Summer Roundup of Children Attracts 25 to Clinic Tuesday

Twenty children were examined at the summer roundup clinic for children eligible to enter kindergarten in fall, held in the foyer of Barrington public school Tuesday afternoon, and five babies were brought to the baby clinic. A nurse from the Cook county bureau of public welfare, Chicago, assisted Dr. Beane Brooks in making examinations and weighing the children, each of whom was then given two cards for free examination, one for eyes and the other for teeth.

Children who were unable to be present for the meeting this week will be given an opportunity for free examination at the clinic in June, it was announced.

Members of the summer roundup committee of the P. T. A. operated last week by getting in touch with 47 families whose children will be eligible for school in fall, telling mothers of the free clinic and adding that school officials endorse a complete examination at this time so that children will be physically fit to undertake school work. Parents who desire inoculations of toxin antitoxin, diphtheria preventive, for their children, may arrange for them at the clinic since the state public health organization will provide serum upon request and Dr. Brooks has offered to donate his services. All children should be vaccinated prior to entering school. It was announced, and complete physical examinations at this time would give parents an opportunity to correct defects so that each child would be in good health before starting school. The Barrington Woman's club, P. T. A., local doctors and dentists, and county welfare society sponsor the examinations.

Engineers' Plans for Widening Park Avenue Approved

Engineer's plans for widening Park avenue from Cook street to Grove avenue at a cost of $4300, submitted at the village board meeting Monday night by Carter Jenkins, were approved by the board and forwarded to the state highway department for final approval. The cost of widening is to be paid for with the village share of gas tax receipts.

The total $4300 includes cost of grading, paving, installing curb and sloping the ground beyond the curb. It also includes cost of removing the flag pole, fire hydrant, water fountains and trees. Both labor and material purchase expenses are included in the estimate.

It is expected that the project will be approved by the highway department, as the village has about one half of the required sum due it now and should have nearly $4300 by the end of the summer. Some excavation work, preparatory to paving has been done. When completed, Park avenue will be 18 feet wider, a street wide enough to permit parking on both sides with room for two lanes of traffic in the center. It will be necessary to grade the street five feet at the foot of Grove avenue.

Some bills for the completed village hall project have not been paid it was reported at the board meeting Monday night. The cost of materials for the project were originally reported at $4900 half of which was to be paid by the village and half by the CWA. The village paid $2450 and the CWA paid all but $725 of its amount. However, additional bills totaling $1400 were received. Because of these extra bills, the CWA delayed payment of the balance due from that administration. One of

BARRINGTON REVIEW

ESTABLISHED 1885
LESLIE W. MCCLURE, Editor and Publisher

WALTER R. WINTERINGHAM, Business Director and Foreman

ILLINOIS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Published every Thursday afternoon at Barrington, Illinois, and entered as Second-class matter at the Barrington post office under Act of March 3, 1879.

All communications should be addressed to the BARRINGTON REVIEW, 110 W. Main Street, Barrington, Illinois. TELEPHONE, BARRINGTON NO. 1

DRY COWS, BLOODLESS STONES

"Most business executives have climbed into their positions through a lifetime of hard work," comments the BARRINGTON REVIEW, 110 W. Main Street, Barrington, Illinois. Cards of thanks, resolutions of condolence, obituary, poetry, memorials, and all notices of entertainments or society and church sales and parties given for pecuniary benefit will be charged for.

"You cannot milk a dry cow," said the editorial, entitled "These Are Days That Try Men's Souls." "You cannot squeeze blood out of a stone; and business must be run intelligently to earn a surplus from which wages must be paid, and untrained officials cannot manage a business intelligently."

"To take business out of the hands of those who have earned their places as executives is contrary to American ideals. All our present difficulties, all the injustices that workers may have had to endure are due to the failure on the part of government officials to enforce laws, to protect capital and labor alike. And both are entitled to protection."

"But the laws have not been enforced. The lawless activities of racketeering capitalists should make justice hang her head in shame. They have bought government officials; they have told them how to run their offices. But that does not excuse efforts now apparently being made to destroy the stability of huge honestly conducted business enterprises by giving labor undue authority."

"The American Federation of Labor represents ten percent of the workers of the country. When these propose to dictate to all workers, to use every means to compel workers to join their union, they menace the freedom of capital and labor alike."

SPENDING $233 A SECOND

American taxpayers have been called upon to "kick through" with $233 every second since last July 1 for expenditures of the federal administration, more than half of which has gone and is going toward financing of the emergency recovery features of the new deal, according to figures released by the U. S. budget bureau.

Government expenditures for the 10-month period totaled $5,822,427,211, the budget reported, which is an average of $19,152,392.14 every 24 hours.

Compared with this daily expenditure, the government has been collecting an average of $8,184,154.89, leaving nearly $11,000,000 of the daily expenditure to be borrowed.

Reduced to smaller figures, this means that the government has been spending $2.34 for every $1 collected. And of the outgo, $1.28 has been for recovery programs.

BUT IT HASN'T WORKED

Of course, the result of inflation must be fictitiously higher prices which everybody has to pay without commensurate higher wages. But have it and the new deal restored America nearer to the 1928 prosperity than other countries? The answer is to be found in the figures. Great Britain has regained 62 per cent of that prosperity, Germany 40 percent and the United States 30 percent, France 27 percent, with an average for the whole world of 28 percent. And the answer raises a question: Will the governmental supervision, restriction and regimentation give American enterprise the free rein to recover from now on more rapidly than in other countries?

EDITORIAL SHORTS

King Tut's "curse" has no terrors for James H. Breasted, noted Orientalist, who laughs at the idea that there has been anything supernatural about the deaths of several persons who engaged in excavating the famed Egyptian tomb a few years ago. Said he: "All tommyrot. I defy that curse. For two weeks I slept in the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen and took my meals there. I never felt better in my life." Dr. Breasted is returning to Egypt to resume work at the tomb.

The government is dealing out bitterness to Puerto Rico in a big way. Two tons of quinine, enough for about 28,000,000 single doses, are being sent to that island for the campaign against malaria being made there. It is said that more than 50,000 sufferers from malaria are being treated.

Ford cars are being shipped from Russia to the United States. This fact has no bearing on foreign trade, however, as there are only two cars in the shipment. They are being sent as a present to Henry Ford from the Soviet-owned Gorka factory, to which Ford sold automobile patents.

Walter "Rabbit" Maravalle, famed shortstop of the Boston Braves, who broke a leg in a practice game a few days ago, thereby probably lost his chance to break the all-time record of 2785 major league games played, now held by Honus Wagner. Doctors doubt that he will ever play again. Maravalle is one of the nine major leaguers over 40 years old, the others being Ruth, Vance, Grimes, Luque, Rice, Jones, Gonzales and Haines.

Even the wrong kind of a tree planted in the wrong place is better than no tree planted no place.

Some sort of change is needed if our colleges are to fill the place they should in our national life.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN WASHINGTON

Considerable dust was stirred up in Washington during the past week over the report submitted by the so-called Darrow board, which bears the imposing official title of national recovery review board. Failure of the administration to make public the report after having it in hand for more than a week caused several senators to charge that the report was suppressed because of harsh things it contained concerning the NRA.

It will be recalled that this board of six members was set up under the leadership of the distinguished Chicago lawyer, Clarence Darrow, to determine how little businesses were faring under the NRA.

The blue eagle of NRA is to have its wings clipped. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson himself is to do the job. Clipping will take the form of an abandonment of NRA's effort to bring every one of the country's 7000 industries and a code of fair competition. Instead is to come a period when the NRA and the effort of the national recovery administration will be devoted to problems of the big industries, like steel, lumber, oil and others, that involve interstate commerce. Out of the picture, so far as the national recovery administration is concerned, will be codes for clothes, shoes, barber and beauty shops, hotels and other small service industries. General Johnson said that this policy meant there would be no codes for the insect exterminators, the corn-cob pipe manufacturers, the button makers, the fly swatter industry, the pig's nose ring industry or the potato chip industry.

New and strange weapons are coming into use as nations fight a world currency war that does not always go by that name but amounts to the same thing. The fight started in earnest when the United States last fall started to devalue its dollar and make that dollar easier for foreign countries to obtain. Money experts then freely predicted that this would lead to a battle between the dollar, the pound, the franc, the mark, the yen, the peso and other currencies. Out of that struggle was expected to come higher prices, even runaway prices, as one country strove to make its money cheaper than the other country's. But, alas! the money war suggested. But, openly, the money war did not come. The English did not devalue further their dollar sterling. They kept it tied. The gold standard countries fought to stay on gold, Japan did not add to the depreciation of her yen.

Renewed activity of the inflationist took and a mild riot of bonus marchers, on the way to join their comrades who had accepted the white house invitation to "shake down" at Fort Hunt, a camp located a little nearer to Mt. Vernon than to Washington was developed.

To the credit of the administration it is said that there is a growing realization of the underlying problems. The reformers are not as popular as they were. Brass tacks economics is getting more of a hearing. We shall have an administration that is more naturally characterizing himself as a "tough guy" when he came back from his vacation a month ago has hardly exhibited himself as an aggressive antagonist. He has preferred instead to go along quietly trying here and there to accomplish a compromise on legislative tangles but depending on a strong group of veterans in the democratic leadership of the senate to steer the legislative situation. There has been harmony too between the leaders of the two houses. We shall have an adjournment of congress in the early part of next month. This will be a signal for a bit of a rally in security markets. As to the present situation will be clarified. But this is a negative factor. To remove a threat is important and helpful but there must be an affirmative formula too. Public funds cannot any longer be thrown into the breach indiscriminately. The approach of the end of the fiscal year with its enormous deficit does not make for enthusiasm.

Stunned but not discouraged. This might well be the phrase to describe the administration's mood at the moment. For the facts of a receding business situation, an increasing number of people on relief rolls and a disorientation of industry's morale are not pleasant to contemplate. The change has seemed to come somewhat abruptly but has apparently been working toward a decline for at least two or three weeks. The causes may be the multitude of uncertainties produced by the legislative situation but any such analysis ignores the fundamental change in our economic set-up which has been there ever since our vision was blurred by the CWA money and every other artificial stimulus and disincentive. Now we are beginning to see what a false prosperity can do when it starts to collapse.

And the next day, when he has to write them in class, he gets them wrong 90 per cent. You wouldn't expect him to be able to make a cake on demand merely because he could recite the recipe perfectly, would you?

Let the slow speller write each word slowly and say each letter aloud as he makes it. Let him write each word twice, no more. Give him a few words and let them be related either in sound or in content. Then turn over the paper and dictate them and let him write those he missed just once and repeat each letter aloud as he makes it. If he doesn't improve in spelling by this method, take him to the eye man. If he can't find the trouble, go to the ear man. If he fails, try the psychologist.

Don't make him write words more than three times. Write words plenty. Don't ask him to spell orally and expect him to write correctly. Don't give him too many words at one time. Few children fail in spelling if they get half a chance. When they do, there's a good reason.

Founder of Homeopathic System
Samuel Christian Hahnemann was the founder of the homeopathic system. This German physician was born at Meissen, Germany, in 1753. In 1775 he went to Leipzig and studied medicine. After several years he returned and completed his studies at Erlangen. He afterward practiced medicine at different places, where he was elected to the faculty of the University of Halle in 1803, where he proceeded to practice.

Drying Oil
The bureau of standards says that the most commonly used chemicals for drying oil are the esters of cottonseed oil, from a drying oil in the iodine number, which is lower for cottonseed than for linseed oil. The drying oils contain a greater proportion of the glycerides of linoleic and linolenic acids.

FERA Workmen to Start School Project Monday

15 Men Due Here Monday 17 Coming Thursday for Remodeling

Fourteen laborers and a time keeper under the FERA are scheduled to arrive in Barrington Monday morning to start work on the public school building in accordance with remodeling plans approved under the IER recently. E. S. Smith was notified Wednesday when an assignment officer of the FERA came to complete arrangements for the work. A second shift, including 14 laborers, 2 carpenters and a time keeper will be available next Thursday, he told Mr. Smith. Local persons becoming hopeful that the former plans will materialize in spite of a recent cut in IER payrolls, eliminating thousands of workmen.

There will be no local workmen in the group, no Barrington citizens being listed as available. Any who are eligible should get in touch with a case worker who will be at the village hall Friday morning. Mr. Smith reported, since employment is given only to those whose applications are approved by a caseworker.

The first work will include building of a new boiler room, it was announced. The project, if completed, would also include remodeling of the school offices, and making former boiler rooms into a school room. Manual training and mechanical drawing.

Complaints Against Window Smashing Aired at Meeting

A group of destructive local boys has caused some expense and considerable annoyance lately by breaking windows in sheds and buildings in the village.

A discussion of the situation, held at the Lions club Monday night, revealed that nearly all of the window panes in several local buildings have been broken. C. A. Elsner reported that more than 400 panes of glass in the united business factory building were shattered. J. G. Hager reported that many panes of glass in sheds in the lumber yards were broken.

Other buildings reported to have suffered from the vandals' attacks included the Miller T. Lamy estate building, (in which several basement windows were broken), the L.T.I. building, and some empty houses.

A campaign to put an end to the trouble will be worked out. The village board, the school faculty, and the police will cooperate to stop further destruction. It was reported at the Lions meeting.
