

Under Approved PWA Plan

Labor conditions in Barrington for the forthcoming PWA sewer project have not been definitely settled. The village board last night with C. H. Miller, union agent, village officials were unable to reach a satisfactory agreement. The board last night, with C. H. Miller, union agent, village officials were unable to reach a satisfactory agreement. The board last night, with C. H. Miller, union agent, village officials were unable to reach a satisfactory agreement.

In attempting to reach a suitable wage scale for labor, officials were told by Miller that the union expected to have the project completely unionized. He told them that he came as a representative of labor groups in Chicago and was not authorized to make a compromise.

According to his plan every man working on the job would have to join the union. Initial rates of $40, payable in 15 installments every two weeks. Also there are dues to be paid which amount to $2 a month.

Miller's main charge has pointed out that in the original draft for the sewer project a sum of $87,000 was set for labor. He pointed out that at a rate of 50c an hour for common labor, the union scale for common labor is 97c an hour. If the village were to pay at the prevailing rate it would be unable to complete the work. There would be an increase of over $30,000 for labor.

According to the plan, the PWA administration wages are determined on all projects by the prevailing rate in the community.

What the ultimate outcome will be cannot be foreseen. The village trustees had set a scale that would be in effect at a rate of 50c an hour and other classifications graduated up. This schedule has been forwarded to Washington for approval.

Tax Collections

Light, Books to Chicago Sunday

For some unexplained reason, a very small percentage of Barrington township property owners have neglected to pay their taxes in the village and avoid the inconvenience of going to Chicago to make the payment.

When the collector's books were closed Wednesday afternoon, slightly less than $27,000 had been collected. In making this total allowed for no payment (excessive) assessment on the 1931 tax bill.

The total 1934 spread for the township was $126,000. This full amount could be collected in Barrington, although in recent years not more than 50 per cent has been collected here. The balance has been returned to the county treasurer in Chicago. Unless there is a heavy rush of tax-paying drivers Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the collections will not even approach 50 per cent of the total.

The books will be returned Sunday. The taxpayers will have to go to the county building in Chicago and pay in person. They will be permitted to pay in installments and may have to go through some red tape to get their 1931 refund applied on to their 1934 taxes.

One reason for a low collection total this year is the fact that the bills are not a few months earlier than last year. A few years ago taxes were paid in October, this county during one whole year after a court ruling which found the assessment inequitable. Cook county has followed the same plan that year of tardiness. Last year the 1933 bills were sent out to December, 1934. This year the 1934 bills were sent out in October. If the course is followed, the 1935 bills probably will be mailed out next July or August. In a year or so the bills will be sent out in March following the fiscal tax year, which would bring collections up-to-date.

"Bright Lights" Stars Joe Brown Sunday-Monday

'Page Miss Glory' Opens With
Marion Davies Tuesday
Evening

Gracie Allen, playing hostess to all the down and out actors on Broadway, and driving her father's secretary to a state bordering on madness, furnishes the light and speedy subject matter for "Here Comes Cookie," the Friday feature number at the Catlow.

The running fire of banalities are in typical Burns and Allen vein, but new gags and novel plot situations make this pin-wheel of mirth revolve with explosions of laughter.

Little David Lee Holt is the key character in "The Age of Indecision," which will hold the feature spot Saturday night.

Around him gather the angry storm clouds of bickering, recrimination, scandal and shame, as his parents secure divorce and battle for his custody. It all resolves on a happy note, as only the masterly playing of Paul Lukas, May Robson, Madge Evans and Helen Vinson could resolve it.

"Bright Lights," scheduled for Sunday and Monday, is a circus of stars and girls, witty lines and hot-cha dancing, with Joe E. Brown as the ringmaster of hilarity.

The story is "back stage," and Joe's versatility runs the entire gamut from lugubrious drama to dancing harlequin.

Ann Dvorak, Patricia Ellis, William Gargan, The Five Maxellos and scores of others assist in making "Bright Lights" eventful entertainment.

Marion Davies newest production, "Page Miss Glory," begins its three-day run Tuesday.

Miss Davies, one of the screen's most engaging stars, eludes honors in this picture, with Dick Powell, Pat O'Brien, Mary Astor, Frank McHugh, Patsy Kelly, Allen Jenkins and Lyle Talbot.

The theme of the story is that of the ugly duckling transformed into an arresting beauty.

Miss Davies, in the role of a country girl, neither pretty nor bright, gets a job as chambermaid in a swanky New York hotel in which reside a promoter, portrayed by Pat O'Brien, who has nothing to promote, and Frank McHugh, a jolious newspaper photographer.

McHugh, learning that an advertiser is offering a big cash reward for a photograph of America's prettiest girl, makes a composite picture, blending the features of famous stage and society beauties and submits it under the name of "Dawn Glory."

He wins the prize and trouble starts. A "Dawn Glory" craze sweeps the country and even Miss Davies falls for it with startling results.

"Page Miss Glory," with its unusual cast, magnificent settings and fascinating plot, is thoroughly delightful.

Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock, after which Mrs. Harold Grebe greeted members and guests and then presented the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. Agnes Mathie Cherry. Mrs. Cherry, charming in an Elizabethan costume, read the play, "Mary of Scotland." The play opens with the coming of Mary to Scotland from France. James Hepburn, earl of Bothwell, meets her, later falls in love with her and begs her to marry him. She loves him, but does not dare to marry him and have him rule with her. Meanwhile Elizabeth, Queen of England, plots to get Mary out of her way. Mary is next in line for the crown and Elizabeth both fears and hates her. Mary, advised by the council, unwittingly falls in with Elizabeth's plans and marries the drunken Lord Darnley. He is intensely jealous, without reason, and he and his drunken companions kill a court musician. Mary, saddened and hurt by the tragedy, scorns Darnley, telling him never to touch her again. In great need of help she makes Bothwell, just returned, Lord Admiral, but makes him promise not to harm Lord Darnley. Not long after this Darnley is strangled, and Elizabeth, under cover, starts rumors accusing Mary and Bothwell of killing him, though she openly sanctions their impending marriage to each other. Shortly after their marriage Mary is taken prisoner. Bothwell bargains for her release, but is tricked at every turn. She remains in prison for years not knowing why by whom she is being held. Finally Elizabeth, after many false promises, does visit her. She has abdication papers for Mary to sign, and tells her that unless she signs she will spend the rest of her life in prison. Mary denounces Elizabeth for her cruelty and inhumanity and refuses to sign.

Two Women Lose Lives After Auto Accidents Here

Injuries Received on Route 19 a Month Ago Bring Death to One

Two women are dead as a result of automobile accidents, one of which occurred Friday night at the intersection of routes 19 and 14, southwest of Barrington, and the other on September 15 on the north-south highway at Elgin, Ill., west of town.

Mrs. Virtus Ruth Knorr, 29-year-old Kankakee, was killed Friday night when the automobile in which she was a passenger overturned and struck a tree at the intersection of route 14 and route 19.

The death of Mrs. Knorr turned a birthday celebration into tragedy. She and her husband, James, and their children, Alice and Kenneth, Mrs. Knorr's sister, Miss Virtus Comer, and Carl Jensen, all of Kankakee, were enroute to Elgin, Wis., where they intended to help Mrs. Knorr's mother celebrate her eighty-third birthday. They were riding in Jensen's car. Jensen was unfamiliar with the route and did not know that route 19 ended at the intersection of route 14. He held a coroner's jury at Elgin Saturday that he was traveling about 10 miles an hour and did not see warning signs because of a slight fog.

Mrs. Knorr was hurled through the top of the machine and received a head split fracture which caused her death before she was taken to St. Joseph's hospital in Elgin. All other occupants of the car were shaken up and received bruises and lacerations.

An open verdict of accidental death was returned by the coroner's jury.

Mrs. Rosalind Dunnington, 40-year-old, 6065 Harrison street, Chicago, died at the Elgin hospital in Elgin Saturday morning of coronary embolism resulting from injuries received in a collision west of town last month.

Her death came as a surprise as she was reported in good health. Although she received slight fractures, a broken nose and fractured frontal skull bone, she had made rapid strides toward recovery and was considered out of danger.

Mrs. Laverna was riding with her husband when the accident occurred. They were traveling west and their car was struck head-on by a machine driven by Kevin Christenson, Madison, Wis., who was driving south with six friends.

Laverna testified at a coroner's inquest in Elgin Saturday that Christenson turned out to pass a car driven by John J. Hargis, Chicago police lieutenant, 4618 Claridon avenue, and crashed head-on into his car.

The inquest was continued to Saturday to allow other witnesses to be called.

Building Permits for Suburban Area Increase 8 Per Cent in September

Barrington is consistently keeping in step with other communities in the Chicago suburban area in building. An increase of 16 per cent was made here in September against the same month in 1934. In the entire area the amount for September was $1,597,477 and in September, 1934 the amount was $1,426,409 or an increase of eight per cent.

By comparing the total amount of permits issued in the nine months of 1934 with those in the same period of 1935 a better picture of building activity may be had. The figures for January to September inclusive of 1934 are $5,089,933 and for the same period of 1935, $10,619,409. This is an increase of 109 per cent.

In brief, building activity this year in the Chicago suburban region has more than doubled.

A major portion of the money being spent is going into the erection and alteration of residences.

Many commissioners report that they expect a continuation of this type of building in the next several months.

Following is a chart of building activity in communities around Barrington:

New Pontiacs Will Be on Display in Barrington Oct. 19

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 17.—The new 1936 version of the "Silver Streak" will be shown by Schaeble Bros. & Collins and other Pontiac dealers next Saturday.

Two lines of sizes and a third model again will comprise the Pontiac offerings for the new season. H. J. Klingler, president and general manager of the Pontiac Motor Co., announced today.

The chromium grille, popularly called the "Silver Streak," again will feature the new models, but in changed and refined form. This assures owners of 1935 Pontiacs that their cars will not be obsolete by radical change in design.

Production of the new 1936 models has been going forward in increasing volume since mid-September, Mr. Klingler said, and by announcement day he anticipates a solid stock of more than 15,000 units, which will enable every dealer in the United States to have ample cars to show representative models of each line. This is more than three times the number on hand at announcement day last year.

Plans call for production of at least 45,000 of the new cars, the close of this year, which, added to the 125,000 turned out since January 1, will bring the year's total to more than 170,000 cars, as against last year's production of 81,200, Mr. Klingler pointed out.

For next year a minimum quota of 225,000 has been set. If this goal is achieved it will mark the most successful and highest volume year ever enjoyed by Pontiac.

Furs Milady Wears Come From Various Countries

Little moles bearing the best points, notes a writer in the Philadelphia Record, originate in Scotland. Ermine comes from Russia. Alaska encourages seals, and Canada and Alaska co-operate on beaver. Much, many Americans are surprised to know, is collected in quantity from the eastern coast of the States, though some comes from Russia and Canada. Leopards are spotted over Abyssinia, India and Amara. Ruch halts in light color from Russia, in dark, from Germany. Kolinsky is Russian.

Lots of different kinds of lamb constitute the caracul family. Some of it is gathered from China and Japan, some from Russia. Persian lamb is similar to krimmer, but practically the same fur, and originates in the Balkans. Crimes in perlatina. The best countries—also Russia and China—"grow" another type of caracul, kidkin. Galzok is also a caracul, and gets its name from Kazakhstan. From Russia, the lamb responsible for this smooth fur is killed while yet in coat and young, and before its skin is much ruffled. "Voley" is the Russian word for naked.

Cashew Nut Produces an Oil Used in Many Ways

The cashew nut grows in a leathery skinned shell at the end of a swelling of the stem, which looks like a juicy fruit. The apple, as the swollen stem is called, is delectable, if somewhat of a little acrid. It is used by the Brazilians to make the soft drink cajeta, and also a strongly flavored wine. The nut in the cooked condition is tasty.

The pericarp or shell of the nut, which is the true fruit, contains a dark reddish oil of great chemical interest, which burns the skin of sensitive people. This non-drying oil is used for making wood immune from white ant attack, and by the natives of the Andaman Islands to protect their fishing nets from decomposition.

A scientist has spent years in tanning the natural liquid, adapting it for use as a coating, and for purposes where few other materials appear to be suitable.

Among the uses is the painting of all types of cement surfaces, especially when these are subject to continual wetting. It is also useful for coating metal, wood, and concrete in industrial plants, when ordinary paints may not withstand the corrosive influences. It appears to be the ideal paint for coating wood on laboratory table tops.—The Pitts Magazine.

Flood Area of Mississippi Valley
The flood plain of the Mississippi river varies greatly in width. North of Cape Girardeau, Mo., the lands which are subject to overflow are comparatively narrow, from three to five miles wide. The broad alluvial valley south of that point is some 50 miles wide, although it is almost never inundated to this width. In the lower Mississippi valley protecting levees exist and are planned to provide a width of from 10 to 25 miles. In the immediate vicinity of Vicksburg, Miss., the river is not subject to overflow on the Mississippi side because of the high bluff, 350 feet above sea level, on which Vicksburg is built.

Rain Does Not Bring Worms

Worms appear on the surface of the ground after a heavy rainstorm, not because they have been brought down by the rain but because they have come out of their former retreats to avoid being drowned. There are rare instances of small animals, toads, fishes, etc., having been lifted from the ground or from pools by high winds and deposited some distance away with rain.

There is no foundation for the popular belief that worms, insects, toads, small fishes, etc., can be drawn up by the sun into the clouds, to be later rained down on the earth.

Condemned Perry's Flagship
When Commodore Perry sailed on his expedition to Japan, November 24, 1852, he was given the Mission flag for his flagship. However, after his arrival at Shanghai, his flag was transferred to the USS Albatross, the vessel which was designated as flagship of the squadron. The Albatross was built in the navy yard at Philadelphia, where she was launched in April, 1850.

CURTAILED WORK WEEK DANGEROUS

A warning to workers that fastening an arbitrary 30-hour work week upon this country means that their living standards will be frozen at a sub-normal level is given by the Brookings Institution of Washington, an endowed research agency, in a study of "Income and Economic Progress."

By chapter and verse it shows that the outstanding need of the nation today is lower prices and increased production, just the opposite of much of the brain trust philosophy of raising prices to the consumer and reducing production.

"Advocates of a short work week have recently set forth the general principle that the working week should be shortened in proportion to increases in man-hour efficiency," the report states. "This principle is held not only to justify a thirty-hour week at the present time but also to call for progressive reductions of working hours in the future as that since production per worker increased between 1919 and 1933 by approximately 71 per cent, work 'which took about 52 hours in 1919 (the actual hours at that time) can not be done in thirty hours."

"The adoption of such a principle would mean a freezing of standards of living in general at 1919 levels. The value of the total national production in 1919, on the basis of present prices, amounted to about $3 billion dollars, which is less, in per capita terms, than the low production of 1934. The program thus calls specifically for a level of national production not only below that in 1929 but below that obtaining in the depression period. Unwittingly, this says to the laboring classes:

"You can reap henceforth no advantage from technological progress, other than greater leisure; you shall have no choice as between more goods and services and more spare time; only in so far as you may be able to obtain a larger share of a fixed total of wealth produced will it be possible for you to enjoy more of the material comforts and conveniences of life."

MOTORISTS PAY

Recently enacted federal excise taxes will impose an average tax of $10.56 on each motorist of Illinois, according to J. J. Cavanagh, general manager of the Chicago Motor club.

The federal nuisance taxes during 1934 took a total of $262,337,558 from the pockets of the nation's motorists which, added to the 1933 collections, means that automobile owners during the past two years have contributed more than half a billion dollars to the government. These taxes are, of course, in addition to the hundreds of millions paid state and local governments in special motor taxes and do not include about $11,000,000 of oil transportation and processing taxes.

IT HELPED

Decision by the supreme court that any of the major measures are outside the constitution is certain to bring a fresh clamor for changes in the system. Even though all nine members of the court, including the five generally classified as "liberals," outlawed the NRA, there were cries that the judiciary's power should be curtailed. However, most of this clamor was based upon a forecast that business chaos would follow. Instead, with the arbitrary restrictions of NRA broken away, employment has moved upward steadily and there are general predictions of increased business improvement this winter if no further legislation of this type is enacted.

Family Discussions

VIOLA WOODVILLE

One mother boasts that her children are absolutely loyal in the matter of family affairs. Ever anything of vital interest, she says, is talked over before the children; each has a vote, and matters are arranged as nearly as possible to the satisfaction of all. Another mother declares that in her home no family matter of importance is ever mentioned before the children for fear they will talk about it outside. Now, which is the better course to follow? For instance, should children understand the financial condition of the family and be informed of family difficulties, or not? One argument against it is the contention that children should be shielded from every worry.

"We are planning to go to college," said Martha Tolman to an aunt who was privileged to know family secrets. "And we expect to

WHAT'S GOING ON

WASHINGTON

(Courtesy The United States News)

"No sales of war implements to belligerent Italy and Ethiopia," proclaimed the president in accord with the recently enacted neutrality act.

"It makes little difference," say exporters, "except that the agents of the buyers must pay cash and arrange their own transportation."

Why their asserted confidence? First, because registration of exports does not become effective under the law until November 19, making detection difficult before that date.

Second, because shipments intended for belligerents may be disguised by sales to agents in other countries.

As for trade in commodities not specifically forbidden, but which may be shut off by league of nations powers, says Secretary of State Hull: "If American traders get into trouble with some foreign government, they cannot look to the American government for aid, comfort or support."

Cautiously moving into action, the national labor relations board accepts its first case under the new national labor relations act.

The company complained in a suit against unfair labor practices is clearly in interstate commerce under the Greyhound Lines, Inc., operating buses and trucks over a nationwide route.

Grounds of complaint are three, namely:

1.—Discharge of employees for union activity.

2.—Interference with rights of employees to join an independent union without threat of discharge and surveillance of the union's meetings.

3.—Financial support of its own "company union."

If the company is adjudged guilty, the next move is a cease and desist order, reviewable by the circuit court of appeals and eventually by the supreme court.

In order that public utility holding companies may continue to use the mails after December 1, the securities and exchange commission invites them to file registration statements with it by that date.

Registration does not necessarily mean that the company will be subject to the act, which prescribes that widely scattered systems must be regionally integrated and must submit to many rules of the financial operations.

The commission may grant exemptions for those companies and those decided not to be holding companies within the meaning of the law.

Meanwhile the federal police commission warns that October 25 is the deadline for seeking execution of warrants.

been if kept in ignorance of family resources.

As for the danger that children will betray family secrets, they are little more likely to do so than their elders if, from the beginning, they feel that family affairs are their own affair and that each of them has a part in the family plan.

And now here is a different angle. "But I'll tell you some other time," said one friend to another as her little daughter, Edith, came into the room.

She said, and was wise to have waited, and would have been wiser still had those words in confidence never been uttered. There are some privacies that concern Mother and Father only.

"We just go ahead and say anything before our children," said another woman. "It's too much trouble to watch out for them, and they're used to it. They pay no attention."

But the same mother changed her mind after she heard her little Paul tell his sister Edith, "Daddy Jimmy is coming to see us, and you know Father could never in the world forgive him for not going to Aunt Edie's wedding." One look into Edie's surprised eyes had convinced the mother of her mistake.

"I knew Paul had heard this from me, but I was not thinking," she told me later. "I called a family council. This time the little ones were not invited. My husband, Grandma, and my two eldest, Will and Edna, were the only ones included. We decided that old grievances, complaints, vain regrets, gossip, unpleasant recollections and unkind references must go."

"We agreed that when one of us began a speech on any of these forbidden topics, some one else should rise and say, 'That's all. Destroying Angel. Another person's loadstone is called the Poison Pie, as it resembles a pie.'—Answers Magazine.

omissions from the same law's provisions against interlocking directorates.

Both commissions watch carefully the response to these summons, which are expected to set the stage for the battle against the law's validity under the constitution.

After five months of "freedom," the coal industry once more has a code.

It is promulgated by the national coal commission in accordance with laws laid down in the Guiley Coal Act. The commission makes public at the same time the forms to be signed by complying firms and the procedure to be followed in setting up the 22 district boards which collect assessments and recommend coal prices to the commission.

Commission Chairman Heford thus explains wherein the new code differs in validity and enforceability from the old one laid down by the supreme court's NRA decision of May 27:

Terms were written by congress, not by an administrative body. Enforcement is through power of taxation, compelling firms receiving a 90 per cent exemption from a tax on coal produced.

Taking stock of its vast new task, the interstate commerce commission lays down some of the principles that will govern its regulation of trucks and buses.

It is set forth by the lawman, Joseph B. Eastman, coordinator of transportation.

First, regulation is to be cut to fit the industry, not imposed in a pattern adapted to railroads.

Second, it will be decentralized as far as possible, the regulatory officers being told off, not merely to police violations, but to instruct operators on how to obey the law.

Third, state authorities will be taken as partners in the task of enforcing safety, efficiency and fairness in operation.

First step is declared to be locating the motor carriers subject to the commission. Their number is estimated at 250,000.

What are prevailing wages? The circuit court of appeals at Richmond, Va., gives an answer.

The answer comes in the form of a decision upholding the government's right to set such wages on projects carried out by the government by private contractors.

The court adds one other point. Such wages, when called for by the secretary of labor, must be paid as soon as the secretary of labor names them, not at a specified time in the future, even though this time is specified by the secretary.
