RESTORING CONFIDENCE

RESTORING CONFIDENCE

The "handwriting on the wall" seems to indicate that unless the banks of the country-loosen up their credit policies the government is going to provide ways and means of extending credit to small industries. Such a step may be taken but it would be unnecessary if the bankers would resume their normal place in the business world.

According to authentic sources, the banks of the United States are bursting with deposits and idle funds are so plentiful that the bankers themselves can turn no profit, while trade and industry are working practically on a day-to-day basis without the credit facilities that are vital to business growth and normal progress.

Dasis without the credit facilities that are vital to business growth and normal progress.

The problem seems to resolve itself into the failure of the bankers to lend on character rather than on collateral at a time when collateral is none too plentiful. The development of this great western empire would have been slow indeed if credit had been extended to the pioneer settlers only on gilt-edged security. Character as a basis for financial credit played a major part in the early days and its restoration would do much to speed recovery from the depression.

This is primarily a local problem, not one to the solved in Washington or New York. If character is to play its logical part in business relationships, then these transactions must be local in nature. They must have the spirit of neigh-cal part in business relationships, then these transactions must be local in nature. They must have the spirit of neighborliness in them. They must be a manifestation of confidence as between friends in a common purpose, the development and progress of the community.

Neighbors must accept each other's promises at their face value. When that is done, fear will be banished and the depression will be over.—Irrigator, Selma, Cal.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

Many persons appear to have an inclination to cruelty, especially towards animals, upon which they inflict needless suffering without the slightest pity. In fact, some seem to take a fiendish delight in the agonies of unfortunate creatures.

creatures.

To one of normal sensibilities, it is hard to explain this sort of depravity, which is often found among children, as well as among older persons. It must be a manifestation of animal instincts handed down from savage and brutal an-

Cruelty to animals indicates a certain baseness, which

Cruelty to animals indicates a certain baseness, which usually includes cruel propensities towards human beings, which are only repressed through cowardice.

Children should be taught early to avoid practices which tend to make them callous to the agonies of helpless creatures. It should be explained to them that when it is necessary to kill animals for food or for the safety of human life, if should be done as swiftly and humanely as possible; never with a desire to inflict pain.

Il should be done as swiftly and humanely as possible; never with a desire to inflict paid.

Teachers in schools and Sunday schools might do a great deal more than is being done now in the way of humane education, while parents should especially observe and endeavor to correct tendencies toward cruelty on the part of their children.

TRUTHFUL ADVERTISING

Usually the argument is made that every business con-cern should advertise, but there are exceptions. In fact, some concerns hardly dare to advertise, because they cannot make good according to the requirements of modern business practice. When advertising is untruthful or misleading it does more harm than good. Only an enterprise which fulfills the promises made in its advertising can stand the spotlight of publicity. Hence, when we find a store or other business establishment boldly advertising its wares or service, month after month and year after year, we may generally conclude that it can and does give real values.

Observing the advertised business of any community, large or small, will enable one to identify the most dependable concerns in that community. Only efficient and reputable establishments date to advertise.

EDITORIAL SHORTS

When a general store at Doylestown, Wis., was robbed recently, no fingerprints of the culprit were discovered, but toothprints in a half-eaten slice of cheese attracted the sheriff's attention. John McMann was arrested on suspicion and it was found that his teeth perfectly matched the imprint on the cheese. Then he confessed.

Quite unusual was the deliberation with which Dr. John Quite unusual was the deliberation with which Dr. John Klutho, 65, committed suicide in Los Angeles recently. He rigged up a machine whereby he fired a builet into his head as he lay in a box. Equally unusual was his farewell note, which read: "To grandma—I apologice. To my sisters—I am sorry. To the rest of the world—Nerts."

Among the many persons who have attained high distinction in a calling they did not like is Admiral William S. Sims, retired, one of the ablest naval officers of his generation. He has spent 42 of his 75 years at sea, yet he says: "The sea is fine when viewed from the shore, but I never liked going to sea."
