

Wheeler-Woolsey in "The Nitwits" at Catlow Sunday

"Chasing Yesterday"; "It's A Small World"; "No More Ladies" Billed

Thursday night, "Les Miserables" will be shown for the last time at the Catlow theatre. Barrington. The roles of Jean Valjean and Javert are taken by Fredrick March and Charles Laughton.

On both Friday and Saturday night will occur the special 9 p. m. feature of interest to registered patrons.

The screen program Friday presented little Anne Shirley, and O. P. Heggie in "Chasing Yesterday," the film version of A. Francis's "The Crime of Sylvester Bonnard." Bonnard's crime was nothing more serious than a little irregularity in the acquisition of a priceless, old book, the search for which had occupied his whole life.

Saturday, Spencer Tracy and Wendie Barry team up in a tangle of cars, love and injustice in the merry, rapid-fire comedy, titled, "It's A Small World."

A crash-up at eighty miles an hour starts a 16-cylinder love match in a one-horse Kansas town, and the result is something bright and jolly in the entertainment line.

Wheeler and Woolsey as comic sleuths combine fast-stepping music and spine-tugging thrills in "The Nitwits," the Sunday-Monday feature at the Catlow.

Betty Grable, a very personable beauty to the screen, is accused of being a blackmailer, but the relentless clue-tracers, Wheeler and Woolsey, pursue the villain in slapstick fashion and stumble onto the solution.

"Our Gang" comedy, "The Chinese Nightingale," a cartoon done in the new three-color process, News and Community singing are added items of interest for this bill.

"No More Ladies" scheduled to play at Catlow next week. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, presents an array of stars plus a sophisticated story under the production hand of Irving Thalberg.

Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery are co-starred, heading a cast which includes Charles Ruggles, Franchot Tone and Edna May Oliver.

The picture opens with a whirlwind romance between Marcia (Joan Crawford) and Sherry (Robert Montgomery), and maintains a rapid-moving tempo until the final hearted. Marcia is a light-hearted but level-headed society girl whose love of Sherry, an insatiable heart-breaker, is such that she submits to wedding bells well within the first reel.

Rock Garden: Rockery

The rock garden is often misunderstood to mean a rockery, but in reality the two are entirely different. A rock garden is a garden constructed with the aid of rocks to form a natural habitat for a particular group of plants. It cannot be formal and it must appear natural. A rockery may be designed as a pile of rocks either loosely or carefully placed together which may serve as a support for climbing vines or other dry soil plants. Such gardens, if they can be formed gardens, are largely for the purpose of displaying rocks and they would have much ornamental value.

Grove 'Yarmark'

Twenty Civic Groups Plan Entertainment for August 10, 11

The big question is in around Montgomery county during the past two weeks has been: "What's a 'Yarmark'?"

All that anyone who is curious needs to do is ask an older generation German or Czech-Slovak. Any person who has lived in Germany or that part of Europe which had been known as Bohemia knows all about "Yarmarks."

Those who know will say that "Yarmark" means first of all a good time.

They will tell how they used to walk or ride miles to attend "Yarmarks" and that these lasted as long as two weeks.

The "Yarmark" which will be on at Fox River Grove Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 10 and 11, will have all of the best features which made it so popular in central Europe—plus numerous modern innovations.

Plant Life in Animals' Hair Rarely if ever do the various kinds of plant life that thrive in the hair of animals move their host. One exception, however, is a green alga which lives in the cracks of the hair of the sloth and gives this tree-hanging mammal a mantle of invisibility that protects it from enemies.—Collier's Weekly.

Pure Milk Group Puts Manager on Spot at Meeting

asked the speaker to estimate how much profit a producer would make with a 35-cent milk base, at the present price of milk. Mr. Geyer estimated 56 cents per day.

N. Coltrin of Lake Zurich expressed his opinion that the association should not worry about the distributors' price to consumers. "That is their problem," he said.

"Our problem is to sell to the distributors at a fair price," he said.

He discussed the proposal to do away with base and surplus and sell direct to the dealers at the best market price obtainable.

Several fire chiefs were present to offer their views on the ordinance of the Chicago milk ordinance that all milk houses be equipped with heaters for hot water. These included G. Krause of Midway county, W. R. Krause of Palatine, Cook county, and Chief Snyder of Lake county.

These opinions were to the effect that heaters in milk sheds in or near barns would greatly increase the fire hazard and raise insurance rates.

Mr. Coltrin said he believed that the Chicago ordinance should be thrown out by the Illinois state fire marshal on the grounds that it would create fire menaces.

At the close of the session the members voted almost unanimously that Chairman Kealey plan additional meetings of the question and answer variety.

Miss Jane Marie Curran is teaching the young swimmers this season.

Admission is free to children of the park district every morning except Sunday and holidays and every afternoon except Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Bathubs Once Banned
About a century ago a nationwide fight was waged in the United States over bathtubs. Ohio, Pennsylvania and some other states had passed laws forbidding the installation of a bathtub in any home because they were considered a menace to health. Physicians warned the people against the intemperance habit of bathing once a week and exposing themselves to pneumonia. In spite of all this opposition, it was estimated 1,500 bathtubs were in use in the United States in 1836—Cappie's Weekly.

Summer Theatre to Present 'Hansel and Gretel' July 27

Plan Matinee for Children at Lake Zurich Every Saturday

Lake Zurich Summer Theatre is starting plans for children. It will present "Hansel and Gretel" at an afternoon performance Saturday afternoon, with minimum admission prices, as stated in the announcement elsewhere in the Review.

Other nursery tales will be dramatized later in the season, each with the names of other productions presented by the Summer Theatre. The innovation came as the result of requests from parents who sought recreational plus educational entertainment for their children, according to Fred Bray, manager of the group.

"Beaux Strangers" will be presented at the evening performance Friday, Saturday and Sunday. It has been directed by Preston Tuttle of the University of Illinois and Cleveland Playhouse.

Heavy Damage Is Caused by Storm Near Elgin Sunday

A freak wind and rain storm of cloudburst effect swept through a narrow path of farming country west of Elgin Saturday night, causing great damage. Elgin received but little of the storm and about one-inch of rainfall was recorded there.

Heavy downpour in the vicinity of Pingree Grove, Starke Station, Gilbert, Plato Center and points north and south left hundreds of acres of grain flattened to the ground. Corn was beaten down by the force of the rain and wind.

Unofficial reports estimate approximately three inches of rain fell in this area. Power service was broken in many places when falling branches carried away the wires. Traffic on several of the highways was interrupted as vandals were looted.

Animal Ecology
In a general way animal ecology is a science which seeks to give some definite form to the vast number of observations which have been accumulated during the last few hundred years by field naturalists and various other people interested in wild animals. Ecology is concerned with reducing and co-ordinating vast available information concerning habits, life histories, and numbers of the different animals, with a view to solving some of the urgent practical problems arising as a result of man's becoming civilized and interfering with the animal and plant life around him.

It was announced that Elgin is listed on the tentative program for the construction of 29 armories throughout the state. The Illinois armory board has under advisement a plan to erect a building at Elgin at the estimated cost of $100,000.

The state board, which was recently authorized by the legislature, and appointed last week by Governor Horner, is arranging plans and supervision of a building program calling for the expenditure of $4,000,000.

Armories have been planned for the following cities: Pontiac, Mt. Morris, Dixon, Rockford, Sterling, Delavan, Sullivan, Carbonate, Lawrenceville, Springfield, Urbana, Rock Island, Bloomington, Waukegan, Streator, Joliet, Plainville, Oak Park, Chicago and Peoria.

These armories are to be built for the housing of militia, to protect federal investments and regulate crowded conditions. Financing will be done by federal grant and issuing of bonds.

BLOOD AND AGONY

Moved to indignation by the failure of statistics to shock the motorist into a realization of the appalling consequences of careless driving, F. C. Furnas, writing in the August issue of the Reader's Digest, has tried a more realistic method. In a series of pen pictures of the results of bad motor smashups he offers such gruesome comments as the following:

Collision, turnover or sideswipe, each type of accident produces either a shattering dead stop or a crashing change of direction—and, since the occupant—meaning you—continues in the old direction at the original speed, every surface and angle of the car's interior immediately becomes a battering, tearing projectile, aimed squarely at you—inescapable. There is no bracing yourself against these imperative laws of momentum. It's like going over Niagara Falls in a steel barrel full of railroad spikes.

This spring a wrecking crew pried the door off a car which had been overturned down an embankment and out stepped the driver with only a scratch on his cheek. But his mother was still inside, a splinter of wood from the top driven four inches into her brain as a result of son's taking a greasy curve a little too fast. No blood—no horribly twisted bones—just a gray-haired corpse still clutching her pocketbook in her lap as she had clutched it when she felt the car leave the road.

On that same curve a month later, a light touring car crashed a tree. In the middle of the front seat they found a nine-months-old baby surrounded by broken glass and yet absolutely unhurt. A fine practical joke on death—but spoiled by the baby's parents, still sitting on each side of him, instantly killed by shattering their skulls on the dashboard.

If you customarily pass without clear vision a long way ahead, make sure that every member of the party carries identification papers—it's difficult to identify a body with its whole face bashed in or torn off. The driver is death's favorite target. If the steering wheel holds together it ruptures his liver or spleen so he bleeds to death internally. Or, if the steering wheel breaks off, the matter is settled instantly by the steering column's plunging through the abdomen.

More Harmonious Play

By VIOLA E. HOLLEY

"I wish that my children could play together happily instead of quarreling so often," said the mother of three small but very active children.

There are other mothers who often express the same desire. Quarreling, and the wrong attitudes that accompany it, tend to become habits if frequently indulged in. Although it is difficult to know how to handle such problems, and although children learn a great deal by being allowed to settle their little differences without interference, still it is possible, often, for a mother to give constructive help that will aid in building up a spirit of happy play in her home.

One mother found that she was able to prevent quarrels among her little children by turning their attention to something else when they became tired of playing together. If she saw that they were growing impatient with one another, sometimes she removed all occasion for quarrelling by giving each one something to do alone. She had collected several small boxes of tiny toys, and she kept them for this purpose. The children looked upon these as "treasures." When it seemed desirable a box was given to each child and in the happy, quiet play that was sure to follow, good nature was restored.

This mother collected pictures, also, especially those that were accompanied by little verses that the children liked, and she gave them for similar occasions. She found that even though ill feelings had already arisen, it was possible for the children to lose themselves so completely in looking at beautiful pictures or in recalling enjoyable bits of rhythmic verse that the disagreements were forgotten. Sometimes these children actually fell into a habit of seeing only disagreeable qualities in each other. They were easily irritated, then, by things that otherwise would have been overlooked. It was helpful, at such times, to think back about happy experiences that had been enjoyed together, and not so easy, but quite as valuable to notice the good qualities in those they felt inclined to criticize.

Upon the occasion of one outbreak, when two of the boys, then of school age, were holding "feudings" of resentment, the mother asked each one to write down two reasons why he was glad to have the other for a brother. This seemed an impossible task, at first. They did not want to think of pleasant things. But, when they were insisted, and found it was not so difficult, after all, when they gave their attention to it. "He plays with me," "He helps me with my mumps," "We went to the woods to gather nuts." These and similar reasons were listed. Happy thoughts followed and harmony was restored.

As these children grew older they were helped to think clearly about the situation when disagreements arose. Each one was asked to stop and consider how he would feel if he were in his brother's place. A little discussion usually made the boys realize that they were magnifying their grievances.

WHAT'S GOING ON

WAGGON
(Courtesy The United States News)

The federal regulation of commerce in alcoholic beverages, largely destroyed when the NRA code was dissolved, a bill is reported to the house for placing the necessary power in the hands of the treasury department.

Not that the treasury wants the responsibility. On the contrary, Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau has requested that it be placed in an independent body.

On another point also the committee overrules the wishes of the treasury. This is in granting permission for liquor manufacturers to ship liquor in kegs instead of bottles. "As a result of this permission," says Mr. Morgenthau, "only the army could enforce the law."

This provision represents a victory for corporate interests, who have complained that, without it, bottle manufacturers were being unduly favored.

To assist states in protecting their industries from ruinous competition with prison-made goods, congress passes and sends to the white house a bill that would impose a maximum penalty of $1000 on any person shipping such goods into a state whose laws forbid sale on the open market of goods made by the state's own prisoners. The point is that one state may not prohibit the sale of goods made by prisoners of another state, but it can be accomplished under America's political system, only by Uncle Sam.

The new bill adds a penalty to what is already an offense under the Hawes-Cooper act. There is another side to the problem. Prison officials ask how inmates may be employed if the product of their labor has no market. One answer, admittedly a partial one only, is production for use by the state or municipal government.

The federal government may not condemn land for use in slum clearance projects.

So raise the circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati, Ohio, thereby biding about Uncle Sam's efforts to provide low-cost housing for the benefit of the underprivileged. Grounds of the decision: Slum clearance is not "public use" of land; that is, it is not activity in the public welfare.

One of the three justices dissents.

Says UWA Administrator Jekes: "Three ways remain by which the union can win its case. One is to appeal to the courts. Another is to go forward, though at a retarded pace. They are:

1.—Through use of vacant lands, held by the union.

2.—By obtaining purchase options from 100 per cent of owners.

3.—By turning over to state or local housing authorities the task of obtaining the necessary land."

Farm control trembles under the impact of a blow from the circuit court appeal in Boston, Mass., which rules that the imposition of processing tax on cotton is invalid under the constitution.

Two grounds are set forth by the court for its opinion: 1. Production control within states is not a prerogative of the federal government and so may not be exercised through the collection of a federal tax. 2.—Discretion for taxing by the secretary of agriculture, as provided by the law, is improper delegation of congressional power.

The next step: Appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Meanwhile, the Federal District Court at Philadelphia, Pa., rules that processing taxes on tobacco and peanuts are invalid, but only on the second of the two grounds listed above. On the first ground they are declared constitutional.

Stormed at by shot and shell, the amendments to the agricultural adjustment act ride through opposition in senate debate toward a final vote—but not unscathed. Subject: "The AAA right to fix prices paid and charged by the first handlers of products in case of 50 per cent or more increase in price. The power has been used only for minor products."

Lost also is the clause that would outlaw suits for refund of processing taxes, should their imposition be found unconstitutional by the supreme court. Refund would be permissible only to the extent that the plaintiff had not passed the tax on to other persons.

Outline of the model plan for peacetime settlement of industrial disputes, as recommended by the labor department:

No strike or lockout until settlement has been attempted by:

1.—A panel representing both employers and employees, the latter including company union spokesmen if the employees so choose.

2.—A 3-man committee made up of one labor spokesman, one employer representative and a neutral chairman.

3. The head of the firm and the head of the union involved. Employers and workers in Toledo, O., are urged to adhere voluntarily to the plan of procedure.

"Plans of slum clearance may still go forward, though at a retarded pace. They are:

1.—Through use of vacant lands, held by the union.

2.—By obtaining purchase options from 100 per cent of owners.

3.—By turning over to state or local housing authorities the

The White House

When first provided for in the original plans of the city of Washington, the executive mansion was designated "The Palace." When built it was called "The Executive Residence." When the British troops invaded Washington in the War of 1812, they pillaged and burned the Executive Mansion, and left it blackened with soot. When the city was covered with white paint to hide the scars, and it was popularly called "White House." That name was made official about 1800, later when President Theodore Roosevelt had it engraved on his stationery.

Q. What was the Associates Land Company?

A. Capitalists interested in the Illinois Central railroad bought up land along the route of the road and laid out sections on this land, having stations built and thereby creating town sites.

Q. How many towns were laid out by the Associates Land company?

A. Thirty-three.

Q. What were some of the characteristics of the standard town plan laid out by the Associates Land company?

A. On the plan, prepared by David A. Neal, who was vice president of the I. C. until 1885, streets running east and west were named: Mulberry, Hickory, Walnut, Chestnut, Oak, Poplar, and Ash. Queen Elizabeth Musical; Could Play the Virginal

The word harpsichord was invented because it was seen that the instrument had a harp-like shape, and when a keyboard was added chords could be struck on it. Virginals, spinets, and clavichords are all like the early harpsichords, the difference being in the way the string is plucked, whether by a quill or wedges of brass.

Queen Elizabeth played the virginal well, and in her day set musical fashions. Instrumental-makers and composers were very busy in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries making better instruments and writing music for them. Later harpsichords had a device for opening and shutting the lid to increase or decrease the sound, and there was a separate keyboard with single strings to make soft sounds. All Eighteenth-century harpsichords had a harpsichord, played generally by the conductor.

By the Nineteenth century the piano had arrived, for people wanted more light and shade in music, and the harpsichords could not produce it. Curiously enough, a Spaniard wrote the best early harpsichord music, Domenico Scarlatti, whose music sounds fresh even today.—Montreal Herald.

Licenses of Importance
Several species of lichens are of economic importance, yielding dyes and foodstuffs. Ireland moss is edible, yielding a nutritious jelly. Reindeer moss is the principal food of the Lapland reindeer in the winter. Archil, a violet dye, is obtained from Roccella tinctoria, Roccella fuciformis, and Lecanora tartarea. Litmus, also a dye-stuff, is obtained from these lichens by exposure to the air in the presence of ammonia, potassium carbonate, etc.

Blank Reports Rebuilding Plans on Sewer System

and grant. It has been planned to repay the loan within a period of 20 years, at 4 per cent and not over 6 per cent interest, on a sewer rental basis. Collection of the rental is to be made from the owners of improved property in the same manner as water bills are now collected.

Recently the PWA set aside a loan and grant of $208,181.00. Of this amount, 45 per cent or $93,631.45 is an outright gift, and 55 per cent or $114,449.55 must be paid back by the village.

The preliminary plan calls for allotment of these funds as follows: $19,000 for rebuilding the sewer pipes in the village so as to separate storm water from sanitary sewage; $7,300 for building a 15-inch sanitary sewer pipe from about Flint creek bridge in North Hough street to the sewage treatment plant; $57,000 for building the sewage treatment plant so it will handle the sanitary sewage of the present population and up to a population of at least 5,000; and $44,000 for building a 24-inch effluent sewer pipe from the sewage treatment plant to Flint creek at its intersection with the North-West highway. The balance of the funds will be used for obtaining right-of-way for carrying sewage effluent in Flint creek from North-West highway to the Fox river.

Details of Sanitary Sewer Plan
The preliminary engineering plan call for the following construction of new sanitary sewer pipes:

15-inch sanitary sewer on north side of Liberty street from E. J. & E. tracks to North avenue;
15-inch sanitary sewer on east side of North avenue from Liberty street to C. & N. W. tracks and then on east side of Summit street to Russell street;
10-inch sanitary sewer on north side of Russell street from Summit street to Spring street, and also to Prairie avenue;
6-inch sanitary sewer on south side of Liberty street between Hough and Cook streets, Cook and Elm streets, and Elm street and North avenue;
15-inch sanitary sewer on east side of Harrison street from creek to Applebee street;
15-inch sanitary sewer on north side of Applebee street from Har-

Canoe Stolen
After three days of joy in his newly decorated and rebuilt canoe, Chester Catlow returned to Renard Park, Lake Zurich, Saturday morning to find it missing. The canoe, which he had just purchased, was gone.

A new oak post, stem and keel had been added the previous week, after which the entire craft was recanvassed and painted a vivid flame shade. Black trimming with a sketch of waving palms above the words "Deus Sejour" added to its distinction. The name is French patois for the phrase "This is my good day."

The canoe must have been stolen some time between midnight and morning, Friday, Mr. Catlow stated.

Recent State Law Brings Confusion in Traffic Cases

Due to recent legislation passed by the Illinois legislature in 1934 but which is a great deal of confusion has arisen concerning traffic violations.

The speed law regulating rate of travel over state roads has been done away with and due to added penalties violators of the new traffic statute can no longer be tried before a justice of the peace or a police magistrate.

Violators must be held for a criminal trial or bound to the grand jury. Since this procedure is cumbersome it has been found practical for villages to book offenders for violations of ordinance rather than the Illinois statutes.

It is believed, under the present laws, that villages may enact a set of traffic rules by ordinance. Also as long as the laws do not conflict with state laws they can be enforced and violators can be tried before a police magistrate or justice of the peace before.

Jail sentences have been added to the recent statutes for violation of certain laws that place the offender in a criminal category. Consequently those laws are to be tried by the county or state.

According to reports there will be changes made in the statutes in September when the legislature convenes.
