"Pigskin Parade" Week-End Feature at Catlow Theatre

"Ambassador Bill" With Will Rogers Starred Coming Wednesday

Those who have seen the new color production of "Hamona," now playing at the local theatre, and charmed with the beauty and the pathosness caught by the new camera process, "Hamona" is not only a triumph of color; its stars, Lucetta Young and Don Ameche, its action set against the great outdoors, its cast of over 2000, all combine to make it a noteworthy photoplay.

"Hamona" finishes its run Friday night, to be followed by the grandest night screening of "The Captain's Kid."

This salty yarn, punctuated with treasure hunts, has for its stars those lovable old troupers, May Robson and Guy Kibbee, the little Sybil Janon playing the title role.

Additional items of interest to be found on this bill are a comedy cartoon, news reel and the 9:00 p. m. gift event.

A parade of laughs, romances, tugs, thrills, dangers and girls—that's "Pigskin Parade," the entertainment touchstone scheduled for Sunday and Monday.

With a cast that reads like a list of "Who's Who" among the stars of Hollywood, it brings swiftness to football, with Stuart Erwin as a barefoot, daffy hill-billy; Patsey Kelly as a dressmaker; Jack Haley, a crackpot coach; the Yacht Club Boys, sideline warblers; and Arline Jacey, Betty Grubb and Dixie Decker, star beauties of a backwoods college.

"Pigskin Parade" is a wealth of homages, with Hootie-Boo-Boo boys and coed cuties filling each moment with merriment.

Bargain night, next Tuesday, will provide a double feature of being "The Many Parents" and "Thou On The Trail." Two features with contrasting plot and theme.

"The Many Parents" is the story of a group of poor little rich boys, sent from broken homes to a military academy. Here they tell each other tall tales of love lavished upon them at home, all the while plotting for a single girl, the daughter from their parents. Little Billy Lee and Frances Farmer are starred.

"Thou On The Trail" is from the Hopalong Cassidy series—a Western from the word go—with Bill Boyd and Jimmy Ellison taking the leads. Two complete shows will be screened.

The Will Rogers you loved, in his wisest, wittiest role as the bon-sens diplomat driving stuffed shirts silly with his shirt-sleeved cigarette and his hilarious horse antics, is starred in the return engagement of "Ambassador Bill" showing next week Wednesday and Thursday.

Brought back by popular demand, "Ambassador Bill" presents America's own humorist in a rich, closely rooming that which he played often of screen, dressed in unfamiliar "soup and fish" as the American Ambassador to an etiquette-ridden, official European court. Rogers cuts capers that laugh all troubles away.
