Rev. E. A. Irion of Lake Zurich Church Resigns His Pulpit

St. Peter's Pastor Accepts
Call to St. Joseph,
Michigan

The resignation of Rev. E. A. Irion received by the church council of St. Peter's, a Protestant Episcopal church in Lake Zurich Sunday and announced this week came as a surprise to members of his congregation and residents of the community. He has accepted a call to fill the pulpit of the REV. E. IRION Zion Evangelical church at St. Joseph, Mich.

A definite date for his leaving has not been announced, but it probably will be about the first of December. As yet, a successor to Rev. Irion has not been named, and until that is done, he will remain at Lake Zurich.

Rev. Irion accepted the pastorate of the church at Lake Zurich in January, 1933, coming to his second charge from Moline Ill., where a missionary position was his first duty. During his 14 year tenure, he was responsible for many improvements in the church—social, attendance and structural.

A parish hall was constructed in 1928, the church had been remodeled and decorated prior to that and a pipe organ was installed. The congregation membership increased steadily each year, and the other church groups increased correspondingly, the Ladies Aid society from 36 to 45 members.

A program was instituted by him to handle the social activities for those persons beyond grammar and high school ages. Basketball for young men and women and shuffleboard for the older members were carried out successfully.

Rev. Irion will leave the church during one of its most successful years.

Local Dog Takes Important Stake in Field Trials

Midwest Assn. and English
Springer Club Events
Over Week-End

The Midwest Field Trial club's open all-age stake was won by Tyke of Barrington, owned by William Walker of Park Ridge and handled by Frank Hogan of Hogan Kennels in Barrington, in the most closely contested event ever witnessed in a labrador trials in this section. The trials were held at Grassy Lake in Biltmore Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The stake was run off Saturday and competition was close between Tyke of Barrington and Banchory Night Light, owned by J. F. Carlisle of East Islip, N. Y. The judges ordered the dogs into the field Sunday morning. After two tests, the dogs were so closely rated that a third event was ordered, a blind retrieve test.

Tyke of Barrington scored his win by making the retrieve in 59 seconds less time than his opponent. He was bred and trained in Barrington. The open all-age carries champion points. Due to the fact that an eastern and western dog were struggling for the major stake made the situation all the more tense. Considerable rivalry exists between eastern kennels and those of the middle west.

Tyke of Barrington also won the amateur open all-age stake Sunday when he was handled by Fred Farmworth of Chicago. Three open stakes, the Derby, puppy and open all-age, were taken by midwestern dogs while only one stake, the non-winners, went to an eastern dog. The midwestern dogs were trained and handled in the show by the Hogan Kennels of Barrington.

Winners in the open stakes of the English Springer Field Trial club of Illinois trials at the Dr. Magnusson estate Saturday and Sunday included Timmie Taft II, owned by L. W. Greenblatt of Chicago and handled by E. J. Whelan of Aurora, who won the open puppy class; Kay's Black Boy, owned by Dr. James E. Merritt of Quincy and also handled by Mr. Whelan, who won the cocker non-winner; and Alitaski Grand, owned by David Silverman of Chicago and handled by Martin Hogan of Barrington, who won the open all-age stake.

Both trials attracted an outstanding list of dogs for the amateur and open stakes which were witnessed by large galleries.

Local Man Nearly Electrocuted When Repairing His Radio

Grasps Hot Spots and Can't
Let Go; Unconscious
2½ Hours

Charles Lawrence reported today he does not believe in capital punishment.

He had a short, but terrifying experience with the most common form of capital punishment, electrocution, in his home on South Cook street Tuesday morning, without having committed a crime and knows he does not approve of it at all.

Mr. Lawrence had repaired his radio set and had tried it out after having removed it from the cabinet. Forgetting to pull out the wall plug, he picked up the chassis with both hands to place it back in the cabinet. He made a direct connection through his hands and arms, getting a terrific shock which threw him onto the floor against the wall. As he could not let go of the apparatus, the current continued to pass through his body. He could not speak or cry out, and gradually felt himself losing consciousness. He finally felt a great relief and then fainted, recovering about two and one-half hours later.

Mrs. Lawrence, who was in another room of the house, had suddenly found that something was wrong. Finding her husband on the floor, she pulled the plug.

The result of Mr. Lawrence's experience was nervous shock and a severely burned finger on his right hand.

"Men like Henry Zander are few and far between. While he was a business leader, he was likewise willing to devote unlimited time to those projects which would benefit the community in which he lived. That was the reason he was selected to head the Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago."

Jewel Donates 10 Acres to Local Park District

Announces Gift

Offers Site and $6000 Towards a
New High School

Would Serve Consolidated School District; Near
North Side Park

M. H. Karker, president of Jewel Tea Co., Inc., today announced the establishment of a program which provides an incentive for the consolidation of existing high school districts and enlargement of Barrington educational and recreational facilities. His announcement revealed a sizeable gift of land and money to the Barrington community. The gift consists of 78 lots, approximately 10 acres, located in Barrington Manor, a subdivision lying west of and adjoining North Side park in the village of Barrington. A block of lots together with $6000 was placed in trust with the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust company of Chicago for the purpose of obtaining a high school building to serve a proposed district combining Cuba and district 4. The remainder of the property is deeded direct to Barrington park district for its use in creating better opportunities for recreational activities.

The following are named as trustees: P. L. Anderson, president of the school district No. 4; Hugh H. Calkins, president of Barrington park district; Earl Hatje, president of village board of trustees; Harold D. Kelsey, all of the Illinois National Bank & Trust company of Chicago.

The deed of gift adds materially to the present park property and makes available for development and improvement a tract of land which offers great future possibilities for Barrington. The park district already has plans for developing and beautification of the land which will make it only attractive to Barrington people but also, because of its favorable location along the Chicago and North Western railway, do much to advertise the community and its ideals. Two lots, improved by residences and owned by Hannah Dawson and Adwait Hartwig, are in the section but are not part of the gift. In making the action of the Jewel board of directors, Mr. Karker said:

"Eight years ago last June ground was broken for the erection of the permanent business home of Jewel in Barrington. Through all the negotiations leading to the purchase of land, the breaking of ground, the erection of the building, the occupancy and operations for more than seven years in the community, we have been cheered and encouraged."

Lake Zurich Community Woman's Club

On Friday, the Lake Zurich Community Woman's club celebrated the tenth anniversary of the organization. Since this was also the annual men's night dinner, the affair proved to be one of the outstanding social events of the club year.

The dinner was served in the library of the Elia township high school. The tables were beautifully decorated with sweet peas and candles were used for the centerpieces, and the place cards were unique pieces of art.

The president, Mrs. A. G. Scherzmann, welcomed the members and their guests, and extended a special greeting to the new members, ten in number, with the sincere hope that they avail themselves all the courtesies and privileges of the club.

Mrs. A. J. Crawford gave a brief resume of the club activities of the past ten years and made clear the growth and progress since its organization.

Mrs. J. D. Fink, one of the past presidents, and now social chairman, gave a very brief talk, in which she made the new members feel that the Woman's club was a most worth-while organization, and expressed the hopes and plans of the future.

After the dinner, Mr. Custer, a representative of the North Western railway, showed a talking picture of the Black Hills. For all those who have never had the privilege of seeing the Black Hills, the picture proved to be an attraction to look forward to in the future, and for those having visited this national wonder, it gave a chance to reminisce.

Mrs. Charles Wendell, program chairman, and Mrs. Charles Wever, social chairman, should feel that their efforts were well rewarded, in that it gave all an evening long to be cherished in one's memory.

The October meeting of the reading circle will be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Wendell. Miss Edythe Stone, of the Elia high school faculty, will give the review.

"Northwest Passage," Mrs. Hammond said, was a serious historical novel of the years immediately preceding the Revolutionary War. The two main characters, Major Rogers and his artist assistant, Langdon Towne, seek a northwest passage through America to trade and wealth. This quest leads them through adventures, sufferings, political intrigues and high social contacts, and from the shores of Lake Champlain to London and back to Mackinac Island in Michigan territory.

Mrs. Hammond made her listeners feel that the book was very fortunate in its portrayal of success and failure in human lives and in its true description of people and conditions in London and America in the 1760s. Forty-five members and guests gathered to hear the review. The place of meeting was the council room in the village hall.

Time Limit Parking Signs Put on Poles in Business Section

With the placing of time parking signs on the ornamental light poles in the business section started, motorists have been warned to observe the time limit ruling in effect in the village to avoid arrest. Two-hour parking is now enforced in the business district. Paul Purcell, superintendent of streets, and his crew started placing the signs on the poles Wednesday afternoon and should complete the job by Saturday. Two-hour parking is in force between the hours of 7 a. m. and 5 p. m. daily except Sundays and holidays. The shipment of signs was received this week by A. C. Burandt, village clerk. Administration duties by that group will only cover that parcel set aside for educational purposes, namely, block 4.

The remainder of the gift is now park district property by action of the transfer. The part held in trust, and also the $5000, will be kept for the consolidation of or agreement of school districts No. 4 and No. 123 for the purpose of erecting a high school building. In the event that after 10 years time, no action has been taken by the school districts or consolidated high school district to erect a high school building, the property and money then is to be turned over to the park district. If the park district no longer exists after the 10 year period following the date of execution of the instrument, the money and parcel of land is to be turned over to the village of Barrington for the welfare of the residents of this community.

Terms of the educational plan propose that school district No. 4 and school district No. 123, or the consolidation of a high school district voted by residents of both districts, agree to the erection of a high school building on the parcel of land set aside for that purpose under the trust agreement.

Propose County-Wide Rat Killing Program

Killing rats that infest property in Lake county is part of the agricultural extension program in prospect for this year, according to farm adviser, H. C. Glickerson. Tuesday, Nov. 12, is set for the rat "killing" in Lake county. A feature of the campaign will be the distribution of a prepared red snail bait that destroys rats but is relatively harmless to other animals. This bait is prepared under the supervision of the United States bureau of biology survey and will be distributed through a dozen different points in the county. This is only for campaign use.

"Pancake Day" Observed in Many Parts of World

Shrove Tuesday, the day before "Pancake Day" in England. It is one of the outstanding holidays of the month in that country, and was spread throughout the world by the Reformation in the Washington Post. It is known as "Fools' evening" in Vienna, and great crowds gather on the French Riviera at Nice to witness the burning of its Majesty, King Carnival. In Italy, the peasants gather to break bladders on the crops about to be sown. In England, at Orkney, in Buckinghamshire, a "Pancake Race" is held, while at Westminster school in London the students celebrate with the "Toasting of the Pancakes." This is often the only time of the year when families eat these hot cakes.

Democrats Nominate Lyon of Waukegan for Judicial Race

George R. Lyon, Waukegan attorney, was unanimously chosen as the democratic candidate for circuit court judge of the seventh judicial district at the convention Friday evening at Woodstock.

Lyon will oppose William L. Pierce of Belvidere, the republican candidate, at the special election on December 7 in Lake, McHenry, Boone and Winnebago counties to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Edward Shurtliff of Maroon.

The Waukegan attorney's name was the only one placed before the convention. Thomas Killoran of Waukegan, one of the delegates from Lake county, placed Lyon's name in nomination. The second came immediately from Leo Dailley of Waukegan, also a delegate.

Each of the other delegates representing Winnebago, McHenry and Boone counties, seconded the nomination of Lyon. A motion was then made and carried to cast a unanimous ballot declaring Lyon nominated.

Lyon, son of W. L. Lyon of Waukegan, attended the Waukegan schools and was graduated from DePaul university. He studied law at Northwestern university and was admitted to the bar. After his admission to the bar, he entered the law firm of Castle, Williams and McCarthy of Chicago. In 1923 he became interested in politics and was for two years democratic precinct committeeman from Waukegan. He is 34 years old.

Community Heads Comment Favorably on Jewel Tea Gift

Following are statements given to the Barrington Review by two trustees in references to the Jewel Tea Co., Inc. gift.

"This generous gift of Jewel Tea Co., will be greatly appreciated by the citizens of Barrington and will be an incentive to community planning."

"I am very happy to serve as a trustee and I shall give all of my support to the completion of this program, the completion of which means so much to the community."

Earl Hatje, president board of trustees, village of Barrington.

"This wide-spread program offered residents of Barrington and its community by Jewel Tea Co., Inc., through its president, M. J. Kerkner, represents an honest belief in the future development of Barrington. It denotes a sound conviction that further expansion is to come, and, through the educational and recreational program, begins the first important step to make that possible."

"It affords me great pleasure to be able to serve as trustees to a program that makes the community's welfare its primary responsibility."

H. D. Kelsey, supervisor town of Cuba.

Due to the illness of Hugh H. Calkins, president of the Barrington park district, he was unable to express his opinion.

It also was impossible to contact P. L. Anderson, president of the board of education of school district No. 4, who was closely confined to his work in Chicago due to the heavy stock market activity of the last few days.

The above named trustees will serve only during the duration of their present offices.

Non-Combatant Deaths Are Seen in Sino-Japanese War

Following is the concluding installment of an article written by Lt. Kirk Smith, relating incidents of the present disorder in Japan:

August 21
Something happens everyday to keep things from becoming monotonous. This morning a Japanese plane fell in the river about a quarter of a mile upstream from us; there was a strong ebb tide at the time and the plane was soon washed down and caught under the large pontoon to which we are tied and was submerged so that only the tail was above water. The gunboat which has been constantly anchored across the river from us sent over a working party in an attempt to dislodge the plane but they were unsuccessful and we finally had to give them a hand even though we hated to lend any assistance to the Japanese. Our intent in helping them was anything but altruistic for we felt that the plane might be carrying some bombs which might be jarred into exploding and it was also possible that another ebb tide might drift the plane down the pontoon and under our propellers and make a fine tangle for us to get clear of in case we had to get under way in a hurry.

The Chinese coolies were standing around watching the procedure and were obviously puzzled as to just why the U. S. Navy was aiding their (the Chinese) own enemies and persecutors. The Chinese since have been very much happier since we did up here, for they seem to feel that an American warship, no matter what type or size, is adequate protection against almost anything.

After the plane was successfully freed from the pontoon and hauled out into the stream the Japs signalled us their thanks and several of their ships which came up the river later had apparently received the word and also signalled thanks as they passed.

Today we have an opportunity to even up the score by taking care of some Chinese in distress. There are two villages on our side of the river downstream from us and about a mile back from the shore; apparently there have been some Chinese snipers concealed in that vicinity who have been taking potshots at the Jap ships as they steam by and who have been machine gunning the Jap planes. The Japs in an effort to clear out the snipers this morning anchored about a half-mile down stream from us and let fly with their big guns at the beach and the villages.

The first inkling we had of the extent of the damage done to the villages was when someone brought me word that there was an injured youngster up at the head of the dock. I went up and found a little boy about 16 or 18 months of age lying quietly in his father's arm sucking on a pacifier and not making a sound. When I pulled back the filthy mat in which the father had wrapped him and lifted up an even sicker towel which was covering the injury I could hardly believe my eyes and, for the first time in my life, received a cogent lesson in what is meant by the "horror of war."

This poor little baby had received a shrapnel wound in the lower abdomen and three-fourths of his intestines had been forced out through it, although the bowel was perforated only in one place; in addition to this he had a torn, gaping wound over the left hip. My first impression (and my best one, I guess) was that it was useless to try to do anything for him except to make death as painless as possible, yet I couldn't help but marvel at the way the little thing lay there while I examined him without even a whimper and furthermore his quietness was not due to shock for he was wide awake, and his pulse was good. So after having explained to the father that the youngster would probably die but that we would do what we could with his permission we went ahead. We anaesthetized him and then with great difficulty cutured the ruptured bowel, placed the intestines back in the abdomen and closed the wound which was about 4 inches in length; but just as I got the abdomen closed, just what I had been expecting occurred; and the poor little thing died, although death probably saved him much pain, and was almost certain no matter what was done for him.

However, our unsuccessful handling of the first case was no deterrent to the other injured in the vicinity for in about half an hour they began looking in. One of the patients was the mother of the dead baby; she has a gashing diagonal wound on her back and another which had carried away one-fourth of her right thigh; then came about 15 more patients with wounds varying from gashing machine gun wounds of the face and through-and-through bullet wounds of the trunk to shrapnel wounds which had carried away large areas of the back—some were women and some men. We patched them up and dressed their wounds as best we could and we began to run short of medical supplies.

plies, and, of course, we are not equipped to care for such extensive gun shot injuries so any repair work we did was of the most rudimentary and temporary nature.

The thing that impressed me most about all of the patients both men and women was their stoical tolerance of what must have been excruciating pain. Of course, some of them were numbed by their injuries, but none of them seemed to be in actual shock and they bore even the most strenuous and painful treatment better than any patients I have ever seen.

August 22
This morning I went to Shanghai on the Texaco tender with several others from here. It was a long fireproof trip as we towed an oil barge all of the way. My purpose in coming up was to replenish my supply of bandage, sutures, etc. which was rather badly depleted after yesterday's activities—so badly depleted in fact that in the event of anything happening to the crew here I would be rather seriously handicapped.

Mr. Johnson, one of the Texaco men, and I went around town together; the city surely looked strangely quiet and deserted; there appeared to be the normal number of Chinese on the street but very few foreigners were evident and I don't believe that we saw more than one or two foreign women. Armed guards of all types are stationed at frequent intervals throughout the streets; cars were noticeably scarce but we saw all types of traffic and many business houses were boarded shut; most of those firms which are open remain so only until 1 p. m. daily.

Johnson and I were eating lunch at the Y.M.C.A. on Nanjing road when we heard a terrific, rending and crashing explosion which sounded as though it were just outside of the Y. We rushed to the window to see the smoke welling up from the middle of Nanjing road about three blocks from us. You will have probably read about this bomb explosion long ere you receive this; it exploded in Sincere's one of the larger department stores here which is located just across the street from Wing On's, Shanghai's largest department store. The press reports that about 300 were killed and 700 injured, and after seeing the shambles I can believe this is true; many were injured by shattered glass; windows for blocks around were broken. In less than five minutes after the explosion the wounded began to stream down Nanjing road past where we were, some were walking, others riding rickshaws, and others in automobiles. A fine testimony to the emergency organization which the Shanghai Municipal Council has built up was seen in the speed with which ambulances and emergency conveyances reported to the scene and evacuated the dead and wounded which we could see piled up on the trucks and in the ambulances as they came tearing past us; those conveyances, make-shift though some of them were, were on the ground picking up the victims within five minutes after the explosion.

There can be no excuse for the dropping of that bomb. Sincere's is a long way back from the Bund and there are no troops of any kind in that area; even the grossest inaccuracy could not account for the dropping of a shell or bomb in that vicinity—it is purely wanton destruction of human life. As usual the Japs are trying to blame the thing, in the most convincing and logical manner, on the Chinese, but I don't think they are going to be able to do it this time.

When we got back to the Parrot I found several more wounded in need of attention; most of these were more seriously injured than those I saw yesterday; one man with his foot completely shot off, another girl about 15 with a shot through the spine and another with a foot badly mangled by shrapnel. I hate to turn them away, but I am going to have to start doing it tomorrow, for I could only get enough supplies today to barely take care of our crew here on the Parrot in case anything happened. I feel so helpless and handicapped to see those poor people suffering dumbly and to be unable to do more for them than to dress their wounds and ease their pain. They all need hospital care and most of them are going to Shanghai on the Texaco tug where we understand they will be given the best care possible under the circumstances, at the Lester Institute.

More wounded this morning for which I can only supply a temporary dressing and send them on to Shanghai; they are all such pitiful sights; most of them in addition to sustaining these terrible wounds have lost their homes and all of their property.

The Japs have been anchored down stream from us (about half a mile) all day and have been driving away at some Chinese troops about a mile back from the shore on the opposite side of the river from us.

This evening things finally got so hot we had to move out. The Japs had succeeded in landing some troops in the afternoon and apparently the Chinese found out where they were and also got a line on the Jap ships because about 10 p. m. the Chinese started letting go with some big guns which we figured were about eight miles away. Most of the shots were in the Japanese direction, all right, but when one or two of them hit directly across the river from us the skipper decided it was time to move and he had the full cooperation of all hands.

We are now anchored at the Standard Oil dock with the Edsall and it looks like a quiet night—which I think we have all earned after the hearing we have been taking for the past two hours. I'm afraid that this is so long that it has become boring; I'll try to keep succeeding installments brief.

Continued Activity Sustains September Suburban Building

Suburban building in September in the Chicago region amounted to $2,462,624—a substantial but not spectacular total—exceeding the amount reported in September of last year, which was $2,425,641, but falling short of last month's very unusual total of $4,102,379, according to a survey made by Greenbaum Sons Investment Co.

That August exceeded September may be explained without delving very deep into facts. The August survey was increased by three great industrial jobs—the plants of the McGraw Electric Company at Elgin, the American Smelting and Refining Company in Hammond and the Acme Steel Plant in Rivardale—totaling $1,550,000. Deduct this amount from the August total and the remainder, representing the regular run of current building is $2,542,379. This shows that September, which had no new industrial construction whatever, was a good average summer month and the decline nothing to get excited about. In fact excepting the August factory permits, the July, August and September figures were substantially the same.

Home building gave the same indication of a continuation of substantial building. In September 211 homes were started for cost $1,424,392. This runs strike-

Crosby Stars in Week-End Feature at Catlow Theatre

"Double or Nothing" Coming Sun. and Mon.; to Show "Captain Courageous"

Don Ameche is co-starred with Loretta Young in "Love Under Fire," farcical romance playing Friday and Saturday at the Catlow.

Bliss Crosby croons and people dance to the strains of the strange orchestra ever assembled in "Double or Nothing," the brilliant comedy with music which opens Sunday for two days.

It's an orchestra of some 75 musicians—and none of them plays a musical instrument! It is composed entirely of human voices and has been named "The Sing Band." And yet the music supplied by this aggregation resembles the music of a full instrumental dance band so closely that it is not only impossible to tell the difference with the human ear but engineers who have studied the "sound track" of its music have been unable to discern any difference.

The Mardi Gras at New Orleans forms the rich and colorful background for the outstanding scenes of hilarity responsible for the great popular demand which has brought back Will Rogers in "Handy Andy" to the Catlow where it will show Tuesday.

The picture is acclaimed as the funniest famous comedian ever made; the sequence wherein Rogers masquerades as "Tarsan of the Apes" at the Mardi Gras ball and executes a wild adagio dance with a little French girl rivals the peak of his comedy.

Double featured Tuesday is "Flight From Glory" with Chester Morris, Whitney Bourne, Onslow Stevens and Van Heflin.

One of the great sea stories of modern literature, Rudyard Kipling's thrilling saga of the Gloucester fishermen, comes to the Catlow screen starting Wednesday for three days as a picturization of "Captain Courageous," with Freddie Bartholomew, Spencer Tracy, Lionel Barrymore and Melvyn Douglas in the leading roles.

For the first time in his screen career Freddie Bartholomew plays a wholly American boy, a wide departure from any previous role. As Harvey Cheyne he is the pampered son of a millionaire who has never known the meaning of work and worthwhile effort. Bound for Europe on a super-liner he falls overboard off the Newfoundland banks and is picked up by a fishing dory manned by Spencer Tracy, the latter playing the part of Manuel, a Portuguese fisherman. This role, the most colorful that Tracy has yet had, rivals even that of the play in "San Francisco."

The boy is taken to the fishing schooner "We're Here," captained by Lionel Barrymore as Capt. Disko. His tale of being a mil-lionaire's son is attributed to the shock of having fallen overboard. He is put to work and gradually his real character develops. The hardy, honest Gloucester fishermen make a man of him.

WANTED: ECONOMIC REALISTS

Whenever President Roosevelt discloses, as he did in his "fireside chat" last week, some of the fundamental premises on which he bases his recommendations for such new laws as affect the economic situation of the country it is important to subject those premises to a minute analysis.

Mr. Roosevelt professes every now and then not to object to critical analysis. In his radio address last week, for instance, he said:

"Five years of fierce discussion and debate—five years of information through the radio and the moving picture—have taken the whole nation to school in the nation's business. Even those who have most attacked our objectives have, by their very criticism encouraged the mass of our citizens to think about and understand the issues involved, and understanding, to approve."

If we reread Mr. Roosevelt's speech of last week we will find that in two places his economic reasoning is exposed to view. He says, first, with reference to his defense of crop control by government decree:

"You and I have heard big manufacturers talk about control of production by the farmer as an indefensible 'economy of scarcity.' And yet these same manufacturers never hesitate to shut down their own huge plants, throw men out of work, and cut down the purchasing power of whole communities whenever they think they must adjust their production to an over-supply of the goods they make. When it is their baby who has the measles, they call it not an 'economy of scarcity' but 'sound business judgment.'"

"Of course, speaking seriously, what you and I want is such governmental rules of the game that labor, agriculture, and industry will produce a balanced abundance without waste."

But do we want "governmental rules" to regulate labor, agriculture and industry? Are the labor unions ready to submit to governmental control? Are ownership and management ready to turn over the productive processes of the country to the Roosevelt-Fairley political machine for experimentation? Is the farmer really ready to ordain government as his master instead of his agent?

It must be conceded that when we have depression, an unbalanced economy has been the cause. But what unbalances our economy? What causes the shoe manufacturer to find himself with a so-called over-supply? Reliable figures by independent research institutions prove that we really never have an over-supply but an under-consumption. We know there are plenty of people without the standards of living that others enjoy. A family using one pair of shoes two years would gladly, if they could afford it, buy a new set of shoes every six months. Mr. Roosevelt himself says that one-third of our population are "ill-housed, ill-nourished and ill-clothed" and he still uses that phrase notwithstanding that he has had four years in which to ameliorate the situation and notwithstanding his addition to the public debt of about $13,000,000,000 spent in the name of "recovery and relief."

If we follow through the case of the shoe manufacturer, in 1932 we find that millions of persons in the low-income groups had either lost their jobs or had their "money wages" cut. The Roosevelt administration today is engaged in the process of cutting "real wages." Money wages have been going up but this is futile if the cost of living takes more out of the pay envelope to buy a smaller quantity of the same articles.

What Mr. Roosevelt fails to grasp is that if you take $100 of income and if it is now divided so that labor has $65 and management and ownership about $35, and then you turn around and give management and ownership $15 and divide the other $85 among the workers, you still have a purchasing power of only $100.

Redistributing the amount of purchasing power may help certain of the so-called consumer-goods industries here and there but, on the other hand, you throw completely out of balance the so-called heavier-goods industries which are dependent on the $35 that management and ownership receive and use for building of plant and for expansion and for job creation.

All the "economic royalists" put together cannot eat more than three meals a day nor sail but a certain number of yachts. The total amount spent on themselves and their families is infinitesimal compared to the amounts they place in the stream of investment or, if you will, in the stream of speculation, which in turn means risk for the purpose of gain but considerably risk for the purpose of job creation.

There was a time, from 1920 to 1929, when we had an abundance of capital and too much money, so to speak, went into investment, savings, and speculation; but that period has passed and we face now a dearth of working capital, largely because of the extreme to which the liquidating process was carried during the depression.

What Mr. Roosevelt overlooks is that a redistribution of existing purchasing power is not actually increasing purchasing power. It is merely robbing Peter to pay Paul.—David Lawrence, United States News.

WHAT'S
IN

(Courtesy The United States News)

Cabinet Member Henry Wallace was up to his neck in plans to revise permanent farm control. Word had come that President Roosevelt was prepared to call congress to put those plans into effect.

Just at this critical moment Cabinet Member Daniel Roper was busily engaged in writing a speech he intended to make to farmers of Illinois, N. C. These were some of the farmers Cabinet Wallace wanted government to help.

Wallace Cabinet Member Roper in his prepared address, later printed but destined not to be given orally:

"Farmers by and large are more interested in equitable treatment than in subsidy. This attitude looks to stabilization that is not possible under a permanent system of artificial support. Furthermore, superimposed conditions have a tendency to thwart the principles of democracy through a form of regimentation that rightfully condemns in other forms of government."

"The safe course for agriculture and the country is to widen the channels of distribution by removing trade barriers, followed by a study of world market conditions as a basis for production plans more in line with foreign and domestic demand."

The shock of Cabinet Member Wallace at this comment of a fellow cabinet member—in the midst of preparation for new farm controls—was immediately apparent. Cabinet Member Roper, later explaining to newspaper men why he chatted informally with the farmers instead of making his prepared address, observed that to him the program of the new cabinet member was not regimentation but only a method of providing a balance in agriculture that would enable it eventually to operate without artificial support.

If this was evidence of official wire-crossing, so was it an example of the conflicting thought about the proper government attitude toward agriculture. Cotton is a typical example. Opponents of crop control contend that if only the government would stop the way in which cotton farmers grow as much as they can and sell their cotton for what it would bring, all would be well. Government-induced scarcity, they contend, is wrecking the industry.

Yet Mr. Wallace now points out that the South has just grown more cotton than it ever has grown before, except for one year, and the price has broken through eight cents a pound to within shouting distance of the lowest in history.

Even so customers are not rushing the South has to sell.

The national labor relations board, long accustomed to criticism from employers, now found itself under attack by both wings of organized labor.

The American Federation of Labor and leaders of the Committee for Industrial Organization, meeting last week respectively in Denver and Atlantic City, each found fault and demanded changes in administration of the collective bargaining guarantees of the Wagner act.

Particularly bitter, the A. F. of L. charged a bias in favor of the C. I. O. to the board and voted to press for amendment of the law itself. The C. I. O. policy-makers approved the law as it stands but recorded "full condemnation" of decisions affecting the automobile and steel industries which were felt to favor craft unionism. The board defended its course.

Employer organizations stood by, saying nothing but apparently determined again to ask in the special session of congress that the law be amended to give the employer a voice comparable to that given organized labor. It was said in informed Washington quarters that a case for amendment was being put on paper for presentation at the white house.

Although A. F. of L. speakers did not berate Chairman J. Warren Madden as they did the two other board members, Edwin S. Smith and Donald W. Smith, it was indicated that action at the convention was especially galling to him. Mr. Madden apparently had sought to stave off the criticism in his address to the delegates a week before.

Before the convention at the time was a resolution asking amendment of the law to make a section of collective bargaining units dependent upon the wishes of a majority of any craft division within a plant, instead of leaving it to discretion of the board, as at present. This proposed amendment, sponsored by Senator Walsh (Dem.), of Massachusetts, and Representative Dies (Dem.), of Texas, was endorsed by the convention.

The federation went further, deciding to gather evidence of alleged perversion of the Wagner act and to petition the president "for prompt and adequate relief." The phraseology was interpreted in the capital in the light of an arraignment of the two Smiths on the board by John F. Fryer, head of the federation's metal trades department. He said Edwin S. Smith, whose term runs until 1941, had entertained John L. Lewis and an attaché of the soviet embassy at dinner and should be removed by Mr. Roosevelt. Under the Humphreys decision by the supreme court, the president could not remove Mr. Smith. Mr. Fryer was buying the huge amount of cotton.

Hold Open House to Show New DeSotos

Open house for everybody in Barrington and surrounding territory will be held by the Brewer Motor Sales, DeSoto dealer in Barrington, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Saturday, Oct. 23. Lloyd Elbrink of the firm announced today. Mr. Elbrink recently returned from the DeSoto presentation meeting in Chicago with the first of the 1938 cars. During the past few days the entire force has been busy decorating the showroom, making ready for the big show. "While I don't want to take the edge off our party by revealing many of the features of the new car, I do want to say that visitors are in for a pleasant surprise when they see the DeSoto on October 23." Mr. Elbrink stated. "The new DeSoto, in my opinion, sets a new high in beauty, riding comfort, strength and safety."

Bronchos Lose Season's Second Straight Football Game to Grant, 19-6

Lead 6-0 in First Half; Opponents Tally Three Times

Locals Outcharged in Second Half; Game Close Despite Final Score

Conference Scores
Libertyville 14, Leyden 6.
Niles Center 13, Lake Forest 43.

Charging back in the second half to score 19 points, the Grant Community high school football team at Fox Lake handed the Barrington high school Bronchos their second straight defeat of this season at the local's field in Northlake park Saturday. The final score was 19 to 6.

Led by Dufault, hasty 197 lb. fullback, the Grantmen staged a running attack which was too much for the Bronchos defense during the second half.

The Bronchos' lone score was preceded by a costly fumble by Grant on its own 30-yard line. Dufault fumbled and the ball was recovered by Hodgdon, Barrington left guard. The locals then moved to the Grant 15-yard line on two plays and then Shepard went over standing up on a right end run. Church's try for the extra point by place kick was wide.

Aerial plays by both teams kept the game wide open during the first half with the Bronchos tossing seven and completing one while Grant completed two out of five attempts. Church and Shepard did the hurling for the Bronchos while Dufault and Howard were on the sending end for Grant.

Grant Starts March
Grant received the kick-off in the start of the second half and went straight down the field on a series of running plays. Dufault scored from the 8-yard line when an open hole was made through the center of the line. He attempted to place kick for the extra point but missed.

Late in the quarter Grant attempted a field goal but it was blocked by Mountain. In defensive left tackle, who recovered it and made a gain of seven yards before he was thrown.

Although Clings went for 37 yards on three successive plays, Barrington failed to get in a scoring position and the third period ended with the ball on the local's 35-yard marker.

Score Twice
Grant opened up the fourth quarter by marching down to the Barrington 8-yard line again where this time Howard went across standing up on a wide right end sweep. Dufault again failed to kick the extra point. The score was then 13 to 6.

Grant kicked to Barrington who failed to gain on an attempted punt. Jaques, Grant left end, broke through and blocked Church's kick, recovering it on the 3-yard line and Grant scored the last marker. Dufault plunged over for the extra point, making the total and final, 19 to 6.

In comparing statistics, Grant held a small margin compared to the difference in scoring. They made seven first downs to Barrington's six and went 13 times to scrimmage while the locals picked up 17. The Bronchos were taxed with six penalties for a total of 45 yards and Grant four times for a total of 40 yards. Saturday's lineup:

Arlington Heights Here Saturday in Gridiron Classic

Locals Rated as Underdogs in Annual Football Grudge Battle at Park

A war that has proved unfruitful as far as Barrington high school has been concerned in the last six years will be resumed Saturday afternoon when the strong Arlington Heights high school football team invades Northlake park for the annual "game of the century."

Since the Northwest conference began pitting the two schools against each other in 1927, it has been a point of great satisfaction to either school to score a victory. And, in passing, it might be well to state that Barrington hasn't done the trick since 1929 when Wayne Grabenkort place kicked for a Broncho 15 to 14 win. In fact, that was the last time the locals were able to register a tally of any kind on the gridiron against Arlington. Barrington has won two games, Arlington six and two were scoreless ties.

This year, as always, Arlington has a strong aggregation. The team is tied for first place in the conference standing with Liberty-ville. Both teams have two wins and no defeats.

The Cardinals did not play last Saturday and as a consequence had a long session of practice days. The Cardinals are a well-balanced, fighting outfit and the odds are greatly in their favor. Grant was the victim of a 16 to 14 contest played two weeks ago, and based on Saturday's game, Barrington will definitely be rated as the underdogs.

Following is a summary of the games played, the years and results:

Niles Gridman Has Leg Fractured in Lake Forest Game

He was taken to the Alice Home hospital where it was learned the youth had received a severe break just below the knee.

Niles lost the football game to Lake Forest by a score of 43 to 13.

Drop Football Contest
The Barrington high school Fresh-Soph football team traveled to Arlington Heights last Wednesday and lost a grid match by a score of 12 to 6. Arlington scored once in the third quarter, and again in the fourth, one from an intercepted pass.

Life of Flies
Most flies die in winter. Experiments conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture showed that flies kept in unheated buildings died during the first really cold nights of the winter. Those kept in one of the greenhouses behaved just as they would during the summer at similar temperatures. At temperatures of 55 degrees to 75 degrees Fahrenheit very few lived longer than 35 to 40 days. In one of the large stables with a temperature ranging from 32 degrees to 58 degrees Fahrenheit some flies were kept alive for a period of 70 days, a long period, but not sufficient to carry them through winter.

collected over a period of 10 years starting next summer. The tax levied in any one year is not to exceed 15 cents per $100 property valuation.

A recommendation by the sanitarium board that $125,000 be appropriated for the coming year was rejected by the board of supervisors as too high compared to the county's assessed valuation.

On the passage of the appropriation ordinance and tax levy for the tuberculosis sanitarium the cost of caring for tuberculosis patients in the county, now being met by various townships, will have to be paid for by the sanitarium board from the contemplated revenue.

The appearance of the tax levy for the sanitarium may possibly be offset by a reduction in poor relief costs of the various townships.

WE DELIVER

Chicago Automobile Show on Nov. 6-13

Because they traditionally mark the inauguration of a new selling season for a giant among the industries the forthcoming automobile shows are decidedly in the limelight just now. For the third year in a row, they are to be held during the late fall, and concentrated within the space of a month from coast to coast.

Particular interest is focused, for a number of reasons, upon the spectacular 18th annual Chicago automobile show to be staged at the International Amphitheatre during the week of November 6 to 13, inclusive.

In the first place, the Chicago presentation will be the nation's largest and most ambitious of shows in any city in the number of exhibits, the amount of space occupied and the dramatic showmanship that will attract some 500,000 visitors to the displays of passenger cars, trucks, trailers, and accessories.

An air of optimism dominates the industry as the show season nears. Manufacturers are able to point with pride to a sharp increase this year over last in production, sales and new vehicle registrations despite factory type curbing in the selling season, due to labor troubles. Several months this year, in fact, turned in sales gains over the corresponding months during 1936, when the automotive industry reached its all-time peak.

Ideally suited and laid out for such a show, the International Amphitheatre contains 355,000 square feet of floor space. Modern in construction, it has the advantages of excellent ventilation and lighting, ramps and stairs making all exhibits readily accessible on the second floor, and an arrangement whereby all displays may be conveniently viewed by any visitor, as well as free parking under protection for 10,000 motor vehicles of show goes on the exposition grounds.

The car, truck, trailer and accessory exhibits will vie with the drama in the central arena in points of animation and interest. Every make of American-built passenger car and two from abroad will be displayed, occupying the entire second floor of the amphitheatre. In the former category will be:

Buick, Cadillac and LaSalle, Chevrolet, Chrysler, DeSoto, Ford, Dodge, Graham, Hudson and Packard-Terraplane, Hupmobile, Lincoln and Lincoln-Zephyr, Nash and Nash - LaFayette, Oldsmobile, Packard, Pierce-Arrow, Plymouth, Pontiac, Studebaker, and Willys. A total of 23. The European makes will be the Acacia and Lagonda.

Will Conduct School for Holstein Cattle Owners at Grayslake

The extension service of the Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America is cooperating with the dairy extension division of the University of Illinois in arranging a series of "Breeding Schools" for Holstein cattle breeders in Illinois during the week starting October 25.

One of the meetings will be held at Farmers hall, Grayslake, in cooperation with the dairy extension division of the University of Illinois. Dr. E. E. Helzer and E. M. Clark of the Holstein-Friesian Assn. will conduct the school and the lectures will be illustrated with charts and lantern slides. Plan to attend and get the latest information on the subjects of inbreeding, line breeding, crossing, color inheritance, blood improvement in general.

Dr. Helzer is recognized throughout the country as one of the leading authorities on genetics. His lectures are practical and easy to understand and they will clear up many of the problems that have perplexed the breeders of dairy cattle in the past.

27 Head of Livestock Burned in $30,000 Blaze Near Antioch

Twenty-seven head of livestock, a large barn and the season's crops were destroyed in a fire estimated at $30,000 in southeast Antioch township early Saturday evening.

The farm animals were lost in a blaze caused by spontaneous combustion in the soy bean bins scattering fire in all sections which quickly spread through the building, according to the opinion of firemen.

A report by Mrs. Jennie Schaefer, tenant of the farm, which is located on route 45 about a mile south of Hickory Corners, revealed that the flames destroyed 20 cows, 4 calves, a team of valuable horses and a bull. In addition, about 400 bushels of grain were destroyed together with 60 tons of hay.

Members of the Antioch fire department rushed to the scene in time to save the homestead, chicken coops and other nearby outbuildings. More than 2500 gallons of water were carried to the scene by the fire department in the portable waterwagon recently added to the equipment. There was no other water available.

State fire officers issued warnings this week, stressing the danger of possible fire in farm barns due to the "spontaneous combustion ability" of soy beans.

Location of Savannah Savannah is on the Savannah river, which forms the dividing line between South Carolina and Georgia, and is about 100 miles north of the Florida state line.
