ELECTION INTEREST EARLY

Unless all signs fail the next presidential tampaign is to be one of the most notable in many years. Six morths ago not even a dyed-in-the-wool republican would have bet against the re-election of President Roosevett. Now, as one new deal experiment after another has become shaky, the republicans have been stirring about more. At the same than the third next talk positions with the possibility that time the third party talk continues, with the possibility that it might so affect the situation as to throw the election one it might so affect the situation as to throw the election one way or the other.

Reports from all over the country indicate that the people are no longer following with blind faith but are casting critical eyes both at the Roosevelt program and at offerings of republican leaders. All of this has the makings of a sizzling election campaign which will find houses divided against themselves as during the Smith-Hoover race of 1928.

A few months ago many of the republicans were leaning.

against themselves as during the Smith-Hoover race of 1928.

A few months ago many of the republicans were leaning toward acceptance of ultra-liberalism. There is a noticeable drift now toward sticking to Americanism, making the changes in our economic system necessary to aid the common welfare, but away from regimentation and centralization of power in Washington. That may be the big issue of 1936, with the republicans on the attack. In fact, they might adopt the democratic platform of 1889 which declared "opposition to centralization, and to that dangerous spirit of encroschment which tends to consolidate the powers of all the departments in one, and thus to create, whatever form of every ments in one, and thus to create, whatever form of govern-
