

"I Found Stella Parish" Featured Sunday, Monday

Du Maurier's Classic Drama, "Pter Ibbetson" Will Run Two Days

Distinctive shows are on the screen at the Catlow both Friday and Saturday nights.

Friday, Warren William and Patricia Ellis appear in, "The Case of the Lucky Legs," an engaging number of mystery and fiery fun. An item of equal interest for this bill is the new screen offering of Major Bowes presenting his stars of radio.

Saturday, Robert Donat, well-remembered star of "Monte Cristo," leads the cast of "The 39 Steps." In this spy story from the pen of John Buchan, action is rapid-paced against a background of intrigue and romance.

Beautiful Kay Francis, with Sybil Jason, Ian Hunter and Paul Lukas have the leading roles in "I Found Stella Parish," the Sunday-Monday feature.

This is the amazing story of a celebrated actress, whose past forces her to disappear mysteriously. How she is restored to her career forms the plot of the picture.

"Top Flat," a late comedy with Thelma Todd and Patsy Kelly will be shown in this program.

Tuesday brings Lee Tracy and Roscoe Karns in "Two-Fisted," a rollicking comedy yarn. It will be offered as the main attraction for the week.

Wednesday and Thursday following are the scheduled days for the showing of "Pter Ibbetson," "Pter Ibbetson." It has for its stars, Gary Cooper and Ann Harding, with little Dickie Moore and Virginia Weidler, playing the roles of the children.

Du Maurier's novel, play and opera of this title, will be remembered as the story of ideal love thwarted by prison walls, forcing the pair to carry their love to the realm of dreams.

The new edition of "The March of Time" will be an added item of interest for this bill.

Egyptians Foresee Life on Earth Hereafter

How the ancient Egyptians via their belief in the immortality of the soul, hereafter is illustrated in a collection of wooden model groups of people and equipment, and graves of the old kingdom (2500 B. C.) and the middle kingdom (2000 B. C.) on exhibition in the hall of Egyptian archeology at Field Museum of Natural History.

Starting in the old kingdom times with single figures of the dead, their children, and their beloved, which it was believed would serve in another world as substitute bodies if original mummies should perish, they developed during the middle kingdom a custom of placing in the tombs elaborate groups representing in part people at their household duties and partly ceremonies conducted for the benefit of the dead. As food was furnished, figures representing the making of bread and beer, and the weaving of linen and baskets of food, were prominent.

The Great Divide

The Great Divide is an idiomatic name for the Continental divide, the Rocky mountain divide, which separates the streams tributary to the Pacific from those tributary to the Atlantic. In a restricted sense the term is sometimes applied to a portion of the main divide in Yellowstone National park.

Most Prodiges of Native Stock
The great majority of child prodigies is of American stock, a survey of gifted children at Boston University Graduate school has revealed. The survey showed that if the parents of the talented children are not native born they usually are English, Scotch, Jewish or German.

Fatigue Duties in Army
The term fatigue duties in the army is applied to such duties as have nothing to do with the carrying of arms. The police of camps and quarters, etc. is a fatigue duty.

Noisy Celebration

A coronation is a ceremonial dance, of a more or less public character. In vogue among the Australian aborigines. It is generally held at night, the men dancing and the women furnishing the music. This dance is the nearest approach to a national institution among these primitive people. It serves also as a peace ratification and as a means of intercommunication.

Thimbles, Ancient Device, Long Known to Old World

Thimbles did not come into general use in England until the latter part of the Seventeenth century. The little device was known to the Egyptians and Romans, for articles of a similar pattern have been found among Egyptian ruins, and the Romans, according to Seneca, performed the "find the thimble" parlor trick with the brass or bronze ancestor of the modern thimble.

The first machine-made thimbles were turned out in Holland in 1630, by John Lottin, a Dutch inventor, to whom the patent was granted. Silver and gold were the materials first employed, and only the well-to-do could afford to buy them. Later when they were made of cheaper metal, practically everybody used them. The name which the Dutch first gave them, translated literally, meant "finger-wood." The English, however, soon supplied their own name of "thumb-bell," derived from the bell-shaped of the little article and from the early practice of wearing it on the thumb to ward off the cold.

About 250 years ago the English custom sprang up of inscribing poems and forged-into inside the thimble, and it is said that in those days the thimble served the same tender purpose as the engagement ring of today. Letter thimbles were at one time introduced, but soon proved themselves unsatisfactory.

Impeachment

Impeachment has been as sparingly used in England as in this country. The last great impeachment trial in England was that of Warren Hastings in 1787. It is still the most important of the houses of lords to impose any penalty on a convicted person, of official or otherwise. But under the American Constitution impeachment is reserved for civil officers of the government and the punishment is confinement to removal and disqualification. By a two-thirds vote the house or senate may expel a member without approval of the other body and the President may at any time remove one of his appointees in the executive branch. Impeachment provides the only means of forcibly removing a federal judge, and the senate's verdict is final.

"Squaring the Circle"

"Squaring the circle" is a famous mathematical problem which scientists of today believe to be impossible. The problem is to find a square equal in area to a given circle; the area of the circle equal to that of the rectilinear figure whose base has the same length and whose altitude equals the radius. The squaring of the circle thus becomes the problem of finding the ratio of the circumference to the diameter. In 1882 Lindemann proved that this ratio, known as pi, is a transcendental number and hence, since it is not the root of any algebraic equation, cannot be constructed by straight edge and compass.
