

Joe E. Brown Is Star of Feature Sunday, Monday

Shirley Temple in "The Poor Little Rich Girl" Is Coming to Catlow

Interest in the merchants' award of an Emerson 10-tube radio will culminate at 9 p. m. Friday, when the ownership will pass to someone in attendance at the local theater.

The main event of the screen program for Friday is the feature, "First Baby." It is a merry romance of two sweet kids with a brand new baby and a bad case of in-law interference.

Short subjects preceding the feature include a comedy, cartoon and Pathe news.

The exploits of the world's nervous woman jewel thief are recounted in "The Return of Sophie Lang," playing Saturday night.

Gertrude Michael and Sir Guy Hunsford are starred in this audience drama that's packed with exciting situations and comedy spots.

The short subjects scheduled for the bill merit special mention with "The Sale in the Oddity," "Little Big Blue," Tom Howard in the comedy, "Hill Birds," a Betty Boop cartoon and late news reel.

Joe E. Brown adds his natural touch of humor to the hilarious situations found in "Earthworm Backlog," the picturization of which will play Sunday and Monday.

The celebrated series from the Sunday Evening Post has been transformed into screen fare which holds the record of the season as a much producer.

With Jane Travis, Guy Kibbee and Bob Foran aiding Joe, incidents top each other in laughter.

Additional subjects to be found on the program include Pasty Kelly in "At the Sea Shore," new Billy Synphony cartoon in color, late descriptive news and a popular women's magazine reel done in color.

The offering for Tuesday, hard-earned night, is titled, "High Tension."

The yarn strikes a new note in story background, having for its theme the adventures of "trouble shooters" for undersea cable jobs.

It is wired for thrills, punctuated with comedy, and charged with the personality of its stars—Norman Foster, Glenda Farrell and Brian Donlevy. Excellent short subjects will round out the program.

Foster's youngster in the community and every older who has not lost his interest in the "sweet manuscript" of youth, will herald with anticipated joy the announcement of the showing of Shirley Temple's new picture, "The Poor Little Rich Girl."

It is not an exaggeration to say that "The Poor Little Rich Girl" is incomparably Shirley's best. For her characterization of the pampered but lonesome child of wealth who becomes lost on the streets of New York and is adopted into the home of an Italian organ grinder, she shows the charming naivete of childhood.

"The Poor Little Rich Girl" is scheduled to be shown three days, beginning next Wednesday night.

Labor Day Tourney

The Labor Day "Give and Take" tournament held at Barrington Hills Country club was very successful and 48 members and their guests participated in this event which was started last year. Each person entering gave a prize, either something raised or grown on his farm or something made in his particular line of business. The prizes were both beautiful and unique and covered tables after table. The livestock was "corralled" in a wire pen in front of the club.

Joseph Godfrey, a guest of Orville Caesar, won first prize and chose a beautiful hamper filled with fancy candies, liquors and etc. from Huyler's which was given by Walter Ross. Kenneth Knickerbocker, who was second, chose a handsome aluminum electric outfit containing a roasting pan, percolator and double boiler. J. R. Cardwell, who was third, chose a red wagon which was given by Charles Whipple.

Some of the other prizes included baby pigs, fancy geese, ducks, chickens, a cord of wood donated by H. O. Zander, very substantial looking fence posts, a charcoal burner, a case of assorted citrus fruits donated by J. R. Cardwell and a case of the finest winter fruit from his fruit grove in Florida, and a beautiful white wheel barrow filled with vegetables, given by Selden White. Emil Wolff's contribution was permission to catch 20 trout from his trout pond and was won by S. Goodman.

After the tournament, a set of iron clubs was raffled off and won by Milton Milchreit.
