Class I Payment Rates Announced For Cook County

Cook county average rates of class 1, or soil-conserving payments, is $13.10 an acre, according to an announcement received by O. G. Barrett, Cook county farm adviser, through the extension service of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

"This average county rate is not necessarily the rate which each individual farmer will receive for diverting soil-depleting acreage to soil-conserving acreage under the new farm program," Barrett said. "Individual rates will be higher or lower than the county average depending upon the productivity of the individual farm, just as the county rates are higher than the national average of $10 an acre, depending upon the productivity of the land in the county."

Individual rates for farms in this county will be established by the agricultural conservation committee, and each farmer who filled out a work sheet will be notified of the class 1 payment for his farm.

Rates for Cook and other counties were based upon the productivity of all farms in each county, taking into consideration average acreages and yields of principal soil-depleting crops over a period of years. The figures were compiled by the agricultural adjustment administration from reports furnished by the state statistician, the state extension service of the agricultural college, bureau of agriculture economics and the agricultural genius.

Mr. Barrett pointed out that the class 1 payments are different from class 2 payments which are made for following approved soil-building practices and are limited to one dollar for each acre of soil-conserving crops on the farm. Farmers may qualify for either or both types of payments.

John Novak, 56, Killed When Train Hits Truck Friday

Operator of Plumbing Concern Struck at Fox River Grove Crossing

John Novak, 56-year-old operator of a plumbing concern on Fox River Grove, was fatally injured when his truck was struck by Chicago and North Western limited train at the depot crossing at Fox River Grove Friday afternoon.

Novak's legs were severed by his body as the truck was pushed down the tracks for several hundred feet. He died within a few minutes.

The motorist is believed to have been watching a southbound train and failed to notice the limited bearing down from the north direction.

When the crash occurred, Novak was hurled from his seat. His leg became entangled in a chain of the truck, and in some manner, the chain became caught on the head of the locomotive.

The train was traveling at the rate of speed and the truck was pushed down the tracks to the river bank. Novak's body was freed from the wreckage about 100 feet from the crossing.

Members of the train crew eyewitnesses rushed to the scene of the truck driver but a hasty examination revealed he had been fatally injured. He died before a physician could be called.

Novak is survived by his wife, Frances, three sons, John H. Jr., Joseph and Jerry, and one daughter, Ann Novak. There are three grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at Mr. Novak in Chicago Monday with a large number of friends and relatives of Fox River Grove attending the rites.

Great Armies of Blind Ants Route All Enemies
 Where are they going? No one knows. But tiger, lion, elephant, or human being, fly in terror before their blind advance. For these are the armies of the blind ants - and when they meet a resistance they cannot see, they go through it, defeat it, and then they are the most dreaded of living creatures. They are trained as methodically as any army. Their columns of march are perfectly organized with the female in the center, flanked each side by a strong line of protecting males. In front of the column march the soldiers and straggling parties. Their job is to find suitable camping sites and to give warning of danger.

Their method of crossing a river is ingenious. The soldiers select the suitable spot for crossing. The ants then break column, and form themselves into a compact ball - females inside, males next, and outside, the more powerful soldiers. This ball rolls down the bank into the stream and is whirled across to the other side by the current.

When the driver ant comes to a village the inhabitants run for their lives. To remain would be to be eaten alive. The drivers devour every rat, spider, dog or chicken that is left, before passing on to their relentless march. They are, in fact, nature's spring cleaners, for the villages are always cleaner after their visit.
