Trustees Balk on Full Payment to American Well Co.

Control Panel for New Well Not as Specified, Board Says

Three representatives of the American Well Co. which installed the new centrifugal pump at the village hall in February appeared before the village trustees at their regular meeting Monday in a concerted appeal for remission of the money paid to $1172. They met with two-thirds success and were happy to depart with a check for $1100.

The water department had suggested money to pay the well company, but because of a condition of installation which has not met with approval of all the trustees, the money has been held back. According to specifications, the switchboard panel was supposed to be a Sandh Electric controller panel but was a Clark controller panel. For this reason, Trustees Schroeder, the only present trustee who was a member of the water committee when the pump was installed, has declined to give full approval to pump and control board. The chief representative of the well company assured the trustees that Clark Controller company and Sandh Electric Co. are all one and the same; the pump they produce is identical, but that two labels are used for certain advertising reasons. This did not satisfy Trustees Carroll and Harjo who refused to approve payment to the company without recommendation from the water committee. The committee then reported that the work is satisfactory, satisfactory to warrant payment of $1000 on account of the company. The report was made.

The water committee submitted report of village water test by the 16th sanitary engineering laboratory. The water had been found of sanitary quality and safe for drinking purposes. It had a slight turbidity and a low bacteria count. A proposed ordinance to prohibit puddling in Barrington was submitted by Attorney D. B. Malone. Action on it was deferred until after it has been submitted to legal business men and other citizens for consideration.

E. E. Ernst was appointed by President Gleason as building commissioner for Barrington. His appointment was approved by the board.

Residents living along West Station street, in answer to their objections against public dances at 112 W. Station street, were informed by C. Lipofsky that no dances will be held until next fall. Objectionable features will be eliminated when the dances start again. The board accepted the report and approved it.

Supervisor J. H. D. Blanke reported that the Pedersen Dairy has built a rod shed at its plant with part of the building on an improved Spring street. The board instructed the superintendent of streets to determine if the building is partly or wholly on Spring street and if it is on the street, the village clerk is to notify the dairy company that the shed is subject to removal at any time the village wishes to improve or otherwise use the street.

C. Lipofsky accompanied by a representative of the Chicago Title and Trust Co. reported that the avenue is incorrectly platted. According to the village plat, the First National bank building and the Lipofsky building overlap 5 feet. Each building is being charged for special assessments and taxes on the same five feet of property. Attorney Maloney stated that Lipofsky and the bank take the matter to court and ask the court to determine ownership of the "overlapping" five feet and to enjoin the village from collecting double assessment on the property.

A. M. Sowers, who had been brought before police commissioner A. D. Church for failure to provide Barrington vehicle tags for his light car, appeared before the village board to ask permission to operate the car without a Barrington license. He has a Wauconda license on the car and now makes Sowers said. He operates three tax machines in Barrington and has Barrington tags on all of them. The board turned the Sowers' report over to the license committee with power to act.

The trustees purchased 15 window shades for the village hall from the Acme Home Service Co. and called for bids for window screens for the hall.

The board instructed A. C. Burdick, village clerk, to notify accounting firms of the annual audit and ask for bids to do the job.

K. Shoup appeared before the board and stated that unwarranted complaints had been made about his tavern. He registered a complaint about the bank tavern stating that a new screen door shuts off a proper view of the bar room contrary to state law. On his suggestion the board instructed the clerk to invite a state inspector to make the rounds of all the taverns in Barrington. The board warned Mr. Shoup that friction between local tavern owners may have had results for all of them.

Urges Commercial Poultry Farming Here Prohibited

According to the suggestion, The plan was laid aside for consideration at a later meeting.

Objections to poultry farming were first voiced at a meeting of the board in April when L. N. Morse, 610 Division street, applied for a permit to construct a poultry addition. The Summit and Division street residents filed an objection to this application on the grounds that Mr. Morse already had more poultry than should be kept at one place in the village. Mr. Morse later applied for a permit to construct a two car garage. It was believed that he intended to use his old garage as an additional poultry house, so the second application was denied.

African Bird Directs People to Bees' Nests

One of the most remarkable birds is the African honeyguide, which directs human beings to bees' nests, in the expectation that it will be rewarded by a meal of the bees' grubs when the nest is opened, relates a correspondent in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What especially excites the birds is the appearance of a honey-bag, or, rather, instinct teaches the birds to associate this beast with the discovery of bees' nests, the honey of which it delights to eat.

The birds know that by following a honey-bag they are likely to come by a feast. And this explains their behavior toward man—they expect him to be a honey-lover, too!

A theory about the puzzle of the swarming of bees is that bee-bees are descended from Indian bees which migrate when flowers die in the same district and bloom in another, and that bees retain the age-old migratory instinct.

When a foraging bee has found some flowers rich in theectar of which honey is made, on its return to the hive with its load it starts dancing.

The dancing bee is followed by a crowd of bees, which follow it to the place where it has found the flowers. The bees then follow it to the place where it has found the flowers.

Driver Tries Left Turn; Two Injured Fatally, Four Hurt

Mrs. Elsie Fosket, Formerly Local Teacher, Is a Victim

Mrs. Elsie Fosket of Palatine, former teacher in Barrington, was fatally injured in an accident on Northwest highway at Benton street, just outside of Palatine, Wednesday. Her mother, Mrs. Emma Galtner, was seriously injured when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by another car as John Galtner, driver of the car and father of Mrs. Fosket, was trying to make a left turn from the highway into Benton street, according to the police. Charles Wagner of Madison, Wis., driver of the other car, was ordered held for an inquest.

All in the Galtner car were taken to the Community hospital, Palatine, where it was reported that Marion Fosket, 5-year-old daughter of Mrs. Fosket, was seriously injured and the others, John Galtner and two other grandchildren, Marion Malley, 3, and her sister Eunice, 4, were cut and bruised.

Mrs. Fosket was the wife of Dr. Robert Fosket of the faculty of Northwestern school of medicine and had taught first grade in Barrington about 20 years ago. Her sister, mother of the injured Malley children, had taught second grade here at the same time.

Early Money Exhibited
Early paper money of the Maryland colony of 1770 may be seen by visitors to the National museum in Washington. These bills are in amounts as low as one-cent and as high as $8. They could be redeemed in Spanish dollars or in English pounds. Milled Spanish dollars were the favorite medium of exchange at the time because Spain controlled and owned most of the silver and gold. Pirates and others did not have to remit stolen coins as the Spanish money was accepted at face value in almost every country in the world.—Fathinder Magazine.

Stonehenge
Stonehenge is a circular group of huge standing stones on Salisbury plain in Wiltshire, England. It is not mentioned by any of the early Roman or Saxon chroniclers. Many legends have grown up regarding the origin and significance of Stonehenge. John Aubrey (1603-97) was the first to claim that it was a temple of the Druids. This is still popularly believed, but there is no evidence to support it.

The Seeing Eye
The seeing eye is important as a first aid to growing knowledge. Children usually have it and some grown people. For example, two people or children may look at the same thing. One will see—a twig. The other will see that strange freak of nature—a walking stick. One will see a cross-roads of branches. The other will see the little nest of a kinglet or the fat-tailed form of a red squirrel on the tree trunk.

Abram F. Stults Dies After Lengthy Illness; Funeral Rites Monday

Funeral services for Abram F. Stults were held at the Foster Stults were held at the chapel, 203 S. Cook street, Monday afternoon with Rev. H. L. Eagle officiating. The body was taken to Chicago for cremation. Death occurred Sunday after an illness of several months.

Mr. Stults was born near Rushville, O., April 2, 1862 and came to Illinois in an early age. On February 16, 1872, he married Miss Anna Haynes of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Stults lived on a farm ever since their marriage and for the last seven years made their home on a farm about one mile east of Barrington. Mr. Stults' health had been failing for the past few months.

He survived by his wife, four sons, Gaylord H. of Gordon, Neb.; Charles F. of Barrington, Earl J. of St. Louis and Albert J. of Chicago. There were three grandchildren and two brothers also survive him.

Cats Will Learn Tricks; Not as Willingly as Dogs
Cats when properly trained have almost as much capacity as dogs for learning amusing tricks. They can be taught to jump through the hands, to sit up and beg and so forth, but they do not show anything like the willing co-operation of the dog, according to a writer in the Detroit News.

But the characteristics of no two animals are alike. Starting at the kitten, many cats can be taught through kindness and patience to do many things, from a dignified shaking of hands to a pure for a good dinner. Many cats will learn these things gracefully and perform them nicely, but most, it must be admitted, have to be bribed.

Some say the cat is too smart to trick; it refuses to make a fool of itself to amuse its master and his friends. A dog will comply to win his master's attention and approval; a cat only if anything tangible is the result.

Cats often act as alarm clocks. They arrive at the bedroom door at the stroke of eight with demands for breakfast. Mark Twain taught his cat, Bambino, to put out his hind lighter at a signal from him. She would jump onto the table and extinguish the light with her paw.

Other bright cats will impatiently rattle the knob of the door when it is not opened quickly enough to let them in. Others grow proficient in opening doors for themselves.

Charles Kainer, 73, Succumbs to Heart Ailment Wednesday

Charles F. Kainer, resident of Barrington for the past 14 years, died at his home, 301 Northwest highway, Wednesday noon after a long illness. Funeral services will be held at the family home at 3 p. m. Saturday with Rev. Charles Brussel officiating. Burial will take place at Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. Kainer had suffered with a heart ailment for the last eight months and had been in a critical condition several times during the past week. He was 73 years old. Born at Black Forest, Germany, he came to the United States with his parents when he was two years old. The family settled in Chicago where Mr. Kainer also made his home until coming to Barrington 14 years ago. He is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. Fred Bracken and Mrs. Hugo Westerland, both of Chicago.

Barbs—but Isn't a Dog
In the desert-like regions of North America lives a rodent called the prairie marmot, which has a very like the bark of a small dog. These animals live in burrows, and as many as 7,000 of their "homes" have been found in a square mile in Arizona.

Absence of Tail

Absence of tail excites comment and has caused considerable discussion of the known as the Schipperke, says a writer in the Los Angeles Times. The "tail-less breed" is a myth—none of the original was "made" tailless, not for improvement of its appearance, but to allow his more careful negotiation of the narrow decks and passageways of the barges. The removal of the "stern" for generations will cause any breed of dog that is so operated upon (as is the case of the Old English sheep dog, also) to give birth occasionally to tail-less pups. It is declared that about 25 per cent of the Schipperkes are so born—the others have their tails docked. Hardy, active and vicious, they will quickly attach themselves to the master. His name is pronounced—Skipper-kee.

Nerves and the Hair
Red headed people are the least likely to become bald; blond people are the most likely. Men doing active physical work have less trouble with baldness than have men in sedentary occupations. Those with high nervous tension are prone to lose their hair.

Book 900 Years Old

Believed to be at least 900 years old and of great value, a small volume was discovered during an examination of old manuscripts in the library of Exeter cathedral, in England. The book relates to Leofric, first bishop of Exeter (1003-1071), who presented to the cathedral the Exeter Book, an anthology of Anglo-Saxon poetry.

SALT IN THE SUGAR

Extensive construction work was scheduled to get underway at the high school building this week with labor furnished by the federal emergency relief and materials paid for by school district 4.

The improvements were needed and are part of a long time program for making better school facilities in the district. Installation of new boilers to replace old units which for several years have been on the verge of drawing condemnation from fire underwriters and school building inspectors should meet with approval of parents of school children and in fact of all humane citizens in the district.

District No. 4 public school building is not of fireproof construction. In fact it is definitely an inflammable structure. Hence removal of the boiler room from directly under the classroom to a location outside of the basement and away from the building is a very fine improvement indeed. The fact that the district does not pay for the labor, but only for the materials used, is surely a fortunate development for this debt-ridden community, which so acutely needed these structural improvements in its school building.

There always seems to be some vinegar in the syrup, however. Because local workers are not "properly" registered for federal emergency relief work, all of the labor beneficiaries of the improvement are from outside of district 4. There are local construction workers who need the employment, but because of the inevitable Chicago machine that skims the cream from the best political milk brought into Cook county, sufficient red tape is strewn around to tie up the local men who need employment and give the jobs to favored workers from Chicago.

And after all, the school district is paying for the materials which make the jobs possible. The school district, through its elected board and superintendent, should decide whom to employ to do the work.

DICTATORSHIP

That America is rapidly going the way of ancient Rome in its establishment of a dictatorship is contended by Senator Thomas D. Schall, of Minnesota. He says: "Under the constitution of the ancient republic of Rome there was a provision that in time of emergency and danger a dictator could be invested with absolute authority for a period of six months. A subsequent congress has given ours two years. During those six months the dictator was free of challenge to do for the commonwealth whatever in his judgment the emergency required. At the end of six months the constitution required him to resign. The most famous of the Roman dictators were Cincinnatus, Camillus, Marius Pompey, and Caesar, who was the last to be invested with the power. Thereafter the dictatorship, or emergency power, became permanent in the office of emperor."

"The first Roman dictatorship or emergency executive was in 489 B. C. Emergency rulers were not a new deal thereafter. From that date down to the assassination of Julius Caesar in 44 B. C. Rome had eight emergency dictatorships in a period of 450 years. The last of them usurped the functions of the legitimate government and created an empire. On the other hand, in 150 years of the American republic this is our first experience in granting absolute power to the executive without challenge from the legislative branch of the federal government."

"Thus we are doing somewhat better than ancient Rome. But we are not doing so well as Great Britain. In the last 200 years the British house of commons has ruled the United Kingdom without a dictator or emergency potentate. And we are behind the Swiss republic, which today, after three centuries of independence, still has its federal assembly which bows to the command of no emergency ruler, however persuasive or benevolent."

HOPEFUL PREDICTION

There is a general feeling in Washington that there will be much house cleaning by the administration when congress gets away. Much of it will be done while Mr. Roosevelt is on his ocean trip to the Pacific coast and there are rumors that it will carry out a number of theorists whose ideas have not stood up under the pressure of experience. More and more the president is believed to be leaning toward sounder advice while keeping his belief that many adjustments in our economic system are necessary. Those who think the arm has to be amputated to cure the sore thumb may be ditched.

CLASS POLITICS

Organized labor's quest for a national labor board to act as its master sergeant has been one of the most interesting pieces of political maneuvering recently. Few members of congress except Senator Wagner in the senate and union card holders in the house were enthusiastic for the bill as introduced. When it received an airing in committee it was less acceptable and was buried in committee. Immediately strikes began over the country, concurrently with a demand that the board be needed to stop further disputes. It has been high class politics.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN WASHINGTON

Strikes, terror and bloodshed, industrial warfare of the most intense kind, have created a psychology that will serve to push the revised Wagner bill to passage. The new bill is different from the original draft which caused so much criticism. Instead of being one-aided it now is broader and more comprehensive. With some changes here and there, it deserves to pass. This is because what is said and done, the new bill is really a correction of the blunder made in the famous section 7-a of the national industrial recovery act as language of which was so vague and mischievous that it may be said to be largely responsible for the labor troubles we are witnessing today from coast to coast. It is not expected that this legislation will prevent strikes; it is beyond the authority of the federal government to force men to work against their will. On the other hand it cannot use coercion on employers. The most that can be done is to provide a legal basis for authority to take binding action when called on to act by both parties to a labor controversy.

Rebuilding and reorganizing the NRA is a definite part of the administration's program, but it would prefer to do the job after congress goes home. For one thing Senator Borah of Idaho, is insistent on restoring the anti-trust laws. Senator Nye is active, too, in championing the cause of the small business man. But congress will not do anything about new legislation on the trust question at this time. There's ample authority for a reorganization by placing the principal administrative duties of the NRA in the department of commerce, and the quasi-judicial functions in the federal trade commission. This would mean retaining the existing system for certain specific problems and giving the power of review to the federal trade commission. Something of this kind may be looked for. The details will not be known for another month.

A billion and a quarter dollars "lost" by bank depositors may be handed back to them soon. The house of representatives has passed the Staggall bill authorizing the federal deposit insurance corporation to buy up at normal business values the assets in banks closed as a result of last year's banking holiday. The money which the FDIC thus hands over to the defunct banks is to be passed on to the bank's depositors. Thousands of banks and hundreds of thousands of depositors will benefit from the bill if it is passed by the senate and signed by the president. Closed national banks alone number 1460 and hold more than a billion dollars in frozen deposits.

Life for one million traveling salesmen is just one commission away from disaster. Only the commissions aren't very frequent, what with salaries and drawing accounts being scarce since the depression began. Left out in the cold by all kinds of exceptions for the solid brained cord industry, the retail monument industry, the coal dock industry, and maybe one or two others, salesmen finally got a chance to give the NRA a sales talk at a hearing held May 23. About 10 per cent got their side of the story dwelt in the claim that good salesmen are satisfied with only commission and that it is impossible to change the actions of outside men. As counsel for a salesmen's association, Samuel Untermyer, New York, said the plight of the 500,000 members is "beyond description." He said they are the only class of workers who have been "ignored and cast aside" by the NRA. Before 1929, he said, it was the custom to pay both salary and commission, but today commission payments are the rule. About 10 per cent get their salaries, whereas 90 per cent get them five years ago.

Senator Norris (rep.) of Nebraska, whose proposed constitutional amendments to do away with presidential electors and have popular election of president and vice president was rejected twice by close votes in the senate last week, expects to renew the fight next session. The resolution would have names of presidential candidates, including independents put on ballots in national elections in the same way as candidates for congress. The resolution would have to be ratified by the states, barely lacked the needed two-thirds vote in both senate votes.

Sewing
"I wish you would tell me how to teach my daughter to sew. She is now twenty years old and cannot make her own dresses. Maybe I ought not to say that. She does learn to dress when I expect her to do so. But she makes such a fuss and cries, and the dress has to be ripped out and sewed again, and next time it is the same old story. She hates to sew."

"I can sew anything, and my second daughter is a wonderful needlewoman. Why can't I teach my oldest daughter to sew? She has graduated from college and is starting to work in a very nice position, but that means more books. She loves books and nothing else. She reads and she wants to write, and I tell her she must sew evenings instead of reading. She does enough of that daytime. But it is a terrible struggle."

There is no reason under the sun why this girl should be bothered to death about sewing. Why should she sew? She can't sew. If she could she would without any compulsion. This girl is evidently very different from her sister and her mother. Why not? One good needlewoman is enough for any family. Let the other girl stick to her books. Just because somebody else likes to sew is no reason why another somebody should suffer.

Sewing is an art once it gets beyond the button sewing and hemming stage. An artist is born with his gift within him, all ready to spring into action at the first hint of welcoming opportunity. No amount of teaching, drill, pressure, will make an artist out of an artisan.

This happens often when you think between parents and children. Maybe it is happening in your own family. Maybe you are saying, "But you can't be a bee man. Nobody in our family ever was a bee man. You're positively silly. Whoever heard of making a living by being a bee man? Get this nonsense out of your head. Study your chemistry. I want you to get high marks in chemistry. You can be a chemical engineer. Oh, yes, you can. All you have to do is put your mind on it. If I can learn chemistry, you can. There's a fine field waiting for you. Now, forget this bee man business. Make something out of yourself. All right. You'll do just what I tell you. That's the end of it. He says, 'Pill me now if I hear another word about it.' Maybe he is a bee man. How do you know? What do you know about bees, anyway? If you should stop in your stride toward the laboratory some sunny morning and look into the orchard, you may possibly discover a world, a beautiful world where miracles happen."

Nuthatch Never Talks
The noise that we know as the nuthatch noise is not a song at all. It is a nasal "yank, yank," which the nuthatch uses as a vehicle of audible sulking, for he never talks to anyone. His song is different, and not so frequently heard. It is almost a whistle, and it has music in it. It is as good as the "peto" of the tufted titmouse.

Shrubs, Evergreens, Grass, Beautify Depot Park at Fox River Grove

Initial steps in the transforming of grounds adjoining and surrounding the Northwestern depot at Fox River Grove into a park were completed last week with the planting of evergreen trees, grass and a hedge. The entire planting project was handled by members of the Fox River Grove Garden club, the village board cooperating by having water pipes laid to the depot so that sprinkling connections would be made. Nearly three feet of gravel had to be excavated throughout the entire area and good growing soil was substituted. Evergreens were planted around the depot, banking it artificially, and a neat hedge was put in to surround the entire tract, newly needed with grass. Landscape work was in charge of the following committee, Mrs. Stanley Kosba, chairman; Mrs. Henry Stefany, Mrs. R. W. Dvorak and Mrs. Henry Stiller.

First of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" "Uncle Tom's Cabin" first appeared in 1852, in the famous slavery newspaper, the Washington (D. C.) National Era, established by Gamaliel Bailey in 1847.

Anti-Spitting Campaign Started by Tuberculosis Society; Issues Posters

An appeal for the elimination of promiscuous spitting, a major cause of the spread of tuberculosis, was issued today by the educational committee of the Illinois Tuberculosis association. To emphasize the danger to the public, the committee has produced a poster to be distributed in offices, factories and public places by the 15 local tuberculosis associations affiliated with the state organization.

The poster depicts a small child being led by its mother's hand, with the legend, "For my sake, don't spit! Spitting spreads disease."

In discussing the reason for the new emphasis placed on this phase of public health, W. P. Shahan, executive secretary of the Illinois Tuberculosis association, said: "We are taking a leaf from the educational manuals of 25 years ago. It was the tuberculosis movement that first frowned upon careless spitting. The practice has been reduced considerably, but today, after careful study of statistics on infection, we find that much good may result from a revival of the old anti-spitting campaign."

Arlington Takes Early Lead With Five Runs in First

Local Nine Scores All Four Runs in 6th; Jeffries Fans 12

Arlington Heights, traditional rival of Barrington in all sports, sent its baseball team here for a Memorial day feature and the Red Wings handed our Bears a 4 to 0 beating after nine innings of hectic action. Except for these games, the opposing pitchers, Jeffries of Barrington and Schaeffer of Arlington, collaborated in giving a strike out in the third and fourth innings. Jeffries fanned 12 and Schaeffer 11.

The Red Wings pounded on the Bears for five runs and the winning margin in the first inning. In the third, Jeffries fanned 12 and Schaeffer 11. In the fourth, Jeffries fanned 12 and Schaeffer 11. In the fifth, Jeffries fanned 12 and Schaeffer 11. In the sixth, Jeffries fanned 12 and Schaeffer 11. In the seventh, Jeffries fanned 12 and Schaeffer 11. In the eighth, Jeffries fanned 12 and Schaeffer 11. In the ninth, Jeffries fanned 12 and Schaeffer 11.

Lake Zurich Wins Baseball Game by Track Meet Score

Lake Zurich Pirates chalked up the second league victory Sunday afternoon when they easily defeated Arlington Heights 23 to 1, on the local diamond. Arlington's pitchers proved ineffective against the slugging Pirates, who made twenty-three hits, six of them for extra bases.

The game played Decoration Day on the home lot was won by Lake Zurich 12-1 from Wheeling. Frank and Meyer were the batteries for Lake Zurich and Ward and Kibers for the visitors.

Saturday a team from Fort Sheridan will play the local boys on the home diamond and next Sunday the Pirates will play at Parkview for their fourth league game.

Ela Township High school baseball nine lost its conference game to Antioch Tuesday on the latter's diamond. The score was 3 to 2.

The Emancipation Proclamation
The closing words of the emancipation proclamation were written by Samuel P. Chase of Cincinnati. At his suggestion, Lincoln added them to the document. They are as follows: "and upon the act, sincerely believed to be an act of justice warranted by the Constitution upon military necessity, I invoke the considerate judgment of all mankind, and the gracious favor of Almighty God."

Early Prima Donna
According to John Tanner Howard's book, "Our American Music," there had been nothing in American history to compare with the furor that Jenny Lind created in the 1850s. Her first concert was given at Castle Garden, New York city, on September 11, 1850. Two other famous singers, Maria Malabar, daughter of the Manuel Garcia who gave New York its first taste of Italian opera, had been in this country with her father in 1825 and had stayed two years.

Henricette Sontag had made a great success in opera and a sensation in concert. She was in America when Jenny Lind was here, and she went to Mexico City in 1854, where she died of cholera. Earlier even than these famous singers, Mrs. Oldmixon and Miss Broadhurst were famous on the concert stage in the United States as early as 1750.
