F. Hatje Appointed to Treatment Plant Operator Position

F. W. Hatje, 124 North avenue, started work Monday at the village treatment plant as third operator following his appointment by the village board last Friday night. The board met in special session to deal with the problem of relief work at the treatment plant. Higher schedules are now in operation.

Fred Hager and Charles Suchy, other plant operators, were working on 11-hour shifts with one day off each week. In arranging a schedule of relief duty and attempting to shorten the hours of the plant, the board decided it was best to have two shifts.

It was learned that the street department was disrupted when Water Ebert was taken from his work there and sent to the treatment plant several times a week. Also, for an additional $25 a month the trustees estimated they could employ a third operator, Suchy, and Charles Suchy, Mr. Hatje, who, it is understood, will close out his blacksmith business.

In his capacity Mr. Hatje will also do the repair work for the village in its equipment, thereby effecting a saving to be applied to the $25 increase.

Local Commuters on Derailed Train

One passenger was slightly injured yesterday morning when two coaches of a seven-car Chicago and North Western suburban train carrying a number of Barrington commuters left the tracks near the terminal in Chicago.

Four cars of the derailed train were left at the scene of the accident when they were cut to the depth of the tracks. The engine and first three cars continued to the station. F. L. Rogers, 1425 N. Dunton street, Arlington Heights, was treated for bruises and cuts on his arms and hands.

According to railroad officials, derailment was laid to failure of an electric lock as the train was making a crossing from track four to track eight. The fourth and sixth coaches left the tracks.

The train leaves Harvard at 7:15 a.m. and stops at Barrington shortly before 8 o'clock. It makes its last stop at Arlington Heights.

Four hundred and seventy-two passengers were on the train.

Set Deadline for Delinquent Taxes in Cuba Township

August 20 Date; Notices Out to Personal Property Owners by Justices

Formal notice is published in this week's issue of the Review notifying personal property owners that August 20 is the date set for payment of delinquent taxes. Edwin Gross and J. J. Moore, Cuba Township justices of the peace, handling the collections, will call the notice.

The deadline was originally set for early in July but Mr. Gross and Mr. Claude delayed taking action in an effort to assist those owing personal property taxes.

Mr. Gross and Mr. Claude, who are not bound by August 20, summons will be issued and judgments asked in justice court.

A penalty of $2 is assessed on notices sent out already to cover costs to justices for handling the accounts. With the issuance of summons and court hearings, the amount will be increased.

Mr. Claude and Mr. Gross went to Waukegan last Friday where they were in conference with Assistant State's Attorney Okel Fox, who is in charge of the delinquent real estate and personal property department set up this year by the Lake county board of supervisors.

At that time they were given orders to proceed with the collection of the delinquencies. This duty is made mandatory upon them by virtue of their oaths.

The collection has been made in the parishes as assessed on the properties assessed on 1938 and 1939 delinquent personal property taxes.

For those years there is no penalty and for 1930 the penalty has been reduced to five per cent.

From 1931 through 1935, the penalty is 12 per cent, one cent a month.

The other items scheduled called for a 12 per cent penalty from 1936 through 1939.

The penalties assessed in the number of cases, are near the total tax bill for that year.

Delinquent tax notices numbering 1,000 were originally mailed out in Cuba township.

Since the time a number have made payment.

When judgments are secured on the delinquent personal property owners, steps will be taken through proper legal channels, that state, to the property sold.

The board of supervisors established the delinquent tax board when a survey showed that many thousands of dollars were due the county.

Mr. Fugue developed the method of collections and instructed the justices of the peace in the county's 18 townships to proceed.

Under the new method, the political party conventions to select party candidates for the judgeship must be held more than 60 and not less than 50 days prior to the election day.

Early next month, the political party conventions to select party candidates for the judgeship must file with the secretary of the state a call for a county convention at which delegates to the circuit convention are to be named.

Delegates to the circuit convention, which is to be held by each political party, and the secretary of state, are to be named on or not later than 50 days prior to December 7, are to be named on the basis of $500 tax cost for governor in the last general election.

Under the provision the republican party in Lake county will name 57 delegates based on the 5,183 votes cast for C. W. Maryland Brooks in the last general election.

The democratic party in Lake county will choose 42 delegates to the circuit convention.

Terry Druggan Is Sued for $25,000 Following Battle

Charles Peterson Files Suit to Recover for Fight Injuries

Charles H. Peterson, who has a working interest in the Druggan farm near Lake Zurich, is suing Terry Druggan of Elgin in Lake county circuit court for $25,000 for injuries he suffered in an alteration. The suit was filed Friday.

Peterson alleged that on Aug. 1, Druggan, 7, a republican and democratic candidate for the judgeship, was beaten, bruised, wounded and ill-treated him. In his complaint filed by Attorney Gerald C. Snyder, counsel for Peterson, Druggan is alleged to have partially loosened one of Peterson's ears, loosened his teeth and split a lip.

Druggan, who is the son of a justice of the peace, was at the Druggan farm, which is in the name of his mother, Peterson, who has been working the farm, claims to have an investment in it.

The battle between Druggan was allegedly provoked by Peterson's refusal to participate with Druggan in investing in more cattle and horses.

Following the alteration, Peterson complained to the state attorney and the sheriff, who arrested Druggan before Justice of the Peace Michael J. Haney. Druggan was released on $50 bond for a hearing on August 12 on a warrant charging assault and battery.

Chickens Go Hungry When Feed Is Taken From Truck Saturday

Joseph Woller scratched his head and wondered, as when he arrived home, his chickens scratched and wondered. But all the scratching didn't unearth the missing bag of scratch chicken feed that he had bought Saturday morning.

Mr. Woller, Saturday for the last time, for the purpose of getting a supply of chicken feed. After purchasing it at a local feed yard, he placed it in his truck and drove over to the First National bank where he parked.

When he returned to the truck, the bag was missing.

C. E. Elmer, cashier of the First National bank, gave a clue to E. W. Baade, chief of police, who investigated. He reported noticing some "chicken feed" in the morning deposits at the bank.

Start Permanent Registration for Voters of Cook

Village and Town Clerks in Cook County Departs Registrars

First steps to put the permanent registration law in effect for Cook county were taken by Michael J. Flynn, Cook county clerk, last week when he forwarded instructions to town, village, city and township clerks.

Mr. Flynn, who is the first to return to the office of the county clerk, is the first to register.

Registration days are set for September 27, 1937 and October

5, 1937 within the precincts.

On the first Monday in December 1937 and continuing to January 20, 1938, registrations may be made.

On the first Monday in January 1938, registrations will be made at the office of the village clerk, town or city.

On the first day registration days, voters from easting

the line will go to registration offices in their respective precincts.

After the first Monday in December, they will register at the office of the village clerk if they reside in the village, or at the office of the town clerk if they reside in the rural areas.

The law bars voters from easting the line ballot in any primary, general or special elections, except for school directors, school trustees, members of the board of education, commissioners of high, school and park elections or brief, school and park elections are not held under permanent registration; but village, country, state and national elections are.

The permanent registration law is effective for counties of over 500,000 population, those containing more than 100,000 people.

Registrations are to be permanent.

Each voter will be issued a card with a number and a brief description of the voter.

It is expected that the permanent registration will be effective in January 1938.

A list of places for registration and other information concerning the new act will be released later.

It was learned.

The Northwest suburban council of boy scouts will not apply for use of the buildings which housed the C.C.C. camp at Deer Grove forest preserve, according to John L. Bell, president.

The council, along with those of Oak Park and North Shore, had planned to use the buildings for a campout to be used for overnight camping by the scouts of all three councils; but Mr. Bell learned Monday that leaders of Camp Reinberg had already made formal application for the C.C.C. buildings.

In view of the fact that Reinberg is a fresh camp, the unprivileged children and their mothers and is now over-crowded, the scout leaders of the suburban council decided not to compete with it for the additional facilities.

It is probable that the other two councils will also forego any application for the buildings.

It was reported that Camp Reinberg has application for as many as 600 persons at one time.

Mr. Bell learned that the camp could easily fill its present buildings and those of the C.C.C. camp with underprivileged persons during the summer months.

"Parnell," Starring Gable and Loy, Is Week-End Feature

"The Go-Getter" to Open at Catlow Tonight for Two-Day Run

Although both George Brent and Anita Louise have been under contract to Warner Bros. studios for several years, they never met until shortly before they began their co-starring assignment in the production. "The Go-Getter," which will be shown at the Catlow theater beginning Thursday for two days.

Their first scene, photographed only a few moments after director Harry Berkley introduced them, was an intimate love session which had to be shot five times before Berkley was satisfied. Each time Anita Louise had to embrace and kiss twice.

The popular threesome of the Clarence E. Mulford "Hopalong" and "Windy" ride side by side again in the latest of their screen adventures, "North of the Rio Grande," the outdoor romance at Arthur Lubin's studio. Main title they are William Boyd, Russell Hayden and George Hayes.

Double featured Saturday with "North of the Rio Grande," is "She Had to Eat," with Jack Haley, Roselle Hudson, Arthur Treacher, Eugene Pustellie.

When the United States navy established its base at Queenstown, Ireland, during the World War, it was unknowingly providing future headache for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer research department.

One of the most important and impressive sequences in "Parnell," co-starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, and opening at the Catlow Sunday, shows the arrival of Charles Stewart Parnell at Queenstown, now Cobh, in 1880.

Previous to the war, Queenstown had remained entirely unchanged, but the navy gave the Irish seaport an entirely new skyline, with erection of numerous buildings to house the personnel, wireless towers and docking facilities.

It was only after several months of intensive research, and the discovery of old photographs, sketches and prints, that Queenstown could be reconstructed as it was 55 years ago.

Zoning Ordinance in County Approved

The Lake county board of supervisors Tuesday passed a "stop gap" zoning ordinance for Lake county to prevent the spread of auto wrecking yards and other unsightly trade buildings and lots along county highways.

John J. Hogan of Waukegan, chairman of the zoning board of commissioners, told the supervisors, presented the ordinance for consideration by the supervisors. Lloyd Graham of Barrington is a member of the zoning board.

Mr. Hogan stated the "stop gap" ordinance was presented to protect the county during the lengthy period that will be required to adopt a comprehensive zoning measure.

NO MORE "TVA's"?

Recent reports from Washington observers are that the bill to create seven more regional federal hydro-electric projects of the TVA order will probably not come to a vote this session. At the first committee hearing on the bill, only one spokesman favorable to the measure—the senator introducing it—appeared.

If these reports are correct, the congress of the United States is to be congratulated. Few bills introduced in recent years have less economic or social justification, or could do more potential harm to industry, taxpayers and all our citizens. Stripped of verbal camouflage, the bill's real purpose is to advance the country a long step toward complete socialization of the electric industry. Private investments totaling more than $12,000,000,000 would be imperiled. And the cost to the taxpayers—both in the appropriations that would be ultimately necessary to complete the projects, and in the loss in taxes that occurs when government goes into business and takes private property off the tax rolls—would be staggering.

The current attack on the private utility industry is as unreasonable as it is vindictive. For a third of a century, power rates have steadily declined, and today the average family's electric bill is less than its tobacco bill. Great progress has been made in extending rural electrification, and in bringing to all classes of consumers the blessings of low cost electricity. As a taxpayer, the industry is second to none—the recent report of a representative large utility shows that it paid $1057 in taxes for every $720 paid to stock and bondholders, and every $1870 paid in wages.

If the bill to create seven more tax-subsidized, tax-built, politically operated TVA's is really dead, all business will be encouraged. So will all investors and all thinking taxpayers. The present congress could do no greater service to the country than to stoutly resist all such unnecessary legislative experiments with the people's money and the people's invested savings.

WHEN 111,000 AMERICANS DIED

A generation has passed since the sinking of the Titanic, yet that great disaster is still well remembered. Fifteen hundred persons died.

The Johnstown flood will never be forgotten—the world was astounded when the death total of 2209 was tabulated.

The World War was the most sanguinary conflict in history. In it, 50,000 Americans lost their lives, and they are still mourned.

The recent Texas school explosion, which killed 294 children, brought universal sympathy and horror.

Yet last year 111,000 Americans met accidental death—more than twice as many as were killed in the great war—and it caused hardly a ripple in the flow of news. We read of some of those accidents in our paper—"John Jones, aged 45, died in an emergency hospital after being struck by an automobile"—turned the page, and forgot them. This astounding callousness—this attitude of "Accidents always happen to the other fellow, not to me or mine"—is death's greatest ally.

Among men, heart disease is the only thing which kills more men than accidents. Such plagues as cancer, tuberculosis, pneumonia—plagues which are being fought by all the resources of science—are down the list. Recklessly driven automobiles, burns, falls, drownings, and so on—these are the great killers.

Practically every accident is preventable—and this is especially true of the motor car, greatest of all the great killers. Care, competence, courtesy—these make up the accident prevention triumvirate. It's up to you—to all of us.

LAW OF DIMINISHING RETURNS

The old fallacy of "soaking the rich" to finance government activities is nowhere more thoroughly exploded than in the record of the surtax of incomes for the years 1916 to 1920 inclusive, when surtax rates on incomes rose from 13 to 65 per cent. As rates rose, taxable incomes in the higher brackets steadily diminished, in spite of the fact that the total national net income registered rapid annual gains. For example, in 1916, total net income was $6,299,000,000, while individual net incomes over $300,000 amounted to $993,000,000, and the number of tax returns filed by individuals in the $300,000 bracket numbered 1296. Contrast this with figures for 1920, when surtax rates had jumped to 65 per cent. Total net income for the nation in the latter year amounted to $23,736,000,000, yet individual net incomes in excess of $300,000 amounted to only $246,000,000, and returns filed in the $300,000 bracket numbered only 395.

Today the peak surtax rate is 75 per cent, and "surprise" is voiced by government officials at the "disappointing" results of income tax returns. Disregarded is the fact that excessive taxation drives capital into tax-exempt government bonds. Likewise disregarded is the fact that when government "confiscates" two-thirds to four-fifths of personal income above certain amounts, the incentive to save and earn money disappears.

Some day public officials will realize that there is one "law" that cannot be repealed or legislated out of existence: the law of diminishing returns.

WHAT'S GOING ON

(Courtesy The United States News)

Before it is off with the old session, Congress talks of getting on with a new one. The farm problem, seemingly dormant for several months, is knocking again last week at the lawmakers' doors on capital hill.

With cotton prices falling, southern solons sought renewal of 12 cent cotton loans. President Roosevelt met them with firm refusal unless general crop controls, such as were provided under the initial farm bill, AAA, are revived to check overproduction that drives prices down.

With no such legislative in shape for immediate action, agitation for a special session in October to pass it began. Forty senators affixed their signatures to a petition to the president to call such a session.

Meanwhile as legislative wheels turned sunbrounsly, grinding away at major bills on the white house's "preferred list," adjournment was the order of the day. The present regular congress session slipped uncertainly toward Sept. 1.

Definite legislative progress was made, however. The Senate, after insisting upon sundry restrictive amendments, passed and sent to the house the $700,000,000 Wagner-Steagall housing bill, dealing with the slum clearance problem. Action on housing legislation was delayed by the start of the Black-Connery war and hour bill. Both these measures now await early house consideration.

A joint committee report last week proposed methods for preventing loopholes to the income tax evaders and avoiders presented consideration soon of legislation on this subject, demanded by the president in a special message two months ago.

With leaders hoping to avoid a round of tax controversy as was raised on the upper income enlargement bill, the Senate, at the weekend, took up the bill to effect procedural reforms in the inferior federal courts.

Attorney General Cummings reported to Mr. Roosevelt, in response to executive request for a special session, that the president can legally make such an appointment any time he chooses, regardless of whether the Senate is in session to ratify it.

But Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), of Michigan, challenged the propriety of a recess appointment by introducing a resolution seeking to put the Senate on record against an appointee taking his place on the supreme bench without having first obtained senatorial consent. Private members argued that the Vandenberg resolution was an attempt to infringe on executive prerogatives, and it was not brought to a vote.

Meanwhile Senator Borah (Rep.) of Idaho, reasoning that the Senate does not have to ratify the president to fill, because under the retirement law recently passed by Congress Justice Van Devanter "retired" and did not "resign," and hence, if he chooses, can return at any time to serve again for such a session.

Action on housing legislation was delayed by the start of the Black-Connery war and hour bill. Both these measures now await early house consideration.

In the Senate there was demand by Senator Lewis (Dem.) of Illinois, for withdrawal of American troops from China. Last chance clashes with Japanese soldiers might lead to embarrassing incident likely to entangle the United States in the troubles of the Orient.

Toward economic disarmament, booming in China and Spain, the two departments moved further last week, announcing that authorization for building two more battleships and two more cruisers will be sought next year.

Toward economic disarmament, the state department moved with proclamation of a new commercial treaty with Russia, under which the U. S. S. R. most-favored-nation treatment.

But toward Germany, United

State insular possessions less favored treatment was given.

On sugar law, restrictions imports of refined sugar from Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

At the White house, however, loomed prospect of a presidential veto if the Senate concurred in this legislation.

Barrington Bears Eliminated From State Baseball Tournament

Take 5-1 Beating From Seahorses in Contest at Elgin

Loss Sunday Kills Locals' Chances; to Resume League Play

The Barrington Bears were eliminated from the state championship baseball tournament at Elgin Sunday night when the Waukegan Seahorses administered their second defeat. The score was 5 to 1. The first loss was also given by a Lake county nine, the North Chicago Stanisks.

The Seahorses scored their five runs in seven hits and two walks, double by Peterson, Seahorse first baseman; a triple by Baker, Seahorse shot stop; and a home run by Guy, Seahorse right fielder, were damaging blows that sent home the runs. Wilson was on the mound for Barrington and two runs were scored. Guy's home run in the seventh with one aboard put the contest on ice.

Stan Hubley hurried for the Seahorses and tied up the Bears, allowing three hits during the first. Cook, Baker led the game, then lost to the North Chicago Stanisks. They coppered their second win by trouncing Bloomington.

The locals earned right to enter the state meet by placing in the Elgin, Waukegan and Barrington district meet held last month. Play will now be resumed in the Tri-County league, Manager C. Lipofsky reported.

Who will stop Rudy Kay? Some 2000 Lake county sport lovers are expected to pack Pege's Round Lake open-air arena Friday night to watch the latest sensation of the summer, Jack Claybourn, the Buckeye matador of the Northwest, attempt to stop Kay's long string of wins in the main event of the sixth all-star pro mat program of the summer season.

Last Friday, rough Rudy surprised local mat fans when he proved too tough for Jim McMillen, considered one of the greatest grapplers in the sport, and held the mighty local star to a sixty minute draw. Many in attendance believed Rudy had the better of the going and "Big" Jim McMillen was saved by the bell.

As a result, Claybourn, the Joe Louis of wrestling, was selected by popular demand to give Kay the long awaited whipping.

Four outstanding preliminary contests complete the fine card with Fred Grubman, his family and his wife colliding with "Cowboy" Jack Purdin, Tombstone, Arizona, in a semi-windup of the evening.

In one of the preliminary matches, George Zorzy, Bloomington, North Chicago, made his third start as a professional, this time going against Al Williams. For Lake tacked roughy, in a thirty minute affair.

One of the truly great foreign matmen to invade our shores will be George Mansor, who will start a special match Friday night. He is none other than Frankie Hart, famous European light heavyweight wrestling champion from Amsterdam, Holland, and he will tangle with a tough one, "Wild Bill" Mansor will face the rugged Italian mat star, Tony Martini, and this bout may steal the spotlight from the main go.

Conduct Irrigation Tour on Two Farms

Professor Leo Somers and R. R. Olson conducted an irrigation tour in cooperation with the Boone county, McHenry county, and Lake county farm bureaus on July 27. Leo Baker's place was visited. In 1926 he irrigated 100 acres with a pump house made of double-filled canvas treated with asbestos. His yield on late potatoes was 300 bushels per acre in 1936 while his early potatoes yielded 200 bushels per acre.

In the afternoon Marshall 60 acre potato field was visited at Belvidere. They have a pump continually which turns out on this 60 acre field about 24,000 barrels of water per day, or as much water as the entire city of Belvidere uses per day. They are using the open system.

It takes about seven days to water the 60 acres of potatoes, and it is watered about four times a season. They have a fall of 216 inches per hundred feet. Last year they harvested 400 bushels of potatoes per acre. This is the largest irrigation project in the middle west.

Children and Flowers
By LUCIA MALLORY

As I walked to the library this morning I witnessed a little scene that has troubled me all day long.

Mrs. Endicott has a lovely garden and two attractive little girls. The wide stretch of shady lawn, with its border of bright flowers, had been selected as an ideal place for children to play. Where could they learn to love and appreciate beauty better than in such surroundings?

This morning, three-year-old Betty was following her mother around as she gathered a handful of roses. A bed of panasies lifted smiling faces to the child, who stooped to pick a blossom and handed it to her mother with the exclamation, "Pretty! Pretty!"

Betty looked very much like her mother, and as she stood there in the sunshine, Mrs. Endicott answered her sharply, "No! No! Baby must not touch! Baby must not pick Mother's flowers!"

Presented with her own pleasant occupation of cutting roses, the mother did not see the light ditz out of Betty's face as the bloom she had picked so joyously dropped unheeded to the ground.

In one corner of the garden stood a small wooden figure of a child with a watering pot. Strange that the wooden form should stand continuously among the flowers, while the real child was never allowed to share his mother's interest and joy in them.

I'd like to take Mrs. Endicott to visit the garden of my friend, Flora Barron. There isn't much space in her back yard, and I do not see how so many children and adults can have a place to gather together, for some of the neighbors' children are always playing there with Flora's four.

When I asked my friend how she managed to raise both children and flowers successfully, she said, "Oh, the secret is that I do most of the work in the garden. I'm too busy to do very much of it myself."

Knowing how Flora has always liked to grow flowers, I can guess that she would find some time for gardening if she did not feel that her children needed the responsibility.

"Of course those fine old lilac bushes were here when we came," she continued. "Dot has her playhouse under the one in the corner. We've added a few rose bushes from year to year. This season we had so little money, we've given each of the children permission to buy a few packets of seed and have a garden of his own."

"Jack planted those hollyhocks along the back fence. Did you ever see them ones? He sprays the bushes for me and takes care of the lawn."

"Ielen is specializing in sweet peas. They're just coming into bloom now, and they're going to be lovely."

"Flora makes more interest in making hollyhock ladies to live in her playhouse than in growing flowers for herself, but she takes care of the panasies and keeps them picked so they'll continue blooming."

"Flora seems to have inherited my fondness for gardening, because, little as he is, he spends more time with his small garden plot than any of the other children spend with theirs. He'll bring you some bouquets this summer."

Sure enough, at the very moment when I was recalling the garden scene with Flora and wishing that Mrs. Endicott could learn to let her children share her flower garden, I heard a knock at the library and return some books. Small Bobby was with her, carrying a bunch of marigold that he had picked for me from his garden. The blooms were almost wilted in the tight grasp of his chubby little hand, but I could honestly tell him they were beautiful.

It would be a better world if every child had a garden!

were also given slight raises. Those of grade school age and under are classed in the children's grade.
