Three Generations of Daughters

An interesting feature of the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wiedenbeck, celebrated at their home, 131 Garfield street, June 12, was the gathering of three generations of eldest daughters with a great-grandmother. In the picture above are seen (reading from left to right, bottom row)—Mrs. Johanna Krueger, 91 years old, with her eldest daughter, Mrs. William Brandt, 70 years old, seated at the right. Above and to the left is Mrs. Wiedenbeck, who is the eldest daughter of Mrs. Brandt. To the right of Mrs. Wiedenbeck is her daughter Ruth, who is the eldest daughter in that family.

Two Score Escape in Storm Sunday

new 1937 model car that was struck by a tree.

Two children from the Hutchings trailer had left for the wash-room while it was raining slightly and had gone about 50 yards when the storm struck. Mr. Stewak grabbed them and placed them in his car with his family. Quickly backing up the car, he prevented the possible loss of seven lives when a large oak tree fell across the hood of the machine, wrecking it beyond repair.

Another car escaped damage when the emergency brake was left released and the force of the wind rolled it down a slight incline just before a tree crashed on the spot it had vacated.

An unidentified vacationer received the thrill of a lifetime when the picnic bench he was seated on while eating his lunch was hurled into the air. Realizing his predicament when about five feet from the ground, he rolled off and saw the bench carried high into the air, crashing to the ground 50 feet away in splinters.

A total of 10 large oak trees and a number of picnic benches were the victims of the wind which hurled destruction in a space less than a city block square. It lasted approximately one minute and was gone as quickly as it came, eyewitnesses reported.

Mr. Wiech was an eyewitness to the scene from the rear of his tavern and quickly summoned medical aid for the injured man, who was taken to a Chicago hospital, and rendered assistance to the frightened crowd.

The storm, which was general in this area, took a toll of tree branches, trees and roofs as well as inundating the countryside. In the village the damage was not considered severe and no flooded basements were reported.
