Hundreds of Good Gifts Listed in T A wave of Christmas gift buying, greater than anticipated is reported by local merchants. The demand for gift merchandise is especially for Christmas trees, electrical hardware and electrical gifts, jewelry, light items of dress, clothing, and household ornaments, tins, decorations and novelties. Although there has been a lull in sale of heavy winter clothing, because of the warm weather the demand for this merchandise is expected to become stronger during the remaining six days before Christmas. From now until the holidays there will be a steady increasing sale of Christmas trees, lights, trimmings, candy, ice cream, poultry and other foods for Christmas dinners, and low and medium priced articles. Shoppers reading The Review will find hundreds of holiday items in the advertising. It is believed that this issue carries as great a variety of gift suggestions as any previous published issue of the newspaper.
