Increase Space and Add Library Books

The library board voted to increase the amount of shelf space at the public library and also to order an additional number of books. It was reported this week following a meeting of that group Monday night.

The increase of shelf space was necessary due to the great number of books now on hand, officials available to readers in the community.

Extra copies of popular books have been ordered to meet demands of readers. One of the more popular books, "Gone With the Wind," has been enjoying a large demand and has been included with the additional copies.

Special Lecture at Salem Sunday

As one of the special features during rally month at Salem Evangelical church, arrangements have been made to have Attorney Paul Konzen of Wisconsin give his lecture, "The Trial of Jesus" at 3:30 p. m. Sunday. Attorney Konzen has given this lecture many times in many states of the union.

Editors, college professors, ministers, statesmen and others speak very highly of this lecture which is given from a lawyer's viewpoint. It was reported.

His description of Jerusalem is among the most beautiful, word pictures ever painted in the English language. A wonderful collection of Biblical and historical facts and traditions have been woven into a great story that "flows like quick silver through the debris of the centuries." It is a dramatic lecture of matchless power that "deals with the greatest event in human history, and should be heard by young and old regardless of religious belief."

The lecture Sunday evening will be open to everyone in the community.
