

Seven Deaths Mar Holidays; Three Car Crash Victims

Four Persons Are Drowned in Nearby Rivers and Streams

Deaths by auto accidents and drowning marked the usual holiday toll in the vicinity of Barrington over Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Four persons drowned in lakes and streams nearby and three auto fatalities were recorded.

Frank Bemmerly, 15 years old, 945 Lockwood avenue, Chicago, nephew of Mr. McGue of Root Springs near Cary, was drowned Monday afternoon while swimming in the Fox River with three other companions. Two years ago on July 4, a nine-year-old cousin of the victim and also a nephew of Mr. McGue, was drowned at Root Springs.

The accident Monday afternoon interrupted a holiday jaunt to the river for Bemmerly and his companions. They went in swimming about 4 o'clock and struck out for a sand bar approximately 200 yards from shore.

Bemmerly had gone about two-thirds of the distance when, it is believed, he suffered a cramp or became exhausted. His cries for help attracted his three-companions and they started swimming toward him. One of the boys, Leon Winterhalter, 454 N. Pine avenue, Chicago, reached Bemmerly but was unable to hold him and the youth sank from sight.

The body was recovered shortly afterwards but resuscitation attempts proved unsuccessful. James Edward Chamberlain, 11 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chamberlain of Hampshire, was drowned in a small pond about a mile from Hampshire Sunday afternoon.

James and his brother Gene and two other youths had gone to the pond to swim. He was floating on an oil barrel when he rolled off into the water and sank from sight. The pond is about 9 feet deep and has numerous deeper holes.

His companions were unable to reach him and he was recovered for aid. The body was recovered about an hour later by volunteer firemen using a drag net.

Everett Robertson, 23, and his companion, Emil Benekas, 26, of Fox River, were drowning victims at Lake Monday afternoon. Their bodies were recovered by a volunteer dragging crew. The accident occurred during a holiday outing at the lake when their boat was swamped.

Auto fatalities included Mrs. Marie Hegeland, of Elmhurst, who was fatally injured in an auto crash on Irving Park boulevard road, about 1 mile east of Elgin Sunday morning and Alvin Plaster of Chicago, who was instantly killed when the car in which he was riding was struck by another machine at almost the same time Sunday and about a mile further east on Irving Park boulevard road.

William Belter was a third victim when he was struck by a vampire car while walking near his home on route 173 at Chicago and Lake Saturday night. His body was found Sunday morning at 5 o'clock by Carl Bethel, a stepson.

George Jackson, 95 Today, Helps Drive Away Gypsy Band of Thieves

Ninety-five years old today, the oldest living resident of northwest Cook county, already three days older than his father was when that pioneer died in Barrington after establishing some kind of a longevity record.

That is George M. Jackson, still well and active at the old homestead on Doolen and Bateman roads in Barrington township. George Jackson was active enough to route three thieving gypsies from his place, with the help of his son Harvey, less than three weeks ago; he expects to be the life of the party when his birthday is celebrated next Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bertie Brandt, 127 W. Station street; and he hopes to take another motor trip this summer as he did last August when he accompanied his grandson to Duluth and Superior.

The venerable pioneer, who was visited by a Review reporter Wednesday evening, recounted his experience with the gypsy women on Monday evening, May 17. Two of them knocked at the front door, and were admitted by Harvey. They walked straight to the bedroom of the elder Mr. Jackson who was sitting on the edge of his cot and without saying words, started to frisk him. Harvey came into the room just as his father drew a loaded revolver from under his pillow. One of the women pined the man's hands against the wall while the other reached for the gun, grasping it the same time that Harvey reached it. The woman and Harvey struggled for possession of the pistol, both hanging onto it until George stepped between the woman's hair and pulled her head down against the cot. Then

Many Entries in Fox River Grove Garden Club Show

Louis' Crystal Ballroom Is Scene of Fifth Annual Event June 9, 10

The fifth annual flower show which will be given at Louis' Crystal ballroom June 9 and 10, promises to be the most representative, most colorful, most artistically arranged and best attended exhibit ever sponsored by the Fox River Garden club.

Fox River Grove is located in the heart of the Fox River valley, where residents take pride in their gardens, and each annual flower show enables these flower lovers to exhibit their best peonies, lilies, oriental poppies and such other blooms as may be in season.

All four shows thus far sponsored by the Fox River Garden club have been distinctly successful, but each succeeding year found the total number of exhibitors and attendance increasing so rapidly that larger quarters had to be provided annually. This year the garden club was fortunate in securing what may be considered the largest and most appropriate place for the exhibition—Louis' Crystal ballroom. It is ideally located on

Accidental Death Verdict in Girl Cyclist Fatality

Funeral Services for Evelyn Workman Held Sunday Afternoon

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a Kane county coroner's jury in the death of Evelyn Workman, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Workman, 201 George street, who died last Thursday evening at the Sherman hospital in Elgin of injuries received when the bicycle she was riding was struck by an automobile driven by Paul Zideck of Barrington.

The inquest, opened last Friday, was continued until Wednesday morning to permit J. H. Watkins of Barrington to testify.

Mr. Watkins testified at the inquest that he was driving west on Main street near George street and saw the girl ride across the road ahead of another car in front of him and then approach his car. Zideck was following Watkins' car and he turned out to pass, running into Evelyn's bicycle. His witness stood on a tree on the left side of the road after the accident. Zideck was represented at the inquest by Attorney Charles G. Stiel. He took the witness stand only to give his name, address, make and license number of his automobile, and to admit that he was driving the machine when the accident occurred.

Non-High School Districts Unable to Meet Tuition

Non-high school districts are to participate in the state aid plan for schools now under consideration by the legislature. High school and non-high school districts are now neglected. Many non-high school boards, because of shrinking valuations and increased high school attendance, have found it impossible to pay the high school tuition of their children, necessitating personal tuition payments by parents in some places in order to secure a high school education for their children.

The 59th general assembly dealt with this problem by permitting non-high school districts to further tax themselves. Some districts, although they have increased their non-high rate to the new limit set by the general assembly, find that they cannot pay current tuition claims, to say nothing of their inability to pay bills past due. The law enacted by the present legislature, permitting non-high school districts by referendum to bond themselves to pay past tuition claims and to further tax themselves to pay for the bonds, will not solve the problem as long as the district cannot pay current claims.

Irving F. Pearson, county superintendent of schools in Winnebago county, in northern Illinois, recently issued a statement showing that although the non-high school district of his county is now taxing itself to the new limit set by the general assembly the income will not pay current tuition claims and the district has a large bill for unpaid tuition which it has not been able to pay in previous years. Pearson points out that the plan now before the legislature, providing state aid of $20 per pupil for non-high school districts, would solve the problem of the non-high school board.

Fisherman Drowns at Algonquin Dam

William J. Bucholz, 5143 N. Menard avenue, Chicago, lost his life when he leapt from a boat as it was being swept over the dam on the Fox River at Algonquin last Friday morning.

According to information given Fred C. Bau, village marshal, the man had rented a boat from Paul Mitlen, about a block north of the bridge on the east side of the river. Placing his tackle in the boat, he pushed out into the stream.

The accident occurred a few minutes later. It is believed he was unaware the dam was so close to the dock and that the current was running strong at that point. A woman and her son who were fishing above the dam witnessed the accident. They saw Bucholz stand up in the boat and just as it was about to shoot over the dam, leap out of the craft into the swirling water.

The boat, however, did not overturn.

File Suit Against Bank for $25,000

Action was started Friday by the village of Mundelein against the State Bank of Mundelein in the Lake county circuit court to recover $25,000.07, alleged owed the municipality from its special assessment fund held in deposit by the bank.

The complaint claims the money was turned over to the bank for private use after the bank moratorium of 1933 for a period of six months to allow the institution to strengthen its financial position and also open for business following the moratorium. A total of $25,440.97 was turned over.

The money was taken from the special assessment fund and in place the bank gave the village securities, then considered as "frozen assets" by state auditor Edward J. Barrett. These assets, according to the complaint, have never left the bank and over the period since they were assigned to the village $2514.16 has been realized.

The remaining securities are practically worthless, the village board claims, and the board is unable to meet obligations to special assessment bond owners who are demanding that the bonds be retired.

Under the provisions of the state constitution, it was said, the village board cannot use special assessment funds for investment purposes. The check executed on March 30, 1933, listed as No. 4277, shows that it was drawn in favor of the State Bank of Mundelein by the village officers and the money was to be taken from the special assessment fund.

The bank officers claim no responsibility for the fund and contend that the village has the securities which were assigned at the time of the check tender. On the back of the voucher attached to the original check executed in 1933 is a notation "for securities."

Warns Village Dumping Sewerage

The municipality of Lake Forest was warned by Attorney General Otto Kerner Saturday that the state department may take action against the village unless steps are taken to prevent the flow of sewage into Lake Michigan. Kerner's warning followed a general statement expressing satisfaction at the elimination of pollution in lake waters.

William O. Paape, building and health commissioner, stated after these charges by the attorney general that Lake Forest does not have sufficient money to build sewers in the sparsely settled western edge of the city.

Lake pollution for a number of years in the northern part of Illinois was one of the chief concerns of the Illinois department of health.

Since a concerted campaign has been directed by the state department of health to clean up this health menace, the state is satisfied that the hazard has been greatly reduced.

Many Entries in Grove Garden Show

The Northwest highway in Fox River Grove and has ample parking facilities.

Arrangements for the coming show are in the capable hands of a special committee headed by Mrs. R. W. Dvorak, chairman, Mrs. Robert McKister, co-chairman, Mrs. John A. Kaufman, Mrs. Henry Stefany, Mrs. J. Sperling, and Mrs. E. Opatry. The chairman and members of this committee are especially enthusiastic over the wholehearted cooperation of numerous civic organizations.

Among the civic organizations whose special exhibits will add to the completeness and beauty of the show are the Parent-Teachers' association, the Mothers' club, the library board, the American Legion Auxiliary, the Auxiliary Juniors, the Beede club and the Fox River Grove Park commission. Another added feature for the coming exhibit is a style show which will be staged and arranged by Madame Slavka at 8 p. m. on June 9.

The flower show schedule sets forth many classes of exhibits among which are: table, foliage plant, wild and cut flower, basket, and Japanese arrangements; shadow boxes, flowers in wooden containers, specimen home-grown blooms, window boxes, miniature bouquets, exhibits by children, all-bouquets, and special exhibits.

Of special interest of course will be the display of home-grown flowers in season, such as peonies, irises, oriental poppies. Each type of flower has its staunch adherents and the judges will find it difficult to pick the best from the array that will face them.

The Fox River Grove Garden Club is affiliated with the Garden Club of Illinois. Its officers for 1937 are: Mrs. Robert O. Billip, president; Mrs. Joseph Sperling, vice president; Mrs. R. W. Dvorak, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Sterba, secretary.

The show will be open to visitors on June 9 from 2 p. m. until 11 p. m. and on June 10 from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. Appropriate music and door prizes will be an added feature. Judges of recognized ability from different parts of the state will officiate.

G. Jackson, 95 Today, Drives Away Gypsies

Harvey got the gun and the intruders were forced out of the house. In the meantime a third woman had attacked and frisked Miss Grace Jackson who was outside the house.

After the three women and a male companion, who had been manfully stationed at the steering wheel of their automobile, drove away, the Jacksons discovered that $1.75 had been stolen from a small purse in a table drawer.

The 95th birthday celebration, postponed from Thursday to next Sunday, will be attended by Mr. Jackson, Harvey Jackson, Miss Grace, Mrs. Robert, her sons Erwin and Robert and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bates of Elgin, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson and one or more of their sons in Chicago. Charles is the son of George's late half brother, Mr. Jackson accompanied his grandson, Erwin and his family on a five-day motor trip across Wisconsin to Superior and Duluth last week.

OUT OF STEP

A favorite pastime of some American prophets is to point to other countries as examples of progressive economic thinking. Implied in their remarks is a denunciation of the past in America and a warning to this country to do an about-face. The past, they tell us, is dead. Look at these other countries for a hint of what the future holds.

In substance, this means that the United States is out of step with England, France, Germany, Spain, Italy, Russia, China and the Fiji Islands. In a word it means that anything peculiar to the United States in the dead past such as the world's highest standard of living, such as an automobile to every four families, such as three radios to every four families—anything so peculiar to the American past as this is to be condemned.

There can be no doubt that these prophets are absolutely right on one point. Politically, socially and in the field of economics, the United States has been out of step with the rest of the world, all right.

What's more, the United States has been out of step with the rest of the world for a hundred and fifty years. We must be something apart because we have fed upon a brand of foppery not grown beyond our borders.

Out of step with the rest of the world! What American will not proudly admit this fact. And yet, wouldn't it perhaps be a bit nearer the truth to phrase it this way: "The rest of the world is out of step with the United States."?

KNOWLEDGE AND SUPERSTITION

Recent press dispatches from China told how several hundred coolies went on a rampage, rioting and destroying machinery in a textile mill. The reason, of course, was that they thought the machines were robbing them of jobs.

Most of us who read those dispatches probably smiled and thought about those "poor, ignorant Chinese." But it wasn't so long ago that some of the "more enlightened" races were doing the same thing. And even today we occasionally run across people in our own country who think that machines create unemployment.

Actually, the Chinese who raided the mill knew only one side of the case. So do some Americans. While on the subject, let's look to a few facts:

1. Between 1870 and 1930—the period of the greatest expansion of machinery—the population of the United States increased 218 per cent while the total of gainfully employed rose 291 per cent. In 1870, with few machines, it took 324 persons per 1,000 to produce goods and service; in 1930, with many more machines, it took 400 persons per 1,000 population.

2. In 1860, when everything was done by hand, there were 4369 office workers per million of population; in 1930, with adding machines, typewriters, and so on, there were 49,806 office workers per million.

3. In 1850, only 63 per cent of the national income went to the working men; today, they get more than 87 per cent of it.

All we have to do is compare the lot of the superstitious Chinese with that of the average American. That comparison shows clearly whether machines are helpful or harmful.

THE HEIGHT OF ABSURDITY

Plant managers are having hair-graying troubles with six-down strikes. The two outstanding legal defenses of such strikes are (1) that the employer allegedly refuses to recognize a union as sole bargaining agent for his employees, and (2) that sit-downers are in the plant with the consent of the employer.

The first defense amounts to the contention—assuming that the employer will not deal with a minority union for all his employees—that is illogical on its face. The second is worthy only of the answer that all unbiased lawyers—and that includes those representing the American Federation of Labor—agree that since the sit-downers are admitted to the plant for the purpose of working they naturally become trespassers and conspirators when they stay in the plant for some other reason.

Court after court has recognized those facts, and issued orders directing the sit-downers to vacate. But law enforcement officers have refused to carry out the orders, and sit-downers have continued to hold another's property illegally.

An incident in Long Island City, New York, shows the utter absurdity to which the sit-down trouble can be carried unless it is stopped. There, 19 sit-downers took over the plant of the Ethel Products corporation.

Corporation managers immediately sought police aid in ousting the sit-downers. That aid was denied. Then came the crowning absurdity: The Ethel Products corporation was notified that since the sit-downers were sleeping in the plant, the corporation must eject them or be subject to prosecution on the ground that it was running a "lodging house" in violation of local law.

WHAT'S

WASHINGTON

(Courtesy The United States News)

Whether the president's judiciary reform program? Two simultaneous developments on Capitol Hill last week heightened speculation as to whether the executive would push his "no compromise" demands for material enlargement of the supreme court.

One was resignation of Justice Van Devanter, opening prospect of a presidential appointment that would definitely reverse the 5-to-4 unfavorable majority set-up of the court on certain phases of the new deal program.

The other development was a 10-to-3 decision of the senate judiciary committee for an adverse report on the court reform bill. In making this decision the committee also voted down compromise suggestions. Opposition of two democratic committee members was reported to have been stiffened by a published remark of Postmaster General Farley disparaging their conscientious scruples against the bill, with suggestion that their consciences would not bother them when it came to their wanting administration support for legislation in which they were especially interested.

The senate opposition group claimed definitely to have lined up 41 votes against the president's plan. At a caucus, 15 democratic senators determined upon a last-ditch fight against any statutory enlargement of the court.

Concerning the vacancy created by the Van Devanter resignation, main conjecture centered on the possible appointment, (Sen. Majority Leader Robinson, Dem., of Arkansas, was touted as most likely to get it. Deep administration obligations for his senate leadership were cited in support of his candidacy.

But two possible obstacles were suggested. First was raised the constitutional point of possible ineffectuality of any present member of congress to fill a vacancy created as result of the judicial retirement act passed at this session, under which Justice Van Devanter is quitting the supreme bench on full retirement and retiring days. General Cummings at a press conference said this point raised a "delicate question" he was unwilling to discuss.

Also in view of attack on age of present justices and the previously reported presidential position that in adding "new blood" to the court no appointee past 60 would be considered, it was pointed out that Senator Robinson now is in his 65th year. At a press conference last week, however, the president noted he had been willing to make exceptions to this rule in recent promotions of some federal district judges past 60.

And an indication that advance alone is not an objection to federal service was offered when the president last week signed a bill passed by congress creating the new $10,000 office of counselor in the department of state, to be filled by R. Walton Moore, now assistant secretary of state, who is in his 75th year.

As the day approaches for the stream-lined school of 1937 to close its doors for the summer in the place of academic idleness, taxpayers are not unmindful of a very practical phase of education—the cost.

On the basis of the latest available figures, more than 15 cents out of every state and local tax dollar go into maintaining the public school system. The total bill amounts to somewhere around two billion dollars.

Several facts have come to light since the depression, relative to the dollars and cents side of education.

For one thing, the states, as contrasted with local governments, have shown a tendency to increase their share in meeting the cost of the public schools.

Teachers' salaries, the largest single item in the education budget, sharply cut during the depression, are being restored. Nevertheless, they still average more than 10 per cent under the levels existing in 1929-31.

Despite the fact that many state constitutions forbid the use of public funds for private schools, several legislatures have found a way to extend aid to these educational institutions.

Latest estimates show that local governments pay a little over 75 per cent of the total bill for public education. The states meet a little better than 23 per cent of the cost, while the federal government has contributed slightly over 1 per cent.

The role of the federal government has been confined to student aid under the national youth administration and some outlays for agricultural extension work and vocational training.

The present state-local ratio of participation in the cost of education is in contrast to that in 1930 when local governments were putting up close to 83 per cent of the cost, while the states were accounting for about 17 per cent.

Scrap Boxes

By LYDIA LION ROBERTS

"If you want anything, ask Grandma and she'll have it in her scrap box," said a boy one day to his playmate. "She has string and nails and buttons and sticks and almost anything you could need."

If there are children in the home, there should be little put into wastebaskets, because in the tumultuous and exciting days of busy boys and eager little girls there is a use for nearly everything. Kites need to be mended suddenly, dolls must have certain accessories and many a game requires slips of paper and pencils.

Then, too, handicraft or experiments may be furthered if a variety of materials from which to choose, are quickly available. There is no fretting which unassuming piece of iron, tin, cloth or other material may save the day for the young inventor, or to what purpose a humble wire, empty bottle or old dish may be promoted by the fertile minds of an active group of children.

One understanding aunt created delight among the little folks of a certain household by sending them, every few months, a box of odds and ends, gathered from her office and small apartment. It contained such things as blank books, colored envelopes, a big bunch of pencils too short for office use, scraps of silk and artificial flowers, souvenir coins, buttons and gay advertising medals and tags. She knew well that these would help to provide new opportunities for nimble fingers and alert minds.

Another woman who works in a store which receives much advertising material, saved the prettiest colored pictures and calendars, mounted them on cardboard and cut them into puzzle portions. Each puzzle was placed in an envelope and when there were half a dozen or more ready, she sent them in a box to some boys who lived in the mountains, far away from stores. A father who still remembered his own boyhood, though he had now two boys of his own, kept a special wooden box in the cellar, in which he put practically everything discarded and broken. The boys had wonderful times trying to repair old clocks, and using parts of egg beaters and other utensils in their experiments.

A certain mother kept a pretty box, about ten by fifteen inches in size, for her special scrap box, and gave it to the children only on rainy days. In it she put jokes and poems, pictures of children, bright cutlery and brads, and many discarded things from the various departments of the household, which she knew the children would enjoy playing with for a while.

A new lamp shade came, well wrapped in strips of cellophane; this she folded into separate packages for the scrap box, and later the children trimmed a party table with it. Cards from an old book, she, about to be thrown away, were rescued by the father who knew all about the box. These were later used by the children in playing "office" and in many other ways, keeping them happy for hours.

Marking Steel Tools To mark steel tools warm them slightly and rub the steel with wax or hard tallow until a thin glaze covers the surface. Then scratch the letters on the wax, cutting through to the steel. A little nitric acid poured on the writing will quickly eat out the letters. Wash off the acid and remove the wax with a hot rag, and the letters will be securely etched.

When Mother Gave Up "Angewandte" says one woman: "I never used the new steam engine until I saw that an engine was in the garage. I was then half a dozen."

Temperatures for Travel The rainbow trout can thrive only in temperatures between 50 and 65 degrees.

"Shall We Dance"

Week-End Feature at Catlow Theatre

"Maytime" Starts Run To-night, Thursday; "Romeo and Juliet" Scheduled

"Maytime" comes to the Catlow theatre for three days beginning Thursday, June 3, enhanced tenfold by the vast resources of Hollywood.

Janette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy add to the laurels they won in "Naughty Marietta" and "Rose Marie." Their songs, "Will You Kiss Me?" from the stage play, is unforgettable. Miss MacDonald also sings two complete operatic arias and parts of others. Eddy sings three excellent novelty songs, "Students' Drinking Song," "Vive L'Opera," and "Virginia Ham and Eggs." Together they give a beautiful definition of the folksong, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

Romance, melody and laughter are the ingredients of "Shall We Dance," new Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers offering which is said to top the two favorites previous films in entertainment value, coming to the Catlow Sunday and Monday.

With a unique story that hinges on the hectic romance of a noted ballet dancer and an international revue artist, and dances that range from the most novel tap numbers to gorgeous ballroom assemblies, the picture is hailed as one of the finest film musicals ever made.

Mingling the sort of intrigue that is making headlines in newspapers with romance and humor that also have their place in the news, the new screen fare at the Catlow Tuesday is called "Espionage."

Double featured with "Espionage," is the four Marx Brothers in "Horsefeather."

"Romeo and Juliet" is presented on the screen with the best and line by line as Shakespeare wrote it.

It was Irving G. Thalberg's wish that the classic be given to the motion picture audience in its purest form with absolute fidelity to Shakespeare, said Talbot Jennings, noted writer and Shakespearean scholar, who made the adaptation of the masterpiece which opens June 9 at the Catlow theatre for a three day run.

Bears Defeated

by Elgin Parkrides at Elgin Monday

The local Bear nine was defeated by the Elgin Parkrides at the dedication of the Parkrides new diamond at Trout Park by a score of 5 to 4 Monday afternoon.

Elgin chalked up their first run in the second inning holding the Bears scoreless for the first two innings when the Bears brought in two more runs in the fourth and seventh periods. W. Altenburg topped the scoring for the local team, crossing the plate twice.

Charlie Altenburg, who was on the mound for the first time this season, made a fine showing striking out four men and giving no walks. Funk was the winning pitcher giving six strikeouts and one base on balls.

HIGHWAYS for SAFETY AND SERVICE

By C. C. WILEY
Associate Professor of Highway Engineering University of Illinois

Do Paved Roads Pay?

No one would deny that it would be a profitable transaction if a return of $45 could be obtained from an expenditure of $25.

The Illinois division of highways in its 1932 report of traffic on the state highways estimated that between August 1931 and August 1932 a total of 3,500,000,000 vehicle-miles of travel had taken place on the 7530 miles of paved highways available at that time. Careful studies have shown that travel on pavement costs about two cents per mile less than on ordinary earth roads. Thus practically $70,000,000 were saved to the motorists by the paved roads that year.

The report further states that the number of motor vehicles registered in 1931 was 14,412,720. Thus the saving of $70,000,000 amounted to an average of practically $43.70 for each vehicle registered. At the same time the average amount of license fee and gas tax was only $23.44. Thus the average return in lowered operating costs was, in round numbers, $20 more than the average sum paid by each vehicle to provide the paved road.

The reason that the individual motorists do not realize that he receives this profit from the roads is because he very rarely keeps complete records. If any record at all is kept it merely includes the sums paid out and takes no cognizance of what would have been paid out under other conditions.

With more than 10,000 miles of paved road now available and with traffic on the increase the present saving probably exceeds $100,000,000 a year. This is more than the total annual expenditure for all roads in the state. With the individual gas tax and license fees showing but little average increase the average saving to each vehicle is considerably greater than that indicated in the report.

Thus the paved roads of Illinois have shown themselves to be a "financial investment" of the highest type. But what is perhaps even more important they have, in addition, given to the people of the state all the safety, comfort, convenience, and satisfaction of a highway system reaching all parts of the state and capable of being used 365 days of the year, a value not computable in dollars and cents.

One Cause of Friction
A difference of opinion between a man and his wife is often the result of her thinking one way when he thinks the other.

Cautions Against Playing in Streets

The joyful cry of "school's out" heralding the summer vacation period, may bring happiness to the hearts of Illinois' million and a half school children, but to the motorists and parents it means added responsibility. Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes declared in a safety bulletin issued here today.

"Temporarily relieved from the duty of acquiring an education, a major portion of this veritable army of youngsters will play in streets and roam the highways in search of pleasure, thus placing added responsibility on the shoulders of the motorists," Secretary Hughes pointed out.

"Careful drivers will bear in mind that even if not playing directly in streets, children will be darting back and forth over roadways at all hours of the day."

Mr. Hughes said that throughout the nation last year a total of 110 children were killed and more than 41,500 were injured while playing in streets.

"The appalling number of innocent children killed or maimed each year by motor vehicles must be reduced," Secretary Hughes declared.

"When it comes to protecting the lives of our little ones," continued Secretary Hughes, "there can be no compromise or evasion of this duty on the part of either parents or motorists."

"Parents, older brothers and sisters are morally obligated to cooperate with the motorist by forbidding children to play in streets and be urging them to use the utmost caution while crossing roadways. Smaller children should be instructed as to the proper method in crossing streets."
