Kelset Presides at First Meeting of County Board

New Chairman From Cuba Approves List of Committees

At the first meeting of the county board of supervisors, held at the hotel here Tuesday night, the new chairman, Mr. Kelset, presided. He is the first to hold the position since the reorganization of the board. The board of supervisors is the governing body of the county, and its duties are to oversee the county's finances, to appoint and remove county officers, and to pass on the county's budget. The board is composed of seven members, one from each of the seven townships in the county. The new board was organized on Tuesday night, and its first order of business was to approve the list of committees. The list was prepared by the outgoing board and included committees on finance, education, public safety, and other matters. The new board approved the list and then adjourned.

Quick Assets of Closed Institution Equal to 25 Per Cent of Deposits

While an application is pending for an R.F.C. loan for the First State bank receiver's organization which would release a material dividend to depositors, the assets of the bank are in a condition such that a dividend of nearly 25 per cent could be paid from cash on hand plus funds raised by a complete liquidation of the bond list. Liquidation of the bond list of the bank would release the value of the bonds in $40,000 and $45,000. Cash on hand was reported in excess of $6000. The value of these assets to approximately 25 per cent of the deposit liability which is a little more than $200,000.

Big Chicken Farm in Home Section Tabooed by Board

Trustees Refuse L. N. Morse Request for Poultry House Permit

Barrington residential sections are not available for poultry farm expansion the village trustees decided at their regular meeting Monday night after listening to arguments for and against granting a permit to L. N. Morse, 610 Division street, to build a 15 by 40 foot extension to his chicken house. Mr. Morse was at the meeting to ask for the permit. He pleaded that he is caring for his living and staying off relief for his chicken and his poultry and eggs. If he could expand his business, he could reduce the mortgage on his home with the additional profits, he said. A group of neighbors living on Division street were present to protest expansion of this chicken farm which they declared would become a nuisance to nearby residence property if enlarged. A petition against granting the permit was signed by James Haffner, John H. D. Blacker, John A. Fletcher, E. A. Landow, Stanley Fletcher, A. S. Badger, and Joe Klusacek.

Solemn exercises will be in charge of the Rev. William A. Marchant, O.P. May 15.

No Alibis Sunday—Set Clock Ahead Saturday Night

Setting ahead the clock an hour each first Sunday in May has become so much a habit, since inauguration of daylight saving during the war, that local residents have little excuse to be late for church this year. Officially, of course, clocks are not set ahead until a.m. but local residents have shown a preference for changing their timepieces before retiring Saturday if reports are correct. Daylight saving was started in metropolitan centers during the war, then spread to adjoining towns and villages when people realized the advantage of an extra hour of daylight for sports, gardening, or leisure. Later many country towns dropped it. The U. S. N. has long run trains in accordance with usual custom in remembrance on standard time but the schedule of suburban trains reflects the advantage of an extra hour of daylight for sports, gardening, or leisure. It was reported.

Village Expenses Cut 50 Per Cent in 3-Year Period

Barrington Getting Out of Debt Despite Slow Tax Collections

Expenses of the village of Barrington have been cut nearly in half in three years, according to figures compiled by Treasurer Daeschler. A tax levy of $27,920 in 1933 as compared with a tax levy of $52,000 in 1931 tells the story of reduced expenditures. In the three years, 1931, 1932 and 1933 the tax levies have been drastically below the appropriations. The figures for three years follow:

	Appropriation	Tax Levy
1931	$50,000	$52,000
1932	46,588	27,920
1933	50,560	27,116

This is an excellent record of economy in times when property owners badly need reduction in taxes. Because of the condition of slow tax collections the village has not been able to keep the delinquent bills payable off its records, although if all back taxes could be collected, the corporation would be entirely out of debt.

One of the village's most-often bills payable has been settled on a basis of 57 cents on the dollar with option of cutting it down to a 51 cents on the dollar basis if cash payment is made within six months. This was a $2209 bill against the village held by former engineer Edwin Hancock.

Mr. Hancock and the finance committee of the village board got together Monday night on suggestion of Trustee Hatje and an agreement was reached whereby the village would pay $400 in cash and $550 in 1933 Cook county tax warrants to clean up the bill with the provision that the village can buy back the warrants at any time within six months at a discount of 15 per cent. The total of $1250 represents less than 57 per cent of the total $2209. The warrants bought, the total will amount to $1127.50 or 51 per cent of the original bill. The trustees have recently made substantial payments (in cash and warrants) to reduce bills payable to the Public Service Co. and Village Attorney P. D. Malone. The bills payable now total approximately $13,000 as compared to more than $15,000 a year ago.

"Don't Try to Speed Convalescence," Jirka

With more than 5000 children in the state now suffering from scarlet fever, whooping cough and measles, and the prospect that at least 5000 more will come down with attacks of these diseases before the present epidemic wave subsides, Dr. Frank J. Jirka, state health director issued a statement warning parents against allowing or indulging in efforts to hasten convalescence and recovery.

opportunity to develop. Trying to rush through quarantine and nursing care is simply an invitation to these and other untoward results.

"Studies have shown that about 1 in 7 persons who get scarlet fever is left with some complicating impairment such as defective hearing, arthritis, kidney disease or heart impairment. Measles may cause to flare up a latent tuberculosis infection or lead to pneumonia. Whooping cough taxes the defensive forces of the body for an extended period, opening up the way for other infections more serious in character.

Building Survey Reflects Increase in Suburban Area

March Building in Suburban Area Totals $524,758 in 54 Communities

The old dependable nesting instinct, always felt most strongly in spring, seems to be the basis of a very substantial gain in suburban building in the Chicago region in the month of March, a gain of 115 per cent over February—and not only this, a gain of 165 per cent over March, 1933. The figures represent homes and improvements to homes almost exclusively. It was reported. Often any improvement in a particular month is likely to be due to the inauguration in one spot of some particular project of considerable size rather than to a general improvement in suburban building. If the one outstanding project of March were deducted from the total, March would still show a gain over February of 67 per cent and a gain over March of last year of over 100 per cent, according to the statistics.

The amount of new permits for March, 1934 reported by the building commissioners of fifty-four communities amounted to $524,758. This is compared with $249,129 for February of this year and $198,234 for March, 1933.

A comparison of the half-million figure of March with other good months in the past two years brings out the fact that only five times has it been exceeded since January 1932, the better months being April 1932 with $732,000; June 1932, $651,000; September 1932, $638,000; December 1932, $567,000; and October 1933, $543,000.

The unusual project mentioned above is that of a house being constructed in Lake Forest for Leslie Wheeler, the amount of the permit being $122,000. Its location is just off the corner of Mayflower and Ringwood avenues and the architect is David Adler of Chicago.

This project places Lake Forest easily and without competition at the head of the list for the month of March, with a total of $143,540 new permits. Winnetka with $62,000 comes next, this amount including a $55,000 residence, the largest to be erected in Winnetka in three years. Glenview is third in order with $40,500.

Detailed figures of the survey include the following additional figures, concerning suburban towns and villages near Barrington:

The Indian Wigwam

Wigwam is the name for the dwellings of eastern Indians of Algonquian stock. It was an arched or conical structure in which from Canada to North Carolina was employed the same general mode of erection, which varied mainly in the plant materials (saplings, bark, poles or that used). The typical house of tribes of the Algonquian family housed more than one family, was oblong in shape, with a round roof, and was covered with a frame of poles, having the roof covered with bark. The interior was divided into compartments and a smoke hole was left in the roof.

A DANGEROUS BILL

The legislature this week will take up Governor Horner's bill which would make him virtually general business dictator in Illinois, under guise of assisting in enforcing the NRA codes promulgated in Washington by General Hugh Johnson and Donald Richberg of the "Brain Trust."

The bill, introduced by Rep. Thomas P. Sinnett, Rock Island democrat, would provide that Illinois citizens could be fined $500 and sent to prison for six months for any infraction of any rule already made by Johnson or Richberg or any rule which they might care to make between now and June 16, 1935. Each day of violation would be considered a separate offense.

"What the Volstead act was to prohibition enforcement," says the Chicago Herald and Examiner, "appears but a mild and gentle gesture compared with the sweeping powers now sought to be extended to the state government."

The bill would extend the penalties even to business men in Illinois who have not come under the NRA codes.

The first section of the bill reads like a "brain trust" dream with all the pretty, catch phrases and clap-trap usually used to cloak communism, and it also contains a cheap, but sinister, political trick by which the "brain trust" evidently hopes to make the NRA constitutional by evading the federal constitution's provision covering the delegation of power to the federal government by the states. This phrase, after setting forth that an emergency exists in Illinois, says: "and it is hereby recognized that such an emergency exists throughout the nation."

Similar bills are being introduced in every state. If three-fourths of the states passed them, the "brain trust" would unquestionably declare that such action was equivalent to an amendment to the constitution and would use this in fighting off court attacks on the NRA.

Section two gives the president, with the governor's consent, the right to use "all state and local officers and employees" in enforcing every rule of the NRA.

PUBLIC FUNDS WASTED

A classic illustration of the habitual waste of public funds at the behest of bureaucrats and their congressional supporters was presented by Senator Fess of Ohio, in referring to the valuation bureau of the interstate commerce commission.

This bureau was organized in pursuance of an act of congress approved March 1, 1913, for the avowed purpose of determining the value of all railroad property in the United States, in order that such valuation might be used for rate-making purposes; also to disclose whether the railroads were paying dividends on watered stock.

Referring to this 21-year-old bureau, Senator Fess said: "To date the bureau has accumulated almost nothing and the cost has been upwards of $100,000,000. It is true that the bureau has placed valuations on many of the railroads as of the year 1914, but what good does that do us in 1934, when so many changes have taken place that the old valuations are useless?"

The "hundred million of expense noted by the senator refers only to the cost to the government. Even greater expense has been placed upon the railroad lines themselves, through requiring them to furnish massive volumes of data which were obsolete almost before they could be finally compiled. All of this expense was ultimately borne by the public, of course, either through taxation or railroad rates.

Still new bureaus are created and the old ones are extended by every congress, to keep pace with the insatiable demand of certain groups for more regulation, inspection and investigation of the harassed citizen and taxpayer. And no end to this sort of thing appears to be in sight.

QUESTIONS POWER PLAN

Although several cities in the Tennessee valley have signed up for power under the terms prescribed by the Tennessee valley authority, some of them are now very enthusiastic over their contract, according to the Sheffield Standard, published in the Muscle Shoals area.

In a well-considered editorial on the subject, in which the objections to the authority's plan are set forth, the Standard says:

"Well-informed business men doubt the practicability of the plans adopted by the Tennessee valley authority for the resale of hydro-electrical energy generated at Wilson dam. It is a known fact that city officials of the three cities in the Muscle Shoals district are not at all jubilant over the contracts they have made with the TVA."

One of the principal objections to the TVA contract is that it establishes the rates at which cities must resell the power bought from the government. These resale rates are such as to make it impossible for the cities to break even on their power operations, according to competent engineers. Another objection is that the TVA rates are such as to virtually preclude the possibility of industrial development in the area it is to serve.

The Tennessee valley experiment will be watched with interest by the country at large, and many thoughtful citizens freely predict that under the present set-up it may prove sadly disappointing.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN WASHINGTON

The era of confusion of error has begun. If it is followed by a courageous reversal and a facing of facts it is by all odds the most heartening thing that could be said about the whole national situation as affected by government action. It now is conceded by the administration that the gold purchase policy was a mistake, or at least that it did not succeed in raising the price level as was claimed by its sponsors. But it did afford America a breathing spell while the revaluation process was under way. It now is conceded by the NRA that many of the things tried in the last six months have worked out badly and that the policy is not to be rigid—the good will be retained and the bad eliminated. It is now conceded that the air mail cancellation was an unfortunate mistake. Ways and means of rectifying the error are being sought. Private air lines will soon be carrying the mails again.

It is conceded that an intermediate credit system for business is essential. A bill to make five year loans to industry is now favored by the president. It is the beginning of a new credit machinery designed to make working capital available to business large and small. It now is conceded that the securities act has some grave complications in it. But the sponsors of the act are strangely making changes and it does not look as if they are sufficiently convinced of the damage the law has done to warrant much revision as yet. It now is conceded that the first drafts of the stock exchange regulation bill would not have been regarded by the Wall Street brokers but would have imposed hardships on businesses whose securities have been listed.

The bill has been rewritten three times and is still a measure to orderly recovery. Perhaps this measure will become law before the errors will be clearly demonstrated. The confessional on the part of the president may not be at hand but it will be necessary in due time. It now is conceded that "doing something for silver" rated too many hopes. The president has had to put his foot down and discourage inflation via silver. His argument is that there is still an international agreement necessary.

The NRA just now is passing through a life and death crisis. General Johnson himself has admitted that a reaction has set in.

Playthings

"I want a toy for a little boy seven years old."

"Oh, just some little thing that he can play with. I have to take him something. Any bright, attractive toy with answer."

"How's this tumbling man? You wind him like this and he does like it."

The little boy gets another toy. He twists the key and watches the man turn over and over and then lie still. He winds him again and watches. Each time his interest grows less and less until by the tenth time he has wound him and watched him he has had enough. That is the life story of many and many a toy.

I like the tumbling man and the relatives for the Christmas stockings. All children like some junk in their playbox. But when they are fed to children all year round, there is little pleasure in them and much waste.

The attraction a toy holds for a child is its promise of activity. Not its own activity. The toy is the activity for himself. The more he can do with his plaything the better it is for him and the more he likes it.

When you buy a doll ask yourself how many things the child can do with it. If it is only a decorative object, if it is a collection doll, leave it and take one that offers variety and companionship.

All children like and use balls. A ball is not just a ball. There are balls for many occasions. Try to find what the child can do with this ball and so make it worth his while to own it.

You see, toys are really toys. We have called them playthings lately and that their real use has been overlaid with a heavy coating of misinformation. Toys are the tools that a child uses to carry the ladder he must mount to carry him from infancy up to maturity. The quality and the implications of his tools are of the highest importance to his success. Regard them with respect and select them with understanding care.

Toys need not be costly to be effective. Their effect depends upon their service to the child in question. Blocks do not cost as much as miniature automobiles and they do more for the children. Balls, dolls, miniature cooking sets, etc., work, sewing kits and baskets, materials of all kinds for constructive work and crafts, all these are good. A loom is a good investment for one sort of child and a garden set for another. Study your child and make your gifts conform to the dignity of their use. They are the child's means of growth.

Bankruptcy
The laws of bankruptcy are far less severe on debtors than they used to be. At one time in Scotland bankrupts were compelled to wear a distinctive costume, and in England, until 1861, they were treated almost as criminals. So degraded was bankruptcy in general esteem that newspapers and magazines with pretensions to refinement hesitated to print the word in full and when they had to use it, say in publishing a list of unfortunate companies, they used the heading, "B-k-r-p-t-c-y."

Elia High School

Elia high school's ball club took advantage of a profusion of errors by the Broncho nine and romped off with a 9 to 4 win in the opening conference game for both teams last Friday. The local boys lost what chances they had of winning by committing a high total of seven errors. At the same time Elia played air-tight ball and had no marks in the error column.

The Bronks only made six hits off the offerings of Wolcott, Hix and Altonburg, but in a fine performance, turning nine of the ten hits into runs, they scored nine runs. The Elia players made in the heat in the last two times at bat when they crossed the plate for six runs.

Molters and Altonburg led the Broncho batters with two hits apiece. LaPointe and Workman collected the other local hits. Only three extra base hits were made in the game; doubles by Molters, Buschinger, and Collins.

Leiden's strong ball team was scheduled to meet the Bronchos in a conference game this Thursday.

Hydrogen Puts Light in Stars
So only is about one-fourth of a star's weight due to hydrogen, but the star is supplied with heat and light by the continual breaking up and recombining of the hydrogen atoms, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. "That is the belief of a doctrine of Mount Wilson observatory, who says that in their earlier history, stars may have been made entirely of hydrogen clouds. Later, hydrogen atoms condensed to form heavier elements like oxygen, carbon, iron and the like. During this process enormous energy was released, keeping the star hot and bright. Spectroscopic study of distant particles or atoms which have been sent their electrons has revealed these secrets of the stars."

Sixty Attend "B" Club Huddle at Local H. School

Sixty high school athletes, dads, and former major letter winners at B.H.S. attended the "B" club Huddle at the school gymnasium last Friday night.

The "B" club president Henry Brandt, Coach P. E. Clark and T. C. Hordford. Harold Calkins acted as master of ceremonies. In his talk "C. C." introduced the members of the championship heavyweight basketball team and displayed the trophy they won during the past season. He also remarked that with several of the conference schools nearing the 600 mark in enrollment competition is getting tougher each year and that Barrington should be proud of the basketball record of the last four years in which time four trophies have been won.

Entertainment was provided by a pair of wrestling matches between Jack Fletcher and Chuck Kershaw, and Art Workman and Howdy Melner; and the feature of the evening, a basketball game between two teams of dads. Although some of the dads had evidently never handled a basketball before they engaged in a thrilling game consisting of two 5 minute halves and most of the players

Cricket Sings by Telephone That a cricket possesses hearing apparatus in its forelegs, and that a female cricket will hop toward a male cricket when the latter produces a love song by rubbing his wings together has been known for some time. were exhausted at the finish. Romeo Capelli as referee kept the game moving at a fast pace.

Cricket Sings by Telephone That a cricket possesses hearing apparatus in its forelegs, and that a female cricket will hop toward a male cricket when the latter produces a love song by rubbing his wings together has been known for some time. But scientists have thought it possible that other factors, such as smell, vision or vibration might also be involved in this response, until experiments recently described proved this was not true. A male cricket was induced to chirp into the telephone and the receiver at the other end of the line was left off the hook within hearing distance of a female cricket. As soon as the chirping began the female cricket rose into the air and settled down beside the receiver.—Detroit News.

White School Children Entertain P-T-A Group at Declamatory Contest

Winners in the declamatory contest which was a part of the P-T-A program put on at White school, north of Barrington on Hough street, Friday evening were Lillian Linders of the eighth grade, Norman Nettles of seventh, and Robert Mark of sixth. Mrs. Robert Howland, Mrs. Fred Record, and Mrs. Lester Higgins served as judges for the contest and two children took part.

Mrs. Theodore Suh, who spent years in China with her husband a missionary, took the children on a verbal trip through China and showed them carvings which she had brought back from there. Incidentally illustrating the proper method of eating with chop sticks.

An exhibit of the children's school work had been arranged for the evening and a social hour completed the program. Mrs. Vernon Schroeder is teacher at the school.

Members of the White school baseball team played their first game of the season Tuesday afternoon, winning a 23-12 victory from the Waterman school nine.

Erman S. Smith Attends Meeting of Educators
at Chicago April 18-21

Erman S. Smith, superintendent of Barrington schools, attended the 29th annual meeting of the North Central association of Colleges and Secondary schools, held at the Stevens hotel, Chicago, April 18 to 21.

The problem of maintaining educational standards under the handicap of greatly restricted budgets was one of the chief topics of discussion by the educators who came from more than 20 states, it was reported.

Among the prominent speakers at the various sessions during the week-end were Dr. George Fredrick Zook, United States commissioner of education; Dr. Chas. H. Judd, dean of the school of education at the University of Chicago; L. B. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota; and H. M. Gage, president of Cornell college, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

The association comprises colleges and universities and parochial schools throughout the Middle West and determines standards for teachers and curriculum upon which corresponding schools are based.

IER Will Remodel High School; Plan $12,060 Payroll

Relief Labor to Start Work
May 21; District to Supply Materials

school district No. 4's request for an Illinois Emergency Relief project to remodel the local public school building was accepted this week and IER laborers will begin work May 21, according to Supt. E. S. Smith. An estimated payroll of $12,060.80 will be provided by the IER but the school district will have to supply materials estimated to cost a little more than $5000.

Remodeling plans, as designed by architect Robert Work, include the building of a boiler room on the west side of the school building, the installation of a new boiler, remodeling of the school office, and of the former boiler room into a shop room for manual training and mechanical drawing. Work must be completed July 11 and the total labor requisition must not exceed $12,060.80, it was reported. For that reason, the tentative plans of remodeling the building have been abandoned and work will be concentrated on the basement and first two floors.

Remodeling of the school office will include a re-arrangement of the waiting room, private office and storage room and enlarging of the entrance space by taking out a cloak room. The new waiting room, when completed, will measure 13 feet by 20 feet 6 inches and will stretch across the east side of the building. The superintendent's new office will be built adjacent to it and along the north wall. The complete re-arrangement is expected to give added spaciousness, according to Mr. Smith.

New boilers will be installed by IER workers as soon as the new boiler room, as approved in the project, is completed. Work in the former boiler room will include remodeling and putting it into condition for manual training and mechanical drawing. Since the school district must provide materials, the IER supplying labor but no materials, improvement of the school building will be within the school budget, it was reported. Skilled workers as well as unskilled labor will be required for the work, the exact number to be announced later.

Preferred Deposit Claim in Bank Not Allowed by Court

Claims of all depositors in the First State bank who did not have loan offset privileges are equal regardless of time when deposits were made according to an appellate court decision returned this week in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Bell versus the receiver of the bank.

Mr. Bell had contended he held a preferred claim on the grounds that the bank was actually insolvent when he made a deposit of between $500 and $1000 several days before the institution closed. Judge William Y. Brock of circuit court upheld his claim.

The case was carried to the appellate court of the first district. A decision reversing Judge Brock's ruling was returned.
