Cheat and Grapes

In spite of apparent evidence to the contrary, birds are positively not able to pierce the skin of a grape.

The part of a bee's body which infests the skin has nothing to do with the mouth parts, which are totally unadapted for biting purposes.

James Stewart and son Ronald attended the Cub-Boys double header ball game at Wrigley field Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fredrick of Crystal Lake called on Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Boomer Sunday.

Cheat and Grapes

Sharks with scaly jaws, two and a half foot, wash ashore and large enough to cover a table three times in width.

Sharks are the result of a long pale with a culture of the ocean in the rest of the world.

These specimens date back to an era somewhere between 1,500 years ago to the time available.

Crow's Caw Called Musical

Many persons who are perfectly familiar with the caw of a crow fail to recognize its love notes and its conversational abilities when it is ministering to its young in early spring or late winter.

The caw of a crow often gives forth quite musical sounds.

Opening its third day with matinee Wednesday, the 4th of July, "Twenty Million Sweethearts" will be introduced to the community by the Catlow theatre.

The play, a comedy drama,
comedy and romance, a well-developed plot and is interspersed with catchy songs and other music which give it color as well as adding to the liveliness of the entertainment.

There is a strong cast of players of widely diversified talents with Pat O'Brien in the leading role, a semi-comic part in which he plays a fast talking though somewhat blundering talent scout for a radio company, who boasts others to be his, while himself left in the outfit.

Announcement is made that
"The House of Rothschild" with George Arliss in the leading role is scheduled to play the Catlow theatre three days, beginning
Wednesday, the 11th of July.

WILLIAMSON CASE COLLAPSES
(Illinois State Journal)

A Sangamon county circuit court jury yesterday evening returned a verdict of not guilty in the case against Hiram L. Williamson, former state superintendent of printing, and Miss Nelle A. Machin, his secretary. The verdict was not unexpected. From its inception, residents of this city have looked upon it as a political prosecution, undertaken in consequence of Williamson's activity in opposition to the democratic state administration.

The state's case was discredited from the beginning by the singling out of Williamson and his secretary as conspirators, when the evidence showed that the payroll manipulation was for the benefit of attorney general Oscar Carlstrom, who had employed this method of paying undercover employees. Naturally enough, selection of Williamson and his secretary for indictment, prejudiced the whole proceeding in the minds of practically everyone.

Spectacular methods employed in the bringing of the indictments—the calling of a special session of the grand jury; the sidetracking of the state's attorney and the presence of an assistant attorney general and, later, the importation of a widely-heralded criminal prosecutor from Chicago; the appearance of special investigators on the scene—all these things tended to weaken the state's position. They confirmed Williamson's assertion that he was the victim of a political frame-up.

There will be little disposition to criticize the jury for its decision. The regret is that the case was permitted to come to trial. The community doesn't relish the use of its courts in the game of politics, and it probably will be some time before another Sangamon county grand jury can be induced to lend itself to a political prosecution.

TOO MUCH EXPERIMENTATION

Government statisticians who are engaged in compiling figures showing wonders performed by various panaceas were staggered by a recent report issued by the League of Nations, revealing that only three countries rank below the United States in industrial recovery.

Using figures for 1928 for comparison with current industrial production, the monthly bulletin of statistics issued by the league shows that Germany, Chile, France, Japan, Norway, Great Britain and Sweden are leading the United States in industrial recovery. Only Belgium, Canada and Poland reported industrial production at a lower comparative basis than the United States.

While the United States is experimenting with regeneration and bureaucratic regulation, Great Britain is encouraging industry and commerce to proceed with the usual freedom from government interference, and the impartial figures show that the policy of non-interference is scoring highest in the serious game of getting along.

A multitude of regulatory experiments by government have served to bewilder industry in the United States. Instead of being permitted to remain at their plants and carry out the plea for "more jobs at higher pay," managers of industry are forced to congregate in Washington and try to interpret the various laws and regulations adopted in the new deal.

With industrial production for 1928 considered at 100, the figures announced by the league for some of the principal countries, covering February reports, were: Germany, 80.6; Belgium, 66.0; Canada, 71.3; Chile, 121.4; United States, 73.0; France, 83.5; Japan, 125.7; Norway, 105.3; Poland, 61.1; Great Britain, 104.5; Sweden, 100.0.

TO THE TAXPAYER

If the taxpayer would vote for those men, to state public office, whose private lives show them honest, careful, thrifty, efficient, we would not be burdened with such fearful taxes. When the taxpayers vote for township and village officials, they do usually vote for such men, and the taxes in these units have been reduced.—Standard, Fairfax, Minn.

Perhaps the most unexpected development of this session of congress has been the attack of democrats upon the "new deal" program . . . while republicans have hesitated to speak out, the halls of the senate have rung with outspoken criticism by Senators Glass, Byrd, Bailey, Smith and other democratic leaders from the South . . . this opposition within his own party to "brain trust" ideas did more than anything else to restrain Mr. Roosevelt from pressing for some of the pending measures and pushing congress home-ward.

Republicans, with a minority in the senate, virtually controlled the final days of congress . . . with the president insistent upon a speedy adjournment they were able to bargain as to what should be enacted, something they have not been able to do since the new administration took office . . . their strategic position of being able to talk for several days upon any piece of legislation they disliked was instrumental in scuttling several regimenting measures, including the extension of powers to the agriculture department.

WHAT'S GOING ON

Explaining the new deal will be the chief task of the summer. Government officials are planning all sorts of trips to "educate" the public. The president's plan of selling ideas has not been to the popular comes just before a congressional election may or may not be a coincidence. It must be conceded that the new deal's experiments need the cooperation of the people and particularly groups directly affected so explaining is a necessary function.

There will have to be some explaining of the big deficit which will be definitely calculated as the books are closed next Saturday, June 30. The deficit will be large as the president predicted last January, but it still is the biggest peace-time deficit and the money not disbursed has at least been authorized for the next fiscal year so there is no hope for a balanced budget this year hence either. There is some doubt as to whether government expenses can be made to balance receipts two years hence—the middle of the presidential term. A new one will be on. Meanwhile receipts are increasing substantially and the big had tax collector stimulated by a series of new tax laws to be enacted next winter will be a factor in the situation. Maybe it will be discovered that business cannot stand the strain of taxation this year of the same because the price would have to be raised to a point which would force a reduced consumption and more unemployment.

For most among the bills passed at the last minute were the administration's bill and the Frazer-Lemire farm mortgage act, granting the bankrupt power of Congress, extensions of time to distressed farmers to pay their debts and mortgages. The delay in signing bills passed by Congress has been blamed on the fact that what American business can absorb. Second, conversations will be carried on with each country in order to reach agreements covering tariff preferences and other matters affecting mutual trade. Third, a special session of Congress will be made public and brought to the attention of American business men who have an interest in each item of the intended tariff agreement. Finally, a committee will be set up in Washington to listen to representations of business and to negotiate the agreement by the business interests concerned. The results of these hearings will be passed on to the final authority in charge of the agreements.

Schipperke, One-Master Dog and Proud of Honor
Nanette, the "little skipper" is the captain of the ship. For more than a century, these words have fallen upon the small erect, triangular ears of the 12-pint, jet-black tailless dog that watched over the castle, carrying the ring on the canal belt, playing his part in the story of Belgium and Holland, according to a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

Taking his title "Schipperke" is Flemish for "little skipper" and is the name he inherited in his full significance. Tolerant of other members of his household, he instinctively assumes the rôle of but one master, whose protection he deems a special duty, watching over him with an air of guardianship.

His disposition, whilst most affectionate, is tinged with jealousy, particularly of other animals. An excellent and watchful watchdog, he does not make friends with strangers. Very active and always on the alert, he is very courageous in the defense of objects left in his charge. He is particularly gentle with children.

Characteristic of his cat-like inquisitiveness and lively interest in everything that goes about him. At the end of a moderately long, fine tail, which is always erect, a black nose that is poked into everything. Each strange object or slightest noise that arouses his interest must be thoroughly investigated for its cause. Moving about with the agility of a cat, he seldom makes a noise when he walks, but is always on the alert, his ears a constant object, and when he hears, he has a curious way of catching up his hind legs. His excitement is expressed by sharp barks (dubbed in Belgium, the "burglar alarm"), and a barking mane.

Pike's Peak: Long's Peak
Pike's Peak is correctly written with the apostrophe. It was named after the explorer, Zebulon M. Pike, who discovered it in the year 1806. Long's Peak derives its name from Stephen Harriman Long, who, in 1819 led an expedition from the Mississippi to the Rocky mountains.—Literary Digest.

Horses and Their Nerves
At Imber Court, the training school of the London Metropolitan Mounted police horses, curiosities facts are recorded about an animal's traffic nerves. Air nerves are which pass every other sense, return again and again to master the lesson of standing still while an airplane propeller revolves overhead. Many police horses, while on duty in Oxford street during the rush hour often fight shy of tram car lines—Montreal Herald.

The service will be held on the grounds of the Evangelical Home for Children and the Aged.

The treasury is after a silver lining. Buying silver at home and abroad, the treasury is slowly building up the new huge silver reserve required by the silver purchase act which President Roosevelt signed in law on June 12. The treasury will buy all silver offered at a reasonable price, secretary of the treasury said yesterday. The silver was last week.

The purpose of the treasury's silver purchases will be to produce a slow and healthy rise in the value of the metal rather than any abrupt spur which might be followed by sharp fluctuations. Silver is the only metal which is issued against the silver held in the treasury, thus making the metal available for itself.

For the present the treasury will issue only enough certificates to cover the cost of the silver which is selling for about $1.25 an ounce. The certificates will be furnished, provided you make reservations a few days before the outing.

After brief funeral rites at the Wetzel and Peterson chapel, Waukegan, the body of the boy, son of Mrs. Bahanna was taken to her birthplace home, Valparaiso, Ind., for services and burial that afternoon.

Stables Burn

About 500 merrymakers at Dietz Stables, Mundelein, were endangered Saturday night when lightning caused a fire which destroyed the dance hall completely. Drums on the part of the orchestra, which kept playing until the building was emptied, and the manager, who quieted the crowds, averted a panic. The building was burned to the ground. Workmen have been busy reconstructing it all week according to reports and dancing will be resumed Saturday evening.

Church Bugs Thick

Farmers near the village have reported that church bug infestation is getting worse. Many fields of light grain have been all but ruined. The pest has been reported in all parts of agricultural Lake, Cook, McHenry, Kane and DuPage counties.

P.M.A. Directors Told to Withdraw From Federal AAA

400 Farmers in Stormy Session at Grayslake Thursday Night

Four hundred dairy farmers of district 7 of the Pure Milk association meeting at Grayslake last Thursday night, directly challenging the AAA by instructing the directors of the district organization to withdraw from the AAA which sponsors a code including small loans to distressed farmers and the slaughering of hogs and the cultivation of crop planting. Each of these affects the established dairymen unfavorably: the first through maintaining of surplus production and supply, the second by reducing demand, (a great deal of milk is fed to hogs) and the third tends to raise the price of feed thus boosting the cost of doing business.

An arbitration ruling adopted at a meeting, as predicted in The Review last week, used a price of $2.55 per hundredweight during a period of time as the price of feed is affected by the drought.

A third resolution demanded that the directors of the PMA adopt an policy which will encourage production of surplus milk.

In asking for $2.55 per hundredweight (an increase of 55 cents) the farmers were definite in stating that they would be fair with a period of time as the price of feed is affected by the drought.

It has been predicted that the price of milk in Chicago and nearby communities will be increased in the near future to cover additional increases to the producer.

The most active part of district 7 of the association is that surrounding Lake Zurich, and the majority of dairymen living in Elgin and Elgin towns are members.

The PMA and chairman of the Lake Zurich board of supervisors, was chairman of the meeting Thursday night.

Chicago Man Breaks Neck Diving at Banes Lake Sunday: Dies

An emergency operation failed to save the life of Robert Bartnick of Chicago whose neck was broken when he dove into shallow water at Bangs lake near Wauconda Sunday. Mr. Bartnick was said to have dove into the lake shortly after breakfast and was under the water 15 minutes before rescuers could haul him to shore. He was revived with artificial respiration and rushed to St. Therese hospital where x-ray pictures showed his neck had been broken. He died Monday afternoon and following an inquest Tuesday the coroner's verdict of accidental death was returned. His body was taken to Chicago for funeral services and burial.
