"The Bride Wakes Up" is an entirely new and different kind of Cooking School. It has romance, humor, glamour—it will hold your interest every minute you are in the audience.

For the first time at a Cooking School you will be able to see every single one of the important steps in the preparation of a recipe. Mixing, blending, stirring, baking—all the many and varied points essential to successful cookery are shown in close-up on the screen.

And lots of new and interesting recipes are demonstrated in the model kitchens especially built for this picture.

The picture will be entertaining as well as instructive. The various characters in the picture are portrayed by talented actors and actresses—the picture was made in Hollywood.

You will see real-life situations—similar to the ones you encounter every day—actually re-enacted on the screen. You will understand the problems of a bride and see how she adjusts herself to her new life as a wife and home-maker.

There will be daily gifts for some fortunate women, and of course free recipes for every one.

THE "BACK DOOR NRA"

Congress, it is understood, is about to be asked to enact a new wage and hour law—in short, a new NRA. It should be pertinent, therefore, to take a brief glance at experiences under the Walsh-Healey act, which the New York Times calls a "back door, sporadic NRA," as to make sure that the mistakes of that act will not be repeated.

The last day of the last session of Congress, the Senate passed the Walsh-Healey bill, a second NRA. It provided that no contractor bidding for a government contract of $10,000 or more must agree to pay prevailing wages, must not employ workers more than 40 hours a week without paying overtime rates, and must perform the contract without child labor and under sanitary and safe working conditions.

The sanitary and safe working conditions stipulations, and the child labor stipulation, caused no difficulties. But other parts of the bill, which the Senate passed, generally is geared to a 40-hour week. It is doing more business than it has in years. Its wage scales are the highest ever.

But if the steel industry were to furnish the 25,000,000 pounds of steel needed by the navy, it would have to upset its complete working arrangements. One might think that 25,000,000 pounds of steel is a big order, but by comparison it is almost infinitesimal. Why, some employees in steel mills are paid more than the top by the unions of coal miners.

As the New York Times pointed out, "government contracts form a very small percentage of the total business done by the country. This back door, sporadic NRA cannot mean any general increase in wages or improvement in working conditions. If it raises for short periods the wages of small groups of workers here and there, it does so at a high price in delay, red tape, government control and espionage."

CRITICS

It has long been the fashion for certain writers and speakers to criticize the American people for their commercialism—their desire to make money.

While it is true that the mere making of money is not a very high ambition, it must be remembered that it is through our genius for business that we have been able to provide the funds for innumerable things worthwhile, such as are not enjoyed by any other nation in the world.

Our contributions to educational, religious, charitable and artistic purposes have been made possible through successful business pursuits. Scientific research, the advancement of health measures, better homes and the comforts and refinements of civilization generally have been due to the ability of our people to acquire money and to their willingness to spend it for these things.

Many of the high-brow critics of business obtained their education and comfortable abodes in homes made possible by business men. Business and money makers are not the end of our ambition, but they are the means by which civilization may be promoted and preserved.—The Logansport (La.) Inter-State Progress.

PUBLIC MONEY

"In the regulations which congress may prescribe respecting the custody of the public money, it is desirable that it be provided that the same shall be safe and that the safe keeping should be given to executive agents. No one can be more deeply impressed than I am with the soundness of the doctrine which restrains and limits, by specific provisions, executive discretion, as far as it can be done consistently with the preservation of constitutional character. In respect to the control over the public money this doctrine is particularly applicable."—Andrew Jackson.

A NEW USE FOR HER KITCHEN
By MARY L. SAUNDERS

"Mother, may I go over to Ted's and stay my weekend?" asked 12-year-old Mary.

"You were at Ted's last evening. See, Mrs. Stevens will get tired of your being there so much."

"Mother, we go right to the basement and study. Then we play cards."

"Is it light and warm down there?"

"Well, there's a light bulb in the ceiling and the furniture is at the opposite end of the room from the window. The floor is made of shiny, red apples on the table, inviting them to help themselves."

The realization of how little she knew about her boy's compadres, their pastimes and pleasures, came as a shock to Mrs. Bailey. She was so shocked that she suddenly awoke from a dream.

"Well, you don't have to take a look at the house to know that they have a good time. I'll just have to leave their 'clubroom' as they called it, orderly and neat."

The drive for membership is the Seeing Eye, the institution engaged in training dogs to guide the blind in their daily activities. Chicago and outlying districts, it was announced by Barrett W. West, president of the Chicago Chicago committee in the Board of Trade.

To date 400 Chicagoans and suburban dwellers have volunteered to help the Seeing Eye and to assist in spreading information about this unique institution.

The boy's face lit up with pleasure, then dimmed.—Mark and Phil.

"Even if we can't play rubber like we're made with us, though. May be we'd make too much noise?" The words sounded sincere, as Tom's eyes seemed to glimmer with a bit of shyness, red apples on the table, inviting them to help themselves.

When the lessons were finished, when the boys brought out their favorite books, the girls were given shiny, red apples on the table, inviting them to help themselves.

When the boys had told them to be well in their school work, she had told them to be well in their home and have them return the next evening.

Each school-day evening during the rest of the term a boy, girl, and their teacher would go to their hostess so greatly that they had to be seated at the table to leave their "clubroom" as they called it, orderly and neat.

Broncho Track Men to Compete With Bensenville Here Tuesday

Barrington and Bensenville Vie in Dual Meet Here

Few Lettermen Are Back to Support Locals in Dual Cinder Contest

BHS trackmen will receive their first real workouts in a dual meet against Bensenville on the home track and field at Northgate Park Tuesday.

Due to inclement weather the local lettermen will not be in the meet and will not be in their best form to meet the Bensenville team which is to be the heavier favorite. Bensenville has two outstanding men this year who will probably take the top honors in the high jump. Those entered in the high jump, reached the final eight in the meet at the Oak Park Relays, were: "She-dow" in the mile.

Resources Limited

The local team's resources are rather limited at the moment. Most men who have turned out this year have not had a chance to show their best form. The lettermen expect to be team men when up in swing. Seniors who are back this year are: H. L. Johnson, short jump; Johnson; Grabenhorst, shot and broadjump.

Hicks and Skinner are back for their third year and look like good chances for the hurdles and discus. The lettermen expect to be team men when up in swing. Seniors who are back this year are: H. L. Johnson, short jump; Johnson; Grabenhorst, shot and broadjump.

Conrad Lippert, manager of the Barrington Boys, recommends that they will start the season of baseball rolling with their first practice to be held on the 20th diamond Sunday. After a few weeks of warming up they will play their first game on the 27th with the first game of the season of games with out of town teams.
