GRAFT IN PUBLIC AFFAIRS? YES, IN PRIVATE ONES, TOO

YES, IN PRIVATE ONES, TOO

The popular suspicion that public affairs are spotted here and there with graft is no doubt justified in part; but it's just as safe a bet that there's no more of the sub-rosa in public affairs than there is in private ones. Think it over a bit attars that there is agree.

Did you ever hear of a couple of salesmen ganging up on a hard customer? Or a farmer trying to get a higher bid out of a hog-buyer by telling him of a better offer from another quarter her quarter?

Perhaps you know it's rather common practice to try fool the assessor on the value of your property—or did you think you were the only one?

you think you were the only one?

Maybe you have heard of some attempts at sharp practice in the recent corn-hog sign-up.

Sometimes you hear of children being told by parents to falsify as to their age when buying theatre or circus admissions or relicent ferms.

sions; or railroad fares.

Ages of horses and cows are not always correctly given when a sale is involved. Eggs not entirely, fresh used to be sold to the grocers without hurting the seller's conscience, hardened to the practice.

Doctors, it is said, sometimes have little agreements among themselves regarding a wealthy client; lawyers ditto. Merchants sometimes incorrectly describe the merits of their goods.

In fact, I can think of "graft" possibilities in all lines but the newspaper business, and I'll let you do the thinking on (nat.

Yes, there's doubtless a little graft here and there in public affairs because public affairs are run by people just like you and me.—Press, Osage, Iowa.

FEEDING PREJUDICES

Most of us who consider ourselves broadminded are any-thing but that. Otherwise, how can we account for the fact that we are seldom interested in reading "the other side" of any question.

We read almost exclusively such books, periodicals and newspapers as we know in advance will generally coincide with our own views. Few republicans subscribe for a red-hot democratic newspaper, or vice versa. People take church papers only of their own denomination. Capitalists take few labor papers, and laboring men would hardly look at one that reflects the capitalistic viewpoint.

In other words, we all have more or less confirmed opinions on nearly every important subject and do not admit that there may be some virtue in the opposite view.

As a recent writer has said, "The only facts we can tolerate are those we already know." We read, not really to learn anything new, but for the purpose of confirming ourselves in our present beliefs and prejudices.—Register-Herald, Pine Plains, New York. We read almost exclusively such books, periodicals and
