter of the W.I.P.S., are planning the following:

Our thoughts are turning to the joys of spring, coming in the garden, and the beauty of woods, forests, and roadside, but we know this beauty that it may become a permanent part of the country and its life.

The Wildflower Society is one of the many organizations in this movement. This society was organized in 1913 by the late Dr. Charles Millsbaugh at that time curator of the botanical department of Field Museum, Chicago. The society is interested in the conservation of our native plants. Today, with motor travel, there is an even more urgent need to curb the ruthless picking of flowers.

Our thoughts and ignorance of the destruction goes on, as we are to enjoy the beauty of the woods and prairies, giving plants a chance to develop and spread so that they may increase in size, added beauty for everyone. Wild flowers when picked are soon wilted, and thrown by

Of the film itself they write: "It is an unusual picture with a fantastic and interesting theme, elaborate sets, fine cast and excellent direction."

Saturday night, Jean Parker, the beloved "Beth" of "Little Women," has the leading role in "Two Alone," with Tom Brown and Zazu Pitts featured.

The bargain night offering, next Tuesday, features Wynne Gibson and Preston Foster in "Sleepers East."

Review History of Scout Cabin Nearly Finished

of John L. Bell, landscape artist. Each scout troop will be assigned meeting hours for a week so there will be no conflict in activities. It was resolved to follow the history of the boy and girl scout troops in Barrington and a suitable project to be undertaken.

When the CWA was launched by the federal government last autumn, the board of Barrington looked for suitable projects to

be undertaken.

They decided to enlarge and remodel the village hall, but noting additional community
need to employ more men.

At that time, a member of the Barrington district committee of Northwest Airlines, Mrs. Roy E.
Huntington, conceived the idea of having a scout cabin to be used as headquarters for local boy and girl scouts.

He took his idea to the Barrington park commissioner, who granted a site in the southeast corner of the South Side Park on Russell Street. The board stipulated that the cabin was to be built and maintained for the convenience of each local boy and girl scout organization, and that the building erected must be a "safe building."

Architect Norman J. Maxon, of Barrington, was then approached to design a scout cabin of presentable style to be used.

The architect placed designs to supervise the civic project. He over the plans, figured the building material required, and estimated the hours of labor needed to complete the project with CWA funds.

No money being available for building the cabin, the architect asked for donations of money and material to complete the scout cabin.

In order to render the project
readily acceptable to CWA headquarters in Chicago, several Barrington citizens met on Tuesday, April 10, 1933, and sign the following resolution:

"We, the undersigned citizens
of the Village of Barrington,
do hereby endorse the accompanying project for a scout cabin to be erected in the village by various local organizations and clubs of Barrington and surrounding communities."

The old board will meet Friday night to canvass the vote and will meet again on Monday night, April 23, and on Monday, May 14. The last meeting will be a short one preceding the first meeting of the new board on the same night.

Proclaimed Pan-American Day

In 1930 President Hoover pro-observed on all government buildings and inviting all the people of the United States to observe the day appropriately, to give expression to the spirit of continental

Aided Early Burglars

The cost of the necessary hydro-

use of the gasoline, but in Europe and, particularly, in the United States, it was used and much appreciated by burglars in their business long before the commercial world took to it in quantity.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME

Mayor George Blameuser of Niles Center believes charity should start at home and on this theory he will not assign any of his community's relief work to men sent to him from other centers. The Cook county office of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission sent 265 men to Niles Center Tuesday for relief work. Mayor Blameuser bought the men railroad tickets back to Chicago and sent them on their way without work.

On first thought this action may seem to have been conceived in narrowmindedness. On careful reflection it appears as justifiable. The citizens of communities furnishing work pay certain expenses connected with that work as for example the cost of materials used. The citizens are doing this to provide employment for their unfortunate neighbors.

From a common sense viewpoint it is an economic waste to spend part of the relief funds transporting men from Chicago to Niles Center to do relief work when there are idle men living in Niles Center. Under the system now followed, Chicago men may be sent to Barrington when there is work to be done here, Barrington men to Des Plaines when there is work to be done there, Des Plaines men to Edison Park, and so forth on a regular merry-go-round. The cost and time of the workers spent in transportation is an obviously unnecessary waste.

Officials of other suburban communities might do well to support Mayor Blameuser of Niles Center in refusing local relief work to men sent in from other communities as long as there are unemployed men available locally.

MITCHELL VINDICATED

The news that President Roosevelt is planning to inaugurate a new government agency under which practically all aeronautical activities, both government and private, will be operated, is a startling bit of information, but it loses all interest when compared to the announcement that Brigadier General William Mitchell may head the new department.

There, if you please, is a bit of choice news. Not so many years ago Mitchell, as chief of the air division, had the fortitude to tell the United States army and the country at large, just what he thought of the aviation corps. To say that he created a furor among official ranks, both army and civilians, is to put it too mildly for true appreciation.

But that furor did not result in action to remedy the conditions which Mitchell set forth in his charges. Instead, army officials busied themselves in securing a court martial and in getting Mitchell out of the way. And out of the way he has been until the present.

Now, it appears, the tables have turned and the man who once condemned American air preparedness is about to be placed in charge of all aviation activities of the country.

And why not? Events of the past few weeks have strangely proven the truth of Mitchell's charges. Private airmail contractors were deprived of the mails and the army was suddenly thrown into the breach to handle an emergency no different, after all, than what would have ordinarily been expected of it in the event of attack by a foreign power.

The rain comes down from the trees, the echoing voices, the soft thud of footstep on fallen leaves, the smell of earth that lies open to the meat and drink that the season is offering, the colors and the atmosphere of all our days offer something precious and lasting to the child who can enjoy them.

I don't like to see a child who thinks that a rainy day checks them completely. It may not be well enough to change their plans. If a rainy day outfit will settle the difficulty let them put it on and go ahead. If it is too heavy a rain use one of the many devices you have had in mind. A rain can be a disappointment like a rainy day is to a child.

Sometimes the rain need not interfere. If the children were going to the circus, let them go. The circus in the rain is great fun. Usually it is cooler and drier ways. Concerts, plays, museum trips, need not be affected by the weather.

The outdoor trip, the picnic and the hike and the weekend camping may be impossible, but sometimes there is a chance even for them. If there is, let them take it.

BARRINGTON REVIEW, BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS, THURSDAY, APRIL 19, 1934

WHAT'S GOING ON

There has arisen of late a real threat to the president's control of the legislative situation. It has come from the same insurgents who have wrecked the best laid of plans of other presidents, the same group who crossed Mr. Wilson's path 18 years ago. The latest exhibition of insurgent tactical behavior is the amendment to the senate. Amendments change the original intent of the bill.

The treasury department tucked in a tidy saving of $139,000,000 a year into its pocket last week. The saving grew out of a huge refinancing of liberty bonds, the first in recent years, which the treasury started last October and which it was unable to put into effect until April 12. Encouraged by the success of the treasury in April 12 called for the reduction of another $1,200,000,000 of liberties to be refunded into 10 to 12 year 3 1/4 bonds. This is to yield an interest saving of another $10,000,000. Bonds called are 4th liberties with serial numbers ending in digits 8 or 2.

Milk is providing the agricultural adjustment administration with an overtime of worry and many a headache just at this time. This product provides one-quarter of the gross farm income of the nation under present conditions. Milk is being raised by nearly 2,000,000 farm families. Milk problems apparently are baffling early solution by the AAA, which already is wrestling with the troubles of wheat farmers, corn farmers, hog farmers, cotton farmers and tobacco farmers. A milk war is raging in Chicago, with AAA seeking to keep its legs straight to watch out for fair treatment. Hot verbal shots have been directed at secretary of agriculture Wallace by dairy farmers in the New York area. Talk of a milk strike in the spring is beginning to stir the air in several communities.

Two schools of thought are about to come in grip in Washington, with General Johnson and his national recovery administration in the middle. One school thinks that the way to hurry up the present trend is to return to print money, bring about a bank holiday, and then the currency in a big way to inflate and then float out of the depression. Another thinks that there should be no more tinkering with money through the addition of silver or further cut in the gold value, but that adjustment

The everyday things take on an air of mystery. The smells and the feels of a rainy day are a welcome variety in the children's experiences. It would be a pity to deprive them of the delights that the rains bring.

The rain comes down from the trees, the echoing voices, the soft thud of footstep on fallen leaves, the smell of earth that lies open to the meat and drink that the season is offering, the colors and the atmosphere of all our days offer something precious and lasting to the child who can enjoy them.

I don't like to see a child who thinks that a rainy day checks them completely. It may not be well enough to change their plans. If a rainy day outfit will settle the difficulty let them put it on and go ahead. If it is too heavy a rain use one of the many devices you have had in mind. Instead of the outdoor excursion make a school and to some interesting place. Help them to use the rainy day and enjoy it.

The weather does not hurt healthy children. Dress them to meet the elements in the rain. It is great fun. Usually it is cooler and drier ways. Concerts, plays, museum trips, need not be affected by the weather.

Getting a wetting is not going to hurt a healthy child. They are waterpoor as young ducks; provided they are in good health and their clothes are fit. There is beauty in the rain, but there is gray that beats the world melancholy. "Cry Baby" Fanning to Meet "Bone Crusher" Heckmiller on Mat

A team of young, bantam entertainers for the Arlington Heights club to be held at Arlington Heights Wednesday night, April 25, will be a heavyweight wrestling match between Doc (Cry Baby) Fanning and Chris (Bone Crusher) Heckmiller of Barrington. Both Doc and Chris are likely exponents of the grand and gaudy sport and although they are both under 100 pounds, the question is which of the better grapplers is still undecided. In a match at the local C.Y.O. show March 22, they wrestled to a draw.

"B" Club Huddle to Take the Place of Banquet for School Letter Men

Former Barrington high school athletes from "way back" when those who graduated last year will gather at the annual banquet on Friday night at 8 o'clock for the "B" club "huddle" and get together, planned to take the place of the annual banquet which was last year too expensive. An effort is being made to have as many as possible of the major letter winners at Barrington high present the "huddle" and an unusual program has been planned for the evening.

Silk Worms Grow Fast
According to the latest statistics on the rate of growth of a year old silk worm were published in the National School journal at Lowell, Mass., after a series of experiments with these insects. When a silk worm is 10 times old it weighs 1/2 of a gram. At 20 days old it weighs 1/20 of a gram. At the age of 20 days it weighs 3 grams, or sixty times its original weight. In another 20 days it has grown 1/2 additional gram of weight, bringing it to 60 times its original weight. By the time it is forty days old it will be 1,800 times as heavy as it was when it was born, and at the age of fifty days when it has reached its full development, it will weigh 207 grams, or 4,140 times its original weight. In the course of the 50 days the silk worm will have consumed more than 120 oak leaves weighing three quarters of a pound.

Waukegan Taxpayers Turn Down Municipal Plant: Proposal by 3 to 1 Vote

By a vote of more than three to one, citizens of Waukegan rejected a proposal toward the establishment of a municipally-owned and operated electric light and power plant for their city at the polls April 17.

The vote, which came before Waukegan voters, was only the initial step in the direction of the establishment of a municipal plant, its decisive defeat is taken as an important indication of the public attitude toward municipal plants in cities already adequately served by electricity from other sources.

Those opposed to the city-owned plant pointed to the fact that municipal plants have not generally brought lower electric rates in Illinois, where most of the privately owned electric system serving Waukegan showed a voluntary rate reductions in the past 20 years. Further emphasis was placed upon the cost of the proposed plant, the service and the estimated cost of a municipally-owned plant which at the outset, would have been of questionable economic value to taxpayers of the community.

Animals of British Malaya. — The more common domesticated animals of British Malaya are cattle, water buffaloes and goats. The cows suckle their calves and also provide milk in very limited quantities for the consumption. The buffaloes are mainly used for transport and agricultural purposes, so are also the buffaloes. The goats are also mainly bred for killing and the milk is seldom used.

Emblem of Longevity

The stock pattern, which is so frequently used in Chinese rugs, in the emblem of Longevity. A black star in the design of a rug is particularly significant, for in ancient days it was believed that stars turned black after they became old.

Longevity is represented in the emblem by the fact that each pole is high—at least higher than that of the air at the same level at some considerable distance round about. This conclusion is supported by the relatively few observations obtained near the poles.

Atmosphere at the Poles

When the pressure is high the air flows spirally outward, and where it is low the directions of the air currents round about are upward or downward. A pole of surface air flows outward from the region of each pole, and of a corresponding amount of the upper air inward. The conclusion is reached, therefore, that the surface pressure is high at the poles, each pole is high—at least higher than that of the air at the same level at some considerable distance round about. This conclusion is supported by the relatively few observations obtained near the poles.

English Buried Hoards When They Left France

There are at least 35 known French towns and villages in which tradition relates the presence of hidden treasure. Many of the English hoards were written in English, and the hoards were written in English.

The Montreal Herald, when the English were driven out of France by Charles VII in the Fifteenth century, their hoards are said to have been lost.

There is no record of any English treasure found in the course of reconstruction.

At Trier (Siegmar-Oise) can be seen the "House of Treasures" on the site of a castle in which William the Conqueror hid his treasure before setting forth for England. Later, on Bonne Prince Charlie lived in this house in his short reign, and he is said to have brought the crown of the ancient kings of England in the ground.

Anthocyanin Colors Leaves

The brilliant red color of maple and other leaves in autumn is due to the presence of the pigment anthocyanin. This pigment is formed when certain food substances in the leaves are subjected to several days of strong sunlight. Therefore the color is not to be expected in those leaves where sudden cool temperatures at night, which arrest the removal of the food substances, are followed by a succession of bright sunny days.

Young Penguins

A curious thing about the penguins of the Antarctic is that the offspring often grow nearly as big as the parent birds before they are able to feed without the latter's help.

State Policeman Warns Against Dumping Rubbish

A rubbish fire which started in McIntosh subdivision, last weekend nearly set fire to a house, state patrolman William Gallagher reported. He is warning that when people dump rubbish in their sites or setting fires in that vicinity would be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. The state policeman's attention was called to the dumping of trash and setting fires because the subdivision is outside of village limits and there for beyond village jurisdiction.

"We have no trace of who dumps the rubbish or starts these fires, but both the dumping and setting fires are such that each stop," he warned. Early this spring, there was another fire on the same site. It's a menace to adjoining homes. Hot ashes may have started the first fire, but we're going to be on the lookout for the cause of any others."
