WHAT'S GOING ON WASHINGTON

In the first flush of victory on the issue of enlarging the supreme court, opponents declared the administration bill "dead."

Now, after reading President Roosevelt's statement on signing the bill affecting lower court procedure, they believe it only "dormant."

The substitute, said the statement, "registers a moderate and limited advance into a field which calls for further and more complete exploration." The crisp sentences had a fighting tone.

Senator William King (Dem.) of Utah, in a rejoinder indicative of general opposition sentiment, said, "The administration is not satisfied with defeat, and Mr. Roosevelt's statement is to be regarded as a continuation of the plan to change the judiciary system. We will be ready."

Much consideration preceded the decision to define the white house position. Some advisers favored approval of the bill without comment. Others would have preferred to see it vetoed with a declaration that the question upon another to be supplied by congress.

Some associates of Mr. Summers read toward the lines his antagonism toward the original court bill.

White house thoughts are turned again to the American farmer—just now the country's hope and its despair.

Hope arises from the prospect that a sensational increase in farm cash income is going to jolt the nation's business out of the rut in which it now finds itself.

Despair is occasioned by the expert opinion that the same troubles that rose to beset American farmers after 1928 are appearing on the horizon once again, even as prosperity seems to be at hand.

Both of these sentiments are being impressed upon the president.

A report of Dr. A. G. Black, chief of the bureau of agricultural economics, estimates that farmers this year will have a cash income of nine billion dollars. This is an increase of more than a billion dollars over 1936 and nearly five billion more than 1932. Its purchasing power is larger than for any year since 1919.

But President Roosevelt is being importuned to call a special session of congress to help the farmer. Need for relief is pictured as urgent.

Reason for this apprehension is beginning to be clear.

Prospect of a bumper crop of cotton has caused the price paid the farmer to drop under 10 cents a pound. Last year it was above 12 cents. A pledge now has been given to protect the farmer in his desire for a 12 cent return by making him a loan and paying him a subsidy. Fulfillment of the pledge promises to knock one more big hole in the budget.

Wheat this year returned an excellent yield. Prices have fallen but still are profitable. This is because some other countries have had poor wheat crops. The promise of another favorable year in 1938 raises the bugaboo of too much wheat. That bugaboo already is present in corn and in potatoes. More budget trouble is in sight as those farmers are cared for.

Students Will Get $4325 in NYA Aid

Lake county will receive approximately $4325 in the allocation of funds provided by the national youth administration for work aid to needy high school students of Illinois during the 1937-38 school term soon to open according to an announcement made this week by William J. Campbell, state NYA administrator.

The total allocation to the state for the term is $485,000 which will permit approximately 18,000 boys and girls to continue their education, according to Mr. Campbell.

High school students receiving this aid are paid a maximum of $8 per month for various types of necessary and socially desirable work after school hours. These part-time jobs include clerical work in offices and libraries; assistants to teachers in marking papers, laboratory and research work.

"Students seeking this aid," explained Mr. Campbell, "should apply directly to the principal of the school they will attend. The heads of each high school have charge of their own program and select the boys and girls who receive it."

Two Injured When Three Cars Crash

rear by one driven by George W. Kussander, 4663 N. Lowell street, Chicago.

Mrs. Mary Jones, wife of the driver, received cuts and bruises about the face and head and Kussander suffered a fractured arm, cuts and bruises. The injured were taken to St. Joseph hospital in Elgin for treatment but both were able to leave the institution Sunday.

Macaroni in Cities First
