Maloney Declares Democratic Party for Constitution

Maloney, democratic for congress, charged Roosevelt opponents were endeavoring to obtain support from the patriotic people on a question told to every citizen and the exclusive principle of party, in an address made at the meeting.

Maloney, the democratic party, and the constitution reflected and principles of Jefferson the personal liberties people have always been the democratic party, and that the constitution of the United States was adopted during the time of Thomas Jefferson, the democratic party.

When side-swiped by a truck that bore down upon him as he pushed a lighted wheelbarrow along north west highway Tuesday evening, C. A. Schwartz sustained a broken left arm.

The driver of the truck did not even stop.

Mr. Schwartz had been working with a contractor beautifying route 12, a state highway, and in the capacity of wachman was guarding machinery nights. His wheelbarrow had a red light on it, he reported the police in describing the accident.

X-ray examination showed that he received a compound fracture of his left forearm.

Patrol Appointed to Protect Local School Children at Crossings

Hough street is blocked from Lake street to Lincoln avenue during school hours as a matter of safety to local school children, not to provide a playground for them, Supt. E. S. Smith announced today in answer to slight grumblings from a few disgruntled motorists.

"The community in general shows a fine spirit in regard to the slight inconvenience, realizing that it is a matter of safety for school children," Mr. Smith said.

Paul Pohlmeyer, captain of the patrol, reported only yesterday that a man drove through one barricade, breaking the ropes, then backed out when he saw the blockade at the other end. Blockades are visible from quite a distance so children have protection gained by motorists slowing down to a walk.

Billy Bennett is lieutenant of the guards this year. The patrol includes the following pupils from seventh and eighth grades: Harold Jorgenson, Arnold Kohnert, Robert Plagge, Warren Jahnke, John Wendt, Irwin Eglesman, Clyde Church, Earl Graebenholt, Junior Noffz, Richard Watson, and Jack Shepard.

Appointments are an honor, the patrol being assigned to put up barricades, help small children cross the street, stop heavy traffic when necessary, and supervise play in the school yard.

Jewel Tea Plans Cooking School for Local Women

Mary Dunbar to Have Charge of Three-Day Event Next Week

The Barrington community is going to have a treat on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday next week. Mrs. Leone Rutledge Carroll, better known as "Mary Dunbar" to her million reader friends, is going to give a three-day cooking school at the Jewell auditorium. The school will be free and all local residents have been invited to attend the sessions which will begin each day at two o'clock and continue until the time announced on page 4 of The Review.

Those two hours will be crammed full of helpful suggestions for busy homemakers for Mrs. Carroll is a nationally known food expert and thousands of homemakers throughout America have seen her perform "Kitchen Magic" at similar cooking schools.

Three interesting programs are planned: Wednesday the subject will be "Whole Meal Dishes"; Thursday, "Salads and Accompaniments"; and Friday, "When We Entertain." There will be no admission charge. Beautiful gifts will be distributed each day of the school.

Many Barrington homemakers are personally acquainted with Mrs. Carroll and with the Jewell homemakers' institute. She is a graduate of Milwaukee Downer college and has a bachelor of science degree in home economics and chemistry and was formerly baking chemist in the United States department of agriculture.

Mrs. Carroll is prominent in women's organizations, being a member of the Chicago Zonta club, the American Home Economics association, the American Dietetics association and is active in the Barrington Woman's club.

A FEW OF THE LAMPS NOW ON DISPLAY

Designed for Better Seeing

Better Light . . .
Better Sight

Which is YOUR lamp?

BARRINGTON REVIEW, BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1934

A million dollars worth of eyes and how to protect them with a few cents worth of light

"If I could only give my child more advantages," says many a parent today. Yet one priceless advantage most of us can give, is often overlooked—unimpaired eyesight. And this simply because we don't realize the part poor lighting plays in damaging eyesight.

What correct lighting is

To protect eyes you should have from 20 to 30 foot-candles of light falling on the printed page.
This light should be properly diffused with no glare, no deep shadows, no contrasts to cause eyes to change focus frequently. Under such lighting eye tension is relieved. Your body relaxes. Your nerves relax, too.

Why many homes fail to have it

Most women would be only too glad to give their families the benefit of safe lighting; to protect the eyesight of their children. But they have no way of measuring the kind of light their lamps give. And so night after night eyes struggle on, with danger of permanent injury.

How to get it

In the last few years some wonderful discoveries have been made about proper lighting. Lighting engineers have found that just by changing the position of shades, by raising or lowering the height of bulbs, and by designing a special kind of "light-reflecting" shade, these handicaps to eyesight are completely overcome. Your Public Service Store has a variety of these properly designed lamps for sale. They are beautiful as well as safe for eyes.
Come down and see them. At the same time learn, from our better lighting display, simple and easy ways in which you can improve the lighting in your home. And get free, a marvelous little device called "The Lighting Tape Measure," which enables you to tell quickly whether or not each lamp in your home is providing safe light. Act at once.
Don't allow the eyes in your family to struggle unaided another night.

FERA GOES SOCIALIST

Upton Sinclair captured the democratic nomination for governor by promising to exterminate poverty in California.

And how is Sinclair to abolish poverty in California? By hooking onto the Roosevelt administration and getting the needed millions or billions from the United States treasury. He told about it in jubilant spirit at Washington. After an hour's conference with Harry L. Hopkins, the president's federal relief administrator, he said to astonished newspaper men:

"Mr. Hopkins has authorized me to quote the relief law. It says, 'The administrator may certify out of the funds made available additional grants to states applying therefore-to aid in assisting cooperative and self-help associations for the barter of goods and services.' While there is no precedent for it, Hopkins is of the opinion that the FERA could make such grants to the governor of a state. That is what we want."

No precedent for it, but what is precedent as between friends like Sinclair and Hopkins; or, for that matter, the constitution, either, when pipe dreams are lifting them to ecstasy?

You remember it was Hopkins who said, rejoicingly, when news of Sinclair's capture of the democratic party in California reached Washington, "He's a good democrat; he's on our side."

WHAT TYPE OFFICIALS

Every once in a while, and possibly twice in a while, we have something to say in this column about the lack of public interest in selecting our governing officials. Voters who have this whole problem in their own hands unjustly find fault, when they themselves are to blame, if they do not secure service from men who govern them.

In an address, recently delivered at the commencement exercises at Hamilton College, New York, Governor Lehman said:

"By and large, people are going to get just the kind of government they want and deserve. If public officials feel there is a wide circle of people interested in their work, critical of results and ready to praise and reward faithful service, or condemn inefficiency and dishonesty, they are going to render good service. Conversely, indifference or ignorance on the part of the public will, almost inevitably, lead to service that is indifferent if not worse."

He certainly put his finger right on the spot. There is a tremendous indifference and no one wants to exert himself or herself unduly; consequently, right after a primary or a general election voters do a lot of fault finding in scoring the work of their officials, but there is no sustained effort, for it is soon forgotten. However, the public is always long in its criticism and fault finding, but rarely does one hear a word of praise. The governor knows whereof he speaks.—Journal, Ramsey, N. J.

LEARNING A LESSON

The masses will in due time readily understand the rise in the cost of living, the continued presence of 10,000,000 unemployed, the rapid growth in relief expenses and the throwing out of work of thousands of people through clumsy handling of the labor problem.

The administration's education has not proceeded to the point where it can appreciate what a delicate adjustment and interrelationship and interdependence exists between all lines of business and the investor public. It has yet to discover that throwing a monkey wrench into the machinery of costs is not the way to stabilize business.

The labor controversies of today make it impossible to determine labor costs for a sufficiently long period to make commitments.—United States News.

THE HUMAN BRAIN

The human brain doesn't wear out. It grows with use. Not long before his death Thomas A. Edison was asked how he kept his youthful outlook. He had been talking, at 82, of things he was going to do next.

"You can keep your brain young by working it hard," he replied. "It grows in power with use. The only thing that grows old about a man is his body. If my stomach holds out I'll be inventing new and better things at 100."

We are convinced that Edison was right. Of course some men stop thinking, others never did use their brains much. But the man who had a good brain and uses it to its limit grows in ability as time goes on.—Wayne County News, Wayne, W. Va.

EDITORIAL SHORTS

What has become of the old-fashioned banker who used to make an occasional loan on the strength of the borrower's reputation in the neighborhood?

A train hit a sedan the other day and six people were killed; none of them were on the train. This ought to give the traveling public an idea.

The darkest hour in any man's life is when he sits down to plan how to get money without earning it.

WHAT'S GOING ON

(Courtesy The United States News)

Relief funds and automobiles mix. And it's all right with Uncle Sam, some of the time. For, after all, autos to many needy persons are the same as tools to an artisan, who lavish money on fancy living—not if they're helping him. Not so, though, from relief administrator Harry L. Hopkins himself comes the warning that relief chasers with fat bank accounts may be jailed for receiving money that belongs to the needy. The auto-and-relief mixture got an airing in the past week in the national capital. The echoes were heard all over the country. The Washington taxpayers' protective association found that of $6,000 receiving relief funds in the national capital $570 arrived or drove away in automobiles and two used motor cycles. This didn't show Washington relief officials, who knew all about the relief chasers, to have their clients' cars as assets in job-hunting or income producing. Of course, they realized that chiseling goes on, and they are trying to stop it. But, they pointed out, many drive to relief headquarters in friends' cars or club together on a taxi. In many localities relief funds are denied to those who have cars or who have any other assets that can be turned into bed and board.

Planning without a plan tells the story of the NRA, in the opinion of one of the men who helped to shape the administrator. Thoroughly believing in the institution as it might be, he spent ten months of acquaintance with it from the inside. Dr. A. J. Hettinger, resigning from its research and planning division, has left behind him as a testament a searching criticism of the NRA as it is. He has a background of several years as a professor in the Harvard graduate school of business administration. "I am a democrat," writes Dr. Hettinger, in an article in the New York Herald Tribune. "I believe in the platform adopted by the democratic party at Chicago in 1932. I voted for President Roosevelt. I believe in net balance, in the objectives

There is a $3,000,000 disappearance between the treasury department and Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury. The treasury claims that Mr. Mellon should have paid $2,000,000 more in income tax on his 1931 income than he actually did. Mr. Mellon replied in a petition filed with the board of tax appeals that he actually paid $14,000 more than he should have. He wants a refund, the treasury wants an additional payment. In addition, the government claims that Mr. Mellon willfully evaded this $2,000,000 tax and therefore is subject to a 50 per cent penalty tax or a departmental assessment. Mr. Mellon's petition September 15. Mr. Mellon reported his gross income for 1931 as $10,890,455, net income as $1,271,116 and paid a tax of $447,559. The government claims that his actual income was $15,951,565 and was therefore understated by $5,061,082.

American sportsmen who go duck hunting will have to curtail their skill. The reason, the 1934 drought eliminated at least 100,000 square miles of the wild ducks' breeding areas, leaving ponds and lakes dried where formerly these ducks could rest and last year more were killed than produced.

The crisis: an astounding shortage of all waterfowl, with fewer of them now than ever before in history. The result: government is taking conservation steps and getting cooperation of state and other officials. Adequate enforcement of hunting regulations is being urged. Land is being acquired rapidly in various sections for restoration of marsh and water areas for future resting, feeding and breeding grounds.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri
e. Bell Syndicate—WNU Service

The Jealous child

We are likely to be impatent with the jealous child. Jealousy is an ugly trait and its possessor gets little sympathy. We look at the result of it and turn away from the offender in disgust. We are angry when we ought to be sympathetic.

Jealousy is an affliction. I believe that no healthy mind harbors jealousy. The day is coming when we will call in the mental hygiene specialist and ask him what he can do to ease the child of this complaint. Instead of punishing him we will get a prescription for him. Let us hope it works.

Anger and jealousy go hand in hand. One is as poisonous as the other. Neither of them can be in a mind that is open to the sunshine of love and service. When the healthy breezes of laughter and industry blow through a mind all the dark corners are swept clean of such dangerous clutter and the healthy mind goes on its way merrily, knowing no grudging and no self-seeking. A healthy mind, which means a healthy heart, looks after itself and is certain of its ability to do so.

The helpless self, which means the unhealthy mind, the one that no sun and breeze may enter, is afraid, it falters, it leans on other people, it is afraid of what it does. By that sign you can always know it. Then don't be angry about it. Don't turn in disgust away from it. It needs help.

How can you help a jealous child? Tell him what alls him carefully and impersonally that he is thinking the wrong way, that he had worked his example wrong. Proceed to show him the mistake. "When you begin to think that Tilly has taken your place you are headed the wrong way. You see you are alive. So long as you are alive nobody can be you, nobody can stand in your place. It is silly of you to think he can."

"When you think that Tilly is getting the love you ought to get you are making a great mistake. Love is not measured that way. The more love you give the more there is to give. You can't shut the love that comes to you unless you shut it out. When you feel ugly and selfish you shut out the love that comes to you. You do this yourself. Now I'll tell you what you do. Tilly is so little she can't get her own night things ready. Every night you slip upstairs and lay out that child's things for her, help her get ready for bedtime. Give the little thing a lift. If you do this you'll know better than to feel so jealous of every little kindness that is shown her. Be the first to help her and see how things come out right for you."

It will take many a lesson but at it. Jealousy can be driven out by service. Of course I am thinking for granted that nobody is doing his best to help the child for his amusement. Anybody that does that is a dangerous person to have about children. Teach him the error of his way or shut him out of the child's life. Jealousy is poison to the human body and mind. Who would deliberately feed poison to a child?

Teach him to love and to serve and say no word about the other thing and he will come through safely.

GRIST from the MILL

By Clarence Miller

Divorce

A divorce is a case where those whom God hath joined together often it is a tragic exhibit; what I mean, a triangle. A guy loves or imagines he loves another dame better than his wife. So, he up and gives her the gate on the grounds that she makes poor coffee, or by reason of an alibi other than coffee grounds.

When a Jane falls in love with another gent, she doesn't always go to the trouble of securing a divorce. Just shoots the brute.

The state's attorney, of course, may take exception to the short cut, and demand trial. From that time on it's a question of pulchritude. If the femme flourishes a mean ankle, or you might say, a shapely calf, Good Night! Might as well dismiss and go home.

Jurors are susceptible to entrapment.

Some gals marry with the idea of later grabbing off a nice hunk of alimony. Divorcees bleed with generous ex-wife revenue never need be lonesome, for there are always suave gigolos more than willing to share a sociable evening, and help them dispense their dough.

If the ex-husband doesn't come across, to the hooch he may go.

Some jalls have what is known as "Amony" Row—a kind of Rome's Gallery for delinquent daddies.

One can spend a pleasant Sunday afternoon viewing those matrimonial derelicts instead of watching the monkeys at the zoo.

Sacred writings have preserved record of one who had a thousand wives—and marry a divorce.

Wot a man!

Sound From Earthquake

An earthquake of some intensity is accompanied by sound. This is variously described as resembling thunder, roar of artillery or crashing glass. It is actually a low-pitched rumbling caused by vibratory motion of the air in sympathy with the ground waves.

REVIEWPOINTS

A New Menace

For months there has been an importation of downstate labor into the Barrington district. This has caused local labor people as well as business people to become indignant because of the low wages paid these people. Downstate living standards and wage scale is half as high as in the Barrington district. This has affected the labor force in the following manner: For example, a man working in Barrington, who has a wife and two children, can earn $1 per day or less, almost unbelievable, but the truth is just like just like bringing foreign labor into this country. With local working people getting just a bare living wage and some not even that, this great menace must be stopped.

To do this, business people and local working people must get busy at once and organize for quick action.

Wards Motorists to Drive Carefully Near Schools

With the public schools opening, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor Club, today issued a warning to motorists to drive carefully, particularly in the vicinity of schools.

The club president pointed out that children are learning to take care of themselves in crossing and that motorists should be particularly careful.

"September," he said, "is one of the most dangerous months in the calendar."

Mr. Hayes believes that education in safety work is highly important. "This is shown," he said, "by the contrast in child fatalities and adult fatalities. Since 1922, fatalities among children in Cook county are down 35 per cent, although adult fatalities are up 156 per cent."

The club statement makes reference to report of the national conference on street and highway safety which says: "One of the most striking contrasts in any study of motor vehicle fatalities is found in comparing child and adult experience for the past ten years. In 1922, 11,197 adults were killed and in that year there were 4,219 child deaths. In 1933, however, the estimate is 26,909 adult deaths, with child fatalities only 4,100."

The table compared by the conference shows that in the decade following 1922 adult motor vehicle deaths increased about 190 per cent, but during the same period child deaths advanced 23 per cent and actual decreases occurred each year since 1922.

The Spanish Main

Cartagena (correctly pronounced Kar-ta-hay-na, accent on the third syllable), the South American city, was at one time the most important on the Spanish Main, says G. R. Turner in the Encyclopedia of World Cities. In this connection, it should be remembered that "Main" is merely a contraction of "mainland" and is properly applied to the Caribbean sea in such expressions as "all the Spanish Main." The original use of the term was to distinguish the Spanish possessions on the northern coast of South America from the other Spanish possessions on the southern coast of South America.

The table shows that in the decade following 1922 adult motor vehicle deaths increased about 190 per cent, but during the same period child deaths advanced 23 per cent and actual decreases occurred each year since 1922.

Algonquin Wins From Bears 8-2 in Game Sunday

Barrington's Winning Streak Checked at Five Consecutive Games

The Barrington Bears experienced an off day last Sunday and their winning streak was five straight, by losing to Algonquin 8 to 2. Algonquin's victory was due mainly to the many errors of the local nine and nice pitching by Labahn.

The game was a close one until the eighth inning when three errors by the Bears coupled with four Algonquin hits gave them five runs. The Bears made their runs in the sixth and seventh with W. Grom and Gustie Altenburg scoring them. Gus pitched a good game but was according weak fielding support.

In the third inning Charley Berg was hit in the arm by a pitched ball and was unable to pitch the rest of the game. W. Grom caught the remainder of the game.

The Bears will play the Elgin Trade Council at the local diamond Sunday. The Elgin team is reported to be very strong, having won their last ten games.

At the end of the season the Bears extend an invitation to all business men who contributed to the uniform fund to attend Sunday's game free of charge.

Several Vacancies Left on Bowling Teams; Will Complete Leagues Fri.

With the alleys in fine condition and plenty of competition in the offing in the three bowling leagues, a successful season is in prospect for local bowlers. The leagues have been almost fully arranged and the fight for top position in each league will start within a week or two. It was announced, however, that there are still a few vacancies in all three leagues. All interested in joining should call at the meetings at the Elgin Armory and Holiday Inn on Friday nights, which will bowl on Saturday night.

The men's eight-team league, which will bowl on Tuesdays and Thursdays, will meet for final organization on Thursday night.

The men's men's league which will bowl on Friday nights, will meet Friday night for final plans.

Building Figures for Chicago Area Show Gain

A 17 per cent gain in August over the corresponding month of 1933 with a considerable falling off from July of this year sums up the survey of Chicago suburban building for the month of August.

The August total $31,157

17 per cent more than that of August 1933, the amount of which was $30,150. These figures figures compare with the total for July $27,500.

The trend of suburban building figures this year might have been forecast with more accuracy on the basis of last year's figures for 1933 but is just about the same.

In 1933 there was a considerable lull in July, still another in August. The same trend has occurred this year and roughly in the same proportion. Grounds for optimism and some satisfaction can be found, however, in the fact that the figures for this year have in every case except May substantially exceeded those of last year. It may be expected that the large fall gains which appeared in the figures of September and October of last year will be repeated in our reports for September and October 1934.

They will, of course, if this year continues to follow the general trend of last year. Moreover the figures of last year are the comparative figures mentioned in confirmed by the actual reports of the building commissioners on building to be inaugurated in the present month, September, or in the near future.
