2 Men and 5 Women Injured in Crash Near Crystal Lake

Seven persons, five of them Chicago public school teachers, are reported to be hospital patients from injuries received when two cars crashed head-on 300 feet south of the intersection of routes 14 and 12, near Crystal Lake, on route 14 late Wednesday night.

The school teachers were all riding in the car driven by Miss Betty Hansen, 25, of Keweenaw, Mich., who was traveling south on U. S. Route 14. They were: Miss Gertrude Hill, 2245 Kedzie avenue; Miss Alice Young, 5225 N. Austin boulevard; Miss Maude Post, 3146 Lake Park avenue, and Miss Maud Kirk, 9544 Longwood drive, all of Chicago.

Occupants of the other car were G. O. Olson, 25, of Chicago, and Fred Olson, 27, of W. Division street, Chicago, driver.

Olson was taken to St. Joseph hospital in Elgin suffering with a fractured jaw and severe lacerations, and Miss Hansen was taken to the same hospital suffering from a fractured jaw and chest injuries. Smith was severely injured. Officially he was listed as dead, but when he was taken, reported practically all of his facial bones were fractured. The other four teachers were also severely injured by flying glass and suffered fractured bones. Early reports indicated the patients are in critical condition.

According to information received by State Highway Officer William Gallagher, who investigated, Smith apparently became confused as he approached the intersection and swung over into the opposite lane of traffic where the cars collided.

Above are two photos taken at the annual Lake Zurich Day picnic at Plum Grove last Thursday. At the left is Miss Marie Lohman who captained the rural girls' baseball team to a 4 to 8 victory over the village girls. At the right is William Tome as he prepared to toss in the hoop throwing contest which he won after being tied for several rounds with C. H. Rudinski Sr.

The holiday spirit which pervaded throughout the day at the annual Lake Zurich Day picnic was enjoyed greatly by the many residents of that village and community who attended the gathering at Plum Grove near Palatine last Thursday.

The event started in the morning and continued through the afternoon. Arthur Anderson, general chairman, was assisted by a number of committees. A large list of contests arranged by the games and contest committee proved to be the great attraction of the day, many persons participating in each.

Following is the list of first prizes which were awarded to baseball, country girls under the supervision of Miss Marie Lohman defeated the village team by a score of 4 to 3; Robert Weber, boys' weight throwing contest; Julia Maeser, girls' potato race;

Miss Mary Grubbs, 23, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Buckley of Cuba township, and her fiance, Hugo Seyfarth, 25 years old, of 112 S. Lincoln avenue, Highland Park, narrowly escaped death when the car in which they were riding was struck head-on by one driven by Monty Hansen, 35 years old, of 312 Lincoln avenue, Libertyville, at the Soo railroad crossing on route 22 near Prairie View Saturday evening.

Hospital Romance Features Week-End Picture at Catlow

"Between Two Women" Here on Sunday-Monday; Bill "Exclusive"

Tony Martin, the young ex-St. Mary's college crooner, who, is less than a year, zooms to ninth place in a national rating of radio's vocal favorites, has two leading women in "Sing and Be Happy," the musical coming Saturday to the Catlow theatre.

Leah Ray, also of radio renown, plays the lead here. Her husband is in the picture, and Dixie Dunbar, Atlanta's mighty mite, takes the part of a performer who appears with Martin's orchestra, a barnstorming group that tour the country by plane.

Double featured with "Sing and Be Happy" is "Wild Money," with Edward Everett Horton, Lynne Overman, Louise Campbell and Porter Hall.

A story idea based on real life tragedy has inspired one of the most important pictures of the year.

The picture is "Between Two Women," featuring Franchot Tone, Maureen O'Sullivan and Virginia Bruce, which is showing at the Catlow Sunday and Monday.

Tone appears in one of the biggest roles of his career as a student surgeon dedicated to his work. Maureen O'Sullivan plays the nurse who, although married, falls in love with Tone. Virginia Bruce won her leading role for her excellent work in "The Great Ziegfeld" and other pictures.

The actual experience of a screen star followed a movie script, dogging the actor's heels into the next picture. Soon after Edward Everett Horton had completed his role in "Between Two Women," he drives a racing car at more than 100 miles an hour, the screen star had an automobile accident when his car skidded off the edge of a 300 foot precipice near Lake Arrowhead, Cal., according to recent news dispatches.

In "Oh Doctor!" Horton does his breakneck auto driving to prove to a girl he loves that he has as courageous a risk-taker, who is a show-off athlete.

Double featured with "Oh Doctor!" is "Man of Her Own," starring Clark Gable and Carole Lombard.

In order to obtain realism in the smashing climax of "Exclusive," the story of a newspaper war coming to the Catlow Wednesday for three days, three taxis were wrecked, more than a score of linotype machines were smashed, twelve plate glass windows were broken, a telephone switchboard demolished, five tons of sheet metal cut and enough type to print two standard sized newspapers were scattered over the scene.

The cast of "Exclusive" is headed by Fred MacMurray, Frances Farmer and Charlie Ruggles, and includes Lloyd Nolan, Lee Bowman, Ralph Morgan and many others.

mother. I glanced at the latter inquiringly.

In response she whispered, "Jean's been afraid of thunderstorms ever since last spring when Harold pretended to make thunder and lightning. He and Jean were playing in the cellar. It was dark and he had a candle dashed for the lightning and banged on an old bathtub for the thunder. It frightened Jean; she's been afraid of a storm ever since."

Harold was Jean's brother, five years her senior. I began to see a glimmer of reason for the "queer spells."

"What else do they play?" I asked quizzically.

Anne shrugged her shoulders. "Yes, and he said there was nothing wrong," said she tempestuously. "She can't run in from the garden where she'd been playing with her brother and his friends, and just screamed and cried, and I can't do anything with her."

"Have you ever seen the doctor about her?" I asked.

"Yes, and he said there was nothing wrong," said she tempestuously. "She can't run in from the garden where she'd been playing with her brother and his friends, and just screamed and cried, and I can't do anything with her."

"Well, I didn't like to contradict a doctor, but he doesn't know Jean as well as I do," I retorted. "Jean's not temperamental."

"Well, I've about given up," Anne confessed to me after Jean had been put to rest in a darkened room for a little while. Harold himself came in. He looked at Jean, and held out his arms.

"What's the matter, sis? Scarred?" he asked.

Jean went to him willingly enough, for they were good friends.

"Come on out," Harold said.

"The rain is stopping, an' we'll get the boys and play Injuns or pirates or—"

"No, no! I don't want to," she sobbed.

"You see—" gestured Anne, helplessly.

"How can Jean play with all of you big boys, Harold?" I asked gently.

"She!" he exclaimed. "No! She's the prisoner we scalp when we play Injuns, and we always

I must confess I was puzzled too.

Should Jean, who was naturally a sunny, sweet-tempered disposition, have a "queer spell" so often when she played with the boys? It was three days later that I found the answer.

I was at Anne's again. There was thunder in the air, and I was talking to Anne, when the first crash came. Jean, who had been playing quietly on the floor with her doll, screamed and ran to her mother.

Frank Hecht Active in Plan to Promote
New Super Highways

An elevated northwest highway from Canal street over the North Western tracks to the intersection of Milwaukee and Foster avenues with the present Northwest highway, is included in a plan of improvement to be pushed by the West Central association, the North Central association and the South Central association.

A meeting of the organizations will be held soon to map out a campaign to crystallize public opinion in favor of three new super highways, including the Northwest route, according to a statement published in the Daily News Monday.

Frank Hecht of Barrington, president of the West Central association, stated at a meeting of association officials Monday:

"We are trying to do the best we can to do the right thing to do. All three sections of the highway will have an equal need for a new highway. The airport highway is especially important. People in the northwest section should have a more speedy traffic outlet, and Congress street is part of any rehabilitation program if the west side is to be improved."

"Under our plan the three projects could all be started immediately with no additional tax burden on the public. The northwest highway, it is estimated, would cost $5,000,000, the airport highway $6,000,000, and $21,000,000 for development of the seven miles from Congress street."

Starting the three projects together would cost about $36,000,000 a year available from present gas tax funds, together with contributions from the state highway department.

The young man, who entered the institute with the freshman class of 1940, was ranged with the first five in English. Due to his excellent record, a volume for the local public school library will be presented to him at the closing exercises.

"Just stand over there and throw me five of the biggest fish you've got."

"Throw 'em," asked the dealer in amusement.

"So I can tell my friends I caught 'em. I may be a poor fisherman but I'm no liar."

"You're swallowed a nail."

"I don't know. We've been married ten years and he hasn't liked anything I've served yet!"

"Prince fire fighters. The cost of these bombs is trivial. The value of human life and property they protect is great."

When he says, "I'll call you later and let you know," he means No.

ENTHUSED OVER FESTIVAL PLANS

When committee members first started working on the foundation for the Barrington Fall Festival, they went about their work like anyone starting an arduous task.

As the event approaches and the preliminary planning is beginning to show form and results, the committee workers are warming up with an enthusiasm that makes their task a pleasurable game. The festival is going to be a success—an achievement—and they now know it. It will reflect the advantages and recent steps of advancement in one of the most desirable home communities in the entire Chicago district.

The village of Barrington, the schools, the parks, the homes, the fine stores—each one telling its own individual story—the wonderful rural home development, the fine churches, the superior railroad service, the excellent highways and roads, these will be graphically recorded in the 250 by 125 foot tent.

Entertainment, well above the jazz level, will hold the attention of guests when they are not being instructed at the nearly 100 booths.

The committee workers are enthusiastic. And rightly so.

"STOP & GO" NEEDED

The state highway department rejected Barrington's application for stop and go lights at the crossing of Main and Hough streets. Last week, however, the engineer in charge of county roads and city streets wrote to A. C. Burandt, village clerk, that the application will be reviewed and the decision may be changed.

This is heartening news. Local persons were more than disappointed when the state department first said "No." They recall that two serious accidents and several minor ones have occurred at that crossing within the last six years. Up to the present time no fatal crash has resulted. However, the first fatality would be one too many. Installation of the lights would lessen the possibility of that first one.

Eventually stop and go lights will be needed at the intersection of Northwest highway and Hough street (highways 12 and 59). This improvement may logically await widening of 12 to four lanes which is on the improvement program for the future, and final location of 59.

THE NEW RAILWAY RETIREMENT ACT

"Final passage of the Railway Retirement act writes this to another chapter in the outstanding record of organized labor in the American railway industry," says the Salisbury, North Carolina, Post.

The new retirement act is an effective compromise between differences of opinion among various groups. On the whole it seems to have the approval of every level of the railroad industry. It appears to be a fair reward all around for intelligent and tolerant dealing than all concerned."

The act constitutes the most comprehensive plan in existence in any industry for the retirement of employees because of age or disability. It affects about 1,500,000 workers, and was evolved by joint negotiations between representatives of railway managements and the 21 standard unions.

Under the terms of the act, any employee of a railroad is eligible to retire at the age of 65, or at 60 if he has completed 30 years of service. Employees may retire at any age after 30 years of service because of mental or physical disability. The act is financed by taxes on both employees and employers. Amount of the retirement pay is dependent upon years of service and compensation received. Benefits are extremely liberal.

The act is important in that it marks a milestone in assuring future security to the workers of our largest single industry. It is equally important in that it represents an amicable and fair settlement of differences between social minded management and reputable, long-established unions. These unions don't resort to violence and disorder to attain their ends—they sat down with the employers, and discussed and solved their problems. The result is that railroad labor—always highly paid—can look forward with equanimity to the future. The act is a towering monument to wise industrial relations, and sincere, honest dealings on the part of all concerned.

LESS POLITICS IN AGRICULTURE

A law recently passed in New York is described by an authority as a law whose basic idea "is that farmers should not ask the state or federal government to do things that farmers can do for themselves. The new law provides opportunity for producers to work together."

This law replaces a system of governmental control over certain branches of agriculture with a voluntary cooperative system under which actual farmers and their organizations will work together, do their own planning, and take their own chances. Other states where government is an excessively large factor in the farming business should follow New York's good example. Paternalism in agriculture, as in industry, just doesn't work. The intelligence and initiative of farmers can usually provide a sound solution to their problems.

WHAT'S GOING ON

(Courtesy The United States News)

A case of 1937 Jitters had offcial Washington by the ear during the past week.

Official cognizance of the "1937 Jitters" was taken by President Roosevelt, who, in a conference with his economic advisers, used the phrase as a commentary on the international situation, declaring that the strife in China and the threat of war in the Mediterranean was being felt in every home throughout the world, in democratic governments, financial circles.

Simple markets had conjured up the picture of a world heading into another debacle.

Stock prices fell badly. Bonds were under pressure. Commodity prices were unable to withstand the pressure of wide-spread liquidation.

The result was a major set-back to confidence and it left the government's planners blinking.

Their heads were reared above water, but they had to calculate the water and let the planners speed up plans for new controls that could be thrown in should the fears of speculators be realized.

Some of those controls already were on parade at the time of the market scare.

Crop prospects caused them to be brought out for attention. The very fact that the new government was being pressed to move back into fields of regulation that many thought had been given up was credited by some officials with a part in touching off the market upsets.

The south has a cotton crop that is estimated by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics to total 16,450,000 bales, or the fifth largest record. It is second in wheat crop, $85,350,000 bushels, as against $65,490,000 last year. And it is getting a corn crop of 2,549,281,000 bushels as contrasted with 1,529,000,000.

More than that: Industrial plants are geared to turn out the largest production of industrial goods in the history of the country. The volume of bank funds available had been so large. Workers are getting more dollars in their pay envelopes than at any time since 1929.

The crop figures, normally a cause for rejoicing, gave rise to new cries for action by the federal government.

A cotton crop that large suggested that there would be about 3,000,000 more bales than could be sold in the present state of world markets. This in turn led to liquidation and a price decline that carried down to nine cents.

At that level the government had $150,000,000 set aside to make loans pegging the price to the grower. Then it had another $130,000,000 on hand to pay out to growers who thought nine cents hardly enough for their labors.

The wheat crop meant about 150,000,000 bushels over and above domestic requirements, and that in turn meant that foreign trade was to be limited as to method, however.

It turns out that there will be no "census" as that term is generally understood, but a "voluntary registration" of unemployed.

Mr. Roosevelt last week asked John Biggers, president of the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass company and a republican, to take charge.

Parlor and Front Rooms

Popular in Olden Times

In this country, during the late Victorian period, was considered proper if not essential to have semi-public rooms in the front of homes and more private rooms in the rear—it was for this reason, among others, that parlors were nearest the street. In England, the same idea must have prevailed, for when a family retired to its country seat, its members were said to be housed in secret houses.

Still further back in ancient Egypt houses were built with flat roofs, and these were used as decks where men walked under the open sky. "Let the garden flow into the house . . . we say; in Greece, they opened wide folding doors and let the house run into the garden."

One commentator went so far as to note that certain barbarian tribes were less timorous of insects than of moisture in the atmosphere. No animal they observed, or tree, could live in air absolutely dry. It is said St. Peter's at Rome recalls the general plan and system of construction of the great halls of the Roman baths; its basements were built of marble in the atmosphere.

The answer, on the basis of a consensus of expert views, depends on the procedure to be followed. At the most, some officials expect an incomplete elaboration of information already available. At least, they fear a meaningless assortment of statistics may result.

The last accurate compilation on the subject was made in the regular census of 1930, several years before depression reached its depth. It showed 3,187,614 people out of 11,000,000 able to work and looking for jobs, or who were laid off without pay. This was 2.6 per cent of the 123,000,000 population, and represented only two of the seven classes used in the census of unemployed. Other classes included people unable to work, on vacation, etc.

With recovery, demands for reliable data on the need for continuing heavy appropriations have increased. The works progress administration can say definitely that payrolls now go up 1,800,000 people of all kinds of almost every kind of work.

Democracy has turned to the spider for help. The volume of bank funds available had been so large. Workers are getting more dollars in their pay envelopes than at any time since 1929.

The crop figures, normally a cause for rejoicing, gave rise to new cries for action by the federal government.

Fifty-five Candidates Seek Places on Barrington High Grid Teams

Prospects Bright for Strong 1937 Broncho Eleven

W.H. Open Football Season With Game at Grant High September 24

Fifty-five candidates, including three lettermen from the 1936 team, responded to an open-call of the 1937 football season of Barrington high school Bronchos team, at Northside Park this week. The squad consists of 11 seniors, 17 juniors, 17 freshmen and 10 sophomores.

Coach Clark is putting them through the opening drills this week, separating the groups that will eventually form the nucleus for the heavyweights, reserves and lightweights.

The football season will officially open for the Barrington high school Bronchos when they travel to Grant Community high school at Fox Lake on Friday, Sept. 24.

Coach Clark anticipates a fairly strong eleven with the team being built around J. Mountain, 190-lb. tackle with three years' experience and who was mentioned on the all-state high school football team; Keith S. Clark, 190-lb. end; 155-lb. guard with two years' experience and Jack Shepard, who has had two years' service in the backfield. Shepard will weigh in at approximately 140 lbs.

Prospects who are potential backfield regulars, graduates from last year's lights, are: Kenneth Klinge, 160 lbs.; Peter Johnson, 160 lbs.; Clyde Church, 170 lbs.; Norman Neiderer, 160 lbs.; and, William Paul, 140 lbs.

Other names from last year's lights who are favored for positions on the 1937 varsity, include: Speck, 175 lb. tackle; Grubken, 160 lb. end; George Wendt, 145 lb. center; Burton Wendt, 145 lb. guard; Robert Plagge, 165 lb. tackle; Spencer Catlow, 145 lb. guard; Virgil Wilkins, 150 lb. end.

Prospects for new faces in the line-up were highlighted by the names of four boys who were not in school here last year and who have had previous experience.

They include Quinn Wright, a junior who entered Barrington public high school this term. He had previous backfield training at an eastern prep school and weighs 160 lbs. Two candidates for guard positions made their appearance in the new group. Don Thacheray, a member of the members of the freshman team at New Trier high school in Winnetka last year, and weighs 170 lbs. One of the two. He also has had training at center. Thacheray is a junior.

Bob Sues is the other guard prospect. He received his early training on the freshman team at Carl Schurz high school in Chicago. He weighs 185 lbs. and, if successful in making the varsity first team, should be a defensive stone-wall.

Chester Kamper, who played on the Broncho first team while a freshman in 1935, has returned to school and is out for a regular berth. His previous experience, plus his 210 lbs. will give him a decided advantage in early training. He will probably be promoted to sustain some weight spot on the front line of the backfield.

Assuming Clark this year will be T. C. Hooford, who has been in charge of the lights, or Frosh-Soph teams, for the last few years, and Herbert Bricker who is serving his first year on the school faculty.

Mr. Bricker comes to Barrington from Farmerville, Ill., where he coached for the last three years. He is a graduate of Northwestern Teachers' College at Carbondale, Ill., where he earned his numerals in football, track and basketball. Mr. Hooford and Mr. Bricker will assist Mr. Clark with both teams this year, unless a definite assignment is made.

The lightweight team schedule has not been completed as yet.

This year the North Western conference is operating under a new system of competition. When it was decided that all honor, usually connected with competitive contests would be abolished. In other words, no official conference championships of any kind will be made or awarded this year.

At a conference meeting last year it was decided to take the new step in a program to de-emphasize athletics.

Heroes to Get Tickets
Heroes who rescue persons from drowning at Camberwell, England, will be rewarded with a season ticket to the municipal swimming pool.

Two Local Teams in Palatine Bowling League This Year

Two teams of Barrington bowlers have joined a league at Dine's alleys in Palatine this year and rolled the opening games last Thursday evening. The teams are traveling this year due to the decision of C. Lipofsky, former operator of the Barrington Recreational.

"Coaches—Educators"

By C. H. ANDERSON
Denver Store

Following is the second article selected for publication in reference to athletics, and intended to create interest in the activities of the Barrington public high school teams. During the next three weeks, articles selected by P. E. Clark, director of athletics at the local high school, will appear in The Review.

We who remember when a rubber-tired buggy was a downright social evil—lucky, however, because we had none—can recall without difficulty the days of our youth when the coach rated right along with the Itinerant sign painter and Sunday ball player of the day. He was a man with the seasons—recruiting, measurable, the general condemnation of more august faculty members who held a cherished place in their respective communities by dispensing large doses of Greek and other prequelities.

Do You Remember?
His activities were incidental to the prescribed course of study, and physical education had no place in the regular curriculum. His only excuse for existing was realized when the home team simply walloped the tar out of those boys from "Hogville." On the other hand, the school was a problem troubled with any ethical inhibitions nor did they care how tactfully the beating was administered. In some instances they were even known to contribute to the general rout by well aimed eggs from nearby nests, creating a feeling of wholesome sportsmanship and otherwise educating both team members and student body. The home town teacher developed considerable skill in the use of the wind and learned something of broken field running. Really, the net result was a crowd of intimidated boys who solemnly resolved to retaliate when and if their chance arrived.

The Transition
But the coach's stock went up. He was a success—the hero of the day. A Roman holiday had been declared and he occupied the Emperor's seat. When conditions were reversed, God pity the poor wight! Even if his physical being went unimpaired he certainly couldn't be classed as one of the most popular citizens.

In those pre-stadium days when "Flying Wedges" split the lines and basketball was in its swaddling clothes, the coach led a hectic life. To their everlasting credit, however, a few of the older school survived the pummelings and scanty rations of that time. Even today they show the way to a younger crop. Their efforts which have received the support of leading educators, and the place not to operate his place of business this year.

The two local team rolling in the Palatine league are: Louis Miller, Max Lines, Dr. E. A. Beerman, Arthur McCann and J. C. Cadwallader. The other team is composed of the following: E. O'Jol, J. F. Daeschler, A. F. Schauble, T. Carr and F. Schroeder.

Check-Up for Cars Recommended at End of Touring Season

With the summer touring season drawing to a close and cooler weather on the way, motorists should give their cars a post-vacation check-up to offset the effects of a hot summer's driving.

Long drives over many types of highways during hot weather put an extra strain on the car. A check-up at this time of the year will help to insure trouble-free operation when the car goes back on the road. The following recommendations issued by W. J. Geewe, manager of the Chicago automotive division of the Socony-Vacuum Oil company.

"One result of summer driving, particularly if the car has been used on unsurfaced highways, is that it picks up a good deal of dirt and dust in the engine as well as on the exterior body surface.

"The average engine uses about 105 pounds of oil with every gallon of gasoline which is approximately 1.14 lbs. of oil per mile. Oil, containing a good deal of dirt and dust, is drawn into the engine and the dust is deposited on cylinder walls and in the crankcase. As this dust is abrasive it causes engine wear and its elimination is even more important inside the engine than on the body surface. To remedy this condition Mobiloid engineers recommend change of oil and flushing of the crankcase at this time of the year.

Suburban Building High During August Despite July Slump

In spite of the heat and humidity, suburban building in the Chicago region jumped out of the doldrums in August in a most surprising way, with permits issued to the amount of $4,102,375, a survey by Sears Securities company of Chicago shows. Only one other four million dollar month appears in the records of this survey since 1930, that month being April of this year with $4,424,193. Since April the total had been steady and July had dropped to $2,486,729. The August total represents a gain of 65 per cent over July and of 103 per cent over August of last year with a total of $4,118,315.

A comparison between the totals for the eight months elapsed of this year and the corresponding periods of 1936 and 1935 shows a gain in suburban building thus far of 45 per cent over last year and of 178 per cent over the year before that.

As itemized statement follows:

January 1,526,770 787,681
February 1,839,052 513,290
March 1,442,193 3,109,343
April 3,686,255 2,732,625
May 3,692,954 2,291,391
June 3,556,452 2,397,138
July 4,102,379 2,018,115

The very large improvement in August must be attributed chiefly to three great industrial developments. Household building which became the largest of all the building construction for several years.

Household building, which became the largest of all the building construction for several years, showed a gain, it is true, of about $260,000 in comparison with July but needs a considerable additional volume to equal the spring months of this year. The industrial job which made August such a good month are first, the new plant of the McGraw Electric company on the outskirts of Elgin, to cost $250,000; second, the building of the American Smelting and Refining company in Hammond, an entirely new industry for that city, to cost $510,000; and, third, an addition to the Acme Steel plant in Riverdale, for which a permit was issued for $800,000. These three jobs added over a million and a half dollars to the August total. Other exceptional construction consisted of a church in Hammond, to cost $23,500, and additions to two schools in Highland Park.
