

"In Person" Stars Ginger Rogers at Catlow Theatre

"The Littlest Rebel," a New Shirley Temple Show, Featured Here

The new edition of the March of Time, on the program with "Peter Ibbotson," will be screened the last time tonight. "Peter Ibbotson," De Masi's classic of ethereal romance, has for its main grid, Friday and Ann Harding.

Friday will bring Paul Muni in his production of "Dr. Socrates." This is the colorful story of a famous surgeon whose nerve has been broken through the loss of his fiancée who dies from an operation he himself has performed. He buries himself in a small town, a failure, with all hope lost, not even caring to live.

His redemption comes through the love of an innocent young girl, whom he rescues from the bandit gang that has kidnapped her, facing death, alone in their stronghold, after informing secret service men of their hideout.

All the glamour and romance of Dumas' great adventure, "The Three Musketeers," has been skillfully captured on film, and will be presented by the Catlow, Saturday night.

Paul Lukas, Walter Abel, Ian Keith, Margot Grahame and Heather Angel play the leading roles in this outstanding picture, "Top Hat," which will be seen Sunday and Monday in her new picture, "In Person."

In this play Ginger has a new film lover, George Brent, who shares in its comedy, drama and, above all, romance. Together, they enact the chief participants in a speedy and robust story.

Ginger portrays a celebrated screen star unnerved from a fear of crowds. George takes her under his wing—against her better judgment—to give her an opportunity to recuperate. His diamond-hard attitude melts her, but she is determined to force him to recognize her glimmer.

A sportsman wedding imposed by mountaineers to uphold the "morale of the committee," joins Ginger and George in unexpected matrimony. Beneath their estimated attitude however, is sincere and ecstatic love, which both admit.

A silly symphony cartoon in color, comedy and late news will be added to the bill.

Tuesday, Dick Poran, the singing cowboy, will be presented in "Moonlight on the Prairie." It will be followed by a three-day showing of "The Littlest Rebel," Shirley Temple's latest production.

Adapted from the popular play of the same name, "The Littlest Rebel" presents John Boles, Jack Holt, Karen Morley and Bill Robinson, Shirley's old tap dancing friend, in the supporting cast of the picture.

The local of the picture is old Virginia at the height of the Civil War, with Shirley and her parents loyal supporters of the losing Confederacy.

Much of the pathos and tenderness of the picture centers about Shirley and her mother, Karen Morley, who finally succumbs to the hardship of the war.

This closing sequence are devoted to showing how this dimpled darling managed to win President Lincoln to her cause and save her father and the Yankee officer, who befriended them.

Primitive Fishermen

The Turkana are a nomadic native race roaming the eastern shore of Lake Rudolf on the Kenya-Sudan border, and were ready to take advantage of a weaker tribe.

The King's African Rifles have their work cut out to keep them in order. The Turkana are indifferent to fishing but effective methods of fishing. A band will advance into the water, each carrying a circular net-like basket. These they hold under way in contact, and the whole line advances toward the shore driving the fish before them. Another method is spearing, at which they are very dexterous. The moment the sharp enters a fish, the long wooden bait parts from the barbed head, which is then hauled in by means of an attached cord.—The Illinois Magazine.

Metal Names

The names of metals are wonderfully expressive. Silver has a gleam, gold is soft and richly yellow, bronze, brass and steel exactly convey the nature of the substances, lead is gray and heavy, zinc is an ugly sound which describes the son of the metal, while iron is as cold and melancholy a word as can be found.

Mystery Race of India

The small group of people of northern India known as the Burushaskis are interesting because neither through their habits nor their language can they be connected with any other people, and their origin is therefore unknown. Some anthropologists connect them with the Cro-Magnon race of 25,000 or 30,000 years ago to whom are attributed the elaborate paintings and carvings found in European caves and who had skulls quite as well developed as those of modern man.—The Illinois Magazine.

Chimpanzee Discriminate

In a study of chimpanzees an investigator noted that the chimpanzees combined in fury against him when one of their number had been punished in their presence; but if the investigator spoke sharply to some people, ordering them away from the cages, the chimpanzee sided with him, shrieking madly at the people in so-called a told.

Benzine Once Useful

Benzine, discovered by Faraday in 1825, was of no practical use for some 20 years until the first dye was made from coal tar, mauve.

Planning the farm program

The telephone will be a handy aid in your farm management during 1936. Every farmer needs his telephone, not only in emergencies, but also for the time and effort it will save in everyday farm affairs. Evidence of this is found in the large number of farm telephones now going back into service—telephones which were reluctantly given up during the past few years. The farmer who has a telephone is always in touch with markets and can buy and sell to his own best advantage. His family is always within voice range of neighbors, friends and relatives. The entire household enjoys the feeling of greater security which a telephone in the farm home always gives. The telephone will repay many times its small cost in satisfaction, convenience and protection. Order one now.
