THE MEASURE IS TOO HONEST TO EVER BE PUT ON THE STATUTES

THE MEASURE IS TOO HONEST TO EVER BE PUT ON THE STATUTES

Under the provisions of the Universal Draft act being sponsored by the American Legion the entire citizenship of the nation would be hardered in time of war. Not only would the government draft able bodied men between the ages of 18 to 45 to serve in the army, but the government would draft labor, capital and industry to serve where and when needed. The munition plants would be taken over by the government and munition workers and technicians and executives would serve for the same wages paid the army. Every other war necessity would be mobilized for government and war service. The entire country would be put on a war footing at once and the chances for war profiteering would disappear. It is extremely doubtful if the measure will ever pass any congress, however. It is too honest a measure to ever become a law. Capital will oppose it and there seems to be a tendency on the part of organized labor to oppose the measure. Selfishness is universal and the capitalist wants more in one second and the laborer more a day than the fighting man will receive in a month. If the Legion would make the passage of the law the major objective of the national organization it might be passed over the objection of selfish interests by an aroused public opinion. The passage of the law would do more to prevent our becoming involved in a war than all the treaties signed by full dressed diplomats in the history of the world. The interests in this country seeking to cash in on blood would be blocked and the efficiency of the measure would on much to discourage other countries from seeking a narmed conflict.—Summit, Forest City, Iowa. countries from seeking an armed conflict.-Summit, Forest

THE WISE GUY

THE WISE GUY
You know the jay-walker—in fact, you've probably burned your tires at one time or another in avoiding him.
He crosses the street wherever and however he pleases. He takes intersections on a diagonal. He's never content to follow the regular path. He thinks he's saving time. But is he?

the surface of the country lost in the saving time. But is he? The dodging, jumping and backing use up more time than it would have taken to follow the regular path. And he is taking a needless risk.

Mr. Jay-walker has a brother—the jay-buyer. Although not a product of the depression, his numbers have increased many fold since the country lost the formula for Sanforzing the family income. Today his numbers are legion.

The jay-buyer knows a way to buy things cheaper. He knows of a man from whom he can buy radios at half price, of a small mail-order house that will sell to him at whole-sale prices. His favorite pastime is telling his friends what auckers they are and how much money he could have saved them had they only come to him before furnishing their new home or buying a car.

new home or buying a car.

He thinks he is saving money, but somehow or other he just cannot make his income go as far as his acquaintances who read the advertisements and buy standard goods from reputable merchants whose guarantee stands for something.
