Mr. Gieseke was driving his car east on Lake street when a car driven by J. H. DeLap of Maywood crashed into it at the intersection.

Mr. Gieseke was killed outright and DeLap succumbed to his injuries on September 14.

Leaves Must Not Be Burned on Concrete Streets, a Warning

Residents are being warned not to burn dead leaves on the concrete pavements to prevent cracking and quick deterioration of the roads. Paul Purcell, superintendent of streets, told village trustees at the board meeting Monday evening that the practice of burning leaves was general in the village and that damaging results.

The heating from the fire, he said, tends to crack the surface, causing it to quickly wear away. In a few years it becomes necessary to replace those sections, he continued. The tar placed in the cracks to protect the cement from frost is also burned away by the fire, leaving that part unprotected.

A. Burzard, village clerk, informed the board that an ordinance is now in effect and could be enforced if necessary.

Death Takes Third Victim of Traffic Crash on Sept. 11

Miss Veda Frauntrick Dies;
With Raymond F. Gieseke

Halloween Damages Moderate This Year

Little property damage was reported by police officials following the conclusion of Halloween "activities" Saturday evening. The usual amount of soaped windows was reported. Two haystacks were burned near Palatine and the act was blamed on Halloween pranksters.

A humorous incident of the evening concerned the innumerable re-routing of Northwest highway traffic traveling south on Hough street around midnight. Some persons or persons changed the detour signs so that southbound traffic was turning west on Hough street down to where it dead-ends at the Floating Lounge building. A number of cars were reported to be in the spot with drivers unfamiliar with the road, vainly searching for the correct route.

One unfavorable report was received by the Review in the form of a letter signed "C. L." of South Cook street. The writer expressed his opinion that Halloween should be an evening of pleasure for both children and adults, but that children should be taught by their parents not to insult older persons. His complaint was against the use of abusive language by a group of children from seven to thirteen years of age.

Lecturer to Speak at St. Paul Church

Leon Ray Livingstone, traveler, author and orator, better known as the "A-1 Wanderer," will speak at St. Paul Evangelical church Wednesday evening, Nov. 16, at 8 o'clock. Mr. Livingstone now devotes his time to the problems of runaway children. He illustrates to young persons the serious mistake they make when they desert home, and tells parents why children leave home, where they go, the things they experience and how to keep them home.

Mr. Livingstone comes to Barrington with educational information from many pastures and will speak under the auspices of St. Paul Brothertown, which is sponsoring the lecture. Its officers have invited the public to attend.

To Read or Not to Read

That is the question the middle-aged person wonders about. The problem becomes more serious with the years. Soon it seems it will be "not to read" . . . No one wants THAT to happen. So someone is consulted who supplies "ability to read." Then the question is answered. We have a satisfactory reading service.

Miss Elaine G. Gilbert
Bride of William Dowell

The Baptist church was the scene of a pretty wedding Saturday evening when Miss Elaine G. Gilbert, daughter of Mrs. Florence Gilbert of Barrington, became the bride of William Dowell of Wauconda.

Rev. Charles R. Drusel officiated using the impressive single ring service.

The church was beautifully decorated with autumn foliage and white chrysanthemums. The bride's mother, Mrs. Charles Thies, sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly" with Miss Florence Thies at the organ. The bridal party entered to the strains of Lohen- grin's wedding march.

The bride was lovely in a white satin gown, the train tip held in place by a band of pearls and crystals and she carried an arm bouquet of white pom-pom chrysanthemums. Her brother, Raymond Gilbert, gave her in marriage.

Miss Charlotte Adams, a cousin of the bride, who served as bridesmaid wore blue silk net, a head band of white blossoms, and carried pink carnations.

Dona Mae Davlin and Virginia Passfield, two small nieces of the groom, were pretty flower girls in their yellow and pink taffeta dresses. Melvin Passfield, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. He was dressed in blue and white. Raymond Gilmore served his brother as best man.

A reception was held at the home of Mrs. R. H. Adams, the bride's aunt, with 60 relatives and close friends present. Out-of-town guests came from Chicago, Elgin, Highland Park, North Chicago, Crystal Lake, and Wauconda.

American education week in 1937 will mark the sixteenth annual observance of this occasion which is sponsored by the National Education Association in cooperation with the American Legion, the United States office of education, and other national organizations. The observance of education week has been the greatest contribution of public education had its beginning after the World War.

Since the first observance in 1921 the movement has gained steadily in scope, effectiveness, and recognition. In the 1936 observance nearly 7,000,000 citizens visited their schools.

Horace Mann's centennial day culminated the nationwide observance of the Hancock's centennial which began with American education week in 1936.

Horace Mann is known as the father of our common school. He was born May 4, 1796, near Franklin, Mass. His father, Thomas Mann, a farmer of small means, died when Horace was 13. Horace Mann's schooling up to age 15 consisted of a few weeks each year in a small school. After a period of informal study he entered Brown University from which he graduated in 1819, taking up the practice of law. He took a keen interest in public affairs which led to his election, first to the state house of representatives and then to the senate where he concerned himself with the welfare of the poor and unfortunate. Through his influence an act was passed April 20, 1837, creating the Massachusetts Board of Education. In June the board organized with Horace Mann as secretary. He took up his duties on July 1, and for the next 10 years he was a leader in public education, a leader that will be known as one of America's greatest men.

The contribution of Horace Mann in establishing the schools was so fundamental that he is known as the father of the American public school. Colonel F. W. Parker, himself one of the major proponents of American education, said a recognition that Horace Mann ranks with Washington and Lincoln as among the greatest builders of the nation. "Washington and Lincoln," he wrote, "represent the highest types of heroism, patriotism, and wisdom in great crisis of republic-building; Horace Mann, the quiet inner building, the soul development of the nation."

The local large will be hosts to Carpintererville November 14, the second to tournament. H. Wiest will represent Barrington at great night of the Althea Lodge in Elgin tonight, Thursday, when he fills the warden chair.
