

"In Person" Stars Ginger Rogers at Catlow Theatre

"The Littlest Rebel," a New Shirley Temple Show, Featured Here

The new edition of the March of Time, on the program with "Peter Ibbetson," will be screened the last times tonight. "Peter Ibbetson," Du Maurier's classic of other romance, has for its stars, Gary Cooper and Anna Harding.

Friday will bring Paul Muni in his production of "Dr. Seocrates." This is the colorful story of a famous surgeon whose nerve was broken through the loss of his fiancee, who died from an operation he himself has performed. He buries himself in a small town, a failure, with all hope lost, not even caring to live.

His redemption comes through the love of an innocent young girl, whom he rescues from a bandit, and who has been kidnapped, having done alone in their stronghold, after informing secret service men of their hide-out.

All the glamour and romance of Dumas' great adventure, "The Three Musketeers," has been skillfully captured on film, and will be presented by the Catlow, Saturday night.

Paul Lukas, Walter Abel, James Cagney, Grahame and Hopper, play the leading roles in this outstanding feature.

Ginger Rogers, the starlet of "Top Hat," will be seen Sunday and Monday in her new picture, "In Person."

In this play Ginger has a new film lover, George Brent, who shares in its comedy, drama, and adventure. They are together, when they enact the child participants in a speedy and robust story.

Ginger portrays a celebrated screen star unmasked from a fear of crowds. George takes her under his wing—against her better judgment—to give her an opportunity to recuperate. His diamond-hard attitude riles her, but she is determined to force him to recognize her glamour.

A shotgun wedding imposed by mounthers to up old the "moral of the community," joins Ginger and George in unexpected matrimony. Beneath their adamant attitude, however, is sincere and ecstatic love, which both admit.

A Silly Symphony cartoon in color, comedy and news will be added to the bill.

Tuesday, Dick Foran, the singing cowboy, will be presented in "Moonlight on the Prairie." It will be followed by a three-day showing of "The Littlest Rebel," Shirley Temple's latest production.

The local of the picture is old Virginia at the height of the Civil War, with Shirley and her parents loyal supporters of the losing Confederacy.

More than the patos and tenderness of the picture center a Shirley and his mother, Karen Morley, who finally succumbs to the hardship of the war.

The closing sequences are devoted to showing how this dimpled darling manages to win President Lincoln to her cause and saves her father and the Yankee officer who befriended them.

Gold Thermometer

The ancient Athenians were accustomed in each year to divide among themselves the revenue of their silver mines at Laurium, and as Plutarch tells us, it was a daring thing for the Athenians to boldly propose that the sum of money should cease, and that they should let him spend the money in building 100 ships for the conflict he fore saw with the Persians.

Deputy Sheriffs Probe Series of Summer Home Thefts in Lake County

Burglary of the Edward L. Ryerson home this week has sent deputy sheriffs out investigating reported gangs operating in Lake county.

Clothing, furnishings and other incidentals were reported as being taken from the Ryersons near Half Day. Joseph Stewart, carpenter, told deputies that a detailed account of the loss could not be made until the family had completed an inventory.

Five other summer cottages in the neighborhood of the Lake and Cook county line also show signs of having been burglarized but the owners cannot be located to ascertain the amount of the loss.

Primitive Fisherman

The Bumbers are a primitive native race roaming the eastern shore of Lake Rudolf on the Kenya-Sudan border, and ever ready to take advantage of a weaker tribe.

The King's African Rifles have their work cut out to keep them in order, but the Bumbers are not to be trifled with, for they are a well-formed, intelligent, and agile race, many of them gaining a livelihood by primitive but effective methods of fishing.

A band will advance into the lake in contact, and the whole line advances toward the shore driving the fish before them. Another method is spear, at which they are very dexterous. The moment the harpoon enters a fish, the long wooden spear is jerked back, the end being attached to a cord.

How Worm Gearing Originated

The worm gear is of great antiquity, according to (1471-1528) a drawing for the use of Maximilian of a car to be used in a triumphal procession.

It is not known whether it was ever built. As known today, worm gears were first applied to driving wheels of automobiles by F. W. Lanchester of England before the close of the Nineteenth century. They were introduced to the United States in 1911 on an extensive scale by Hugh Thomas as part of the regular production of a motor car company.

Metal Names

The names of metals are wonderfully expressive: Silver is gleaming, gold is bright, iron is heavy, brass is bright and steel exactly conveys the nature of the substances; lead is gray and heavy, zinc is an ugly sound which describes the soul of the metal, while iron is as cold and melancholy a word as can be found.

Oldast Craft

In ancient Greece there were goldsmiths who could produce gold leaf 100,000,000 to an inch thick.

Though the modern British goldbeater still adheres to ancient methods he can make gold leaf 200,000 of an inch in thickness. It is the gold leaf that is the most ancient of all crafts, and they point to the gold leaf adorning the mummy case of An-Aned, in the British Museum.

He has not outdistanced this handicraft, whose eight-pound hammer can still be heard as it descends upon the marble bench at which he works—Tit-Bits Magazine.

"Shepherd of the Home,"
Name Earned by Collie

The little shepherd of the home is the name frequently given to the attractive and gentle collie. It has been given to the Detroit News, for it is among the most affectionate and considerate of all canine friends, seriously guarding the lives and property of those it has learned to love.

The blood lines of the collie are ancient, dating back to man's first association with the breed. But during the past century the breed has been developed, the shaggy-coated and the rough-coated. The latter undoubtedly is the more popular while the former is a distinct show breed.

The collies which have been set for many years now are black and tan, pure white and sable and white. It is essentially a working dog and in no sense can be called a pet. In fact, it is a working dog and in no sense can be called a pet. The well-bred collie should cause no concern among parents as to its dependability with children. It is a natural guardian and trustworthy.

The collie after days of more strenuous exercise and abundant exercise has plenty of exercise and confinement is quite likely to bring on illness. It should be given a walk and a good, energetic walk every day. It will walk. The well-bred collie should cause no concern among parents as to its dependability with children. It is a natural guardian and trustworthy.

Bulldog Wins Brunch

The bulldog, long considered a symbol of pluck and tenacity, originally was one of the most sporting of canine breeds, the result of his tests of strength, bulls and other animals.

Canine authorities say that the influence of the bulldog on his race has been very marked. Even today the bulldog is the most popular of the breeds.

The bulldog is said to be capable of transmitting its best qualities to every descendant.

Alexander the Greek, comic poet of the middle century, was born at Thurii and later taken to Athens, where he became a citizen of the city. Village Trustees Await Opening of Bids for Sewer biped system was installed, and the suit for restraining order followed.

In reaching his decision Judge Shurleff found that there was evidence of pollution from raw sewage passing from the combined sewerage system. Due to evident "economy planning" the system had not been so constructed as to handle flood water that came from heavy rains, causing the water to pass into Flint Creek without receiving proper treatment.

In applying for a federal grant the village selected a "sludge activated" type of treatment plant and drafted plans for a separation of the existing combined sewers. The plan is to have the plant designed to take care of three times the capacity of the present treatment plant and the proposed sewers are designed to carry surface water in one system and sewage in the other.

In the original plan it was estimated that $205,181 was sufficient for the changes. When the village had the same position to call for bids almost no response came from contractors. It has been reported by contractors that the available funds were sufficient for that work. The maximum cost committee then made further investigations and found from a conference between the engineers, attorney and the village that greater funds must be raised.

The maximum cost could not exceed $334,500, of which $33,500 is a grant from the federal government. The actual cost will not be known until after the bids are opened Friday.

Divers in Tropics Fear Manta Will Devour Them

Divers in the tropics avoid the manta, holding to the traditional story that the giant ray will engulf a man and slowly devour him. Such, however, seems to be mythology. The manta is a large ray, 10 feet long, and can be taken only by harpoon after a hard battle of several hours, says Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The cow fish has a coat of armor consisting of hardened scales which form a protective shield which the jaws, fins and tail can move freely. The name is applied because of small horns in front of its eyes. The porcupine fish is one of the most grotesque members of the fish tribe. The spines are colored spines with black dots. Armed with sharp-pointed spines, it is difficult to handle without being injured. Like blow fish, which are capable of inhaling air or water to swell to twice their normal appearance to fight enemies.

Although a small fish, generally running about six or seven inches in size, the bat fish looks the least of any like a fish. It appears to be a toad, but has spine-like scales and a spinous dorsal fin.

While the dragon fish is not exactly a dragon, it is a porcupine fish. Schools of dragon fish, from three to four feet in length and weighing from 40 to 60 pounds each, can make short work of a small oyster reef. When young, they look like a porcupine. Later they become a dull color. A large female will lay 6,000,000 eggs.

Thimbles, Ancient Device, Known to Old World

Thimbles did not come into general use in England until the latter part of the seventeenth century. The little device was known to the Egyptians and Romans, for articles of a similar pattern have been found in Egyptian tombs and the Romans, according to Sennar, performed the "and the little pea" trick with the brass or bronze ancestor of the modern thimble.
