

Easter Sunday Recalls Horror of Tornado's Visit Here in 1920

March 29, 1937 was a fat, difficult day for Barrington. More than 100 persons than that same day is in 1930. It was on Palm Sunday, March 24, 1920, that the first tornado tore and twisted a path of destruction along the western edge of the townships and the western edge of Barrington and Cuba townships.

The tornado came from the south and struck with violence as soon on that day. In the village of Elgin, a house was hit and a person was noticed but little damage was done. A number of persons and animals were killed. Many that day are still in the community. Charles Green, of Elgin, was killed. Three days before he was injured by a falling tree, he had been killed by the tornado. He was also killed by the tornado at that time. Some others have also died.

Below is the story of the incident as it was printed in the April 1 issue of The Barrington Review in 1920.

Poople of the Barrington community, who were watching the terrible scenes from Sunday's tornado, awoke to the realization, as reports from other localities began to come, that they were involved in a disaster. Many were lost and no person injured to any extent. Ward Plock, standing in the front of his home in the Cuba township just as the storm struck, escaped without injury. Charles Green, of Elgin, and William Paddock farm in Cuba township, was in the barn when he was struck by a falling tree. He was killed by a falling timber, while his wife was not greatly injured. James McGraw sustained a badly bruised arm.

Miller Green, of Elgin, and his wife, were in the home of their son, William, in the town of Barrington, was injured in the tornado and taken to the Sherman hospital to present.

Mr. Powers of Wauconda, mother of L. A. Powers of Barrington, was in the home of his son, when her residence was partially wrecked by the tornado. Her daughter, Mrs. H. H. Bangs, had taken a bad cut on her head. Both are at the Powers home here at present.

Tornado Damage

Mrs. Nellie Flock farm, Cuba township, dairy barn and all house completely destroyed. Two men were killed. One cow killed (only animal in the barn). Loss estimated at $5,000.

E. W. Riley farm, Cuba township: Roof blown off of cement silo; house partially demolished; head of dairy cow killed; some trees and grass, two silos were wrecked; dairy barn damaged.

Robert Rehmeyer farm, Cuba township: Henry Schumacher, ten and dairy barn destroyed and seven cows killed.

William Paddock farm, Cuba township: Dairy barn wrecked so that all the milk was lost. One horse injured. Loss as fixed by the adjustor, $1000, covered by insurance.

Kesey school in Cuba township: Two men were severely injured on foundation, but were not seriously hurt. Roof torn from concrete foundation and damaged.

House half way off of railroad platform at Elgin, and was dashed against the general store.

building of Conrad Kraus, with both wife and son killed. Robert Mickey farm, Barrington township: Farm barn blown off of foundation, house partially destroyed and floor above basement intact. Cattle were in their stanchions in the basement, and when the floor was scattered all over the Jackson woods 80 rods distant.

Down, one was estimating that 150 cords of wood were on the ground. Ward Plock, of Elgin, and his wife, Brandt, peasant, Barrington township: Barn completely wrecked and house partially killed. Many trees blown down.

Frank Reiter farm, Barrington township: House completely wrecked so that it will have to be rebuilt.

Elementary school, Barrington township: Windows blown out and chimney demolished. Impossible to repair.

Many chimneys were blown off, cupolas blown down, trees leveled by the wind, and houses damaged by the storm throughout the Barrington district of western Barrington township. The chimneys were apparently in the path of the tornado which struck Elgin and Dundee, and was a mile from the village and only a mile west of Wauconda.

Roundhouses of the P. & P. & W. were completely razed to the ground, several farm houses demolished and dozens of dwellings damaged.

White Bearup Upgrade

Interest groups of the early history of the United States can be found in the White Bearup Spring, a small plateau near the crest of the rugged Allegheny mountains in Pennsylvania, in this mountainous country, which provided a well-defined east and west line of travel. The plateau was a natural and easily accessible, and the most popular of the most popular routes of the day.

Frank Reiter farm, Barrington township: House partially destroyed by a falling tree. The house was partially destroyed by a falling tree.

James McGraw sustained a badly bruised arm.

BARRINGTON REVIEW, BARRINGTON, ILLINOIS, THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1937

"Cave-in-Rock" Known

"Far Back as in 1744" is at the eastern tip of Illinois, and the western edge of the state.

Long before it was known to white men, the Illinois tribes lived here, and the "Great Spirit Spel," says Chicago Daily News.

First recognition is given by our forefathers was on a map in "The History of Illinois and New France," published 1744.

At that time the cave was the largest known in the country, and the name was given to the "Cave-in-Rock" by the Indians.

However, as the Indians gradually retired at the advance of the white man, the Indians had no meaning to the early settlers. It became the rendezvous of the Indians and the white men who operated trading posts in the area. The Indians who were here were mostly from the Illinoian tribe.

From plant life growing on the rock, the Indians named the rock "Cave-in-Rock" because the rock was a large rock.

Musical Romance, 'Champagne Waltz,' Heads Catlow Bill

"Renebrandt," Starring Chas.
Laughton, Starts Run
Wednesday

Joan Arthur and George Brent are the beauty and the boy who got themselves involved in the risqué comedy "Renebrandt," a "Secretary," another howler hit in the tempo of "Theodore Geisel," and a new musical comedy at the Catlow theatre on Saturday.

Book in this comedy was expected of a stunning scene who wanted to be more than a secretary was Louis Beldoff, Renfield, Denby and Dennis Keeler.

Romance in the old fashioned way—the story of a hot American—was the story of "Champagne Waltz," the new musical comedy which opened Sunday with a record-breaking Sunday and Monday.

Frank McMurtry, as the leader of the swing band, is brought to Vienna by "Bring Em From Away!"

McMurtry, his band and things begin to pop. They pop loudest in the head of the lady Swartwout, grandchild of the owner of the famous waltz palace.

McMurtry has his band at the door, but the girl he loves doesn't know that he's responsible for it. When she finds out she is heartbroken.

A chorus of 350 beauties, the celebrated dance team of Veloz and McMurtry, is the main supporting cast including Herman Hupf, Fritz Lieber, Vivienne Osborne, Dorothy Lamour, Eddie Cantor and Ernest Coesart, add to the general merriment in the battle between the sexes which ends in a draw.

The family in again. This time, the family is in for a fight, for the Jones Family, in "Off to the Races," coming Tuesday, April 5, and Wednesday.

Uncle Hiltz, Summerville and his house have moved in.

The Jones Family, a popular series featuring the adventures of a typical American family retains the same cast as the first Jones Family one of the country's favorite households, and adds as a new heart interest opposite Shirley Duran, the popular young Rose Gleason.

Double feature with "Off to the Races" and "The Little Girl in the World."

"Renebrandt," produced by Alexander H. Smith and starring Charles Laughton, the producer-star combination that gave you the smash hit "Theodore Geisel," April 7, begins a two day engagement at the Catlow theatre.

The first film to depict the life of the great Dutch artist for whom love, a woman and a painting are the keys to his life, "Renebrandt" offers Laughton another great human character.

Produced on a lavish scale, with some of the most magnificent sets ever built for a motion picture, "Renebrandt" follows the artist's life and loves. The picture covers from the days of his greatest est glory, when the world was at his feet, to his lonely, unhappy old age and poverty of his old age.

Barrington Hills
Children Guests at Egg Hunt Saturday

BARRINGTON HILLS—The children of St. James Sunday school enjoyed an Easter egg hunt Saturday morning. Some thirty children attended and in addition to the hunt there was a special sandwich and ice cream stand.

Study Class to Meet
The Study class of the Garden Club of Barrington will meet at the home of Mrs. Edwin Raabe, 1001 W. Main, Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Pass Resolution Changing Walks on Main Street

Take Action on Petition to Make Alterations for Owners' Benefit

Village trustees adopted a resolution approving a petition signed by 41 property owners along Main street asking that the village board propose widening of Main street at the meeting Monday evening. The petition was presented by H. D. Combe, chairman of the street committee, and asked that the village board be requested to make additional changes to assist residents living along the street.

It requested that all sidewalks be moved back from the street because the sidewalk on the north and that trees or shrubs damaged by moving the walks be replaced by the village board. It was learned that the sidewalk west of Durand avenue on the north side of Main street will be moved back, the street committee said with those on the street to be moved back so the walks lowered where necessary, and also the drives and approaches to houses will be lowered to give easy access and storage for their cars.

The petition also requested the extension of the project to the west village line. The work is now slated to begin in the early part of next month, 80 feet of Hagee avenue.

According to reports, deer signs are to be placed on Main street this week, sending traffic over to Northwest highway and the work will be done by the contractor at the west end.

John Case Promoted to General Manager of Pure Milk Group

John P. Case was re-elected president of the Pure Milk Association for the third term but resigned to assume the full time direction of the business. Mr. Case's resignation was accepted by Mr. Dan Geyer, who left in March, 1936. And then appointed Mr. Case to the Board of Park Hill, III., he was elected to succeed Mr. Case as president. Mr. Case has been a director, general manager and general manager of the association for the past year.

He is now a director of district 16 of the association, which comprises all of DuPage county, all of Lake and Cook counties and northern Cook county, and a good part of Winona county. One of the founders of the Pure Milk Association, Mr. Case had advanced rapidly. He first served as director of the association, then as director, and now general manager of the association.

Mr. Case is a director of district 14 of the Pure Milk Association, which comprises all of Kane, DuPage, Cook and Winona, and all of Cook and Will counties. He has been one of the oldest members of the association and has rendered many services, and has served as chairman of many important committees, including the executive committee.

Both men have been active in leadership of their respective counties, and both are considered very successful dairy farmers. Mr. Case is well known for his many fine qualities and his desire to assume the responsibilities. Mr. Case is 52 years old, while Mr. Geyer is 55.

All officers of the association are to be re-elected, and the association is to serve during 1937. They are: first vice president: Charles W. Schaefer, of Elgin; second vice president: Glenn L. Morgan, Westville, Ind.; treasurer: Charles M. Gehrke, of Elgin; and secretary: E. E. Hougham, Skokie.

Busy Producer in Industry

The bee has long been held up to mankind as an outstanding example of industry and thrift. For ages one of the best known types of this is found in the words of the old proverb: "How the little bee bodes improvement in the world when she comes?" When we compare the bee with other insects, we often forget the flowers some of us may merely regard it as a pest according to the way it goes about. We ought to realize that the bee is not only an agent producing honey for our tables, but writes a history of the world's progress in agriculture. The few of us realize what an important position this tiny little creature holds in the industrial and economic fields.

Bees are kept for the production of honey, wax, propolis, and not only a much appreciated delicacy but is claimed to be the most easily digested food. Honey is used from its general use for food honey has many uses, industrially. It is utilized in the production of many products. It is a medium for certain types of cosmetics. It may be used in the production of golf balls or it may be one of the ingredients in a certain type of compound. Previous studies have sometimes bolted in honey solutions to improve the absorption of certain medicines. Honey is claimed to contain honey in greater or lesser amounts.

Farrest Spoke Last Language
Once it, once it, believed, has a sensitive nature, a person who spoke numerous words and phrases of a hot language. This occurred in the United States, according to Collier's Weekly, when the famous German naturalist, Alexander Koenig, found a specimen of the tongue of the Atrai Indians, all of which it had outlined for several decades.

The Tongue of a Fox
Hounds have two compound eyes located in the head. Each one is composed of five or six small eyes and are situated close together, giving a surface appearance like that of a house. Each facet or compound eye contains a cornea, crystalline lens, nerve fibers and retina, all of which in a way are comparable with the eyes of other animals.

THE CONSENT OF THE GOVERNED

Government in its best sense is the art of adjustment of the majorities and minorities in an organized society. The constitution of the United States is the finest document designed to the mind of man to adjust majority and minority viewpoints in a free republic.

Disregard of minorities in other countries and in our own has been widespread and bloodshed throughout world history. Failure of statesmanship to adjust the minority and majority viewpoints in America gave us tragic war between the states in 1861 after 40 years of debate.

Today we have a conflict of view which goes to the root of constitutional government itself. About 16,000,000 persons voted in the last election for a candidate and a party they believed would preserve and defend the constitution and the subversive forces of communism who, as an apathetic majority, however, had avoided discussing the constitutional issue at all. He left it to be inferred that he did not plan any assault on the American constitutional system as we have known it for 150 years.

Governments derive their just powers only from the consent of the governed—never from one man or nine men or 851 men but from the whole people.

With 16,000,000 persons accepted the verdict whereby 16,000,000 persons in the majority, the world marvels at the restraint and forbearance of the American people after a campaign of extraordinary tension.

But the reason for this was the confidence which the minority had in the fairness of the majority.

The minority had every reason on the day after the November election of 1936 to believe that the compact joining minority and majority, a compact superior to the ephemeral passions of any given election, would be preserved in its spirit and its letter.

This compact is the constitution—an agreement whereby the individual surrenders to government and to organized society certain rights only on condition that this charter of liberty is not abused on behalf of any faction or party.

The American people for 150 years have been governed under a compact of specific and enumerated powers. This compact is the constitution of the United States and the power by any one of the three departments of government.

There were dozens of issues in the campaign of 1936 including primarily the proud boast of the administration that it had spent billions of dollars to achieve recovery. There was no suggestion then, of any crisis ahead. Nor, since the election last November, have any constitutional questions been discussed seriously by any one deal by the administration.

Mr. Roosevelt in his last two radio addresses used the word "crisis" and "danger" several times as justification for his assumption that the executive and congress had been given a people's mandate to invade the judicial branch of the government.—The United States News.

GOVERNMENT INCOME

"The government can get money only by taxation or by borrowing it. Nothing can be truer than the fact that what you spend you must pay. This applies to a nation as well as to an individual. When government borrows, it issues bonds. The interest must be paid by taxation and the bonds must be paid. Every dollar we borrow adds the cost of interest to our regular expenditure."

"Last fiscal year the federal government alone spent seven and a half billion dollars exclusive of loans and bonus payments. We borrowed $110 for every $20 expended."

"The member of congress who originates new and novel methods of spending the people's money is not to be regarded as a great and progressive statesman. The public official who endeavors to conserve the taxpayers money by avoiding extravagant spending is labeled a conservative reactionary. Many appear to believe that the government has a magic treasure chest."—Senator Harry F. Byrd, Democrat of Virginia, in the Saturday Evening Post.

Avoid Penalties by

Paying Tax Arrears

Hundreds of property owners are coming to the office of the Lake County treasurer to pay up delinquent real property taxes to avoid conviction and penalties as being contempt of the court and eliminate a fine after April 10.

Penalties are being given by the delinquent tax committee of the board of commissioners of the county treasurer's office. Frank H. Hevesi, O. J. Riecke, that the delinquent personal property tax was due April 10, will be paid by the treasurer after April 10. After that date, all taxes will be paid by the county treasurer through justice courts and the costs of collection will be paid by the treasurer.

Under existing tax law the treasurer or the qualified tax collector can sue for delinquent taxes and the court can award a judgment which will be collected by the treasurer or the qualified tax collector for delinquent taxes.

WHAT'S GOING ON

(Courtesy The United States News)

Debt signals are beginning to flash all over the place in Washington. They are seen at the white house, in the Senate, in the office of the secretary of the interior and commerce, in the office of the secretary of the treasury.

Yet, only a few weeks ago "all clear" signs were everywhere. The war was over, production was up. Workers were getting raises. Farmers were getting more. Tax rates had been cut. A balanced federal government was in sight.

Then came the depression. Tax rates were getting raised. Tax rates had been cut. A balanced federal government was in sight.

The same thing happened. Major economic chairman of the service board became a little excited. He was asked in the first place of the grades of the service board. There had been an increase in the second year. High school enrollment was up. The president then talked of an approaching "crisis" and the whole thing went off.

The trout trust is finding a little less work to do.

Now, when and where has been to production. Instead of the long-explained reason of the depression, the president and Mr. Eustis, chairman of the service board, became a little worried over high prices.

High wages and short hours of work had great influence on the price of the trout.

States have been showing a will to remain in a carrier's burden in the schools.

How many men get jobs in the CCC?

On the first of April the CCC commissioners will be in Washington, D. C., to discuss the program, because at the time an equal number of workers left the CCC in 1936 as were employed in 1935.

There has been a drop in enrollment at the CCC, but the number of young men between 17 and 21 years of age between 1935 and 1936 has increased.

It is not clear why the number went up and down.

What do statistics look like that have been collected in the office of the CCC in the state of Illinois?

The answer of the CCC is that the answer is not known.

But when these figures just reported to the secretary of the interior, he is broken down into parts of the country.

The pictures present in the CCC are not known.
